Brooks, Kennedy, Tarver And Holloway In Runoff Victories

By RICHARD TYLER
Staff Writer

Monroe and Ouachita Parish Democrats made their choices Saturday in the second primary, returning one veteran to the parish school board, while they nominated two to meet Republicans in November, and named a new face to a partial term on the City School Board.

Complete but unofficial returns from courthouse election headquarters showed Ouachita Board President B. A. Tarver with a convincing victory over Leon T. Shamlin, a Negro who ran strongly in the August first primary.

WARD 5 RETURNS

Earning their party's nomination to meet G.O.P. opposition on No. 8 from Ward 5 were Roy C. Brooks, a West Monroe druggist who led the first primary field, and Chester P. Holloway, seeking to return to the board after serving an earlier term from Ward 9.

In a special election, Robert Kennedy, the first primary frontrunner, nosed out fellow local insurance executive David Kahn in a nip - and - tuck cliffhanger for a partial term on the Monroe School Board.

Tarver, a 10 - year veteran from Ward 3 on the parish board and board president for the past three and one - half years, collected 3,094 votes Saturday, winning in all the ward's precincts but 6, 9 and 10. Shamlin received 1,788 votes in the 10 voting precincts.

PURVIS BEATEN

Brooks win over J. D. Purvis who abandoned the partial term he was serving from Ward 5 to seek a full term, was paved by setting the pace in all the ward's 15 precincts but Precinct 14. The well - known community leader and West Monroe Chamber of Commerce president amassed a total vote of 3,544 to Purvis' 2,035. He will face Republican Fairell Ketchell in November.

The special Ward 5 election to complete the unexpired term (until 1968) of the late Roy Cash found Holloway in a close contest, finally collecting 2,942 ballots against the 2,589 of his opponent, Joe B. Zuber. Holloway also will meet a Republican challenge in the general election from Horace Eyre. Holloway claimed wins in eight of the 15 precincts on his way to the Democratic nomination.

The closest race of the day came in the contest for the partial term (until 1968) of J. H. Scogin Jr., who moved to Winnsboro — the seat held presently by gubernatorial appointee Shelby Hill.

The first box to report Saturday night did so at 8:30 p.m. and the Kahn - Kennedy race for the city school board seat was teetering when the last box reported an hour later. Kennedy's final total amounted to 5,160 votes against Kahn's 4,674 in the 21 city precincts of Wards 3 and 10.

Kennedy claimed victories in both wards and in 16 precincts, but Kahn made strong bids in most of the boxes, though he finished a distant second in the first primary in a field of six candidates. Kennedy received 3,105 votes in the 13 Ward 10 boxes to Kahn's 3,025; he received 2,055 votes in Ward 3's eight boxes to Kahn's 1,649.

Kahn's best strength were in Precincts 8, 12 and 13 of Ward 10, which he won, and in Precinct 3 of Ward 10, where he drew with Kennedy at 198 votes each.

Happy Birthday

Today is the birthday of Mrs. Willie Jean Shields of West Monroe, but her fellow employes at Ouachita Parish Health Unit helped her celebrate Friday when they presented her with a decorated cake during the morning coffee break.

Conflict

Interest in Saturday's election ran high but at least one conflict of interest developed. Pulled by the lure of Louisiana State University's football game against Rice in Houston one fan followed the team but called the Morning World from the stadium to find out how the elections were going.

New Cadet

John H. Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ferguson of Gouville Dr., Monroe, has enrolled as a cadet student at Columbia Military Academy for the current school year.

Approximately 500 students enrolled there this year. Four years of ROTC training are offered in the academy, which has long been rated as an honor school by the U. S. Department of Defense.

French Join Nuclear Club With Blast

PARIS (AP) — France set off a plutonium-doped atomic bomb Saturday and apparently was on its way toward an operational arsenal, although the hydrogen bomb was still about two years away.

The latest of four explosions took place southwest of Tahiti, the Defense Ministry announced. Informed sources said the "doping" with plutonium and limited quantities of thermonuclear material boosted its power above that of the last purely atomic blast.

But the test was in no way a stepping stone toward the hydrogen bomb, the sources said. The hydrogen bomb still had to await sufficient quantities of enriched uranium deuterium and tritium. The plant at Pierrelatte, which is enriching uranium, is ahead of schedule, however, and sufficient quantities were expected in about two years.

Still the earlier tests of the series indicated that the country has been able to build an operational atomic bomb for its supersonic Mirage IV fighter bombers, and also a warhead for strategic ballistic missiles which are scheduled to be ready in their silos in 1969.

Another test is expected before this series is closed.

The largest blast so far had been the one witnessed Sept. 11 by President Charles de Gaulle from the bridge of a cruiser. That bomb, the prototype for a missile warhead, was rated at between 100 and 200 kilotons in power.

The first of the series, fired from a barge July 2, was a "miniaturized" bomb of 20 to 40 kilotons, more powerful than the one which fell on Hiroshima. The second, on July 19, was a 60 - to 80-kiloton operational bomb dropped from a Mirage IV.

One other test in the series failed to produce an explosion and it was planned that way. It was the dropping of a bomb from a plane to simulate an accident. The security devices passed the test.

The nuclear program is being pushed forward by De Gaulle at great cost. But it remains the key to his plan for France to resume a position of power in the world, this time as a balancing and moderating force between the huge power blocs.

Gaullists argue that the bombs are cheaper in the long run for the amount of security they insure compared to the equivalent amount of conventional force.

Vote Tally Has Rarick With Lead

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — John R. Rarick, a former state judge who campaigned for "God and Constitutional government," ousted veteran congressman James H. Morrison Saturday night in the 6th District Democratic runoff primary.

Rarick edged Morrison by almost 5,000 votes in the hotly contested race that Morrison called "the most vicious in my 24 years in Congress." Returns from 328 of 329 precincts showed Rarick with 85,242 votes, Morrison with 80,785.

The soft-spoken, bespectacled Rarick, a severe critic of the Johnson administration, continually referred to Morrison as a candidate of the "black power voting bloc."

FEDERAL SPIES

Rarick charged also that "federal spies" had been sent into the district to observe voting. He referred to federal observers who were permitted by court order to help illiterates in the voting booths.

The racial issue was injected into the campaign when Rarick said Morrison's backers attempted to link him with the Ku Klux Klan. Rarick denied and filed a libel suit. He said later he was having difficulty in serving legal papers on the Congressman.

Morrison has served 12 terms in Congress. His main campaign tactic was to stress that the district could not afford to lose a man with such seniority. He was in line to be chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

Rarick piled up a more than 5,000 vote lead in East Baton Rouge Parish, where the state Capitol is located. It's the most heavily populated area in the district.

Rarick carried only four parishes of the 12 in the district, but Morrison's margins were generally slight in the less-populated areas.

The district includes Bogalusa, scene of much racial trouble in recent years. Rarick had a big 4,600-vote edge in Washington Parish, where Bogalusa is located.

Rarick, 42, of St. Francisville, quit a job as judge to make the race against Morrison, 57, of Hammond.

Morrison, who missed by 666 votes defeating Rarick in the first primary in August, acknowledged that the tag of "LBJ's man" had hurt him.

Typhoon Ida Slaps Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Japan reeled early today under the double punch of two typhoons that left a reported 69 persons dead, 79 missing and 277 injured amid widespread property damage.

The most violent gusts in the history of Japan's Meteorological Agency were recorded on Mt. Fuji — 202 miles an hour.

Howling Typhoon Ida raced in from the Pacific, smashed ashore shortly after midnight 100 miles southwest of Tokyo, and cut a broad swath of death and destruction across central Honshu. It then moved out to the Japan Sea.

Typhoon Helen, a lesser howler, meanwhile, struck the Japanese island chain at its southern end and moved northward.

Hunt Wins Over Garrett In Tough, Tight Voting For Public Service Post

Hunt Shows Close Win In 5th District

By MILO DAKIN
World Staff Writer

John S. Hunt of Monroe won a close victory over state Rep. John S. Garrett Saturday in voting returns from the Fifth Congressional District for the Third District Public Service Commissioner.

Hunt carried narrow margins in eight of the district's 14 parishes. Complete but unofficial returns and the 38-year-old Monroe attorney 31,538 votes to Garrett's 28,980.

The Hunt-Garrett race for public service commissioner has been under close scrutiny by political factions, with some seeing the outcome as a popularity poll for the constitutional amendment in November allowing a governor to succeed himself.

GOVERNOR'S BACKING

The chairman of the Public Service Commission, Hunt had the official backing of Gov. John McKeithen, whom he replaced when McKeithen resigned to take the oath as governor.

Garrett inflicted strong racial overtones into the final days of the race, linking Hunt with a Negro bloc vote.

Garrett, who ran third in the first primary behind Hunt and John B. McKinley, carried six of the district's parishes. He failed to carry any in the first primary with Hunt winning all but two which went to McKinley.

Hunt's biggest margin was his home parish, Ouachita, where he polled 11,411 in complete but unofficial returns, to Garrett's 8,117.

Garrett's big vote came in Franklin Parish where the Claiborne Parish representative drew strong support with 1,938 votes to Hunt's 1,297.

Hunt's first primary margin in the Fifth District was by about 16,000 votes over Garrett, but the incumbent picked up only 5,000 votes in the second primary while Garrett raised his total about 18,000. Garrett had the background support of most of the defeated candidates in the first primary.

Ironically enough, voting returns from the 4th Congressional District showed nearly the same picture. With Hunt taking a commanding margin in Caddo Parish, he polled 30,576 votes district wide to Garrett's 27,219 in complete but unofficial returns.

In neighboring parishes, LaSalle went to Garrett 2,601 to 2,362 for Hunt. Winn also went for the veteran Haynesville lawmaker, with returns showing 2,239 to Hunt's 1,684.

Hunt's native parish of Lincoln stayed with him, with the polls showing a 2,329 to 1,890 margin of victory.

The other parishes Hunt carried and the votes there are:

Caldwell, home of Gov. McKeithen, 1,259 to 1,111; Concordia, 2,982 to 2,740; Jackson home of former Gov. Jimmie Davis who has been directly linked with Garrett, 2,049 for Hunt to 1,872 for Garrett; East Carroll, 1,448 to 1,118; Madison, 1,745 to 1,357 and Tensas 655 to 598 for Garrett.

Rapides Parish went for Hunt 14,761 to 12,282 for Garrett in unofficial returns.

In Ouachita Parish, Hunt carried 26 of 50 precincts, most of these in Wards 3, 5, and 10 with rural areas going strong for Garrett. But the larger populated areas made the difference in the Twin Cities for Hunt's 3,294 vote victory.

Hunt's winning voting stations were Ward 3, precincts 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 9, and 10; Ward 5, precincts 3, 4, 5, 8, and 9; Ward 7, the only precinct; Ward 10, every precinct except 9 and 11.

Hunt racked up most of his winnings in precincts 1, 8, 12, and 13 of Ward 10.

JOHN S. HUNT

Race Clue To Appeal Of Governor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John S. Hunt, a 38-year-old nephew of the late Huey P. Long, swept to victory Saturday night in his bid for a full-term on Louisiana's Public Service Commission — a post which Long and two other men used as a springboard to the governor's mansion.

Hunt defeated State Rep. John S. Garrett, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, 92,946 to 83,073, in complete returns from the 811 precincts comprising the 3rd Public Service Commission district in the Democratic runoff.

Garrett, 44, contended Hunt would get the Negro vote, a charge which caused defeat in the past for many candidates—particularly in north Louisiana, a segregation stronghold.

McKEITHEN MAN

Gov. John J. McKeithen, who named Hunt to the PSC 30 months ago, defeated the late deLesseps S. (Chep) Morrison in the gubernatorial run-off in 1963 when a similar racial issue was involved.

Hunt, a Monroe Attorney, led a six-man field in the first primary six weeks ago. Garrett finished second, 42,000 votes behind.

Hunt emphasized his Long family connections in his campaigning. His mother, Mrs. Lucille Long Hunt, is the younger sister of Huey and Earl Long.

Huey Long was elected to the same PSC seat before winning the governorship.

Jimmie Davis, the singing composer of "You Are My Sunshine," also vaulted into the governorship from the 3rd District PSC seat. McKeithen was on the commission before being elected governor and named Hunt to the post he vacated.

Some political observers felt the PSC race would be a bellwether of the gubernatorial succession amendment which will be decided in the November general election. It would allow McKeithen to seek a second term.

Hunt, however, played down his connection with McKeithen in campaigning for the six-year term on the PSC, which pays an annual salary of $10,500.

Hunt carried East Carroll and Madison—two parishes in the district where Negro voters outnumber whites. He lead in East Carroll 1,448-1,118 and in Madison 1,745-1,357.

Howling Mob Of Africans Hit Embassy

KINSHASA, the Congo (AP) — A howling mob of Africans ransacked and burned the Portuguese Embassy on Saturday and seized two diplomats and a woman stenographer. All were released after being manhandled by the mob.

In New York, Portugal angrily demanded that the U.N. Security Council take action on the issue. Antonio Patricio, charge d'affaires of the Portuguese U.N. delegation, charged that the Congolese government was inciting violence against its Portuguese residents.

PROTECTION

In a letter to Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko, the Security Council president for September, Patricio demanded that the council urge the Congolese government to protect foreigners and their property.

The letter did not ask for a special Security Council meeting but the council is expected to meet Friday to deal with a Congolese complaint that Portugal is harboring European mercenaries in Angola in support of ex-Premier Moise Tshombe. The Congo charged Tshombe intends to use them to overthrow the government of President Joseph D. Mobutu.

The Portuguese U.N. delegation also protested the embassy burning to the Congolese delegation and demanded full compensation.

Radio Kinshasa said the crowd who burned the embassy were Angolan exiles and numbered about 200.

Partly Cloudy Skies Forecast

Saturday was a pleasant day under clear skies in the Twin Cities area. Temperatures rose from the mid 50's Saturday morning to a high of 88 in mid-afternoon, an FAA spokesman at Selman Field said.

Last year's maximum for the same date was 72 and the minimum was a cool 53.

Partly cloudy skies with no important temperature changes dominate the weather scene through Monday. Winds will be variable at 5 to 15 miles an hour except locally calm at night and in the early morning hours.

Top German Now In U.S. To See LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany arrived in Washington on Saturday and acknowledged that his forthcoming talks with President Johnson "will not be easy."

He expressed the hope, however, that the two leaders can solve the problems they face. He said that his country's relations with the United States are "not only important, but they are vital."

BEGIN MONDAY

The Johnson-Erhard talks, to begin Monday, will range over a wide variety of issues. They include such controversial questions as congressional pressure on the U.S. administration to bring back some of the American troops from Germany, the collective management of the Western alliance's nuclear defense, the German commitment to buy U.S. military hardware, and collaboration in space research.

Erhard, his wife, and a large party of West German officials including three Cabinet ministers, flew into Andrews Air Force Base where Erhard was received with full military honors and a formal welcome from Undersecretary of State George W. Ball.

But the official part of the visit will not begin until Monday, when the chancellor meets with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and then with Johnson.

Agents Still Chasing Canadian Geese South

BEAVER DAM, Wis. (AP) — Federal agents continued to chase migrating Canada geese off the Horicon Marsh National Wildlife Refuge on Saturday after a Wisconsin judge refused to sign an immediate "cease-fire" order sought by the state.

But the federal government was directed by Circuit Judge Henry G. Gergen Jr., to come into court at Juneau, Wis., on Sept. 29, to defend the hazing action aimed at moving the vast flock of geese farther south.

A few hours after Judge Gergen issued the show-cause order, U.S. Atty. James M. Brennan announced in Milwaukee that he would take steps Monday to remove the case to federal court.

Atty. Gen. Bronson C. La Follette had sought a temporary restraining order forbidding the wardens from frightening the geese off the refuge with bottled-gas cannon, firecrackers and aircraft. He argued that such actions were "inconsistent with the maintenance of Horicon Marsh as a sanctuary."

However, Judge Gergen, after considering the petition overnight, declined to grant the restraining order. Instead, he signed an order summoning the federal government to appear before him, along with the state, to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued banning hazing of geese on the refuge by federal agents.

We are pleased that we will have an opportunity to have this controversy decided by a court on its merits," commented La Follette. "We are, of course, disappointed that we were unable to put an immediate stop to this activity. We understand, however, why Judge Gergen would be reluctant to issue such an order without giving the federal government an opportunity to be heard."

The judge's action meant that the hazing apparently will continue at Horicon for at least five more days. Fifteen cannons pounded away in the muddy marshes of the refuge Saturday afternoon and airboats scudded across the waterways.

Bob Personious, refuge manager for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, estimated after an aerial inspection that there were 23,300 geese on the refuge and another 3,300 in the surrounding area. It has been estimated that about 150,000 geese would head into Horicon by early October. Last year, the flock numbered 120,000 birds of which 65,000 stayed until mid-December.

Federal authorities contend the refuge was overpopulated by geese last year and should be thinned out. But state conservation officials argue that hazing will only cause the birds to stop on adjacent farm lands, causing crop damage for which the state must pay.

Indians Topple East Carolina

GREENVILLE, N.C. (Special) — The Northeast Indians astonished grid circles by knocking off major college team East Carolina, 21-14, here Saturday night.

The Inians, who lost to the Pirates 45-0 in Monroe last year, followed quarterback Steve Mansur, halfback Dalton LeBlanc and a host of other stars to take the victory.

The Tribe fought off a desperation bid by the Pirates in the warning minutes of the game and took over possession of the ball to run out the clock.

The district includes Bogalusa, scene of much racial trouble in recent years. Rarick had a big 4,600-vote edge in Washington Parish, where Bogalusa is located.

Rarick, 42, of St. Francisville, quit a job as judge to make the race against Morrison, 57, of Hammond.

Morrison, who missed by 666 votes defeating Rarick in the first primary in August, acknowledged that the tag of "LBJ's man" had hurt him.

Typhoon Ida Slaps Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Japan reeled early today under the double punch of two typhoons that left a reported 69 persons dead, 79 missing and 277 injured amid widespread property damage.

The most violent gusts in the history of Japan's Meteorological Agency were recorded on Mt. Fuji — 202 miles an hour.

Howling Typhoon Ida raced in from the Pacific, smashed ashore shortly after midnight 100 miles southwest of Tokyo, and cut a broad swath of death and destruction across central Honshu. It then moved out to the Japan Sea.

Typhoon Helen, a lesser howler, meanwhile, struck the Japanese island chain at its southern end and moved northward.

Hunt Wins Over Garrett In Tough, Tight Voting For Public Service Post

Hunt Shows Close Win In 5th District

By MILO DAKIN
World Staff Writer

John S. Hunt of Monroe won a close victory over state Rep. John S. Garrett Saturday in voting returns from the Fifth Congressional District for the Third District Public Service Commissioner.

Hunt carried narrow margins in eight of the district's 14 parishes. Complete but unofficial returns and the 38-year-old Monroe attorney 31,538 votes to Garrett's 28,980.

The Hunt-Garrett race for public service commissioner has been under close scrutiny by political factions, with some seeing the outcome as a popularity poll for the constitutional amendment in November allowing a governor to succeed himself.

GOVERNOR'S BACKING

The chairman of the Public Service Commission, Hunt had the official backing of Gov. John McKeithen, whom he replaced when McKeithen resigned to take the oath as governor.

Garrett inflicted strong racial overtones into the final days of the race, linking Hunt with a Negro bloc vote.

Garrett, who ran third in the first primary behind Hunt and John B. McKinley, carried six of the district's parishes. He failed to carry any in the first primary with Hunt winning all but two which went to McKinley.

Hunt's biggest margin was his home parish, Ouachita, where he polled 11,411 in complete but unofficial returns, to Garrett's 8,117.

Garrett's big vote came in Franklin Parish where the Claiborne Parish representative drew strong support with 1,938 votes to Hunt's 1,297.

Hunt's first primary margin in the Fifth District was by about 16,000 votes over Garrett, but the incumbent picked up only 5,000 votes in the second primary while Garrett raised his total about 18,000. Garrett had the background support of most of the defeated candidates in the first primary.

Ironically enough, voting returns from the 4th Congressional District showed nearly the same picture. With Hunt taking a commanding margin in Caddo Parish, he polled 30,576 votes district wide to Garrett's 27,219 in complete but unofficial returns.

In neighboring parishes, LaSalle went to Garrett 2,601 to 2,362 for Hunt. Winn also went for the veteran Haynesville lawmaker, with returns showing 2,239 to Hunt's 1,684.

Hunt's native parish of Lincoln stayed with him, with the polls showing a 2,329 to 1,890 margin of victory.

The other parishes Hunt carried and the votes there are:

Caldwell, home of Gov. McKeithen, 1,259 to 1,111; Concordia, 2,982 to 2,740; Jackson home of former Gov. Jimmie Davis who has been directly linked with Garrett, 2,049 for Hunt to 1,872 for Garrett; East Carroll, 1,448 to 1,118; Madison, 1,745 to 1,357 and Tensas 655 to 598 for Garrett

Rapides Parish went for Hunt 14,761 to 12,282 for Garrett in unofficial returns.

In Ouachita Parish, Hunt carried 26 of 50 precincts, most of these in Wards 3, 5, and 10 with rural areas going strong for Garrett. But the larger populated areas made the difference in the Twin Cities for Hunt's 3,294 vote victory.

Hunt's winning voting stations were Ward 3, precincts 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 9, and 10; Ward 5, precincts 3, 4, 5, 8, and 9; Ward 7, the only precinct; Ward 10, every precinct except 9 and 11.

Hunt racked up most of his winnings in precincts 1, 8, 12, and 13 of Ward 10.

JOHN S. HUNT

Race Clue To Appeal Of Governor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John S. Hunt, a 38-year-old nephew of the late Huey P. Long, swept to victory Saturday night in his bid for a full-term on Louisiana's Public Service Commission — a post which Long and two other men used as a springboard to the governor's mansion.

Segregation, 92,946 to 83,073, in complete returns from the 811 precincts comprising the 3rd Public Service Commission district in the Democratic runoff.

Garrett, 44, contended Hunt would get the Negro vote, a charge which caused defeat in the past for many candidates—particularly in north Louisiana, a segregation stronghold.

McKEITHEN MAN

Gov. John J. McKeithen, who named Hunt to the PSC 30 months ago, defeated the late deLesseps S. (Chep) Morrison in the gubernatorial run-off in 1963 when a similar racial issue was involved.

Hunt, a Monroe Attorney, led a six-man field in the first primary six weeks ago. Garrett finished second, 42,000 votes behind.

Hunt emphasized his Long family connections in his campaigning. His mother, Mrs. Lucille Long Hunt, is the younger sister of Huey and Earl Long.

Huey Long was elected to the same PSC seat before winning the governorship.

Jimmie Davis, the singing composer of "You Are My Sunshine," also vaulted into the governorship from the 3rd District PSC seat. McKeithen was on the commission before being elected governor and named Hunt to the post he vacated.

Some political observers felt the PSC race would be a bellwether of the gubernatorial succession amendment which will be decided in the November general election. It would allow McKeithen to seek a second term.

Hunt, however, played down his connection with McKeithen in campaigning for the six-year term on the PSC, which pays an annual salary of $10,500.

Hunt carried East Carroll and Madison—two parishes in the district where Negro voters outnumber whites. He lead in East Carroll 1,448-1,118 and in Madison 1,745-1,357.

Howling Mob Of Africans Hit Embassy

KINSHASA, the Congo (AP) — A howling mob of Africans ransacked and burned the Portuguese Embassy on Saturday and seized two diplomats and a woman stenographer. All were released after being manhandled by the mob.

In New York, Portugal angrily demanded that the U.N. Security Council take action on the issue. Antonio Patricio, charge d'affaires of the Portuguese U.N. delegation, charged that the Congolese government was inciting violence against its Portuguese residents.

PROTECTION

In a letter to Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko, the Security Council president for September, Patricio demanded that the council urge the Congolese government to protect foreigners and their property.

The letter did not ask for a special Security Council meeting but the council is expected to meet Friday to deal with a Congolese complaint that Portugal is harboring European mercenaries in Angola in support of ex-Premier Moise Tshombe. The Congo charged Tshombe intends to use them to overthrow the government of President Joseph D. Mobutu.

The Portuguese U.N. delegation also protested the embassy burning to the Congolese delegation and demanded full compensation.

Radio Kinshasa said the crowd who burned the embassy were Angolan exiles and numbered about 200.

Partly Cloudy Skies Forecast

Saturday was a pleasant day under clear skies in the Twin Cities area. Temperatures rose from the mid 50's Saturday morning to a high of 88 in mid-afternoon, an FAA spokesman at Selman Field said.

Last year's maximum for the same date was 72 and the minimum was a cool 53.

Partly cloudy skies with no important temperature changes dominate the weather scene through Monday. Winds will be variable at 5 to 15 miles an hour except locally calm at night and in the early morning hours.

Top German Now In U.S. To See LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany arrived in Washington on Saturday and acknowledged that his forthcoming talks with President Johnson "will not be easy."

He expressed the hope, however, that the two leaders can solve the problems they face. He said that his country's relations with the United States are "not only important, but they are vital."

BEGIN MONDAY

The Johnson-Erhard talks, to begin Monday, will range over a wide variety of issues. They include such controversial questions as congressional pressure on the U.S. administration to bring back some of the American troops from Germany, the collective management of the Western alliance's nuclear defense, the German commitment to buy U.S. military hardware, and collaboration in space research.

Erhard, his wife, and a large party of West German officials including three Cabinet ministers, flew into Andrews Air Force Base where Erhard was received with full military honors and a formal welcome from Undersecretary of State George W. Ball.

But the official part of the visit will not begin until Monday, when the chancellor meets with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and then with Johnson.

Agents Still Chasing Canadian Geese South

BEAVER DAM, Wis. (AP) — Federal agents continued to chase migrating Canada geese off the Horicon Marsh National Wildlife Refuge on Saturday after a Wisconsin judge refused to sign an immediate "cease-fire" order sought by the state.

But the federal government was directed by Circuit Judge Henry G. Gergen Jr., to come into court at Juneau, Wis., on Sept. 29, to defend the hazing action aimed at moving the vast flock of geese farther south.

A few hours after Judge Gergen issued the show-cause order, U.S. Atty. James M. Brennan announced in Milwaukee that he would take steps Monday to remove the case to federal court.

Atty. Gen. Bronson C. La Follette had sought a temporary restraining order forbidding the wardens from frightening the geese off the refuge with bottled-gas cannon, firecrackers and aircraft. He argued that such actions were "inconsistent with the maintenance of Horicon Marsh as a sanctuary."

However, Judge Gergen, after considering the petition overnight, declined to grant the restraining order. Instead, he signed an order summoning the federal government to appear before him, along with the state, to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued banning hazing of geese on the refuge by federal agents.

We are pleased that we will have an opportunity to have this controversy decided by a court on its merits," commented La Follette. "We are, of course, disappointed that we were unable to put an immediate stop to this activity. We understand, however, why Judge Gergen would be reluctant to issue such an order without giving the federal government an opportunity to be heard."

The judge's action meant that the hazing apparently will continue at Horicon for at least five more days. Fifteen cannons pounded away in the muddy marshes of the refuge Saturday afternoon and airboats scudded across the waterways.

Bob Personious, refuge manager for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, estimated after an aerial inspection that there were 23,300 geese on the refuge and another 3,300 in the surrounding area. It has been estimated that about 150,000 geese would head into Horicon by early October. Last year, the flock numbered 120,000 birds of which 65,000 stayed until mid-December.

Federal authorities contend the refuge was overpopulated by geese last year and should be thinned out. But state conservation officials argue that hazing will only cause the birds to stop on adjacent farm lands, causing crop damage for which the state must pay.

Indians Topple East Carolina

GREENVILLE, N.C. (Special) — The Northeast Indians astonished grid circles by knocking off major college team East Carolina, 21-14, here Saturday night.

The Inians, who lost to the Pirates 45-0 in Monroe last year, followed quarterback Steve Mansur, halfback Dalton LeBlanc and a host of other stars to take the victory.

The Tribe fought off a desperation bid by the Pirates in the waining minutes of the game and took over possession of the ball to run out the clock.

Rusk Again Dines With Reds' Envoy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary of State Dean rusk challenged North Viet Nam and Communist China on Saturday night to test U.S. sincerity in wanting peace in Viet Nam by coming to a conference table and starting to diminish the fighting.

"Then they will find out that we are genuine" in seeking a Viet Nam settlement, Rusk said in a public response to Hanoi-Peking charges that the latest U.S. peace proposals are a swindle.

The secretary of state spoke to newsmen after a 4½-hour dinner discussion meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko on Viet Nam and other East-West issues.

It was their second and final such meeting prior to Rusk's return to Washington today after a week at the U.N. General Assembly.

Rusk declined to comment on any aspect of his meeting with the Soviet foreign minister.

The United States and the Soviet Union have been deadlocked over the Viet Nam dispute, but some believed progress toward agreements may be possible on some other issues such as a nuclear nonproliferation and outer space treaties.

Asked about the North Vietnamese and the Communist Chinese toughly worded rejection of the U.S. peace offer presented by Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg to the U.N. General Assembly on Thursday Rusk replied: "It was not entirely unexpected but it was disappointing. We had hoped that they would at least take time to think them over and come back with a more responsive answer.

"We are serious about a measure of trying to find a peaceful solution.

"We did not welcome the suggestion that it (the U.S. offer) was just a peace swindle.

"If they want to test us, let them come to a peace conference, start the de-escalation of the violence and begin the process of making peace.

"Then they will find out that we are genuine."

Bitter Fight Erupts With Reds Marines; U.S. Alert For Push

SAIGON (UPI)—Bitter fighting erupted again on the southern edge of the demilitarized zone early today where U.S. military commanders say a major Communist offensive is in the making.

Two companies of U.S. Marines ran into a battalion of North Vietnamese regulars—at least 400 men—and engaged them in heavy combat for several hours. Fifty-eight of the enemy were killed before the Communists broke off the engagement.

The fresh clash sent the dath toll in Operation Prairie against North Viet Nam's 324B Division operating out of the demilitarized zone to 704.

While the jungle battle was raging, U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom jets returned again to the heavily militarized area just north of the international buffer zone where B52's hit Saturday. They blasted a fuel dump five miles from the zone, sending huge mushrooms of orange flames skyward.

The fighting erupted nine miles west of Cam Lo and just south of the demilitarized zone. This is the area in which the Marines have been trying to shove back the 324B Division. At least three battalions of fresh troops reportedly moved into this sector in recenty days.

The fight was triggered when a company of the 7th Marine Regiment found a Communist squad and pinned it down. The Communists called for help and their comrades laid down a mortar barrage.

More enemy troops joined the battle. The Marines, by now outnumbered, called for artillery and a second company operating nearby tried to link up.

The opposition was so fierce they couldn't, but artillery and air strikes hammered away at the enemy and forced them to withdraw.

This is the area which Lt. Gen. Lewis Walt, commander of U.S. Marines in Viet Nam, believe the North Vietnamese have chosen for a major offensive.

In Saigon, meantime, terrorists struck again. They hurled a grenade into a sidewalk restaurant, killing one Vietnamese civilian and slightly injuring five U.S. servicemen. Seven other civilians also were

Gen. Walt told UPI in an interview in Da Nang that a mass North Vietnamese attack across the DMZ might be expected as the monsoon rains move in. The drenching, quagmire-producing rains come as early as mid-October.

The Marine commander said the Communists won't care how many of their men are killed as long as they win the fight.

He said a Communist plan captured by Marines late last year called for an attack on Da Nang airfield and indicated they were prepared to lose 4,000 to 5,000 men in the assault, if necessary.

"In other words, if they can accomplish their objective, to h— with the cost in lives," Walt said. "The Communists need a big victory."

Such a victory could be the destruction of a large American unit in the field or the overrunning of a key South Vietnamese city in the country's northern provinces. One such city might be Quang Tri, about 18 miles south of the DMZ.

Walt and his field commanders feel the current Marine drive westward along the DMZ border is "spoiling" the Communist plans—but that a big monsoon offensive could come at any time.

Walt said the Marines current operation against an elite North Vietnamese division that infiltrated South of the border has prevented the North Vietnamese buildup and has "thrown them off schedule."

Captured enemy soldiers reported the heavy pounding from allied naval gunfire, artillery and air strikes had a demoralizing effect on the North Vietnamese forces and have also hurt their supply system.

In their attack Saturday, the eight-engined B52's aimed their deadly bomb loads on an area 20 miles northwest of Dong Ha in a North Vietnamese area just beyond the DMZ.

REVISED 'MACBETH'

LONDON (AP) — Sir Alec Guinness and Simone Signoret are costars of "Macbeth" being staged under a revised production program by the English Stage company.

Dropping the recent policy of repertory presentations, the troupe lists limited engagements for eight dramas in sequence. Half of the schedule consists of new works by John Osborne, Edward Bond and David Cregan, plus a revised adaptation of "The Three Sisters."

Despite Red Rebuffs

LBJ To Continue Quest For Peace

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, rebuffed by Moscow on the administration's latest Viet Nam peace overtures, said Saturday he will "continue the search for peace on every front, whatever obstacles we may confront."

Johnson seized upon the fifth anniversary of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency to issue a statement pledging the peace quest will be pushed, "however long the road may be."

The statement, distributed at White House press headquarters here, did not mention the chill Soviet response to a conciliatory Viet Nam policy statement read to the United Nations on Thursday by Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg. Nor was the Goldberg statement itself mentioned.

Johnson simply noted the anniversary, promised a persistent search for peace and said: "The highest priority goal of national policy continues to be: to lift from mankind the threat of nuclear war."

Johnson, through press spokesman George Christian, also disclosed that more governors representing both political parties will be invited to the White House late next week to discuss one major problem attributed to the Viet Nam war — economic disclocation caused by mounting war spending.

The President, who met with seven governors Friday before flying to Texas for a weekend visit to his ranch home, plans to invite all governors to a series of conferences.

In these meetings, Johnson is urging spending restraint at state and local levels to lessen inflationary pressures.

For the President, this was described as a work-and-relaxation day.

On the work side, Johnson conferred in his ranch office with Walt W. Rostow, his special assistant for national security affairs, about talks the President will be holding in Washington on Monday and Tuesday with Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany.

Johnson also signed two bills and announced plans for a series of nominations.

One bill names the newly dedicated Kinzua Dam in Pennsylvania, the other permits the Army Medical Service Corps to put one brigadier general on its roster. The highest rank permitted in the corps before now was colonel.

The President said he will nominate Miss Mary Gardiner Jones of New York City, a member of the Federal Trade Commission since 1964, to a new seven-year term on the FTC. Miss Jones is a Republican.

Being nominated to fill two newly created federal district judgeships in the Los Angeles area are Manuel L. Real, 42, U.S. attorney for Los Angeles since 1964, and Warren J. Ferguson 45, an Orange County, Calif., Superior Court judge since 1961.

Nurse Image Holding Up In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The traditional image of the American nurse — cooly professional approach tempered with the warmth that helps mend men's souls — is standing up well to the tough test of the war in Viet Nam.

Hundreds of women nurses are assigned to field hospitals, operating rooms and wards from Can Tho in the Mekong Delta to Pleiku in the highlands to Da Nang in the north.

They are at Vung Tau, Cu Chi, Saigon, An Khe, Qui Nhon and a half dozen other places, including the U.S. Navy hospital ship Repose off the coast in the South China Sea.

They treat American troops mostly, but it is not unusual for them to nurse a Vietnamese child or even a captured Viet Cong guerrilla.

The majority of women nurses are in the U.S. Army — about 272 now with more on the way. All are officers.

One of the largest staffs of nurses is at the 500-bed 93rd Evacuation Hospital at Long Binh, about 15 miles from Saigon. There are 62 nurses, 51 of them women.

Canadians Seek Recast Of Leaders

OTTAWA (AP) — A Conservative party leader called Saturday for a reappraisal of party leadership under John Diefenbaker in the light of a justice's decision that he neglected his duty as prime minister for not firing a cabinet minister involved in the Munsinger sex and security case.

The call came from Dalton Camp, who is president of the Conservative Party Association. Some Conservatives have been seeking removal of Diefenbaker as the Conservative leader in Parliament for some time but informants in the party said the release of the Munsinger report Friday may make it even more difficult for the anti-Diefenbaker faction in the party.

They say it is now more than likely the majority of the party will spring to Diefenbaker's defense.

Authorities Try To Determine Killer's Tool In Percy Slaying

KENILWORTH, Ill. (AP) — The intruder who killed Valerie Percy may have used only one specially shaped tool to cut through a door screen in her home and then bludgeon and stab her to death, the man who is directing the murder investigation said Saturday.

"It could have been an ordinary tool that was reshaped," Police Chief Robert M. Daley said. "I could take an old tire tool and heat and bend or sharpen it."

The 21-year-old daughter of Charles H. Percy, Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate, was bludgeoned four times on the head and stabbed 12 times on the head and body in the predawn hours last Sunday.

The intruder cut through the screen on a French door in the first floor music room of the Percy mansion early Sunday, and removed a section of glass with a glass cutter. By reaching through the opening the door could have been unlatched.

Kenilworth police said they arrested a man late Saturday afternoon walking on the Lake Michigan beach near the Percy home. The man was fingerprinted and released. Police said no charges were filed and declined to identify the man.

Police refused to comment on whether the man was arrested as a possible suspect in the murder of the Percy daughter.

Investigators have determined that the victim was struck on the head with an instrument that left a cone-shaped indentation and that the stab wounds, up to 5 inches deep, were made with an instrument sharpened on both sides.

The glass cutter or instrument used in the bludgeoning has not been found, but Daley said he has "not yet ruled out" the possibility that a bayonet fished out of Lake Michigan about 40 feet from the Percy's private beach could have been used in the stabbing.

No fingerprints or blood stains were found on the bayonet, recovered by Coast Guardmen.

Daley raised the theory that the killer may have needed only the glass cutter and a single instrument to carry out the attack in announcing that investigators have uncovered no promising leads.

Gen. Walt told UPI in an interview in Da Nang that a mass North Vietnamese attack across the DMZ might be expected as the monsoon rains move in. The drenching, quagmire-producing rains come as early as mid-October.

The Marine commander said the Communists won't care how many of their men are killed as long as they win the fight.

He said a Communist plan captured by Marines late last year called for an attack on Da Nang airfield and indicated they were prepared to lose 4,000 to 5,000 men in the assault, if necessary.

"In other words, if they can accomplish their objective, to h— with the cost in lives," Walt said. "The Communists need a big victory."

Such a victory could be the destruction of a large American unit in the field or the overrunning of a key South Vietnamese city in the country's northern provinces. One such city might be Quang Tri, about 18 miles south of the DMZ.

Walt and his field commanders feel the current Marine drive westward along the DMZ border is "spoiling" the Communist plans—but that a big monsoon offensive could come at any time.

Walt said the Marines current operation against an elite North Vietnamese division that infiltrated South of the border has prevented the North Vietnamese buildup and has "thrown them off schedule."

Captured enemy soldiers reported the heavy pounding from allied naval gunfire, artillery and air strikes had a demoralizing effect on the North Vietnamese forces and have also hurt their supply system.

In their attack Saturday, the eight-engined B52's aimed their deadly bomb loads on an area 20 miles northwest of Dong Ha in a North Vietnamese area just beyond the DMZ.

REVISED 'MACBETH'

LONDON (AP) — Sir Alec Guinness and Simone Signoret are costars of "Macbeth" being staged under a revised production program by the English Stage company.

Dropping the recent policy of repertory presentations, the troupe lists limited engagements for eight dramas in sequence. Half of the schedule consists of new works by John Osborne, Edward Bond and David Cregan, plus a revised adaptation of "The Three Sisters."

Despite Red Rebuffs

LBJ To Continue Quest For Peace

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, rebuffed by Moscow on the administration's latest Viet Nam peace overtures, said Saturday he will "continue the search for peace on every front, whatever obstacles we may confront."

Johnson seized upon the fifth anniversary of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency to issue a statement pledging the peace quest will be pushed, "however long the road may be."

The statement, distributed at White House press headquarters here, did not mention the chill Soviet response to a conciliatory Viet Nam policy statement read to the United Nations on Thursday by Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg. Nor was the Goldberg statement itself mentioned.

Johnson simply noted the anniversary, promised a persistent search for peace and said: "The highest priority goal of national policy continues to be: to lift from mankind the threat of nuclear war."

Johnson, through press spokesman George Christian, also disclosed that more governors representing both political parties will be invited to the White House late next week to discuss one major problem attributed to the Viet Nam war — economic disclocation caused by mounting war spending.

The President, who met with seven governors Friday before flying to Texas for a weekend visit to his ranch home, plans to invite all governors to a series of conferences.

In these meetings, Johnson is urging spending restraint at state and local levels to lessen inflationary pressures.

For the President, this was described as a work-and-relaxation day.

On the work side, Johnson conferred in his ranch office with Walt W. Rostow, his special assistant for national security affairs, about talks the President will be holding in Washington on Monday and Tuesday with Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany.

Johnson also signed two bills and announced plans for a series of nominations.

One bill names the newly dedicated Kinzua Dam in Pennsylvania, the other permits the Army Medical Service Corps to put one brigadier general on its roster. The highest rank permitted in the corps before now was colonel.

The President said he will nominate Miss Mary Gardiner Jones of New York City, a member of the Federal Trade Commission since 1964, to a new seven-year term on the FTC. Miss Jones is a Republican.

Being nominated to fill two newly created federal district judgeships in the Los Angeles area are Manuel L. Real, 42, U.S. attorney for Los Angeles since 1964, and Warren J. Ferguson 45, an Orange County, Calif., Superior Court judge since 1961.

Nurse Image Holding Up In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The traditional image of the American nurse — cooly professional approach tempered with the warmth that helps mend men's souls — is standing up well to the tough test of the war in Viet Nam.

Hundreds of women nurses are assigned to field hospitals, operating rooms and wards from Can Tho in the Mekong Delta to Pleiku in the highlands to Da Nang in the north.

They are at Vung Tau, Cu Chi, Saigon, An Khe, Qui Nhon and a half dozen other places, including the U.S. Navy hospital ship Repose off the coast in the South China Sea.

They treat American troops mostly, but it is not unusual for them to nurse a Vietnamese child or even a captured Viet Cong guerrilla.

The majority of women nurses are in the U.S. Army — about 272 now with more on the way. All are officers.

One of the largest staffs of nurses is at the 500-bed 93rd Evacuation Hospital at Long Binh, about 15 miles from Saigon. There are 62 nurses, 51 of them women.

Canadians Seek Recast Of Leaders

OTTAWA (AP) — A Conservative party leader called Saturday for a reappraisal of party leadership under John Diefenbaker in the light of a justice's decision that he neglected his duty as prime minister for not firing a cabinet minister involved in the Munsinger sex and security case.

The call came from Dalton Camp, who is president of the Conservative Party Association. Some Conservatives have been seeking removal of Diefenbaker as the Conservative leader in Parliament for some time but informants in the party said the release of the Munsinger report Friday may make it even more difficult for the anti-Diefenbaker faction in the party.

They say it is now more than likely the majority of the party will spring to Diefenbaker's defense.

Authorities Try To Determine Killer's Tool In Percy Slaying

KENILWORTH, Ill. (AP) — The intruder who killed Valerie Percy may have used only one specially shaped tool to cut through a door screen in her home and then bludgeon and stab her to death, the man who is directing the murder investigation said Saturday.

"It could have been an ordinary tool that was reshaped," Police Chief Robert M. Daley said. "I could take an old tire tool and heat and bend or sharpen it."

The 21-year-old daughter of Charles H. Percy, Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate, was bludgeoned four times on the head and stabbed 12 times on the head and body in the predawn hours last Sunday.

The intruder cut through the screen on a French door in the first floor music room of the Percy mansion early Sunday, and removed a section of glass with a glass cutter. By reaching through the opening the door could have been unlatched.

Kenilworth police said they arrested a man late Saturday afternoon walking on the Lake Michigan beach near the Percy home. The man was fingerprinted and released. Police said no charges were filed and declined to identify the man.

Police refused to comment on whether the man was arrested as a possible suspect in the murder of the Percy daughter.

Investigators have determined that the victim was struck on the head with an instrument that left a cone-shaped indentation and that the stab wounds, up to 5 inches deep, were made with an instrument sharpened on both sides.

The glass cutter or instrument used in the bludgeoning has not been found, but Daley said he has "not yet ruled out" the possibility that a bayonet fished out of Lake Michigan about 40 feet from the Percy's private beach could have been used in the stabbing.

No fingerprints or blood stains were found on the bayonet, recovered by Coast Guardmen.

Daley raised the theory that the killer may have needed only the glass cutter and a single instrument to carry out the attack in announcing that investigators have uncovered no promising leads.

Annual Fair Set To Open In Claiborne

HOMER (Special) — The 24th annual Claiborne Parish Fair and Northwest Louisiana Dairy Festival opens in Haynesville Tuesday for a five day run.

A new feature of the fair, sponsored by the Haynesville Junior Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the fair Association, is the "Miss Claiborne Parish Fair" Pageant Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school aduitorium. Master of ceremonies will be "Snooky Lanson" a television personality.

Each school in the parish was allowed to enter contestants. They are: Donna Buford and Kay Darden, of Haynesville; Lin Caraway and Jan Torbet of Homer; Linda Sue Fowler and Jerry Lynn Smith of Lisbon; Wanda Ruth Sherrill of Athens.

Wednesday has been designated as Claiborne parish school day at the fair. Students will attend the fair throughout the day. A parade with bands from Homer and Haynesville, commercial school and organization floats, fair queen and mounted horses will be held at 1 p.m. This will be followed by ceremonies on the stage at the fair building, introduction of queens and winners of floats and booths announced, including the crowning of the queen, as Wednesday is the judging day of events.

Thursday, dairy cattle will be judged from 2:30 to 6:30 p.m. On Friday the annual dog show begins at 7 p.m. The Horse show, one of the most popular events of the fair, will open at 9 p.m. Saturday. Judging of the champions will be Saturday night.

Ford, Chrysler Ponder Cutting Prices After Lesser Boost By General Motors

DETROIT (AP) — Ford and Chrysler officials were busy this weekend trying to figure out whether they should cut their 1967 car prices announced this week.

Ford's average increase of $113 and Chrysler's average of $92 or $103, depending on who states it, look king sized in comparison with General Motors's $54 average hike.

The nine million people who the industry hopes will put their money on the line in 1967 for a new car may be sure of one thing: The price tag is going to be larger than for 1966 models.

The amount of the GM increase caught the rest of the industry off guard and caused Ford and Chrysler to take a second look at their price sheets.

"This is a pretty competitive business and we've got to get our prices in line or lose sales," said a Ford executive who declined use of his name.

"We are using plenty of pencils and erasers this weekend, working on price charts," he added.

GM's surprise move, coming after the other two of the Big Three were on the street with their new prices, was a tipoff that the automotive giant is out to regain it sales prestige in 1967.

August reports showed General Motors sales for calendar 1966 running behind those for the similar 1965 period. Ford's and Chrysler's were ahead.

Industry observers were convinced that Chrysler, second of the Big Three to announce, would be content to sit back and let Ford figure its way out of the price dilemma. Then Chrysler could match and American Motors, which has not yet announced its figures, could jump into the fray.

A point which could bother Ford in any price refiguring was its original insistence that new car prices reflected only increased costs of materials, plus additional safety features made standard for 1967.

Thus, if Ford cuts back as it is generally assumed it may be forced to do, it will have to find some place where a materials price cut can be made or some non-standard safety item removed if it is to maintain its profit margin.

One of the surprises to auto industry leaders was the mild reaction from the Johnson administration to the car price boost. Henry Ford II and Ford President Arjay Miller made a special trip to Washington four days before the price announcement to tell President Johnson's No. 1 economic adviser, Gardner Ackley, what they were planning to do.

Council Gives Approval For Area Budget

HOMER (Special) — A budget of $200,563.68 for the general fund has been adopted by the Homer town council for 1966-67, from July 1, 1966 to June 30, 1967, J. R. McClung, chairman of the finance committee has reported.

This is compared to the $210,820.97 spent in the previous budget. Expenditures in the general fund will be reduced by $10,000.

The council predicted some expenses will be lower than the previous year, whereas there has been an increase in payroll and the cost of materials.

Expenditures totalling $364,577.50 are budgeted which amounts to some $4,000 less than the $368,658.50 spent last year for the light and water department.

Budgeted operating expenses include $70,000 for salaries; $10,000 for tools and supplies; $55,000 for gas; $5,500 for lubrication; $7,500 for generating repairs and a like amount for pole lines.

General and administrative expenditures of the light and water department are headed by $42,147.50 for interest on bond issues; $42,000 to retire bonds; $17,000 for depreciation and contingencies; $35,000 in cash and $26,500 in services transferred to the general fund; $5,000 in insurance and $13,000 in salaries.

The council adopted tax ordinances, establishing the total tax levy at 22 mills, two mills less than 1965-66.

Records With Double Meanings Discussed

EDITOR'S NOTE — One it was surfing records, or protest songs, but now the record industry is rocking to dirty discs, with double entenders about drugs, drink and sex. They're aimed at kids, and they sell in the millions. Some defend them, others see a moral crisis for record companies and radio disc jockeys.

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Cantor sang "Ida" for his wife and "Margie" for one of his daughters.

Frank Sinatra mentions a restaurateur friend in "Me and My Show."

So, inside meanings are not now in American popular music. But the pop music business today, and that means rock 'n' roll for the most part, is being rent with discussions about inside meanings that are not so innocent — alleged references to LSD and other drugs in Big Beat lyrics.

There is plenty of disagreement over how much — if any — "junky words" are being used, since some people hear them and others don't, listening to the same song. There is concern by some observers that so-called "drug songs" might cause youngsters to try drugs, while others say mere lyrics have no effect on behavior.

Complicating the issue further are performers who have heard the "drug song" talk, discovered a money-making trend and recorded songs with an implied "you know what we mean" wink to teen-agers while disclaiming all evil intent to adults. Sometimes they have just stuck a "junky words" title on a song or album while the contents are completely blameless.

To anyone searching for "junky words" the most obvious word is "trip," and the most obvious idea is the description of a "trip."

Thus critics of some popular music consider such songs as "Eight Miles High," "Get Off My Cloud," "Sunshine Superman," and "5D" — fifth dimension — as referring to LSD "trips." But whether they are or not — or so ambigious that no one will ever know — is hotly debated.

A team of pop song writers in their early 30s, Peter Udell and Gary Geld, say the intention of the song isn't important. What matters is what youngsters think when they hear it, they say.

Lyricist Udell says, "The frightening thing is that it has become a game to look for meanings. I think the kids know the dope terms. The ones who didn't before, do now.

"For the most part it is very hard to understand the lyrics; it is like a little private joke. But the kids can understand them. If you listen to enough rock 'n' roll, your ears can tune out the twanging guitars. They songs spread like wildfire and if something is there, they hear it. Unfortunately, most of the time it's there."

Variety, the weekly show business paper, has expressed concern over the alleged trend. A recent headline read: "Pop Music's 'Moral Crisis;' Dope Tunes Fan Disk Jockey Ire." The story began, "The pop music biz is now facing its profoundest 'moral crisis' since Elvis Presley outraged his elders by swiveling his hips on television some 10 years ago."

But said a spokesman for a New York radio station — WMCA — which plays a "top 57" list: "Evil to him who thinks evil. If people are stretching for an interpretation, stretching real hard, they may get an invitation to take a trip on LSD. But we can't worry about people who are on the lookout for dirty interpretations."

The current controversy started with radio stations. There was some talk about a year ago that "Mr. Tambourine Man," by Bob Dylan, most influential of the new song writers, was describing a dope pusher and drug-induced dream. But most people dismissed that and considered the lyrics quite good poetry.

This year, in late spring, another song came out, written by Dylan, and also sung by him — "Rainy Day Woman No. 12 and 35." About the same time, "Eight Miles High" was released by the Byrds, a group of Dylan disciples who had had the big 1965 hit with "Mr. Tambourine Man."

Then some radio station programmers reported listeners were starting to use "Rainy Day Women" as slang for marijuana cigarettes. The lyrics don't mention the title, but the refrain includes the words, "everybody must get stoned." Stoned, slang for drunk not very long ago, now also means high on drugs. And "Eight Miles High," the programers also reported, meant high on LSD to some listeners.

However, even among the major record producers there is wide disagreement over whether drug terminology exists and, if it does, its effect.

George Marek, head of RCA Victor Records, says, "I know there is some debate about whether LSD is harmful or not. But I think anything that plays around with the concept is pretty horrible. I feel these songs are wrong for the youth, even if they are by Bob Dylan, who is a very good artist. The danger is that the taking of drugs will be made more and more the smart thing to do."

"Rainy Day Women" and "Eight Miles High," issued last spring as single records by Columbia, appeared in albums issued in August.

Clive Davis, vice president of CBS Records, which encompasses Columbia and five smaller labels, says the company views the two songs solely as effective entertainment. The Byrds have said "Eight Miles High" refers to flying in an airplane to London. Dylan never has said what this, or any, of his songs means.

If there is any drug wording involved, Davis adds, "only a small coterie of people might understand. And it doesn't have any influencing factor at all."

Asked if there might be more strenuous scrutiny of Dylan songs in the future, Davis says, "Attention to Dylan songs is always present because we feel he is the leading culture force of the young people today. It would be hard to say he will be given more attention."

Anybody listening for drug words in pop songs — and adults are known to do it as well as teen-agers — is going to run across some other subjects he wouldn't mention in polite company.

Marek of RCA says, "With so-called dirty lyrics, you are up against the age-old problem of what is dirty. There's a terrible danger when you set yourself up to say this is dirty and this is not. Is it any worse than 'Nana' by Zola?

"It sounds as if I were for smut, which of course I'm not, but I'm scared to death of censorship."

Some specialize in sexually suggestive lyrics. The three big hits of Mitch Ryder and the Detroit Wheels have been called suggestive.

Says Ryder, who is 21: "It's becoming an art to try and slip something by the censors — that's the program directors of the radio stations. The hipper the lyrics are, the hipper the kids have to be to catch them. And they like to see us getting away with it; they figure the adults don't know we're doing it."

According to Ryder, most of today's hits range from extremely suggestive to a little bit suggestive.

"It's just part of what's happening. The big thing in producing records today is not producing dirty lyrics, it's producing hit records. If it requires dirty lyrics, you do it."

Ryder has written a drug song, "Baby Jane," about Mary Jane, or marijuana, which was recorded on the back of one of his hits, and another one which he couldn't get published. He says, "Those songs — about drugs — will go down quick. Those are temporary but sex is permanent."

The business of the music business, as nearly everyone eventually says, is making money. That's why, say songwriters Udell and Geld, there are trends. All songwriters watch the best-selling charts. Ifa couple of surfing songs are in the top 25 best sellers, everybody tries his luck writing a surfing song.

What is going to happen to this volatile — and highly profitable — industry next?

Plane Crash Fatal To In-Law Of RFK

RIGGINS, Idaho (UPI)—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's brother-in-law and four other persons were killed Friday night in a plane crash in Idaho's wilderness area.

The single-engine Cessna 185, one of several light planes chartered for an elk hunting party, crashed after becoming trapped by the nearly vertical walls of Crooked Creek Canyon. The pilot made a desperate, last-minute attempt to turn in the sheer canyon after overshooting a tiny landing strip.

In addition to Ethel Kennedy's brother, George Skakel, Jr., the victims were a former White House aide who was a close friend of the New York Democrat, a socially prominent St. Louis investment broker, a New Jersey businessman, and the pilot.

as keynote speaker at a Democratic convention. He cancelled his speaking and other weekend appearances planned in Vermont to fly back to Washington to be with his wife.

The dead were:

— Skakel, 47, Greenwich, Conn., president of the Great Lakes Carbon Company of New York, brother of Mrs. Kennedy, and a well-known polo player, skier and hunter.

—Dean F. Markham, 47, McLean, Va., Skakel's assistant, who served as a White House aide under the late President John F. Kennedy and President Johnson. A neighbor of Sen. Kennedy, Markham once was head of the staff of the White House Commission on Narcotics Abuse.

—Lewis Werner II, St. Louis, a member of a socially prominent family and operator of an investment firm. He was married to a former queen of the "Veiled Prophet Ball," a St. Louis social highlight.

—Early Ranft, Jersey City, N.J., President of Draybar Haulage.

Sgt. Donald Adams, 36, Clinton, Okla., who was stationed at Mountain Home Air Force Base, Idaho.

Adams had landed at the strip "at least twice when I was with him," reported ranch manager Keith McCormack who had made arrangements for the ill-fated trip. He was very competent and had about 3,000 hours in the air."

There were 20 persons in the hunting party. A spokesman, Dr. Malcolm Stevens, declined to identify other members

The scene of the crash was the National Primitive Area along the Salmon River Canyon 32 miles east of Riggins and about 24 miles north of Boise.

After overshooting a runway along the river, the pilot tried to pull up for another approach, found himself in the dead-end Crooked Creek Canyon, turned sharply and crashed into the creek bank.

A member of the search and rescue party said the plane "disintegrated."

The crashed plane was one of four carrying a 20-member hunting party to a guest ranch. State Aeronautics Director Chet Moulton said the pilot apparenly was unfamiliar wih the wild, primitive country.

Came In High

"He came in high and hot—that's fast," Moulton said. "He hit a knoll and bounced. He gave it the throttle and tried to pull out for another approach."

Moulton said there is only one way to go if a pilot does not land on the strip after making his approach—that is up Crooked Creek, a stream that rises fast into a narrow, steep canyon. Moulton said there is no room for a plane to turn around in the canyon.

He said the pilot discovered this about five miles upstream on Crooked Creek from the ranch airstrip, tried to turn and then crashed.

"If they'd have used some schooled pilot who had known the strip it wouldn't have happened," Moulton said.

Heart Failure Fatal To Widow

LONDON (AP) — Mrs. Vera Weizmann, widow of Israel's first president, Chaim Weizmann, died of heart failure in a London hospital Saturday. She was 87.

The Israeli Embassy said her body will be taken back to Israel Sunday.

Mrs. Weizmann broke her hip 10 days ago while on a private visit to this country. She was admitted to the London Clinic and was well on the way to recovery from that injury when her heart failed, an embassy spokesman said.

Records With Double Meanings Discussed

EDITOR'S NOTE — One it was surfing records, or protest songs, but now the record industry is rocking to dirty discs, with double entenders about drugs, drink and sex. They're aimed at kids, and they sell in the millions. Some defend them, others see a moral crisis for record companies and radio disc jockeys.

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Cantor sang "Ida" for his wife and "Margie" for one of his daughters.

Frank Sinatra mentions a restaurateur friend in "Me and My Show."

So, inside meanings are not now in American popular music. But the pop music business today, and that means rock 'n' roll for the most part, is being rent with discussions about inside meanings that are not so innocent — alleged references to LSD and other drugs in Big Beat lyrics.

There is plenty of disagreement over how much — if any — "junky words" are being used, since some people hear them and others don't, listening to the same song. There is concern by some observers that so-called "drug songs" might cause youngsters to try drugs, while others say mere lyrics have no effect on behavior.

Complicating the issue further are performers who have heard the "drug song" talk, discovered a money-making trend and recorded songs with an implied "you know what we mean" wink to teen-agers while disclaiming all evil intent to adults. Sometimes they have just stuck a "junky words" title on a song or album while the contents are completely blameless.

To anyone searching for "junky words" the most obvious word is "trip," and the most obvious idea is the description of a "trip."

Thus critics of some popular music consider such songs as "Eight Miles High," "Get Off My Cloud," "Sunshine Superman," and "5D" — fifth dimension — as referring to LSD "trips." But whether they are or not — or so ambigious that no one will ever know — is hotly debated.

A team of pop song writers in their early 30s, Peter Udell and Gary Geld, say the intention of the song isn't important. What matters is what youngsters think when they hear it, they say.

Lyricist Udell says, "The frightening thing is that it has become a game to look for meanings. I think the kids know the dope terms. The ones who didn't before, do now.

"For the most part it is very hard to understand the lyrics; it is like a little private joke. But the kids can understand them. If you listen to enough rock 'n' roll, your ears can tune out the twanging guitars. They songs spread like wildfire and if something is there, they hear it. Unfortunately, most of the time it's there."

Variety, the weekly show business paper, has expressed concern over the alleged trend. A recent headline read: "Pop Music's 'Moral Crisis;' Dope Tunes Fan Disk Jockey Ire." The story began, "The pop music biz is now facing its profoundest 'moral crisis' since Elvis Presley outraged his elders by swiveling his hips on television some 10 years ago."

But said a spokesman for a New York radio station — WMCA — which plays a "top 57" list: "Evil to him who thinks evil. If people are stretching for an interpretation, stretching real hard, they may get an invitation to take a trip on LSD. But we can't worry about people who are on the lookout for dirty interpretations."

The current controversy started with radio stations. There was some talk about a year ago that "Mr. Tambourine Man," by Bob Dylan, most influential of the new song writers, was describing a dope pusher and drug-induced dream. But most people dismissed that and considered the lyrics quite good poetry.

This year, in late spring, another song came out, written by Dylan, and also sung by him — "Rainy Day Woman No. 12 and 35." About the same time, "Eight Miles High" was released by the Byrds, a group of Dylan disciples who had had the big 1965 hit with "Mr. Tambourine Man."

Then some radio station programmers reported listeners were starting to use "Rainy Day Women" as slang for marijuana cigarettes. The lyrics don't mention the title, but the refrain includes the words, "everybody must get stoned." Stoned, slang for drunk not very long ago, now also means high on drugs. And "Eight Miles High," the programers also reported, meant high on LSD to some listeners.

However, even among the major record producers there is wide disagreement over whether drug terminology exists and, if it does, its effect.

George Marek, head of RCA Victor Records, says, "I know there is some debate about whether LSD is harmful or not. But I think anything that plays around with the concept is pretty horrible. I feel these songs are wrong for the youth, even if they are by Bob Dylan, who is a very good artist. The danger is that the taking of drugs will be made more and more the smart thing to do."

"Rainy Day Women" and "Eight Miles High," issued last spring as single records by Columbia, appeared in albums issued in August.

Clive Davis, vice president of CBS Records, which encompasses Columbia and five smaller labels, says the company views the two songs solely as effective entertainment. The Byrds have said "Eight Miles High" refers to flying in an airplane to London. Dylan never has said what this, or any, of his songs means.

If there is any drug wording involved, Davis adds, "only a small coterie of people might understand. And it doesn't have any influencing factor at all."

Asked if there might be more strenuous scrutiny of Dylan songs in the future, Davis says, "Attention to Dylan songs is always present because we feel he is the leading culture force of the young people today. It would be hard to say he will be given more attention."

Anybody listening for drug words in pop songs — and adults are known to do it as well as teen-agers — is going to run across some other subjects he wouldn't mention in polite company.

Marek of RCA says, "With so-called dirty lyrics, you are up against the age-old problem of what is dirty. There's a terrible danger when you set yourself up to say this is dirty and this is not. Is it any worse than 'Nana' by Zola?

"It sounds as if I were for smut, which of course I'm not, but I'm scared to death of censorship."

Some specialize in sexually suggestive lyrics. The three big hits of Mitch Ryder and the Detroit Wheels have been called suggestive.

Says Ryder, who is 21: "It's becoming an art to try and slip something by the censors — that's the program directors of the radio stations. The hipper the lyrics are, the hipper the kids have to be to catch them. And they like to see us getting away with it; they figure the adults don't know we're doing it."

According to Ryder, most of today's hits range from extremely suggestive to a little bit suggestive.

"It's just part of what's happening. The big thing in producing records today is not producing dirty lyrics, it's producing hit records. If it requires dirty lyrics, you do it."

DMZ Marines Carve Niche In Legends

GIA BINH, South Viet Nam (AP) — The old demilitarized zone, or more properly that slice of South Viet Nam adjacent to it, is gaining a place in U.S. Marine annals dominated by such names as Belleau Wood, Guadalcanal and the Inchon Reservoir.

The scope of the struggle for the northern roof of South Viet Nam is smaller. But it's effect evidently will last quite a while.

American military men believe the North Vietnamese have constructed a network of tunnels from the six-mile-wide DMZ to funnel troops and supplies into South Viet Nam without fear of air raids or shelling from Navy ships and field artillery.

Asked how large a force the 1st Battalion of the 26th Marine Regiment is opposing in the current operation called Prairie, Col. Alex Ceregchino of Burlingame, Calif., commanding the operation, said Saturday:

"There's no telling. They can keep feeding men in from the other side, constantly replacing and reinforcing the people they have in their lines."

Ceregchino liked the idea.

"If they're going to be stupid enough to feed men in there we can keep on killing them," he said.

"With our fire superiority and supporting arms, this is a good piece of the war for us. We're in real good shape."

He made the comment just outside the fortified village complex of Gia Binh which stretches to within 300 yards of the once neutral zone which was swung into the war by Communist violations of the 1954 Geneva accord that made it buffer territory.

Marines captured the village Wednesday.

But three companies took punishment in the attack.

Farther west along the DMZ, other Marine battalions have been fighting around a mountain they named "the rock pile." It is a peak commanding three valley approaches into the south.

The current operation is the second Marine endeavor to save Viet Nam's northernmost Quang Tri province from the Communists.

Evidence of Operation Hastings last July remains in the form of crumbling foxholes, rusting ration cans and other debris of war. Troops of Prairie come across them every day.

The Marines have been playing dangerous games in Prairie, as they did in Hastings.

They use two basic maneuvers:

1. Send out a company sized unit to an area where intelligence agents have located a concentration of enemy, and dangle the company as bait. They hope it will be attacked, but that the attackers will be overwhelmed by a waiting Marine reaction force.

2. Shove a company out to fight an enemy force known to be superior and depend on artillery, planes and the big Navy guns to save the company from disaster.

In either case it's tough going for the young enlisted men who do most of the fighting, although they appear to maintain high morale.

The other day an officer of one company ordered "third plattoon to the front."

A private turned and remarked: "Aw h—. Those guys in the third always get to go up front."

Operations such as Hastings and Prairie are intended to prevent the Communists from seizing Quang Tri, which could be a bargaining point at any peace conference.

Captured enemy documents show Hastings disrupted a North Vietnamese plan to seize Quang Tri city, the provincial capital along with government outposts at Cam Lo and Dong Ha.

The crack North Vietnamese 324B Division was punished heavily during the series of battles, but within two months had been rebuilt.

Once Troubled Authorities

Soviet Union Hails Shostakovich Genius

MOSCOW (AP) — Dmitri Shostakovich, in trouble in the ast with authority, was hailed on the eve of his 60th birthday Saturday as a great national genius of the Soviet Union.

The press was full of tributes to the famed composer. Pravda, the newspaper of the Soviet Communist party, said that in his own lifetime he had come to be ranked with Bach, Mozart, Beethoven and Tchaikovsky.

Tass announced he had been awarded the title, hero of socialist labor, highest title in the Soviet Union. He is the first composer to be so honored.

Aram Khachaturian, perhaps this country's next most famous composer, joined in the praise, calling him "a great musician of his time."

A new work of Shostakovich, Concerto No. 2 for Cello and Orchestra, will be given its premiere Sunday night at the Moscow Conservatory. Mstislav Rostropovich will play the solo part and the orchestra will be conducted by Maxim Shostakovich, the composer's son.

Shostakovich was last reported in a country rest home north of Leningrad, recovering from a heart attack suffered last May.

Pravda, which in the past has used harsh words about him sympathized Saturday for the hard times he had endured because of official displeasure.

"Only a small number of composers in the past have enjoyed such early recognition." fellow Soviet composer Rodion Shchedrin wrote in the paper. "And few of them have suffered more incompetent reproaches and caustic lack of understanding."

Shchedrin did not dwell on the details of the past but defended Shostakovich as an innovator who writes difficult music.

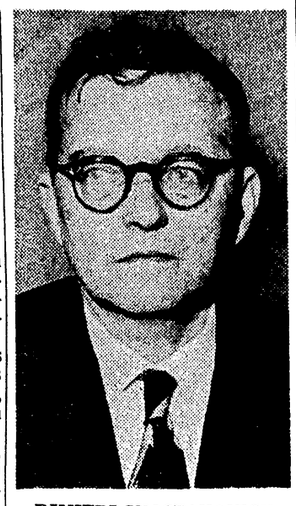
"He is not for those who like only sweetness," the Pravda article said. "His music cannot be listened to casually. And because of the lack of 'cosmetics' in his works he has encountered annoyance and hostility. But he has never let criticism stop his creative activity. And his music is filled with the pulse of our life.

"This surprising artist has enriched all genres of the musical art. We can justly call him a genius."

Shostakovich's works were then listed including 13 symphonies, two operas, three ballets, 11 quarters, five concertos, along with operettas, oratoris, cantatas, quintets, trios, preludes and music for the threater and movies.

Shostakovich who was born in Leningrad the son of an engineer, began studying the piano at 9, entered that city's conservatory at 13, and won international acclaim with his first symphony written at 19.

He first came under official displeasure in the 1930s, when



DIMITRI SHOSTAKOVICH

Communist cultural authorities found his opera "Lady MacBeth of Mzensk" two complex for the working class. Pravda said he wrote "confusion instead of music."

Reds To Fire Booster Shot Into Pacific

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet booster rockets will be fired into the Pacific Ocean about 1,800 miles east of Tokyo from Monday through Oct. 25, the Kremlin announced Saturday.

A previous series of Soviet tests beginning Aug. 24 and scheduled to continue until Oct. 25 ended Sept. 6.

The announcement Saturday asked ships and planes to stay out of the target area between noon and midnight during the one-month period.

The target is a circle with a radius of 46 miles centered about 2,075 miles northwest of Honolulu.

The Soviet Union has fired rockets into the Pacific on several previous tests as part of its nuclear missile and space research programs.

Injections Canceled

BEIRUT (AP) — The Lebanese Health Ministry has canceled an order for anti-cholera injections throughout the country and said it would decide later whether they were necessary. The cholera scare originated in Iraq.

Mekong Floods Set New Record

CHAU DOC, South Viet Nam (UPI) —Floodwaters which have ruined 50,000 tons of rice in Chau Doc Province alone rose higher in the Mekong River Saturday and the entire delta region braced for some of the worst flooding in recorded history.

The Mekong and Bassac rivers, swollen by storm water from Cambodia and Laos, rose at faster rates than the disastrous 1961 flood which wiped out 465,000 tons of precious rice—the basis food of Viet Nam.

A U.S. official reported the waters were building to one of the worst floods since the country began keeping records in 1892.

As thousands of Vietnamese were forced from their homes, U.S. and South Vietnamese officials sent in relief supplies and medical teams to head off hunger and the threat of typhoid and cholera. More than 5,000 persons were made homeless and the number was increasing.

Chau Doc, An Giang, Kien Phong and Kien Tuong provinces—the rice bowl of South Viet Nam—were heavily affected.

Rufugees bearing bedding, blankets and other household goods rode into flooded Chau Doc on carts to find shelter.

DMZ Marines Carve Niche In Legends

GIA BINH, South Viet Nam (AP) — The old demilitarized zone, or more properly that slice of South Viet Nam adjacent to it, is gaining a place in U.S. Marine annals dominated by such names as Belleau Wood, Guadalcanal and the Inchon Reservoir.

The scope of the struggle for the northern roof of South Viet Nam is smaller. But it's effect evidently will last quite a while.

American military men believe the North Vietnamese have constructed a network of tunnels from the six-mile-wide DMZ to funnel troops and supplies into South Viet Nam without fear of air raids or shelling from Navy ships and field artillery.

Asked how large a force the 1st Battalion of the 26th Marine Regiment is opposing in the current operation called Prairie, Col. Alex Ceregchino of Burlingame, Calif., commanding the operation, said Saturday:

"There's no telling. They can keep feeding men in from the other side, constantly replacing and reinforcing the people they have in their lines."

Ceregchino liked the idea.

"If they're going to be stupid enough to feed men in there we can keep on killing them," he said.

"With our fire superiority and supporting arms, this is a good piece of the war for us. We're in real good shape."

He made the comment just outside the fortified village complex of Gia Binh which stretches to within 300 yards of the once neutral zone which was swung into the war by Communist violations of the 1954 Geneva accord that made it buffer territory.

Marines captured the village Wednesday.

But three companies took punishment in the attack.

Farther west along the DMZ, other Marine battalions have been fighting around a mountain they named "the rock pile." It is a peak commanding three valley approaches into the south.

The current operation is the second Marine endeavor to save Viet Nam's northernmost Quang Tri province from the Communists.

Train From Lafayette Shuttled Onto Siding

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) —A train full of food and gifts for a Mexican Indian tribe was shuttled onto a siding at this U.S.-Mexico border city Saturday, for the moment unwanted.

The next step is up to the Louisianians who filled the string of boxcars with goods they thought would save the Tarahumara Indians of north Mexico from starvation.

As it turns out, the indians are not starving and Mexico does not want the charity train.

The train left Lafayette, La., Thursday on a Southern Pacific line, arriving in El Paso early Saturday. Importex Co. brokers took over there. If Mexico relented, the brokers would reconsign the shipment and a Mexican train haul the boxcars.

But that is unlikely.

The Lafayette donors probably will have to decide whether to give away the goods in El Paso or return them to Lafayette.

The trouble-scarred trainload of food, equipment, and medicine began to form when a Jesuit missionary, the Rev. Luis C. Verplancken, reportedly said Tarahumaras were starving at the rate of 100 a day. Industrialist Gordon Blake whipped up the relief drive and the goods poured in.

Meanwhile, facts about the Tarahumaras began to pour in also.

The Mexican government denied permission for the train to enter Mexico and said there was no need for the goods.

Mexican spokesmen said not one death had been blamed on hunger among the Tarahumaras and in fact they had good crops of wheat, corn, beans and apples.

"The condition of all the Mexican Indian tribes is satisfactory and improving steadily," Demetrio Sodi Morales of the Interamerican Indian Institute said.

He said he did not know the source of information for Verplancken's report on starvation problems.

"I believe the good Father must have been exaggerating to collect more money (for his mission), Sodi Morales said.

Sen. Fulbright Sees Entry By Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright says he believes Red China is convinced the United States wants war and he thinks Peking will react to an expansion of the Viet Nam fighting by entering the conflict.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview he has failed to convince President Johnson and other administration officials that there is grave danger of such a development.

"I get awfully discouraged about the trend events are taking in Viet Nam," he said. "If there is further escalation of the war I am afraid we may be in for it."

Downcast by the rejection by Moscow and Hanoi of the latest U.S. proposals for peace talks, Fulbright made it clear he feels that an expansion of the fighting is almost certain after the November elections.

"Nobody knows what the Chinese will do," he said, "but I'm convinced their leaders believe the President is trying to get them involved so that we can destroy their nuclear installations.

"No matter how far-fetched this may seem to us, they are the ones who will make the decision whether to send in their troops and not us.

"I think there is grave danger they are miscalculating our intent. We have flown over their territory a couple of times. If we were to invade North Viet Nam, I believe they would feel that they couldn't take it any longer and would come in themselves.

"I wish I could do something to keep us from heading into a world war, but I don't know what to do."

Johnson has a tendency in such conferences to inundate his callers with arguments, statistics, reports from field commanders and U.S. representatives. At times his listeners find the audience concluded without their having felt that they have been able to get in any telling arguments of their own.

Fulbright, who wasn't consulted, was less than enthusiastic about Johnson's recent State Department appointments. He was surprised by the selection of Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to be undersecretary of state. He accepted without comment the choice of Foy D. Kohler, ambassador to Moscow, as deputy undersecretary for political affairs.

Missing Wife Of Coach Is Being Sought

WEST POINT, Ga. (UPI)— Police said they had no clues Saturday in the disappearance of the wife of West Point High School football coach Carlton Lewis.

Lewis said his wife, Daisey, 39, was missing when he returned home at 1 a.m. Saturday from a football game at Jackson. His daughter, Dale Elizabeth, 13, accompanied him to the game.

Police Chief Harvey Thompson said Lewis told him he could not explain his wife's absence. He said the couple had had no recent domestic trouble.

Lewis said he suspected foul play. He said the house was locked and the family car, a 1965 Ford Galaxie, missing on his return home.

Lewis said his wife told him she planned to dine with friends Friday evening, but he did not know who the friends were. He said she was wearing yellow shorts and a yellow blouse when he last saw her.

Train From Lafayette Shuttled Onto Siding

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) —A train full of food and gifts for a Mexican Indian tribe was shuttled onto a siding at this U.S.-Mexico border city Saturday, for the moment unwanted.

The next step is up to the Louisianians who filled the string of boxcars with goods they thought would save the Tarahumara Indians of north Mexico from starvation.

As it turns out, the indians are not starving and Mexico does not want the charity train.

The train left Lafayette, La., Thursday on a Southern Pacific line, arriving in El Paso early Saturday. Importex Co. brokers took over there. If Mexico relented, the brokers would reconsign the shipment and a Mexican train haul the boxcars.

But that is unlikely.

The Lafayette donors probably will have to decide whether to give away the goods in El Paso or return them to Lafayette.

The trouble-scarred trainload of food, equipment, and medicine began to form when a Jesuit missionary, the Rev. Luis C. Verplancken, reportedly said Tarahumaras were starving at the rate of 100 a day. Industrialist Gordon Blake whipped up the relief drive and the goods poured in.

Meanwhile, facts about the Tarahumaras began to pour in also.

The Mexican government denied permission for the train to enter Mexico and said there was no need for the goods.

Mexican spokesmen said not one death had been blamed on hunger among the Tarahumaras and in fact they had good crops of wheat, corn, beans and apples.

"The condition of all the Mexican Indian tribes is satisfactory and improving steadily," Demetrio Sodi Morales of the Interamerican Indian Institute said.

He said he did not know the source of information for Verplancken's report on starvation problems.

"I believe the good Father must have been exaggerating to collect more money (for his mission), Sodi Morales said.

Sen. Fulbright Sees Entry By Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright says he believes Red China is convinced the United States wants war and he thinks Peking will react to an expansion of the Viet Nam fighting by entering the conflict.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview he has failed to convince President Johnson and other administration officials that there is grave danger of such a development.

"I get awfully discouraged about the trend events are taking in Viet Nam," he said. "If there is further escalation of the war I am afraid we may be in for it."

Downcast by the rejection by Moscow and Hanoi of the latest U.S. proposals for peace talks, Fulbright made it clear he feels that an expansion of the fighting is almost certain after the November elections.

"Nobody knows what the Chinese will do," he said, "but I'm convinced their leaders believe the President is trying to get them involved so that we can destroy their nuclear installations.

"No matter how far-fetched this may seem to us, they are the ones who will make the decision whether to send in their troops and not us.

"I think there is grave danger they are miscalculating our intent. We have flown over their territory a couple of times. If we were to invade North Viet Nam, I believe they would feel that they couldn't take it any longer and would come in themselves.

"I wish I could do something to keep us from heading into a world war, but I don't know what to do."

Johnson has a tendency in such conferences to inundate his callers with arguments, statistics, reports from field commanders and U.S. representatives. At times his listeners find the audience concluded without their having felt that they have been able to get in any telling arguments of their own.

Fulbright, who wasn't consulted, was less than enthusiastic about Johnson's recent State Department appointments. He was surprised by the selection of Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to be undersecretary of state. He accepted without comment the choice of Foy D. Kohler, ambassador to Moscow, as deputy undersecretary for political affairs.

But he was displeased with the appointment of Eugene Rostow, former dean of the Yale Law School, as the department's No. 3 man. The latter is the brother of Walt Rostow, a top presidential aide.

Fulbright said he has no personal objection to Eugene Rostow but dislikes brother teams in government.

It is less than a trade secret that the Arkansas senator regards Walt Rostow as the chief hawk among the President's advisers and as the top exponent of the theory — which Fulbright disputes — that the war in Viet Nam is fundamentally the test of stopping Communist expansion in Asia.

Local Youth Injured In Wreck Here

A 17 - year - old youth was in satisfactory condition at St. Francis Hospital Saturday after suffering a fractured arm and leg when his motorcycle collided with an auto on Louisville Avenue near North 18th. He was identified as Tommy J. Rowe, 101 Duncan Circle, West Monroe.

In another accident, Mrs. Terry Griffith, 22, and James N. Griffith Jr., two, both of 704 Wilmuth St., Monroe, were treated and released at St. Francis after being in an accident involving two autos and a house.

According to police reports, the Rowe youth was heading east on Louisville, when he collided with an auto driven by Mary D. Baston, 25, of Rt. 5, Box 289A, Monroe, which was making a left turn from the west - bound lane of Louisville across the east lane. The Baston woman was ticketed for negligent driving. She did not require hospitalization, reports said.

A car driven by Mrs. Griffith collided with an auto driven by Tom L. Ernst, 18, of 2710 Point and North Sixth streets minutes before 3 p.m. Saturday

After impact at the intersection, Ernst's auto jumped the sidewalk and sideswiped the home of William Haddad, 1009 N. 6th, knocking off a water faucet and coming to rest in the yard. Damage to the house was small.

Ernst was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way. He was heading east on Hudson, Mrs. Griffith was traveling north on 6th.

Man Arrested On Murder Charge Here

Monroe police Saturday were holding a 67 - year - old Negro cafe owner on a charge of murder in the shooting death of a 23 - year - old Negro woman.

Barbara Lewis of 200 N. 21st St., Monroe, was shot in the groin with a .32 caliber pistol minutes after midnight Friday as she stood on the sidewalk outside the Brown Eagle Cafe at 1729 DeSiard St. She was pronounced dead on arrival at E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital.

Being held is Willie McPike, owner and operator of the cafe.

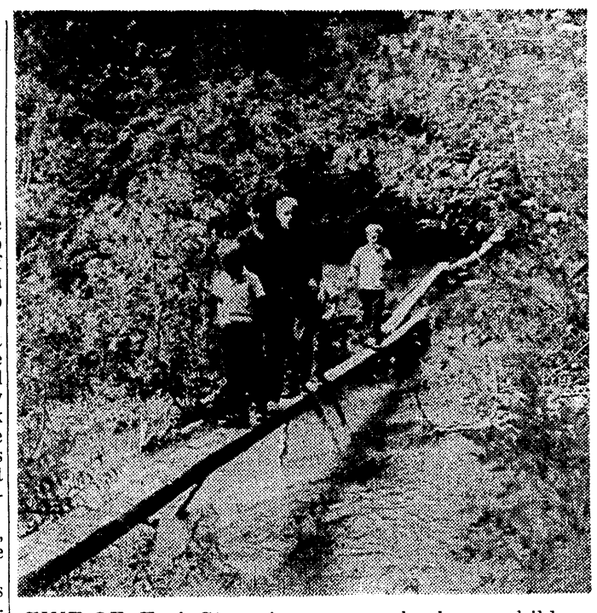
Here is the sequence of events related by police from witnesses' accounts:

McPike broke up a fight between three men in the cafe shortly before midnight and threw them out. They returned and McPike threatened them with the pistol. It discharged and the woman was hit.

Ouachita Lodge Election Slated

The Ouachita Relief Lodge No. 4 F & AM, will hold its annual election and installation of officers at its regular meeting Friday. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Monroe Masonic Temple, N. 4th and DeSiard streets.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Hugh Bradshaw, pastor of the Memorial Presbyterian Church, in West Monroe.



FIVE OF Earl Stacey's seven school-age children cross Quicksand Creek in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky on the 2½ mile route they would have to take to the nearest school bus stop. Stacey said he will keep the children at home unless the school can send the bus nearer his home. Stacey, father of 16, is facing jail and loss of almost half of his $250-a-month income from a federal assistance program because of his decision. (AP Wirephoto)

Sandra Antley Is Appointed To McNeese

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — A Monroe native, Miss Sandra Antley, is among 10 new faculty appointments announced in the division of pure and applied sciences at McNeese State College by Dr. S. M. Spencer, dean of the division.

Miss Antley is an instructor in the department of biological sciences. She graduated summa cum laude from Louisiana Tech in 1964. She received a National Aeronautics and Space Administration traineeship to the University of Alabama, from which she received the master of science degree in biology this year.

Among the appointments are two men who attended Louisiana Tech, also. William E. McCullough and Donald Ray Parker are both instructors in the department of microbiology.

McCullogh, of Alexandria, is a 1963 graduate of Louisiana College. He earned the master of science degree in 1965 at Louisiana Tech, and has also studied at USL and the University of Texas.

Parker, of DeRidder, was a 1963 honor graduate of Louisiana Tech. He received the master of science from Northwestern State College and for the past year has been working toward the Ph. D. at Tulane.

Delta Reports Net Income For August

ATLANTA, Ga., (Special) — Delta Air Lines was reported that August's unaudited figures showed net income of $6,347,000, or $1.00 per share. This compares with $2,765,000 for August of last year when per share earnings were 43 cents after adjusting for the 2-for-1 stock split in December.

Robert Oppenlander, vice president — finance & treasurer, said that revenues for August were $39,342.000, up 59 per cent over the same month of last year. Operating expenses increased 40 percent to $27,045,000.

Available seat miles for August were 822 million, up 29 per cent, while revenue passenger miles were 651 million, an increase of 63 per cent. The passenger load factor, or percentage of seats sold, was 79 per cent.

"August's operations were influenced by the strike against five trunklines for the first 19 days of the month," Oppenlander said, "however, our forecasts for August, made prior to the strike, had anticipated a traffic increase of 35 per cent over August, 1965."

Figures were also released covering the first two months of the new fiscal year, July 1 - August 31. Net income, including a special item of $9,000, was $14,091,000, or $2.21 per share. This compared with $4,832,000, or 76 cents per share after adjusting for the December stock split.

Oppenlander said, "We estimate that the 43 - day strike against other carriers, which began on July 8, accounted for $1.11 of the $2.21 per share earnings for the first two months."

Operating revenues for the two months were $79,380,000, up 65 per cent over last year, and operating expenses were $51,905,000, an increase of 34 per cent. Available seat miles were 1.6 billion, up 29 per cent, and revenue passenger miles rose 71 per cent to 1.3 billion.

Local Youth Injured In Wreck Here

A 17 - year - old youth was in satisfactory condition at St. Francis Hospital Saturday after suffering a fractured arm and leg when his motorcycle collided with an auto on Louisville Avenue near North 18th. He was identified as Tommy J. Rowe, 101 Duncan Circle, West Monroe.

In another accident, Mrs. Terry Griffith, 22, and James N. Griffith Jr., two, both of 704 Wilmuth St., Monroe, were treated and released at St. Francis after being in an accident involving two autos and a house.

According to police reports, the Rowe youth was heading east on Louisville, when he collided with an auto driven by Mary D. Baston, 25, of Rt. 5, Box 289A, Monroe, which was making a left turn from the west - bound lane of Louisville across the east lane. The Baston woman was ticketed for negligent driving. She did not require hospitalization, reports said.

A car driven by Mrs. Griffith collided with an auto driven by Tom L. Ernst, 18, of 2710 Point and North Sixth streets minutes before 3 p.m. Saturday

After impact at the intersection, Ernst's auto jumped the sidewalk and sideswiped the home of William Haddad, 1000 N. 6th, knocking off a water faucet and coming to rest in the yard. Damage to the house was small.

Ernst was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way. He was heading east on Hudson, Mrs. Griffith was traveling north on 6th.

Man Arrested On Murder Charge Here

Monroe police Saturday were holding a 67 - year - old Negro cafe owner on a charge of murder in the shooting death of a 23 - year - old Negro woman.

Barbara Lewis of 200 N. 21st St., Monroe, was shot in the groin with a .32 caliber pistol minutes after midnight Friday as she stood on the sidewalk outside the Brown Eagle Cafe at 1729 DeSiard St. She was pronounced dead on arrival at E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital.

Being held is Willie McPike, owner and operator of the cafe.

Here is the sequence of events related by police from witnesses' accounts:

McPike broke up a fight between three men in the cafe shortly before midnight and threw them out. They returned and McPike threatened them with the pistol. It discharged and the woman was hit.

Ouachita Lodge Election Slated

The Ouachita Relief Lodge No. 4 F & AM, will hold its annual election and installation of officers at its regular meeting Friday. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Monroe Masonic Temple, N. 4th and DeSiard streets.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Hugh Bradshaw, pastor of the Memorial Presbyterian Church, in West Monroe.

FIVE OF Earl Stacey's seven school-age children cross Quicksand Creek in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky on the 2½ mile route they would have to take to the nearest school bus stop. Stacey said he will keep the children at home unless the school can send the bus nearer his home. Stacey, father of 16, is facing jail and loss of almost half of his $250-a-month income from a federal assistance program because of his decision. (AP Wirephoto)

Sandra Antley Is Appointed To McNeese

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — A Monroe native, Miss Sandra Antley, is among 10 new faculty appointments announced in the division of pure and applied sciences at McNeese State College by Dr. S. M. Spencer, dean of the division.

Miss Antley is an instructor in the department of biological sciences. She graduated summa cum laude from Louisiana Tech in 1964. She received a National Aeronautics and Space Administration traineeship to the University of Alabama, from which she received the master of science degree in biology this year.

Among the appointments are two men who attended Louisiana Tech, also. William E. McCullough and Donald Ray Parker are both instructors in the department of microbiology.

McCullogh, of Alexandria, is a 1963 graduate of Louisiana College. He earned the master of science degree in 1965 at Louisiana Tech, and has also studied at USL and the University of Texas.

Parker, of DeRidder, was a 1963 honor graduate of Louisiana Tech. He received the master of science from Northwestern State College and for the past year has been working toward the Ph. D. at Tulane.

Delta Reports Net Income For August

ATLANTA, Ga., (Special) — Delta Air Lines was reported that August's unaudited figures showed net income of $6,347,000, or $1.00 per share. This compares with $2,765,000 for August of last year when per share earnings were 43 cents after adjusting for the 2-for-1 stock split in December.

Robert Oppenlander, vice president — finance & treasurer, said that revenues for August were $39,342,000, up 59 per cent over the same month of last year. Operating expenses increased 40 percent to $27,045,000.

Available seat miles for August were 822 million, up 29 per cent, while revenue passenger miles were 651 million, an increase of 63 per cent. The passenger load factor, or percentage of seats sold, was 79 per cent.

"August's operations were influenced by the strike against five trunklines for the first 19 days of the month," Oppenlander said, "however, our forecasts for August, made prior to the strike, had anticipated a traffic increase of 35 per cent over August, 1965."

Figures were also released covering the first two months of the new fiscal year, July 1 - August 31. Net income, including a special item of $9,000, was $14,091,000, or $2.21 per share. This compared with $4,832,000, or 76 cents per share after adjusting for the December stock split.

Oppenlander said, "We estimate that the 43 - day strike against other carriers, which began on July 8, accounted for $1.11 of the $2.21 per share earnings for the fiscal year's first two months."

Operating revenues for the two months were $79,380,000, up 65 per cent over last year, and operating expenses were $51,905,000, an increase of 34 per cent. Available seat miles were 1.6 billion, up 29 per cent, and revenue passenger miles rose 71 per cent to 1.3 billion.

Now Under South Africa

Africans Ask U.N. To Take Territory

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Forty African and Asian countries were reported ready Saturday to submit a resolution aimed at having the United Nations take over South-West Africa from South Africa.

Diplomats that helped draw it up predicted that even more countries would agree to sponsor it before it was handed to the U.N. Secretariat on Monday for formal introduction in the General Assembly the following day.

Informed African observers expected the assembly eventually would adopt the resolution; that a period of sparring then might follow between South Africa and the United Nations, and that the final outcome would depend on whether the big Western powers would permit Security Council action for the enforcement of a U.N. takeover.

South Africa runs neighboring South-West Africa under a mandate from the now defunct League of Nations.

The league conferred the mandate Dec. 17, 1920, on King George V of Great Britain to be exercised on his behalf by South Africa, then in the British Commonwealth.

The International Court of Justice in the Hague ruled last July 18 that Ethiopia and Liberia had no legal right to bring a case in which they sought a judgment that South Africa had violated the mandate by introducing apartheid, or race segregation, in the territory.

African countries were furious at that ruling. African delegates here immediately began consultations that led to the drafting of the resolution in the Asian-African group, which includes 61 of the 118 U.N. members. They led off a debate on South-West Africa in the assembly Friday scheduled to go on till Oct. 7.

The resolution, among other things, would have the assembly:

Declare "that South Africa has failed to fulfill its obligations in respect of the administration of the mandated territory and to insure the material and moral well-being of the indigenous inhabitants."

Decide "to take over the mandate conferred upon His Britannic Majesty to be exercised on his behalf by the government of the Union of South Africa and to assume direct responsibility for the administration of the mandated territory."

Establish "a United Nations administering authority for South-West Africa" made up of U.N. member countries appointed by the assembly president, Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan, "to administer the territory on behalf of the United Nations, with a view to preparing it for independence."

Request the U.N. authority "to proceed immediately with its work in the territory and to recommend to the General Assembly as soon as possible, and in any case, not later than the 22nd session of the General Assembly, a date for the independence of the territory."

Request the Security Council "to take the necessary effective measures" to enable the authority to discharge its functions.

Urge all countries "to extend their wholehearted cooperation and to render assistance in the implementation of the present resolution."

The 22nd session of the assembly, the deadline for the authority's report, will run from mid-September till shortly before Christmas next year. Some obsevers speculated that if South Africa would refrain from rejecting the resolution outright, it might manage to stall off harsher action for a year or more.

A CHECK for $143.50 was presented to the Rev. Wayne Gentry of the Open Door Home Saturday by members of the Palace Hi-Fashion Board. The board sponsored a benefit back to school style in August to raise money for the home. From left are Linda Hendrix, Terri Seidenspinner of St. Fredrick High School, Rev. Gentry, Kay Curry of Neville High School, general chairman of the Fashion Board, and Linda Tullos of Wossman High School. (Staff photo by Ronnie Heflin)

Homecoming Nominations Made Here

Northeast Louisiana State College students will elect the 1966 Homecoming queen and court from a field of 67 girls here Friday, Sept. 30, to reign over Homecoming activities Oct. 8.

The queen and court will be chosen this year under new regulations announced by Herman R. Sigler, dean of Student Services. Six girls will be elected. The senior girl receiving the highest number of votes will serve as maid of honor.

The senior receiving the next highest number of votes will represent her class on the court and No. 2 girl in the junior voting will represent that class. The sophomore and freshmen girls with the highest number of votes will represent their classes on the court.

Each campus organization was permitted to nominate as many as four girls, one from each class, and more than one organization could nominate the same girl.

Former Northeast Homecoming queens were not eligible for nomination. Former maids and members of the court were eligible to be nominated.

The election will be held from 8:30 a.m. through 4 p.m. Friday in the Trophy Room of the College Union Building.

Girls nominated and their sponsors are:

Bechuanaland Knight

GABERONES, Bechuanaland (AP) — The accolade of knighthood and the insignia of knight commander of the most excellent Order of the British Empire were conferred Friday on Prime Minister Seretse Khama by the queen's commissioner, Sir Hugh Norman Walker. The ceremony carrying out the recent award from Queen Elizabeth II to Khama was witnessed by his British-born wife, Ruth, and their four children.

WARTIME ENGLAND

LONDON (AP) — German Playwright Rolf Hochhuth wants his latest play done in London first instead of in Germany "because of political objectivity."

Hochhuth previously stirred up an international fuss with "The Deputy" which concerned the role of Pope Pius XII in World War II. The new drama, "The Soldiers" concerns wartime events in England.

New Divisions Of Creative Challenge Being Explored

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Garson Kanin is at it again, exploring new zones of creative challenge.

"You have to stretch or fade away," Broadway's versatile veteran explains.

The surge of action includes: directing a suspense melodrama, although he's no murder mystery fan; publishing a book he didn't intend to write, and staging a big production for the Metropolitan Opera's fancy new home.

At 53 and "starting on a fourth decade in show business," Kanin sedulously avoids "the pattern of safety." Admittedly, there's some risk.

ARTISTIC DILEMMA

"The dilemma of any middle-aged artist is both to stay out of a rut and avoid wasting what's left. Anyone can grow old, but you have to be careful also to grow up.

"The worst thing that can happen when you try something is failure, and that's not as bad as a lot of other things.

"In youth, there's always a deep feeling somewhere inside that failure is like death. But you go along, then when failures come — and they're bound to happen — you find you survive and there's always something else to be done.

"Besides, I feel in the arts that people are mostly admired for what they attempt rather than what they achieve. Achievement is mostly accident, anyway."

Such mellow meditation brings the Kanin conversation around to "We Have Always Lived in the Castle," the play due Oct. 19 at the Barrymore Theater under his direction. It is Kanin's 22nd Broadway production as actor, writer or stager.

FROM BEST-SELLER

The present drama was derived by Hugh Wheeler from Shirley Jackson's best-selling thriller about lethal mayhem. It stars Shirley Knight and Sidney Blackmer.

"I'm not a suspense fan, and that's an important reason I'm doing it," declares Kanin. "I used to read Dashiell Hammett's stories when we were all feeding on his muscular style, but I still can't understand 'The Maltese Falcon.'"

Now, however, he's read all of the late Miss Jackson's Gothic whimsies and feels he has control of the over-all plot. He learned the importance of that knack 30 years ago when serving as general assistant to the dean of Broadway sages, George Abbott.

"I asked Abbott once what was the most important and difficult part of a director's job, and he replied 'to keep the whole story in your head and not be distracted by details.'"

The latter-day cult of showoff staging leaves Kanin cold.

"There are many directors who can embellish, animate and provide good curtains but lose sight of the playwright's intention."

Brazil Police, Dogs Search For Students

RECIFE, Brazil (AP) — Police using dogs searched a church here Friday night after students had assembled there for an antigovernment protest march. The march was broken up as soon as the students left the church.

At least five persons were hospitalized for treatment of injuries, including a priest hurt in a melee. Twenty-eight persons were arrested. They were released later, however.

Police said they had entered Santo Antonion Church at the request of the parish priest in an effort to flush out any students in hiding. Some damage to church property was reported.

Catholic University in Recife has been a center of student unrest in Brazil, and some of the Roman Catholic hierarchy have been at odds with military commanders in the region.

Now Under South Africa

Africans Ask U.N. To Take Territory

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Forty African and Asian countries were reported ready Saturday to submit a resolution aimed at having the United Nations take over South-West Africa from South Africa.

Diplomats that helped draw it up predicted that even more countries would agree to sponsor it before it was handed to the U.N. Secretariat on Monday for formal introduction in the General Assembly the following day.

Informed African observers expected the assembly eventually would adopt the resolution; that a period of sparring then might follow between South Africa and the United Nations, and that the final outcome would depend on whether the big Western powers would permit Security Council action for the enforcement of a U.N. takeover.

South Africa runs neighboring South-West Africa under a mandate from the now defunct League of Nations.

The league conferred the mandate Dec. 17, 1920, on King George V of Great Britain to be exercised on his behalf by South Africa, then in the British Commonwealth.

The International Court of Justice in the Hague ruled last July 18 that Ethiopia and Liberia had no legal right to bring a case in which they sought a judgment that South Africa had violated the mandate by introducing apartheid, or race segregation, in the territory.

African countries were furious at that ruling. African delegates here immediately began consultations that led to the drafting of the resolution in the Asian-African group, which includes 61 of the 118 U.N. members. They led off a debate on South-West Africa in the assembly Friday scheduled to go on till Oct. 7.

The resolution, among other things, would have the assembly:

Declare "that South Africa has failed to fulfill its obligations in respect of the administration of the mandated territory and to insure the material and moral well-being of the indigenous inhabitants."

Decide "to take over the mandate conferred upon His Britannic Majesty to be exercised on his behalf by the government of the Union of South Africa and to assume direct responsibility for the administration of the mandated territory."

Establish "a United Nations administering authority for South-West Africa" made up of U.N. member countries appointed by the assembly president, Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan, "to administer the territory on behalf of the United Nations, with a view to preparing it for independence."

Request the U.N. authority "to proceed immediately with its work in the territory and to recommend to the General Assembly as soon as possible, and in any case, not later than the 22nd session of the General Assembly, a date for the independence of the territory."

Request the Security Council "to take the necessary effective measures" to enable the authority to discharge its functions.

Urge all countries "to extend their wholehearted cooperation and to render assistance in the implementation of the present resolution."

The 22nd session of the assembly, the deadline for the authority's report, will run from mid-September till shortly before Christmas next year. Some obsevers speculated that if South Africa would refrain from rejecting the resolution outright, it might manage to stall off harsher action for a year or more.

Homecoming Nominations Made Here

Northeast Louisiana State College students will elect the 1966 Homecoming queen and court from a field of 67 girls here Friday, Sept. 30, to reign over Homecoming activities Oct. 8.

The queen and court will be chosen this year under new regulations announced by Herman R. Sigler, dean of Student Services. Six girls will be elected. The senior girl receiving the highest number of votes will serve as maid of honor.

The senior receiving the next highest number of votes will represent her class on the court and No. 2 girl in the junior voting will represent that class. The sophomore and freshmen girls with the highest number of votes will represent their classes on the court.

Each campus organization was permitted to nominate as many as four girls, one from each class, and more than one organization could nominate the same girl.

Former Northeast Homecoming queens were not eligible for nomination. Former maids and members of the court were eligible to be nominated.

The election will be held from 8:30 a.m. through 4 p.m. Friday in the Trophy Room of the College Union Building.

Girls nominated and their sponsors are:

Bechuanaland Knight

GABERONES, Bechuanaland (AP) — The accolade of knighthood and the insignia of knight commander of the most excellent Order of the British Empire were conferred Friday on Prime Minister Seretse Khama by the queen's commissioner, Sir Hugh Norman Walker. The ceremony carrying out the recent award from Queen Elizabeth II to Khama was witnessed by his British-born wife, Ruth, and their four children.

WARTIME ENGLAND

LONDON (AP) — German Playwright Rolf Hochhuth wants his latest play done in London first instead of in Germany "because of political objectivity."

Hochhuth previously stirred up an international fuss with "The Deputy" which concerned the role of Pope Pius XII in World War II. The new drama, "The Soldiers" concerns wartime events in England.

New Divisions Of Creative Challenge Being Explored

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Garson Kanin is at it again, exploring new zones of creative challenge.

"You have to stretch or fade away," Broadway's versatile veteran explains.

The surge of action includes: directing a suspense melodrama, although he's no murder mystery fan; publishing a book he didn't intend to write, and staging a big production for the Metropolitan Opera's fancy new home.

At 53 and "starting on a fourth decade in show business," Kanin sedulously avoids "the pattern of safety." Admittedly, there's some risk.

ARTISTIC DILEMMA

"The dilemma of any middle-aged artist is both to stay out of a rut and avoid wasting what's left. Anyone can grow old, but you have to be careful also to grow up.

"The worst thing that can happen when you try something is failure, and that's not as bad as a lot of other things.

"In youth, there's always a deep feeling somewhere inside that failure is like death. But you go along, then when failures come — and they're bound to happen — you find you survive and there's always something else to be done.

"Besides, I feel in the arts that people are mostly admired for what they attempt rather than what they achieve. Achievement is mostly accident, anyway."

Such mellow meditation brings the Kanin conversation around to "We Have Always Lived in the Castle," the play due Oct. 19 at the Barrymore Theater under his direction. It is Kanin's 22nd Broadway production as actor, writer or stager.

FROM BEST-SELLER

The present drama was derived by Hugh Wheeler from Shirley Jackson's best-selling thriller about lethal mayhem. It stars Shirley Knight and Sidney Blackmer.

"I'm not a suspense fan, and that's an important reason I'm doing it," declares Kanin. "I used to read Dashiell Hammett's stories when we were all feeding on his muscular style, but I still can't understand 'The Maltese Falcon.'"

Now, however, he's read all of the late Miss Jackson's Gothic whimsies and feels he has control of the over-all plot. He learned the importance of that knack 30 years ago when serving as general assistant to the dean of Broadway sages, George Abbott.

"I asked Abbott once what was the most important and difficult part of a director's job, and he replied 'to keep the whole story in your head and not be distracted by details.'"

The latter-day cult of showoff staging leaves Kanin cold.

"There are many directors who can embellish, animate and provide good curtains but lose sight of the playwright's intention."

NAMED HEAD of the art department of Louisiana Tech is Raymond D. Nichols, an associate professor at the college the last two years. He succeds Miss F. Elizabeth Bethea, retired. Nichols received the bachelor of arts degree from Richmond Professional Institute of the College of William and Mary and the master of arts degree from Columbia University.

Grant Given Tech School For Studies

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech's School of Engineering has been awarded a $23,800 grant for research within the department of mechanical engineering, it was announced by Dr. F. Jay Taylor, Tech president.

The grant, awarded by the National Science Foundation, will cover research on studies concerning "Two Phase (Solid-Liquid) Single Component Flow" for a period of one year. Graduate students will also participate as a partial fulfillment of the requirements for a M.S. degree.

Dr. Randall F. Barron has been designated as the principal research investigator, with Prof. Ellis M. Killgore and Dr. Jack Canterbury as co-principal investigators. All are members of the mechanical engineering department at Tech.

This research is a first step in studying the flow of materials such as liquid and solid hydrogen (so-called "slush hydrogen") which are to be used as fuels on future space vehicles. The results of the study will be of value to the engineers who design the piping systems to load the fuels on-board the vehicles.

Current outside sponsored engineering research projects at Louisiana Tech total $148,819.

Dr. Vogel Gets LSU Position

Dr. Fred J. Vogel of Monroe has been appointed director of the graduate program in guidance and counseling at Louisiana State University in New Orleans.

Dr. Milton L. Ferguson, dean of LSUNO's college of education, made the announcement regarding the program, which was inaugurated this month.

The dean said the demand for graduate work in guidance and counseling has become apparent through requests of school personnel in the state, including class room teachers, administrators and members of the State Department of Education.

"The need will become more apparent as guidance and counseling services are expanded in elementary and secondary schools of the state," he added.

Prior to accepting the new post, Dr. Vogel was dean of Student Services for six years at Northeast Louisiana State College. He holds the bachelor's and master's degrees from Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, and the doctorate in philosophy from Florida State University.

His professional experiences in Louisiana public schools include those of teacher, coach and principal. He later went to Florida State University as director of student activities and then to Daytona Beach Junior College as dean of students.

As an administrator at Northeast State, Dr. Vogel planned student services, worked in connection with dormitories and other buildings and developed the student personnel program.

He was active in civic and religious organizations in the city and professional associations of the state. Dr. Vogel held membership in the Rotary Club, on the executive board of Monroe Area Mental Health Association, as chairman of the college committee, Louisiana Teachers Association at Northeast, as chairman of the college committee, Louisiana Teachers Association, and immediate past president of the Louisiana Teachers Association at Northeast. He also was a deacon of the College Place Baptist Church and committee of the Baptist Student Union. His professional fraternities include Phi Delta Kappa, Kappa Phi Kappa, Delta Pi and others.

Dr. Vogel's wife and two sons will continue to reside in Monroe during the current school year while she will continue her work as speech therapist of the Ouachita Parish School schools and their sons, Fred Jr. and Eric as seniors at Northeast State and Neville High School, respectively.

DR. FRED J. VOGEL

DONIPHAN, Mo., (AP) — Newborn twin baby girls were left on the front porch of a minister's home Friday night.

The children are reported in "perfect condition" Saturday at the Ripley County Hospital.

"I walked out on the front porch and thought I heard a cat," said the Rev. Leslie Elam, 33, pastor of the First Baptist church. "Then I saw a cardboard box on the porch swing. I opened it and there were the children — black-haired and blue-eyed."

He said one was asleep but the other was awake. They were wrapped in a red flowered tablecloth. A doctor at the hospital said they had been born about one hour before they were discovered.

Elam said the babies had not been identified. He said attempts would be made to place them in a foster home, but if that failed he would attempt to have them taken care of at the Missouri Baptist Children's Home in Bridgeton, Mo., a St. Louis suburb.

"I would take them myself but I already have young children," the minister said. He and his wife, Margaret, 27, are the parents of two — Janice, 6 and Michael, 5 months.

Reds To Boost Consumer Goods

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced Saturday it would increase next year's output of consumer goods, "including consumer goods turned out by heavy and defense industries."

The decision, announced by the official Soviet news agency Tass, did not explain what consumer goods were produced by the defense industry.

Ironworkers Applications Said Open

The Northeast Louisiana Ironworkers Joint Apprenticeship Committee has announced it is opening its rolls immediately to take applications from prospective ironworker apprentices.

Kenneth Henry, Ruston, committee chairman, said applicants must be high school graduates between the ages of 18 and 30.

The term of apprenticeship is three years. Following completion of apprenticeship training the apprentice is advanced to journeyman status.

In addition to receiving on - the - job - training, apprentices are required to attend school two nights a week.

Henry said the starting salary for new apprenitces is $2.97½ per hour.

The Joint Apprenticeship Committee is composed of equal representation from Ironworkers Local Union No. 720 and Northeast Louisiana Contractors' Association.

Applicants may apply for the apprenticeship program at the Contractors' Association office, 807 Hudson Lane, Monroe.

Turkish Floods Claim 7 Lives

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Seven persons died Saturday in floods which hit large sections of the Iskenderun region in southern Turkey, reports reaching Istanbul said.

The floods, following torrential rains, disrupted road and train traffic in the region and heavily damaged citrus crops, the reports said.

Away From Home

Richard Enwright

The City That Changed The World

You can stand near the seawall near the Grosse Point Yacht Club and look across Lake St. Clair. In the late afternoons of autumn, the water, driven by the first cold winds, rolls against the wall. A ship, low on the water, glides softly toward the Detroit River. Over the wind you can hear the throb of its great diesel engines and see cheerful lights on its bridge.

There was a time when the straits between Lakes St. Clair and Erie was a passage for Ojibway canoes. Where the magnificent new civic center now stands, Chief Pontiac had beached his war canoes in a fierce attack on British-held Fort Detroit. Even earlier, French trappers had roamed the woods and were as much a part of the lakes, streams, and rivers as the Indians. After the wars which decided the continent's future, the Americans came, led by "Mad" Anthony Wayne, the fort's first U.S. commander.

During the years, the city grew, and because of its location in the straits, became a vital valve in the heart of Mid-America.

In the early 1900's, three Detroit businessmen - inventors believed that automobiles could be successfully built and sold. Ransom E. Olds, Walter Chrysler, and Henry Ford were destined to change the face of Detroit and put the world on wheels. Ford believed the automobile would drastically alter even the social structure of many nations.

Detroit is the motor city — a wonder city. From six thousand factories pours a stream of automobiles and other goods which would do justice to most fair sized nations. Its skyline is a portrait of power. Once, someone said, "If the Japanese leaders had ever stood on the docks at Windsor and looked across the Detroit River, there would never have been a Pearl Harbor."

Could Chief Pontiac come now to the Windsor docks to where the Japanese possibly should have stood, he would find forests of shining steel, glass, and stone. The Veterans Memorial Building stands on the site of the fort he once attacked. Because of the St. Lawrence Seaway, Detroit now is an international port of much importance, and there is a continuing parade of ships cruising up and down the river. On their flagstaffs fly flags of many nations.

Down at River Rouge, the Ford Works pours forth a never-ending line of new autos. The General Motors Building sprawls across several fantastic acres and you can get lost in its many corridors and walkways. The Plymouth plant, practically in the middle of the business district, sends a steady stream of cars from its assembly lines.

At the foot of Woodward Avenue, surrounded by flowers and gardens, is the Edsel and Henry Ford Auditorium, home of the famed Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Downtown, between the lofty buildings and busy streets, are garden - filled parks and tree - lined intersections. Jefferson Avenue rolls along a riverfront bordered by spacious hotels, more parks, and splendid office buildings. From the top floor of the beautiful United Automobile Workers Building, you can see Belle Isle, Detroit's island-in-the-river park. Beneath the city and the river are more than two hundred miles of corridors in one of the world's largest salt mines!

Across the Edsel Ford Expressway is Hamtramck, the city within Detroit. Hamtramck is home for the largest Polish settlement this side of Warsaw. In its homes, restaurants, and taverns are the congenialty and friendliness of the old country.

On the dark waters of the lake, beacon lights twinkle on. Another ship passes in the gathering darkness, its decks loaded with shiny new automobiles.

Henry Ford said, "Automobiles will change the world." Detroit, the city which builds the cars, is the city that changed the world.

NAMED HEAD of the art department of Louisiana Tech is Raymond D. Nichols, an associate professor at the college the last two years. He succeds Miss F. Elizabeth Bethea, retired. Nichols received the bachelor of arts degree from Richmond Professional Institute of the College of William and Mary and the master of arts degree from Columbia University.

Grant Given Tech School For Studies

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech's School of Engineering has been awarded a $23,800 grant for research within the department of mechanical engineering, it was announced by Dr. F. Jay Taylor, Tech president.

The grant, awarded by the National Science Foundation, will cover research on studies concerning "Two Phase (Solid-Liquid) Single Component Flow" for a period of one year. Graduate students will also participate as a partial fulfillment of the requirements for a M.S. degree.

Dr. Randall F. Barron has been designated as the principal research investigator, with Prof. Ellis M. Killgore and Dr. Jack Canterbury as co-principal investigators. All are members of the mechanical engineering department at Tech.

This research is a first step in studying the flow of materials such as liquid and solid hydrogen (so-called "slush hydrogen") which are to be used as fuels on future space vehicles. The results of the study will be of value to the engineers who design the piping systems to load the fuels on-board the vehicles.

Current outside sponsored engineering research projects at Louisiana Tech total $148,819.

Dr. Vogel Gets LSU Position

Dr. Fred J. Vogel of Monroe has been appointed director of the graduate program in guidance and counseling at Louisiana State University in New Orleans.

Dr. Milton L. Ferguson, dean of LSUNO's college of education, made the announcement regarding the program, which was inaugurated this month.

The dean said the demand for graduate work in guidance and counseling has become apparent through requests of school personnel in the state, including class room teachers, administrators and members of the State Department of Education.

"The need will become more apparent as guidance and counseling services are expanded in elementary and secondary schools of the state," he added.

Prior to accpeting the new post, Dr. Vogel was dean of Student Services for six years at Northeast Louisiana State College. He holds the bachelor's and master's degrees from Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, and the doctorate in philosophy from Florida State University.

His professional experiences in Louisiana public schools include those of teacher, coach and principal. He later went to Florida State University as director of student activities and then to Daytona Beach Junior College as dean of students.

As an administrator at Northeast State, Dr. Vogel planned student services, worked in connection with dormitories and other buildings and developed the student personnel program.

He was active in civic and religious organizations in the city and professional associations of the state. Dr. Vogel held membership in the Rotary Club, on the executive board of Monroe Area Mental Health Association, as chairman of the college committee, Louisiana Teachers Association at Northeast, as chairman of the college committee, Louisiana Teachers Association, and immediate past president of the Louisiana Teachers Association at Northeast. He also was a deacon of the College Place Baptist Church and committee of the Baptist Student Union. His professional fraternities include Phi Delta Kappa, Kappa Phi Kappa, Delta Pi and others.

Dr. Vogel's wife and two sons will continue to reside in Monroe during the current school year while she will continue her work as speech therapist of the Ouachita Parish School schools and their sons, Fred Jr. and Eric as seniors at Northeast State and Neville High School, respectively.

The children are reported in "perfect condition" Saturday at the Ripley County Hospital.

"I walked out on the front porch and thought I heard a cat," said the Rev. Leslie Elam, 33, pastor of the First Baptist church. "Then I saw a cardboard box on the porch swing. I opened it and there were the children — black-haired and blue-eyed."

He said one was asleep but the other was awake. They were wrapped in a red flowered tablecloth. A doctor at the hospital said they had been born about one hour before they were discovered.

Elam said the babies had not been identified. He said attempts would be made to place them in a foster home, but if that failed he would attempt to have them taken care of at the Missouri Baptist Children's Home in Bridgeton, Mo., a St. Louis suburb.

"I would take them myself but I already have young children," the minister said. He and his wife, Margaret, 27, are the parents of two — Janice, 6 and Michael, 5 months.

Reds To Boost Consumer Goods

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced Saturday it would increase next year's output of consumer goods, "including consumer goods turned out by heavy and defense industries."

The decision, announced by the official Soviet news agency Tass, did not explain what consumer goods were produced by the defense industry.

Ironworkers Applications Said Open

The Northeast Louisiana Ironworkers Joint Apprenticeship Committee has announced it is opening its rolls immediately to take applications from prospective ironworker apprentices.

Kenneth Henry, Ruston, committee chairman, said applicants must be high school graduates between the ages of 18 and 30.

The term of apprenticeship is three years. Following completion of apprenticeship training the apprentice is advanced to journeyman status.

In addition to receiving on - the - job - training, apprentices are required to attend school two nights a week.

Henry said the starting salary for new apprenitces is $2.97½ per hour.

The Joint Apprenticeship Committee is composed of equal representation from Ironworkers Local Union No. 720 and Northeast Louisiana Contractors' Association.

Applicants may apply for the apprenticeship program at the Contractors' Association office, 807 Hudson Lane, Monroe.

Turkish Floods Claim 7 Lives

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Seven persons died Saturday in floods which hit large sections of the Iskenderun region in southern Turkey, reports reaching Istanbul said.

The floods, following torrential rains, disrupted road and train traffic in the region and heavily damaged citrus crops, the reports said.

The City That Changed The World

You can stand near the seawall near the Grosse Point Yacht Club and look across Lake St. Clair. In the late afternoons of autumn, the water, driven by the first cold winds, rolls against the wall. A ship, low on the water, glides softly toward the Detroit River. Over the wind you can hear the throb of its great diesel engines and see cheerful lights on its bridge.

There was a time when the straits between Lakes St. Clair and Erie was a passage for Ojibway canoes. Where the magnificent new civic center now stands, Chief Pontiac had beached his war canoes in a fierce attack on British-held Fort Detroit. Even earlier, French trappers had roamed the woods and were as much a part of the lakes, streams, and rivers as the Indians. After the wars which decided the continent's future, the Americans came, led by "Mad" Anthony Wayne, the fort's first U.S. commander.

During the years, the city grew, and because of its location in the straits, became a vital valve in the heart of Mid-America.

In the early 1900's, three Detroit businessmen - inventors believed that automobiles could be successfully built and sold. Ransom E. Olds, Walter Chrysler, and Henry Ford were destined to change the face of Detroit and put the world on wheels. Ford believed the automobile would drastically alter even the social structure of many nations.

Detroit is the motor city — a wonder city. From six thousand factories pours a stream of automobiles and other goods which would do justice to most fair sized nations. Its skyline is a portrait of power. Once, someone said, "If the Japanese leaders had ever stood on the docks at Windsor and looked across the Detroit River, there would never have been a Pearl Harbor."

Could Chief Pontiac come now to the Windsor docks to where the Japanese possibly should have stood, he would find forests of shining steel, glass, and stone. The Veterans Memorial Building stands on the site of the fort he once attacked. Because of the St. Lawrence Seaway, Detroit now is an international port of much importance, and there is a continuing parade of ships cruising up and down the river. On their flagstaffs fly flags of many nations.

Down at River Rouge, the Ford Works pours forth a never-ending line of new autos. The General Motors Building sprawls across several fantastic acres and you can get lost in its many corridors and walkways. The Plymouth plant, practically in the middle of the business district, sends a steady stream of cars from its assembly lines.

At the foot of Woodward Avenue, surrounded by flowers and gardens, is the Edsel and Henry Ford Auditorium, home of the famed Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Downtown, between the lofty buildings and busy streets, are garden - filled parks and tree - lined intersections. Jefferson Avenue rolls along a riverfront bordered by spacious hotels, more parks, and splendid office buildings. From the top floor of the beautiful United Automobile Workers Building, you can see Belle Isle, Detroit's island-in-the-river park. Beneath the city and the river are more than two hundred miles of corridors in one of the world's largest salt mines!

Across the Edsel Ford Expressway is Hamtramck, the city within Detroit. Hamtramck is home for the largest Polish settlement this side of Warsaw. In its homes, restaurants, and taverns are the congenialty and friendliness of the old country.

On the dark waters of the lake, beacon lights twinkle on. Another ship passes in the gathering darkness, its decks loaded with shiny new automobiles.

Henry Ford said, "Automobiles will change the world." Detroit, the city which builds the cars, is the city that changed the world.

Book Discussion

Mrs. Margurite McBroom of Monroe will discuss the book, "Great is the Company," 9 a.m. Tuesday at a meeting of the Woman's Missionary Union at Calhoun First Baptist Church. Lunch will be served at noon. A nursery will be open during the meeting.

Reunion Slated

HARRISONBURG (Special) — The annual Wyles family reunion will be held on Sunday, October 9 at Fort Hill in Harrisonburg.

British Diplomat Will Speak Here

Stafford E. D. Barff, Order of the British Empire, and British counsul-general at New Orleans, will address members of the Monroe Rotary Club at noon Thursday at the Frances Hotel.

The program is under sponsorship of the International Committee of the Rotary Club.

Stfford was educated at Highfield School in Hampshire, England, and Brentwood College, British Columbia, Canada. In the years preceding World War II, he was with the London office of Philips, the British branch of the Dutch Company, described as the largest electronic research and manufacturing concern in Europe.

In 1945, after the war during which he was in London with the Ministry of Information, Barff accepted a temporary appointment with the British Information Service in Chicago. The "temporary" appointment lasted nine years, seven of which Barff was director of British Information Services in the Midwest, with offices at the British consulate - general in Chicago.

In 1956, Barff was transferred to Southeast Asia and appointed to the British High Commission (embassy) in New Delhi as Regional Information Officer for Delhi and the northern states of India.

He returned again to the United States in 1958 as First Secretary in the British Embassy at Washington, and in the following year was appointed to the senior branch of the British Foreign Service. At the end of 1960, he was transferred to New York and became Director of the Press Division of the British Information Services.

In January, 1962, he was attached to the British delegation to the United Nations. At the end of that session he returned to England on leave followed by an intensive Foreign Office course in London. Barff then served at the British Embassy in Brussels for three months on temporary appointment before assuming charge of the British Consulate in St. Louis, Mo., in November, 1962. In 1954, he was made an officer of the Order of the British Empire and in December 1964 was named to his present post.

Ouachita Mosaic

Historical Museum Place Of Edification

By Travis Mayo

Older generations have always lamented the passing of the "good old days" and have sought to preserve as much of their earlier environment as changing times would permit. Granted that historical museums owe their existence to man's desire for familiar surroundings, it would nonetheless be a mistake to assume that no other purpose is ever served by these museums.

The Ouachita Parish Historical Museum at 707 St. John Street does not exist simply for oldsters — as a place of refuge when drastic sociological innovations give them the jitters. It exists as a quiet place of edification and instruction for parishioners of every generation. The simple maxim it teaches is that change and progress are not always synonymous.

Mrs. Aline G. Banister, museum manager and second vice president of the Ouachita Valley Historical Society, takes pains to point out to museum guests that everything in the "good old days" was not milk and honey.

On exhibit side - by - side are tokens of a more peaceful time as well as mementos of four tragic wars.

The mother who sat in the museum's old rocking chair peacefully smoking an elegant stone pipe while humming "In the Gloaming" was the same mother who spent other moments studying the faces in the Soldier's Memorial hanging on the wall.

Rooms In Order

Mrs. Banister has arranged exhibits in their proper order within the residence-museum. In the dining room, for instance, is a 200-year-old china plate donated by a local department store; in the study, a 60-year-old dictionary dedicated by a local judge; in the bedroom are old - fashioned silk dresses with hooks and eyes, and in the kitchen are fast - disappearing Mason fruit jars, an old dinner bell, an old water pump, milk churn and coffee mill.

Specimens range from a Civil War era spinning wheel to rust chips from the battleship Maine; from a sock-knitting machine to a palmetto fan.

Periods in Louisiana and local history are represented by a 1904 Q uncirculated silver dollar made in Louisiana; a Biedenharn heritage book showing the first man to bottle a soft drink; hand - carved rolling pins dating from 1750 and donated by a Monroyan, and a Civil War cannon ball.

Nostalgic memories envelop an old oaken bucket and drinking gourd, an ancient iron sewing machine, a carbon and sandpaper drawing, a rosewood sewing box, a kerosene lamp, a vinegar demijohn, a pewter tea pot and a sausage grinder.

Old timers viewing the exhibits will be able to recall personal stories concerning an old hair curler — the type held above the lamp chimney until heated — or a fluting iron, or a collection of German souvenirs from World War I and World War II.

Relics of an earlier age include Civil War guns, powder horns and muzzle-loading shotguns, a candle snuffer, a patriotic poster, Edison records ("When You and I Were Young Maggie"), and the Blueback Speller of 1880.

One-of-a-kind mementos include a crumbling brick from the ancient Carroll Parish courthouse where Jesse James was imprisoned; a hand-made saddle modeled after Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riding special; a lady's side-saddle with carpeting, and a picture of the Monroe Fire Department of 1894.

Historically revealing items include Acts of Sale for slaves at an auction held on Feb. 23, 1859, when a 19-year-old girl was sold for $1,300; and a gold-specked rock donated to Mrs. Banister by old-time movie star Alaska Nelly.

Old Newspapers

One collection could absorb hours. This is the collection of old magazines and newspapers and bound volumes of history. Included are an 1859 Harper's Weekly, a 1903 edition of the Kansas City World printed on silk and sold for a penny, a Monroe News-Star of April 12, 1945 (the day Franklin D. Roosevelt died) and an 1876 ledger from a Monroe grocery store.

Mrs. Banister has refused a small fortune offered her for a collection of 1935 newspapers full of stories on Huey P. Long. She prefers to have them available for everyone at the museum.

The Ouachita Parish Historical Museum is crowded with memories, some good, some disturbing even today. From a child's scrapbook we learn that the world was a wonderful place back then, but upon viewing a tattered war flag we are again reminded that "the good old days" have taught us many a sober lesson about life.

Museum Studies

Lessons of a more formal nature are being taught at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, according to a former Monroyan who returned last week for a visit.

Pianist Marie King Nelsen, who is presently studying music at Juilliard, was in Monroe last week to visit her aunt, and other relatives in Monroe and Winnsboro. Her aunt is Mrs. Anthony Wilbert of 2011 Stuart Avenue, and her uncle is Dr. Ralph E. King of Winnsboro.

Miss Nelsen reported that her mother, Mrs. Haakon Nelsen, now residing in New York City, is enrolled in the only course of its kind in the world — a course in European decorative objects and furniture, conducted at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The course is under joint auspices of Columbia University and the museum and offers first-hand examination and study of priceless antique furniture that dates from the ancient Egyptian era through the Roman and Gothic periods, the Italian, French and English Renaissance, the French periods of Louis XIV, XV and XVI, directoire and Empire styles, not to mention the English Carolean, early Georgian, Chippendale, Hepplewhite, Sheraton and Regency styles.

The gallery instruction tours are unique in that participants at close hand can study art objects and furniture of all recorded ages. Students bring individual magnifying glasses and study signatures on rare antique French chairs and art treasures, Miss Nelsen said.

Classes are conducted after the Metropolitan Museum closes at 5 p.m. so that tours of particular galleries can be held without interruption.

Mrs. Nelsen has participated in two semesters of the course in museumology and plans to enter the course in antique American furniture.

In the second - semester conference, students handled German, French and English antique porcelain and silver objects. Close study was given to identification of examples of porcelain including Seures, Chelsea, Bow, Wedgwood and Royal Worcester.

Among the requirements of the examinations was identification of articles of furniture and art works, giving style, nationality, date and artist.

Norris Scheduled To Speak Today

James Pascal Norris of Monroe will be guest speaker for the fall conference of the Fifth District American Legion today at 1:30 p.m. in the chapel of the Salvation Army Building at Harrison and Hart Streets, Richard W. Sherman, Fifth District commander announced.

Expected to attend the conference are State Commander Arthur Viallon, State Vice Commander Theron DeLoach and State Adjutant Wilson Hebert.

All Legionaires and auxiliary are urged to attend, Sherman stated.

Airport At Haynesville Progressing

HOMER (Special) — Progress towards Haynesville's new airport is reported by councilman E. C. Sincox. He stated that the State Department of Public Works employes had completed the survey of the airport tract, and that it is expected specifications for the taking of bids on contruction will be ready in about six weeks.

Too, according to Sincox, right of way has been received from the Marathon Oil Co., for the parish road for access to the new airport. The new road will run along the south and east boundaries of the tract to join the old road on the east side.

Sincox said that he understood the parish highway crews will start work soon on the new road construction. The councilman also reported that letters of committal to move utility and pipe lines as needed have been received from the companies involved, and that phase of work will be completed soon.

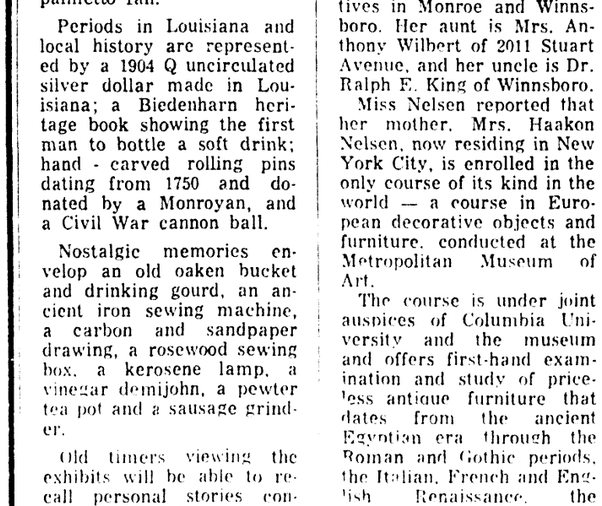
Try your child's talent and ambition on a rented Wurlitzer piano!



we have helped thousands of people this way

Our piano rental plan has been a blessing to thousands of Ark-La-Miss families. You rent—and it costs very little. This way you can pick the kind of instrument you want your child to play on. If you decide to return the piano, you may, and all payments stop. Or, if you decide to keep it (most people do) all rentals apply on the purchase price.

You can't tell the difference between an ordinary piano and a really good piano by just looking at the outside. It's what's inside that matters most. British Diplomat Will Speak Here

Stafford E. D. Barff, Order of the British Empire, and British counsul-general at New Orleans, will address members of the Monroe Rotary Club at noon Thursday at the Frances Hotel.

The program is under sponsorship of the International Committee of the Rotary Club.

Stfford was educated at Highfield School in Hampshire, England, and Brentwood College, British Columbia, Canada. In the years preceding World War II, he was with the London office of Philips, the British branch of the Dutch Company, described as the largest electronic research and manufacturing concern in Europe.

In 1945, after the war during which he was in London with the Ministry of Information, Barff accepted a temporary appointment with the British Information Service in Chicago. The "temporary" appointment lasted nine years, seven of which Barff was director of British Information Services in the Midwest, with offices at the British consulate - general in Chicago.

In 1956, Barff was transferred to Southeast Asia and appointed to the British High Commission (embassy) in New Delhi as Regional Information Officer for Delhi and the northern states of India.

He returned again to the United States in 1958 as First Secretary in the British Embassy at Washington, and in the following year was appointed to the senior branch of the British Foreign Service. At the end of 1960, he was transferred to New York and became Director of the Press Division of the British Information Services.

In January, 1962, he was attached to the British delegation to the United Nations. At the end of that session he returned to England on leave followed by an intensive Foreign Office course in London. Barff then served at the British Embassy in Brussels for three months on temporary appointment before assuming charge of the British Consulate in St. Louis, Mo., in November, 1962. In 1954, he was made an officer of the Order of the British Empire and in December 1964 was named to his present post.

Ouachita Mosaic

Historical Museum Place Of Edification

By Travis Mayo

Older generations have always lamented the passing of the "good old days" and have sought to preserve as much of their earlier environment as changing times would permit. Granted that historical museums owe their existence to man's desire for familiar surroundings, it would nonetheless be a mistake to assume that no other purpose is ever served by these museums.

The Ouachita Parish Historical Museum at 707 St. John Street does not exist simply for oldsters — as a place of refuge when drastic sociological innovations give them the jitters. It exists as a quiet place of edification and instruction for parishioners of every generation. The simple maxim it teaches is that change and progress are not always synonymous.

Mrs. Aline G. Banister, museum manager and second vice president of the Ouachita Valley Historical Society, takes pains to point out to museum guests that everything in the "good old days" was not milk and honey.

On exhibit side - by - side are tokens of a more peaceful time as well as mementos of four tragic wars.

The mother who sat in the museum's old rocking chair peacefully smoking an elegant stone pipe while humming "In the Gloaming" was the same mother who spent other moments studying the faces in the Soldier's Memorial hanging on the wall.

Rooms In Order

Mrs. Banister has arranged exhibits in their proper order within the residence-museum. In the dining room, for instance, is a 200-year-old china plate donated by a local department store; in the study, a 60-year-old dictionary dedicated by a local judge; in the bedroom are old - fashioned silk dresses with hooks and eyes, and in the kitchen are fast - disappearing Mason fruit jars, an old dinner bell, an old water pump, milk churn and coffee mill.

Specimens range from a Civil War era spinning wheel to rust chips from the battleship Maine; from a sock-knitting machine to a palmetto fan.

Periods in Louisiana and local history are represented by a 1904 Q uncirculated silver dollar made in Louisiana; a Biedenharn heritage book showing the first man to bottle a soft drink; hand - carved rolling pins dating from 1750 and donated by a Monroyan, and a Civil War cannon ball.

Nostalgic memories envelop an old oaken bucket and drinking gourd, an ancient iron sewing machine, a carbon and sandpaper drawing, a rosewood sewing box, a kerosene lamp, a vinegar demijohn, a pewter tea pot and a sausage grinder.

Old timers viewing the exhibits will be able to recall personal stories concerning an old hair curler — the type held above the lamp chimney until heated — or a fluting iron, or a collection of German souvenirs from World War I and World War II.

Relics of an earlier age include Civil War guns, powder horns and muzzle-loading shotguns, a candle snuffer, a patriotic poster, Edison records ("When You and I Were Young Maggie"), and the Blueback Speller of 1880.

One-of-a-kind mementos include a crumbling brick from the ancient Carroll Parish courthouse where Jesse James was imprisoned; a hand-made saddle modeled after Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riding special; a lady's side-saddle with carpeting, and a picture of the Monroe Fire Department of 1894.

Historically revealing items include Acts of Sale for slaves at an auction held on Feb. 23, 1859, when a 19-year-old girl was sold for $1,300; and a gold-specked rock donated to Mrs. Banister by old-time movie star Alaska Nelly.

Old Newspapers

One collection could absorb hours. This is the collection of old magazines and newspapers and bound volumes of history. Included are an 1859 Harper's Weekly, a 1903 edition of the Kansas City World printed on silk and sold for a penny, a Monroe News-Star of April 12, 1945 (the day Franklin D. Roosevelt died) and an 1876 ledger from a Monroe grocery store.

Mrs. Banister has refused a small fortune offered her for a collection of 1935 newspapers full of stories on Huey P. Long. She prefers to have them available for everyone at the museum.

The Ouachita Parish Historical Museum is crowded with memories, some good, some disturbing even today. From a child's scrapbook we learn that the world was a wonderful place back then, but upon viewing a tattered war flag we are again reminded that "the good old days" have taught us many a sober lesson about life.

Museum Studies

Lessons of a more formal nature are being taught at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, according to a former Monroyan who returned last week for a visit.

Pianist Marie King Nelsen, who is presently studying music at Juilliard, was in Monroe last week to visit her aunt, and other relatives in Monroe and Winnsboro. Her aunt is Mrs. Anthony Wilbert of 2011 Stuart Avenue, and her uncle is Dr. Ralph E. King of Winnsboro.

Miss Nelsen reported that her mother, Mrs. Haakon Nelsen, now residing in New York City, is enrolled in the only course of its kind in the world — a course in European decorative objects and furniture, conducted at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The course is under joint auspices of Columbia University and the museum and offers first-hand examination and study of priceless antique furniture that dates from the ancient Egyptian era through the Roman and Gothic periods, the Italian, French and English Renaissance, the French periods of Louis XIV, XV and XVI, directoire and Empire styles, not to mention the English Carolean, early Georgian, Chippendale, Hepplewhite, Sheraton and Regency styles.

The gallery instruction tours are unique in that participants at close hand can study art objects and furniture of all recorded ages. Students bring individual magnifying glasses and study signatures on rare antique French chairs and art treasures, Miss Nelsen said.

Classes are conducted after the Metropolitan Museum closes at 5 p.m. so that tours of particular galleries can be held without interruption.

Mrs. Nelsen has participated in two semesters of the course in museumology and plans to enter the course in antique American furniture.

In the second - semester conference, students handled German, French and English antique porcelain and silver objects. Close study was given to identification of examples of porcelain including Seures, Chelsea, Bow, Wedgwood and Royal Worcester.

Among the requirements of the examinations was identification of articles of furniture and art works, giving style, nationality, date and artist.

Rites Today For Engineer Of Railroad

Funeral services for Robert Winfred Dixon, 46, of 1212 Georgia St., Monroe, will be at 2 p.m. today in the chapel of Hixson Brothers Funeral Home with the Rev. Leon Ivey officiating.

Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery here.

Mr. Dixon was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Francis Hospital Friday night after suffering an apparent heart attack.

He was an engineer on the Missouri Pacific Railroad, a veteran of World War II and a member of Temple Baptist Church.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Dixon of Monroe; his mother, Mrs. Vada Dixon of Monroe; and a sister, Mrs. Theo Guzik of Prescott, Ariz.

Pallbearers will be E. C. Stewart, E. O. Whitney, E. A. Bonnette Jr., Malcolm Graves, Llyonel Pitts and Leon Fife.

Norris Scheduled To Speak Today

James Pascal Norris of Monroe will be guest speaker for the fall conference of the Fifth District American Legion today at 1:30 p.m. in the chapel of the Salvation Army Building at Harrison and Hart Streets, Richard W. Sherman, Fifth District commander announced.

Expected to attend the conference are State Commander Arthur Viallon, State Vice Commander Theron DeLoach and State Adjutant Wilson Hebert.

All Legionaires and auxiliary are urged to attend, Sherman stated.

Airport At Haynesville Progressing

HOMER (Special) — Progress towards Haynesville's new airport is reported by councilman E. C. Sincox. He stated that the State Department of Public Works employes had completed the survey of the airport tract, and that it is expected specifications for the taking of bids on contruction will be ready in about six weeks.

Too, according to Sincox, right of way has been received from the Marathon Oil Co., for the parish road for access to the new airport. The new road will run along the south and east boundaries of the tract to join the old road on the east side.

Sincox said that he understood the parish highway crews will start work soon on the new road construction. The councilman also reported that letters of committal to move utility and pipe lines as needed have been received from the companies involved, and that phase of work will be completed soon.

Hemorrhage Kills Envoy At Budapest

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Elim O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires in Budapest, died Saturday of a cerebral hemorrhage, a spokesman for the legation announced.

O'Shaughnessy, 59, is survived by his wife and three children. He will be buried in his home town of Portsmouth, N.H., but a decision when the body would be taken there had not been made.

Edward Alexander of the legation staff will be acting charge d'affaires. The United States has been represented by a charge d'affaires in Budapest — rather than an ambassador — since the smashing of the 1956 Hungarian revolution. O'Shaughnessy became charge d'affaires in October 1964.

He had been in the Foreign Service since 1937, serving mostly in European posts or in the State Department in Washington. His assignments included Warsaw, Paris, Moscow, Bonn, Belgrade and London.

Richard W. Tims, counselor and No. 2 official in the Budapest legation, had been on home leave but was to leave Washington Saturday night for Budapest to take charge of legation affairs.

'Fantasticks' Presentation Set At Tech

RUSTON (Special) — El Gallo the Bandit will steal the heart of another young maiden when the Louisiana Tech Department of Music presents "The Fantasticks" Thursday and Friday in Howard Auditorium on the Tech campus.

The bandit dressed in black, who is the romantic lead in the Tom Jones - Harvey Schmidt musical comedy, has been abducting maidens for more than 3,000 performances in the off-Broadway run of the musical in New York City. The play has surpassed all records for consecutive performances of a New York musical and has been presented in more than 400 performances in cities through the nation.

In the Tech production staged by James G. Smith, the bandit will be portrayed by Larry Frazier of Alexandria. Mary Osborn of New Orleans and David Wylie of Ruston will portray the young lovers. John Brownlee of Shreveport and Terry Lindeman of Bossier City will appear as the fathers who hire El Gallo to bring about a marriage between their children by staging an elaborate abduction scene in order to make the boy appear to be a hero.

George Sand Lawn will be the musical director for the first play of the season. Reserved seats may be purchased at the Louisiana Tech Music Department office. Tech students may receive tickets by presenting identification cards to the secretary of the music department. Curtain time will be 8 p.m.

Style Shop To Observe Anniversary

The Style Shop, corner of DeSiard and Walnut, in downtown Monroe, this week will launch a month-long observance of its 30th anniversary, it was announced by Meyer Glazer, owner.

Starting Monday and extending through the month of October, the Style Shop will mark the anniversary by cutting prices up to 50 per cent or more on various items of women's apparel.

Glazer, in recalling the start of the store, said, "I came to Monroe on Sept. 20, 1936 from New Orleans and opened the Style Shop downtown at another smaller location."

He said the move to the present location at the corner of DeSiard and Walnut was made after buying the building there 18 years ago.

"We handle strictly ladies lines," he said, "including shoes, millinery, dresses, coats, lingerie . . . everything for the lady."

His wfe has been connected with the store for the past five years in buying and management.

The Glazers reside at 1315 Milton, and have a son, Mark, who is a student at Tulane University, New Orleans.

Secret Meetings

MOSCOW (AP) — The British government's top scientific adviser, Sir Solly Zuckerman, has been meeting here secretly with Soviet scientists for talks believed to be centered on ways to detect underground nuclear tests, informed sources reported. Britain is trying to allay Soviet fears that detection devices might be used for spying.

LBJ Shoved Into Bogus Money Market

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Johnson entered the bogus money market this week wearing steer horns and a green-tinted complexion.

The chief executive however, didn't take the step voluntarily. He got a shove from the Republican Congressional Committee which is backing the new "Lyndon" dollar bill.

What the committee did was send a sample of "play" money to all the GOP congressional candidates in hopes they could turn it into political capital at rallies and dinners.

The dollar is less than flattering to Johnson and is a spoof of his Great Society programs. It shows a caricature of a worried-looking President framed in a pair of Texas longhorns. Sprinkled around the bill are some heavily partisan comments like "progress is a shrinking dollar" and "Great Society play money."

On the back of the bill is an explanation of just what a "Lyndon" is, or at least the way the GOP sees it.

The bill represents "any denomination of Great Society inflation money," the legend says. It is a "silverless dime which no longer buys a cup of coffee" or "a silverless quarter which won't buy a pack of cigarettes and a shrinking dollar which buys you...less of everything than ever before."

What value does a Lyndon have in the market place? Well, if you want to buy any —which is what the GOP candidates will have to do —they sell at a rate of 1,000 "Lyndons" for 15 normal government - issued "George Washingtons."

Lions Club Sale Slated During Week

The annual Light Bulb sale of the North Monroe Lions Club will be held this week, H. M James, project chairman, said Saturday. The drive will be held during the evening hours Monday through Saturday.

Proceeds from the sale will be used for the club's community activities.

The light bulbs will be sold in handy project-paks, each containing eight bulbs, assortment of four 100-watts; two 75-watts; and two 60-watts.

The entire membership of the club has been organized to work on the sale, with delivery to each door.

Captains for the project are P. C Crandall, Frank Gaulden, Bob Kelly, P. E. Simonton and Marion L. Simmons.

As has been the practice in the past, the wife of the club president, Ivan Calk, purchased the first handy-pak last week. Advance sales have been reported by members.

Mississippi House Chief Dead At 78

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The state of Mississippi mourned the death of veteran House Speaker Walter Sillers Saturday.

The body of the 78-year-old elder statesman of Mississippi politics will lie in state in the new Capitol from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday.

Funeral services were scheduled from the Sillers family home in Rosedale at 2 p.m. Monday.

Sillers died early Saturday following surgery Friday for diverticulitis, a colon disorder, at university hospital here.

Doctors said his heart "began acting up" Friday afternoon and death came shortly after midnight.

Sillers was first elected to the House of Representatives 50 years ago, in 1916. He never gave up the post. In 1944, the House elected him speaker and he set a record of tenure.

Sillers was born at Rosedale April 13, 1888, and maintained an active law practice until his death.

He was a fiery legislator in his younger days, and his House opposition nicknamed him "Red" because of his fighting spirit and his hair.

He moderated in his later years, but still took the floor at times to make a fight for something he favored when it appeared the proposal was in danger.

The Mississippi House is noted for its turmoil and speakers usually are heard by less than half the membership.

This wasn't the case with Sillers. Silence and attention were maintained when he spoke.

Sillers observed his golden anniversary this year as a member of the House, but he still kept most of his attention directed to future.

Dollar Worth Only 88 Cents

BATON ROUGE (AP) — A research report showed Saturday the consumer dollar in New Orleans has shrunk to 88 cents since 1958.

The College of Business Administration at Louisiana State University said it computed the climb in prices based on goods and services normally consumed by families of wage earners and clerical workers living in the city.

The consumer price index also showed the price level of August was .9 per cent above the level for May, and 3.3 per cent above August, 1965.

The base year for the price index is 1957-59.

High School Youth Charged In Killings

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)— Authorities filed three murder charges against a sandy-haired, soft-spoken high school student Saturday on his 19th birthday.

Melvin Stewart Pittman was accused of killing a couple from ambush and then slaying a third person. But no one, including Pittman, could say why.

Police said Pittman was arrested after a high speed chase Friday driving the car of Kenneth E. Jones, 35, of Fort Worth, one of the victims.

Friday night, they said, he led them to the body of Jones, near Lake Arlington on the edge of Fort Worth, and then to the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Laird, both 48.

The Lairds had been missing from their Fort Worth home since Sept. 1.

"I don't know why I did it," police quoted Pittman as saying.

Pittman, a student at G. B. Trimble High School described as an intelligent boy, took officers to an area near Lake Arlington Friday.

Officers saw Jones' body there, in a clump of brush near the shore. Then Pittman took officers around the lake approximately half a mile and pointed out the spot where the bodies of the Lairds lay.

He was polite and cooperative, officers said, and showed little emotion while being questioned or while showing officers the bodies.

His straight, longish, light-colored hair fell over one eye as he talked to officers.

Disappeared Sept. 1

The Lairds disappeared from their home Sept. 1. Their auto was found later. Jones disappeared Thursday night.

Police said it appears a .303 rifle, bought recently for $30 from a pawn shop was the weapon.

Police said the Lairds were shot while walking through the trees toward Lake Arlington. They appear to have been shot from a nearby tree, officers said.

The bodies had been dragged into tall grass from where they fell. The bodies of the Lairds were badly decomposed.

Crowder-Brooks Funeral Home of Fort Worth was handling funeral arrangements for all three victims.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Charles Butts said Pittman told him he was fishing on the west bank of the lake Thursday afternoon, about two blocks from where Jones lives, when he encountered Jones.

Tells of Shooting

Butts said Pittman told him he picked up the rifle and fired.

The Lairds were reported missing Sept. 6 by their daughter, Mrs. Paul Hinman. They had not been seen since Sept. 1.

Their car was found Sept. 7 in a heavily wooded area on the southwestern shore of the lake.

Medical Investigator Dail McMillan said Pittman told him he hid behind some trees as the Lairds were walking through the woods toward the lake and shot "sniper style" with his .303 rifle.

Albert B. O'Conner, principal of the high school, said Pittman had attended high schools for four years but had only credits to be a junior.

He had no disciplinary record, O'Connor said, but had "an attendance problem."

Sirens Set To Signal United Drive

Sirens Wednesday will signal the kick off of the general campaign of the United Givers Fund in Monroe and West Monroe.

Sirens to be sounded include those of fire trucks, police cars and ambulances. They will go out for 15 seconds at 10 a.m.

United Givers Fund headquarters said, "When you hear the sirens Wednesday morning, let it remind you to do your fair share. . . give the United way."

Midwife Driver

TORONTO (AP) — With a truck, Bruce Fraser was in the delivery business in 1954 at age 17, and one of his first deliveries was a baby at the scene of a road accident involving its mother. Still in the delivery business at age 29, he delivered a premature baby this week to his neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Raymond. The Raymond child was the sixth he delivered in 12 years, among them a pair of twins.

Hemorrhage Kills Envoy At Budapest

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Elim O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires in Budapest, died Saturday of a cerebral hemorrhage, a spokesman for the legation announced.

O'Shaughnessy, 59, is survived by his wife and three children. He will be buried in his home town of Portsmouth, N.H., but a decision when the body would be taken there had not been made.

Edward Alexander of the legation staff will be acting charge d'affaires. The United States has been represented by a charge d'affaires in Budapest — rather than an ambassador — since the smashing of the 1956 Hungarian revolution. O'Shaughnessy became charge d'affaires in October 1964.

He had been in the Foreign Service since 1937, serving mostly in European posts or in the State Department in Washington. His assignments included Warsaw, Paris, Moscow, Bonn, Belgrade and London.

Richard W. Tims, counselor and No. 2 official in the Budapest legation, had been on home leave but was to leave Washington Saturday night for Budapest to take charge of legation affairs.

'Fantasticks' Presentation Set At Tech

RUSTON (Special) — El Gallo the Bandit will steal the heart of another young maiden when the Louisiana Tech Department of Music presents "The Fantasticks" Thursday and Friday in Howard Auditorium on the Tech campus.

The bandit dressed in black, who is the romantic lead in the Tom Jones - Harvey Schmidt musical comedy, has been abducting maidens for more than 3,000 performances in the off-Broadway run of the musical in New York City. The play has surpassed all records for consecutive performances of a New York musical and has been presented in more than 400 performances in cities through the nation.

In the Tech production staged by James G. Smith, the bandit will be portrayed by Larry Frazier of Alexandria. Mary Osborn of New Orleans and David Wylie of Ruston will portray the young lovers. John Brownlee of Shreveport and Terry Lindeman of Bossier City will appear as the fathers who hire El Gallo to bring about a marriage between their children by staging an elaborate abduction scene in order to make the boy appear to be a hero.

George Sand Lawn will be the musical director for the first play of the season. Reserved seats may be purchased at the Louisiana Tech Music Department office. Tech students may receive tickets by presenting identification cards to the secretary of the music department. Curtain time will be 8 p.m.

Style Shop To Observe Anniversary

The Style Shop, corner of DeSiard and Walnut, in downtown Monroe, this week will launch a month-long observance of its 30th anniversary, it was announced by Meyer Glazer, owner.

Starting Monday and extending through the month of October, the Style Shop will mark the anniversary by cutting prices up to 50 per cent or more on various items of women's apparel.

Glazer, in recalling the start of the store, said, "I came to Monroe on Sept. 20, 1936 from New Orleans and opened the Style Shop downtown at another smaller location."

He said the move to the present location at the corner of DeSiard and Walnut was made after buying the building there 18 years ago.

"We handle strictly ladies lines," he said, "including shoes, millinery, dresses, coats, lingerie . . . everything for the lady."

His wfe has been connected with the store for the past five years in buying and management.

The Glazers reside at 1315 Milton, and have a son, Mark, who is a student at Tulane University, New Orleans.

Secret Meetings

MOSCOW (AP) — The British government's top scientific adviser, Sir Solly Zuckerman, has been meeting here secretly with Soviet scientists for talks believed to be centered on ways to detect underground nuclear tests, informed sources reported. Britain is trying to allay Soviet fears that detection devices might be used for spying.

LBJ Shoved Into Bogus Money Market

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Johnson entered the bogus money market this week wearing steer horns and a green-tinted complexion.

The chief executive however, didn't take the step voluntarily. He got a shove from the Republican Congressional Committee which is backing the new "Lyndon" dollar bill.

What the committee did was send a sample of "play" money to all the GOP congressional candidates in hopes they could turn it into political capital at rallies and dinners.

The dollar is less than flattering to Johnson and is a spoof of his Great Society programs. It shows a caricature of a worried-looking President framed in a pair of Texas longhorns. Sprinkled around the bill are some heavily partisan comments like "progress is a shrinking dollar" and "Great Society play money."

On the back of the bill is an explanation of just what a "Lyndon" is, or at least the way the GOP sees it.

The bill represents "any denomination of Great Society inflation money," the legend says. It is a "silverless dime which no longer buys a cup of coffee" or "a silverless quarter which won't buy a pack of cigarettes and a shrinking dollar which buys you...less of everything than ever before."

What value does a Lyndon have in the market place? Well, if you want to buy any —which is what the GOP candidates will have to do —they sell at a rate of 1,000 "Lyndons" for 15 normal government - issued "George Washingtons."

A. C. HOUSTON, owner-director of Riverside Convalescent Homes invites all in Northeast Louisiana who are considering a nursing home for themselves or relatives to come investigate the newly opened No. 2 unit at 3003 Riverside in Monroe.

Lions Club Sale Slated During Week

The annual Light Bulb sale of the North Monroe Lions Club will be held this week, H. M James, project chairman, said Saturday. The drive will be held during the evening hours Monday through Saturday.

Proceeds from the sale will be used for the club's community activities.

The light bulbs will be sold in handy project-paks, each containing eight bulbs, assortment of four 100-watts; two 75-watts; and two 60-watts.

The entire membership of the club has been organized to work on the sale, with delivery to each door.

Captains for the project are P. C. Crandall, Frank Gaulden, Bob Kelly, P. E. Simonton and Marion L. Simmons.

As has been the practice in the past, the wife of the club president, Ivan Calk, purchased the first handy-pak last week. Advance sales have been reported by members.

Mississippi House Chief Dead At 78

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) —The state of Mississippi mourned the death of veteran House Speaker Walter Sillers Saturday.

The body of the 78-year-old elder statesman of Mississippi politics will lie in state in the new Capitol from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday.

Funeral services were scheduled from the Sillers family home in Rosedale at 2 p.m. Monday.

Sillers died early Saturday following surgery Friday for diverticulitis, a colon disorder, at university hospital here.

Doctors said his heart "began acting up" Friday afternoon and death came shortly after midnight.

Sillers was first elected to the House of Representatives 50 years ago, in 1916. He never gave up the post. In 1944, the House elected him speaker and he set a record of tenure.

Sillers was born at Rosedale April 13, 1888, and maintained an active law practice until his death.

He was a fiery legislator in his younger days and his House opposition nicknamed him "Red" because of his fighting spirit and his hair.

He moderated in his later years, but still took the floor at times to make a fight for something he favored when it appeared the proposal was in danger.

The Mississippi House is noted for its turmoil and speakers usually are heard by less than half the membership.

This wasn't the case with Sillers. Silence and attention were maintained when he spoke.

Sillers observed his golden anniversary this year as a member of the House, but he still kept most of his attention directed to future.

Dollar Worth Only 88 Cents

BATON ROUGE (AP) — A research report showed Saturday the consumer dollar in New Orleans has shrunk to 88 cents since 1958.

The College of Business Administration at Louisiana State University said it computed the climb in prices based on goods and services normally consumed by families of wage earners and clerical workers living in the city.

The consumer price index also showed the price level of August was .9 per cent above the level for May, and 3.3 per cent above August, 1965.

The base year for the price index is 1957-59.

High School Youth Charged In Killings

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)— Authorities filed three murder charges against a sandy-haired, soft-spoken high school student Saturday on his 19th birthday.

Melvin Stewart Pittman was accused of killing a couple from ambush and then slaying a third person. But no one, including Pittman, could say why.

Police said Pittman was arrested after a high speed chase Friday driving the car of Kenneth E. Jones, 35, of Fort Worth, one of the victims.

Friday night, they said, he led them to the body of Jones, near Lake Arlington on the edge of Fort Worth, and then to the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Laird, both 48.

The Lairds had been missing from their Fort Worth home since Sept. 1.

"I don't know why I did it," police quoted Pittman as saying.

Pittman, a student at G. B. Trimble High School described as an intelligent boy, took officers to an area near Lake Arlington Friday.

Officers saw Jones' body there, in a clump of brush near the shore. Then Pittman took officers around the lake approximately half a mile and pointed out the spot where the bodies of the Lairds lay.

He was polite and cooperative, officers said, and showed little emotion while being questioned or while showing officers the bodies.

His straight, longish, light-colored hair fell over one eye as he talked to officers.

Disappeared Sept. 1

The Lairds disappeared from their home Sept. 1. Their auto was found later. Jones disappeared Thursday night.

Police said it appears a .303 rifle, bought recently for $30 from a pawn shop was the weapon.

Police said the Lairds were shot while walking through the trees toward Lake Arlington. They appear to have been shot from a nearby tree, officers said.

The bodies had been dragged into tall grass from where they fell. The bodies of the Lairds were badly decomposed.

Crowder-Brooks Funeral Home of Fort Worth was handling funeral arrangements for all three victims.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Charles Butts said Pittman told him he was fishing on the west bank of the lake Thursday afternoon, about two blocks from where Jones lives, when he encountered Jones.

Tells of Shooting

Butts said Pittman told him he picked up the rifle and fired.

The Lairds were reported missing Sept. 6 by their daughter, Mrs. Paul Hinman. They had not been seen since Sept. 1.

Their car was found Sept. 7 in a heavily wooded area on the southwestern shore of the lake.

Medical Investigator Dail McMillan said Pittman told him he hid behind some trees as the Lairds were walking through the woods toward the lake and shot "sniper style" with his .303 rifle.

Albert B. O'Conner, principal of the high school, said Pittman had attended high schools for four years but had only credits to be a junior.

He had no disciplinary record, O'Connor said, but had "an attendance problem."

Sirens Set To Signal United Drive

Sirens Wednesday will signal the kick off of the general campaign of the United Givers Fund in Monroe and West Monroe.

Sirens to be sounded include those of fire trucks, police cars and ambulances. They will go off for 15 seconds at 10 a.m.

United Givers Fund headquarters said, "When you hear the sirens Wednesday morning, let it remind you to do your fair share. . . give the United way.'

Midwife Driver

TORONTO (AP) — With a truck, Bruce Fraser was in the delivery business in 1954 at age 17, and one of his first deliveries was a baby at the scene of a road accident involving its mother. Still in the delivery business at age 29, he delivered a premature baby this week to his neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Raymond. The Raymond child was the sixth he delivered in 12 years, among them a pair of twins.

GIFTS HELP Many Walk

Monroe Morning World

Sunday Features

Editorials — Spotlight — Sports

Monroe, La., Sunday, September 25, 1966 1-B

The Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, is one of the 13 agencies being assisted through the United Givers Fund in Ouachita Parish. Funds received by it are used for rehabilitation work with the handicapped of the community. Details of the scope of its services are related in the following report.

By DeWITT T. MILAM, MD.
Volunteer Director of the
Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center

You who give to the United Givers Fund of Ouachita Parish are helping James Michael Gates, age 3, to walk.

Mike, you see, is a cripple.

He was born with Lumbar Myelomeningocel ca congenital defect with the spinal cord protruding through the vertebral canal, which was repaired at the age of two weeks.

Following the repair Mike was left with some neurological defects in both legs which made it impossible for his muscles to develop and function properly.

At 15 months of age, Mike could scoot along, but did not actually crawl in the usual manner and he was referred to the Society for Crippled Children and Adults. In their Orthopedic Clinic he was fitted for long leg braces to maintain his legs in good position and for future walking preparation. By 19 months of age he could stand by holding to objects and take a few steps with assistance, but his balance was poor and his back and leg muscles were weak. An exercise routine was started to develop his back and leg muscles.

REFERRED TO CENTER

In March of 1966 Mike was referred to the Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center by the Orthopedic Section of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults for gait training. Treatment at first was directed toward exercises for strength, coordination and balance.

In April crutch training was initiated and by the middle of May, Mike was walking alone on crutches and braces.

The Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center is your facility where the dollars you contribute to the United Givers Fund are spent 100 per cent for rehabilitation for the handicapped in our community. Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center is operated by a volunteer director and a governing board of directors composed of local civic minded volunteers who donate their time and energy to helping the handicapped in our community.

We are staffed with highly qualified professional personnel so that each rehabilitation program can be tailored to meet the needs, capabilities and resources of each individual.

STAFF OF SPECIALISTS

We have a registered physical therapist, speech and hearing pathologist and occupational therapist, and all are approved by the American Medical Association.

We serve the handicapped in our community regardless of the disability, color, creed or financial condition. The only requirement for therapy at Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center is a referral from your family physician to us.

In order to continue, improve and increase our professional services to the needy in our community, we earnestly request your continued support of the United Givers Fund.

The center is one of 13 agencies that go to make up the United Givers Fund of Ouachita Parish, and Mike is just one of many people helped each year with the dollars you give.

The United Givers Fund is set up to meet the many problems of the people of our community. Among other things:

It helps the cripple to walk.

It gives skilled training and guidance for retarded children.

It provides the aged with companionship, hope and recreation.

It restores hope to desolate disaster victims.

It serves girls in recreational, educational and spiritual programs, and it builds better citizens.

COST COMPUTED

Officials of the organization pointed out that the United Givers Campaign costs only three cents on a dollar while many separate campaigns cost 20 cents and more, and that "you save the annoyance of 12 additional campaigns when you pledge once for many services."

Charles Bird, general chairman of this year's campaign, emphasized that "to help others and yourself, pledge your fair share this year."

The campaign formally opens next Wednesday and officials are hopeful of reaching the modest goal of $295,482 by the end of October.

"There is no reason why we can't reach that goal quickly," said both Bird, and J. C. (Mose) Loftin, president of the United Givers Fund of Ouachita Parish.

Besides the Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, other agencies of the UGF are the YMCA, YWCA, West Monroe Boys' Club, USO, American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Twin City Council on Alcoholism, Retarded Children Association, Salvation Army, Colored Community Welfare, Girl Scouts, and Monroe Area Guidance Center.

"If everyone will give their fair share this year we will have no trouble whatsoever in reaching our goal and going over it," officials said.

Remember: "Fair Share Giving Makes Life Worth Living."

Controversial LSD Drug Being Used In Experimental Treatment Of Alcoholics

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

VIEJAS, Calif. (AP) — He is a half destructive drinker. Alcohol leads him into trouble. It helped break up his marriage. Once he tried to kill himself.

Ten minutes ago — to help sway him away from drink — he received an injection of a controversial drug on trial. LSD — a packaged bit of dreams that thrills, frightens, distorts, damages depending on the mind that drinks it or seeks it out. And dependin' on who gives the drug, and where.

It is a scary drug, defamed by misuse, defended by hope, and too often endowed with magic by those who shouldn't have it.

But this is different. A minute after injection, he felt the first effects. Now he is somewhere between his mind and his imagination, aboard a single musical note in a flotilla of notes, riding a single strand of color in a changing ballet of multi-hued pipe cleaners, ribbons and spheres. Everything is pure.

The only notion his companions have of what he sees behind his black eye shade are his infrequent whispered words, his trailing, unfinished sentences.

SEASHORE VISIONS

"Have you ever seen . . . when you're at the seashore — the skeleton of a crab, so clean from the sea. Well this is . . . this . . . transluscence . . . I don't ever want to forget this."

His hands move to the music like two frail birds afraid to fly. His lips and chin are drawn tight in a tense, closed smile as if pleasure were welling up from his breast into his throat, and he was afraid it would escape.

The drug is called chemically d-lysergic acid diethylamide. Its effects are unpredictable, mystical, beautiful and potentially dangerous. It is easy to make, difficult to control. Its action is as varied as the persons that use it. Its repeated use seems to leave its mark on the personality. It can strip a psychotic of the defenses that enable him to cope with the world. It has been all but banned by the federal government. It has been taken by philosophers, musicians, doctors, writers, dope addicts and kids bent on kicks. Each tastes it differently.

In this small camp in the rugged mountains outside San Diego, LSD is being tried on carefully selected subjects as a treatment for alcoholism, one of a handful of experiments condoned and supported by the National Institute of Mental Health.

The indications are hopeful — but the tests have barely reached the half-way mark, have about 1½ years to run, and the psychiatrists who guide them are well aware of the tight grip alcoholism has on its victims, of the frailty and temporariness of good resolved.

Each month a group of volunteers at this county honor camp are given the drug in a controlled study administered through the Vista Hill Psychiatric Foundation to determine if LSD can pull alcoholics away from the path of drink. A study in Canada has claimed success with these and other misfits under LSD, but proof is not easy. Hopefully, the San Diego experiment will have enough controls and enough follow-up to be meaningful.

WITHHOLDS JUDGMENT

Dr. Keith Ditman, psychiatrist at the University of California at Los Angeles, who heads the study, prefers to withhold judgment. He has had LSD himself, as have other doctors on the team. They know many of its effects. But no one knows exactly how the drug works, whether it temporarily upsets the chemical balance of the brain and nervous system, where the site of action is, whether the drug blocks or enhances or both.

Ditman explains that LSD makes a person more open to suggestion from outside stimuli, more impressionable. If you look at the human brain as a camera, he says, the effect of LSD is to increase the speed of the film, make it more sensitive. For some susceptible individuals, and a massive LSD experience, there is often a religious - like conversion. For alcoholics who often have a sort of gun barrel view of the world, LSD can conceivably provide a broadening, fulfilling experience.

Indeed some say they have seen the demons of their lives, some have found it a gateway to religious experience. Some have seen hellfire and some have seen heaven. Some have seen both. Some have come out of the experience, says Ditman, with a sort of chemical Christianity.

The hope is that the alcoholic's LSD experience can somehow open his mind to his own past, help him see it more clearly, erase in one great purging some of the troublesome emotions that have led his life astray. Indeed for some it seems to work this way. It seems to allow them one brief afternoon for the private screening of an autobiographical fantasy.

He meets in his dream world some of the people who arouse his hostility, and he goes into each meeting with a kind of superiority that makes the hostility unnecessary, or at least explainable. In short, a man may come face to face with his more base, more destructive self.

For some, it awakens the meaning of religious experience from an earlier time in life when it had real meaning. For some, it means a spiritual rebirth. For some, it means only a long, boring afternoon, waiting for something to happen that never will.

But for some alcoholics, it is the most vivid experience they say they have ever met.

The sights they see, the sounds they hear all feed into the LSD dream that the mind seems to synthesize.

Perhaps Ditman's 5-year old daughter Cynthia caught the real meaning of LSD, from overheard remarks when she told her father: "Oh, I know what LSD is. It's the stuff that puts you into your imagination."

It is difficult to be more specific than that. The drug varies within the course of a single experience. Shortly after having his injection, one man vomited, and screamed, "Why do you doctors want to get someone through this? . . . It could destroy someone's mind . . . You could destroy someone's mind . . . It would be terrible."

CHANGE OF VIEW

Yet at the end, this same man was saying, "I really saw myself today . . . I just want to see my wife and kids, and I hope that these people look at me as I am today, a newborn man again. I hope that all the people I've hurt in my life will think of me as I am today."

Another volunteer began his "trip" feeling cold off and on, and then felt purged of thoughts that have been bothering him.

"The worst thing," he said, "was walking through a jungle when I was 6. Yesterday, I was able to get out of it by myself. I understand my problems and think they can be solved. I had to find out for myself. Today I have empty places that I have to fill up."

Some men have walked out of the experimental session — after six months at the honor camp—into apparently fruitful and productive lives. Sometimes they have sought the aid of outside organizations like Alcoholics Anonymous.

One of the most hopeful alumni of the project is a man who was a constant drinker, and constantly in trouble. His LSD trip was what the psychiatrists call "a classic experience."

First, he felt like a puppet. His hands became larger and smaller as he looked at them. He shifted between hot and cold, saw himself in the South Seas and the North Pole at the same time. Then the music controlled him, controlled his muscles, his body temperature, and even the colors on the wall. He saw himself in other people. He found much of it funny, and he said at one point: "This is beautiful. I've never felt so alive in my life."

He saw a nurse entering the room. "She came and she had a pixie look on her face," he said, "like a little girl. She looked like a little girl with a short dress on, a real cute little bow dress like grandmother, and her face would — I knew it was her face, I could see that — and yet I was seeing a little fox, and then a little squirrel, and then a little kitten, and then a little grin, laughs. It was real crazy."

Looking back at the whole experience, he recalled: "I got pretty close to hell there one time. Well, I guess it was a bad dream. I have been wondering if it was. I didn't consciously think about it. But I did. I got away from it, and that scared me . . . But then I unconsciously slid back into it . . .

"If it bugs me too much, I just stick him in there, and he will never never get out."

What he saw is not always clear. The words don't always fit the ideas.

Seventeen days later, he was asking, "How long does this wonderful feeling stay with me."

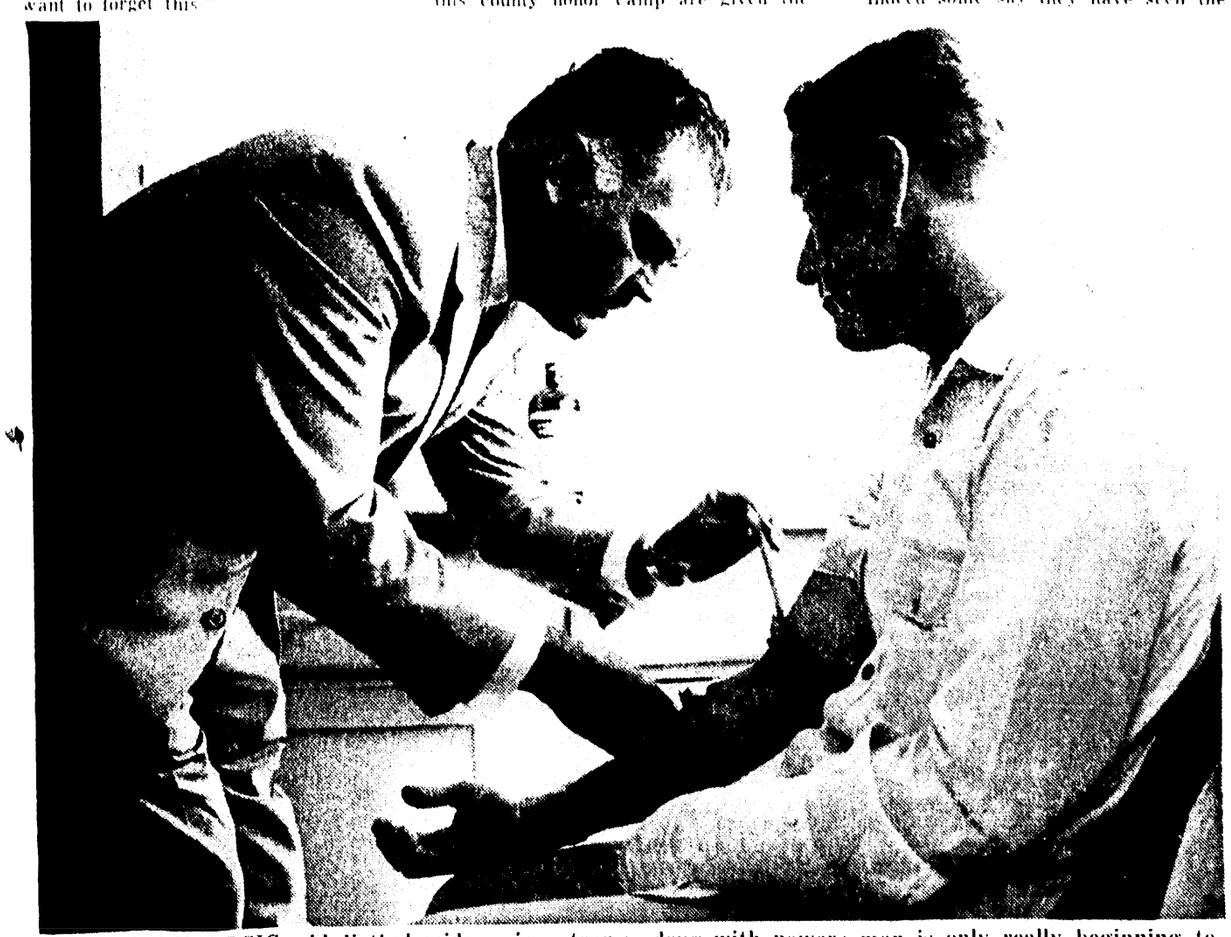
FREE OF ALCOHOL

He feels he has had a spiritual rebirth — and remarkably for a man who used to take a thermos of vodka to work, he hasn't had a drink in months.

It is true too of other volunteers after LSD — long periods of no drinking, or long periods of reduced drinking. It is also true that some have slid back into their old ways, as if LSD and Viejas never existed.

The LSD subjects are carefully screened by batteries of tests to make certain that their mental and emotional and physical equipment will not be deranged by the drug.

The results are coded for analysis later, when the study is completed by May, 1968. The men will be followed up personally by social workers, and if they leave the world of the traceable, by federal and state arrest records.



LSD — D-LYSERGIC acid diethylamide — is a strange drug with powers man is only really beginning to plumb. Whether or not current experiments can cure alcoholism, they will certainly help unwrap the mystery surrounding a drug that became a plaything before it became a chemical with a purpose. Here, Dr. Keith S. Ditman (psychiatrist at the University of California at Los Angeles) in a small honor camp in the rugged mountains outside San Diego, administers LSD to a volunteer patient. GIFTS HELP Many Walk

The Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, is one of the 13 agencies being assisted through the United Givers Fund in Ouachita Parish. Funds received by it are used for rehabilitation work with the handicapped of the community. Details of the scope of its services are related in the following report.

By DeWITT T. MILAM, MD.
Volunteer Director of the
Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center

You who give to the United Givers Fund of Ouachita Parish are helping James Michael Gates, age 3, to walk.

Mike, you see, is a cripple.

He was born with Lumbar Myelomeningocel (a congenital defect with the spinal cord protruding through the vertebral canal) which was repaired at the age of two weeks.

Following the repair, Mike was left with some neurological defects in both legs, which made it impossible for his muscles to develop and function properly.

At 15 months of age, Mike could scoot along, but did not actually crawl in the usual manner and he was referred to the Society for Crippled Children and Adults. In their Orthopedic Clinic he was fitted for long leg braces to maintain his legs in good position and for future walking preparation. By 19 months of age he could stand by holding to objects and take a few steps with assistance, but his balance was poor and his back and leg muscles were weak. An exercise routine was started to develop his back and leg muscles.

REFERRED TO CENTER

In March of 1966 Mike was referred to the Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center by the Orthopedic Section of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults for gait training. Treatment at first was directed toward exercises for strength, coordination and balance.

In April crutch training was initiated and by the middle of May, Mike was walking alone on crutches and braces.

The Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center is your facility where the dollars you contribute to the United Givers Fund are spent 100 per cent for rehabilitation for the handicapped in our community. Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center is operated by a volunteer director and a governing board of directors composed of local civic - minded volunteers who donate their time and energy to helping the handicapped in our community.

We are staffed with highly qualified professional personnel so that each rehabilitation program can be tailored to meet the needs, capabilities and resources of each individual.

STAFF OF SPECIALISTS

We have a registered physical therapist, speech and hearing pathologist and occupational therapist, and all are approved by the American Medical Association.

We serve the handicapped in our community regardless of the disability, color, creed or financial condition. The only requirement for therapy at Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center is a referral from your family physician to us.

In order to continue, improve and increase our professional services to the needy in our community, we earnestly request your continued support of the United Givers Fund.

The center is one of 13 agencies that go to make up the United Givers Fund of Ouachita Parish, and Mike is just one of many people helped each year with the dollars you give.

The United Givers Fund is set up to meet the many problems of the people of our community. Among other things:

It helps the cripple to walk.

It gives skilled training and guidance for retarded children.

It provides the aged with companionship, hope and recreation.

It restores hope to desolate disaster victims.

It serves girls in recreational, educational and spiritual programs, and it builds better citizens.

COST COMPUTED

Officials of the organization pointed out that the United Givers Campaign costs only three cents on a dollar while many separate campaigns cost 20 cents and more, and that "you save the annoyance of 13 additional campaigns when you pledge once for many services."

Charles Bird, general chairman of this year's campaign, emphasized that "to help others and yourself, pledge your fair share this year."

The campaign formally opens next Wednesday and officials are hopeful of reaching the modest goal of $295,482 by the end of October.

"There is no reason why we can't reach that goal quickly," said both Bird, and J. C. (Mose) Loftin, president of the United Givers Fund of Ouachita Parish.

Besides the Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, other agencies of the UGF are the YMCA, YWCA, West Monroe Boys' Club, USO, American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Twin City Council on Alcoholism, Retarded Children Association, Salvation Army, Colored Community Welfare, Girl Scouts, and Monroe Area Guidance Center.

"If everyone will give their fair share this year we will have no trouble whatsoever in reaching our goal and going over it," officials said.

Remember: "Fair Share Giving Makes Life Worth Living."

Controversial LSD Drug Being Used In Experimental Treatment Of Alcoholics

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

VIEJAS, Calif. (AP) — He is a half-destructive drinker. Alcohol leads him into trouble. It helped break up his marriage. Once he tried to kill himself.

Ten minutes ago — to help sway him away from drink — he received an injection of a controversial drug on trial — LSD — a packaged bit of dreams that thrills, frightens, distorts, damages, depending on the mind that drinks it up, seeks it out. And depending on who gives the drug, and where.

It is a scary drug, defamed by misuse, defended by hope, and too often endowed with magic by those who shouldn't have it.

But this is different. A minute after injection, he felt the first effects. Now he is somewhere between his mind and his imagination, aboard a single musical note in a flotilla of notes, riding a single strand of color in a changing ballet of multi-hued pipe cleaners, ribbons and spheres, Everything is pure.

The only notion his companions have of what he sees behind his black eyeshade are his infrequent whispered words his trailing, unfinished sentences:

SEASHORE VISIONS

"Have you ever seen . . . when you're at the seashore — the skeleton of a crab, so clean from the sea. Well this is . . . this . . . translucence . . . I don't ever want to forget this."

'Poverty' Money Taxes

If our federal government is right in saying people who earn less than $3,000 a year are in the "poverty" class, the national administration is being extremely inconsistent in holding the tax-exemption level down to only $600 per person. Since the government claims members of a family can't live on less than $3,000 a year, why does it tax $2,400 of that $3,000 and then give this money out in doles to the people from whom it took the money in the first place?

More Foolish

That becomes even worse than "robbing Peter to pay Paul." The way it looks to us, it is "robbing Peter to pay Peter." And what could be more foolish than that? Putting it another way, it is like trying to enrich some one by taking money out of one of his pockets and putting some of it back into another pocket after dropping some of the money along the way — in the form of slush funds and high salaries for "cooperators." That kind of enriching just doesn't get the job done for the people.

Nobody thinks Uncle Sam will raise the income tax exemption level from $600 to $3,000, so all the "poverty" people will be exempted entirely, but anyone would think the government would make some adjustment to offset partly the $3,000 every family must have before it has enough to live on. The government might at least raise the income exemption to $1,000 a person so that the amount saved would be a little more than enough to pay for the person's haircuts.

Personally, we don't know of one single individual in the United States who would like to have his income taxes increased on the mere possibility that draining away his money might tend to hold back inflation. Every economist in this country, every level-headed businessman and practically everyone else knows the government can push back the inflation as easily and swiftly as the waters of the River Jordan and of the Red Sea were rolled back when the Children of Israel fled from bondage.

All the government has to do to stop the inflation cold in its tracks is to stop priming a pump that is already gushing over with water — in this case, money.

Stop Squandering

This could be done if the government would stop squandering untold billions in foreign aid, in lush salaries for "poverty" officials, in bribery in the name of integration and in ways so numerous that it would take a "human computer" brain like the one purportedly possessed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara even to begin to comprehend their vastness.

Right now the federal government is said to be ready to launch a fantastic, shocking scheme to spend $5.7 billion over the next five years as a bribery or subsidization fund to compel every school in the nation to integrate teaching staffs and students to the ultimate degree. Why this is necessary under the loathsome integration program that is already being forced down the throats of school officials, parents and children, no one can conceive.

Are we willing to pay even more than the shockingly high present rate of income tax in order to enable the federal government to pay bribes to those schools which replace white teachers with Negroes at the fastest rate? What the government is saying in effect is: "Put as many Negro teachers into the white schools as fast as you can and we'll give you a big hunk of the people's tax money as a reward, or bribe, and we'll have plenty for that as soon as the elections are over and we raise income taxes."

President Johnson apparently is afraid to raise income taxes until after the congressional elections in November but the big guillotine is said to be already poised and ready to come slashing down as soon as Congress convenes in January.

An income tax boost would be absolutely wrong as long as federal funds are flowing into foreign aid and "poverty" programs like a giant river.

Public Justified

The public would certainly be justified in its indignation if income taxes, which President Johnson boasted of lowering, were raised. Income taxes already are sky-high and are a terrible, unnecessary and inexcusable burden on our citizenry.

As pointed out by Arthur Korck, distinguished observer of the national scene, domestic welfare programs constitute the "prime source" of the current inflation in the United States.

Every time billions of dollars are pumped into some area inflamed into rioting by the government's racial favoritism, such as the Watts district or other similar nests of anti-social activity, there is waste that adds to the inflationary bonfire.

If Congress would only slash the welfare machinery of the so-called Great Society, particularly that part dealing with huge anti-poverty programs for Negroes and others who won't work, and would knock the foreign aid program down to a size we could approve (about pint-sized), income taxes could be cut instead of increased. In fact, some economists say that if the federal government would limit itself to performing governmental duties and to defending this country from enemies, the federal income tax could be eliminated entirely.

If that were to happen, people could draw their full pay instead of having to figure their income on two bases — one their salary rating and the other, usually some 20 per cent less, the amount they actually get to take home.

What hope have we from the need is a lot of new, conservative faces in Congress. Only an awakening by the people can bring that about.

Just Keeping Tabs

Arrest of 13 persons unequivocally described as "underworld chieftains," Thursday at a "little Apalachan" meeting in a Queens restaurant in New York, was given big news play and sounded like a big story. To the crime chiefs, however, it probably was regarded as little more than a brief annoyance. Apparently, the law does not provide any way in which men of this type can be handled.

Among those taken into custody were: Michael Miranda, a Cosa Nostra under-boss from New York, arrested in a similar round-up of 60 hoodlums in New York in 1957; Carlos Marcello, of New Orleans, who has been described in Senate testimony as Cosa Nostra leader for the South; his brother Joseph Marcello; Santo Trafficante, once a big shot in the pre-Castro Cuban rackets and described to Senate investigators as the Cosa Nostra boss in Florida; Carlo Gambino and Joseph Columbo, who head two of New York's five Cosa Nostra families.

This was only a sampling. Others in the group taken into custody reportedly had reputations no more savory than those of the ones named above.

Police said they expected to gain valuable information by questioning the men. It is too bad that nothing more can be done with men of this type.

The first steam locomotive that actually pulled a train on a track was built by John Stevens, Oct. 23, 1924, at Hoboken, N. J.

Anti-Poverty Bill Action Unlikely

Opposition May Stall Measure Until Election

THE HOUSE IS slated next week to consider a rule to take up the long-stalled $1.75 billion anti-poverty authorization bill, but it's a toss-up when this hotly embattled legislation actually will be acted on.

It's not at all unlikely that nothing will be done about it until after the November election.

This major Great Society measure has been awaiting House consideration since late June. A principal reason for this extraordinary delay is administration fear that bipartisan disillusionment with the anti-poverty program has become so intense that it will be extensively dismantled by amendments from the House floor.

This strong possibility accounts for the backstage report that anti-poverty legislation will be quietly allowed to go over until after the November balloting.

That means if Congress recesses around the middle of next month, the issue presumably would be brought up in a lame-duck session in the closing weeks of this year. On the other hand, if Congress adjourns, the anti-poverty program could be continued by a resolution allowing it to function on the basis of last year's budget until the new Congress convenes in January.

ACTUALLY, anti - poverty director Sargent Shriver has been doing that since July 1, start of the current fiscal year.

A bill is ready and waiting to drastically recast the widely controversial anti-poverty setup.

Sponsored by Representatives Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., and Albert Quie, R-Minn., members of the Labor Committee, which has jurisdiction over this legislation, and supported by Democrats, the measure would:

Strip the Office of Economic Opportunity, headed by Shriver, of all its programs except Community Action and VISTA. The training programs would be turned over to the Labor Department; educational programs, including Headstart, to the Office of Education; and the remaining programs to the Small Business Administration, Farmers Home Administration, etc.

Community Action funds would be more than doubled, and a new Industry Youth Corps would be established under which "private employers would be given a realistic incentive to hire untrained young people between 16 and 22, with one-third of their wages paid while they undergo on-the-job training in meaningful permanent employment."

CHEAPER AND BETTER — Backers of this substitute anti-poverty program, which they have labeled "Opportunity Crusade," claim it would cost $300 million less, double the funds for Headstart, and "place more emphasis on state and local responsibility."

The proposed Industry Youth Corps is aimed squarely at the Job Corps program, the single most expensive and severely assailed OEO project.

If and when the House does take up the anti-poverty agency's new budget, the Job Corps is to be subjected to the heaviest blasting on charges of excessive costs, including high salaries, maladministration, waste, incompetence and misconduct. Few of the 26 centers (10 men, 16 women) will escape castigation.

At present some 27,000 are enrolled in these centers. OEO puts the drop-out rate at 30 per cent, and estimates training costs at $9,500 to $13,000 per enrollee a year.

That amount of money would finance a four-year college education anywhere in the country.

In the first year of the Job Corps' existence, it cost taxpayers $190 million; last year $310 million; and $200 million is earmarked for this purpose in the pending budget.

MOST JOB CORPS centers have been in hot water. One in St. Petersburg, Fla., had to be shut down because of furious community hostility. In New Bedford, Mass., the city council unanimously voted to get rid of the center there. Similar local action has been taken against the Camp Kilmer center in New Jersey and the Ft. Custer and Battle Creek centers in Michigan.

Other centers have experienced riots and other difficulties, notably Camp Atterbury, Ind., Camp Breckenridge, Ky., and Tongue Point, Ore.

Significantly illustrative of the bipartisan disapproval of the Job Corps program is what Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., said about it following a shooting episode by an enrollee in his state:

"The basic idea of the Job Corps is fine, but I have become concerned about its implementation, the screening process used in filling the camps, and overall inadequacies in the administration of the program . . . I am well aware that there can be bad apples in every program, but it seems to me there is something wrong."

If and when the House gets a crack at the long-withheld anti-poverty budget, there is a very good chance something will be done about Senator Mansfield's complaints.

In the Senate, Chairman Joseph Clark, D-Pa., of the subcommittee handling this legislation, favors an investigation of the entire anti-poverty program. He is talking of getting one underway next year.

WHAT STARTED IT — Cause of that sizzling headlined clash between Representative Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., a junior member of the Labor Committee, and Chairman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., was a caustic interview by the former in his hometown paper.

In the course of Gibbons' published comments, he characterized Powell as his "nemesis" and "a thorn in my side."

Although Gibbons was outranked by 14 other Democratic committeemen, Powell designated him chairman of a special subcommittee in charge of anti-poverty legislation. But although Gibbons had the title, Powell kept a tight rein on the group. He controlled its funds and everything else.

Apparently, that finally got under Gibbons' skin, and in this hometown interview he vented

"When I am home," he was quoted as saying, "people stop and ask me, 'Why don't you throw that Powell out of Congress?' I tell them I don't have that authority; that only the people who elect him to Congress do. Being on that committee is political dynamite to me.

"I guess I could turn tail and run. I could take another committee assignment. But I am not going to do that. Powell would still be chairman, and that's what has to be remedied."

When Powell saw the interview, he hit the ceiling. He immediately ditched Gibbons as subcommittee chairman and took charge of it himself. And thus ended a "once beautiful friendship."

Dollars To Buy Less In Goods, Services

THE DOLLAR WHICH bought you 100c of goods and services at the start of 1966 will buy you less than 98c worth of the same goods and services today and probably will buy only 96½c worth at the end of 1966. This is an erosion of 3½c in one year; it illustrates what this year's steep climb in overall living costs is doing to the buying power of the paycheck you are earning and saving.

The dollar which bought you 100c of goods and services in 1946 — after the close of World War II — is worth only 66c in the marketplace today, will be worth under 66c by yearend. This is an erosion of 34c in 20 years; it dramatizes the virtually uninterrupted rise in living costs in the post-World War II era.

The dollar which bought you 100c of goods and services in 1939 — just before World War II — is worth under 43c now, will probably buy only a slim 42c of the same goods and services when 1966 ends. This is a sickening slump of 58c — well over 50 per cent — and it says flatly that the fundamental trend of the dollar's buying power has been downward through more than a quarter-century of both hot and cold wars, both upturns and recessions.

ALTHOUGH OUR dollar has chalked up the best record for buying power of any currency of any major industrialized nation in modern times, this is a bleak performance indeed for the world's greatest currency — and no objective observer denies it.

The 1939-46 period is ancient history — marks an era of global war which so strained our resources of materials and manpower that it well may be remarkable that the 100c dollar of 1939 was still worth as much as 66c in 1946. The post-war period is modern history, though, and while the record is less dismal, it's still a tale of relentless erosion in the value of cash or its equivalent, of ever-rising pinch on those living on fixed incomes.

The 100c dollar of 1950, for instance, is worth only 76.9c today. The 100c dollar of 1960 is worth only 91.7c. Even the 100c dollar of 1963 is worth only 95c.

THE EROSION is, in part, the result of our determined effort to curb depressions in our country by expansionary spending-credit policies. It is a result, in part, of our grandiose attempts to rehabilitate and develop the world by a huge outpouring of dollar gifts and loans. It certainly reflects our deliberately inflationary spending-credit policies to obey Congress' 1946 mandate to strive for maximum production, maximum employment and maximum incomes.

But had it not been for the acceleration of the Viet Nam war, the dollar's purchasing power would not be headline news now. The decline actually slowed to a creep from 1958 to 1965 — to about the minimum to be expected in a dynamic economy — and there's no disputing that the vast majority of families got pay hikes that dwarfed the drop in the buying power of their dollars.

VIET NAM SMASHED the superb record of 1958-65. War demands piled on top of record peacetime demands are pressing on our supplies of goods and services and pulling up prices. Now rising labor and other costs are entering the picture to push up prices. The anti - inflation moves made to date—the credit squeeze, acceleration of income tax payments, restoration of certain excise taxes — have not been enough to change the trend and have surely not directly affected food and service costs. The pending moves—suspension of the tax incentives which have spurred business spending on plants and equipment — almost surely won't be enough either. There's a grave question whether any steps that will be taken can do more than moderate the decline in the dollar's buying power anytime soon.

We are into another war-inspired inflationary phase — and barring an end to the Viet Nam war, the most we can reasonable hope for is that the decline in our dollar's purchasing power won't be as sharp in 1967 as in 1966.

President Is Easing Censure Of Portugal

BEHIND THE SCENES President Johnson is wisely easing our censorious policy toward Portugal. This is a victory for common sense.

President Kennedy's New Frontier repeatedly encouraged insurrection in Portuguese Angola, as it did throughout Africa. This policy contained a political pitch for the Negro vote in the United States. Our votes in the United Nations, in turn, were dedicated to buttering up the Afro-Asian bloc in a bid for "world opinion" — which is never defined.

How could this sabotage of our NATO ally conceivably serve the American interest or the global welfare for which 305,000 armed Americans are fighting a horrible war in Viet Nam?

The Communists' constant strategy to drain NATO's strength, in which French President Charles de Gaulle is cooperating so handsomely and tragically, has pressed harder and harder on Portugal.

While we support 325,000 armed Americans in NATO the Reds have reduced the Portuguese forces standing at our side to practically nothing.

THERE STRATEGY packs a double punch, for, as everywhere, it includes draining away a nation's funds that otherwise could improve living conditions.

About 45 per cent of Portugal's entire national budget now goes for military costs, chiefly to fight the Communist-directed African guerrillas marauding among Angola's 11 tribal groups.

On September 13 Portuguese Defense Minister Gomes de Araujo reported in Lisbon that 80,000 Portguese troops are in that far - off place and in Mozambique. There goes most of our U. S. taxpayers' military aid to this NATO ally, useless to us where we need it. And there goes another backlash against the global welfare hopes which we pay billions for in foreign aid.

Angola is sprawled along 1,000 miles of Africa's west coast. It is a triangle almost twice the size of Texas and nearly half the size of the European continent. Part of its interior fronts on Red dominated Zambia. For the first time, emboldened terrorist cadres of the so-called Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola have attacked from Zambia.

THEY ARE directed from Leipzig, East Germany, which is the true headquarters of this insurrectionist organization.

In NATO intelligence circles the Leipzig apparatus is designated as "Agitprop." Its parent organization is the Lenin School of Political Warfare, which has operated in Moscow for 41 years.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has testified before a Senate subcommittee that 6,000 to 8,000 African students are in Communist - bloc countries and that more than 10 hours a day of Communist broadcasts (including a steady stream from Castro's Cuba) are beamed exclusively to Africa.

The NATO intelligence files, which I have seen in Paris, show Agitprop now runs Afro-Asian Communist indoctrination programs in about 177 colleges and 6,600 secondary schools in Iron Curtain countries, a trade union institute for Africans in Budapest, and terrorist training centers in Prague and Warsaw and in Bernau and Bautzen, East Germany, under the Leipzig command.

Moscow's Patrice Lumumba University alone has tooled up and sent back to their African homelands more than 1,000 trained insurrectionists in the past six months.

THOSE ATTACKING Angola from Zambia are called the Hangan Corps, in honor of Abdulla Kassim Hangan, trained at Patrice Lumumba University, who seized the strategic island of Zanzibar in the Communist coup, put a gun at the back of American Consul Frederick P. Picard and drove him off to Tanganyika on the mainland.

These guerrilla experts, to say nothing of those trained by Red China, spread north and south of Zambia. They are entrenched in Ghana, Guinea, Burundi, the Cameroons, the Sudan, Somaliland, Tanganyika, Northern Rhodesia, Mali, Morocco and clear down to the border of South Africa.

Once back in their homelands they pillage the helpless people, exactly as the Viet Cong have in South Viet Nam. They do this where anti-Communists often outnumber them 100 to 1. Then the pillaged are left moribund, terrified and ruined by the treachery of their own countrymen.

The foreign policy of the United States should be established on three fundamentals. We must define America's interests clearly; we must realize that so-called world opinion is often merely a Trojan horse manipulated by the Communists themselves; and we should never — never — proceed abroad on the basis of domestic politics here at home.

BARRY GOLDWATER

South Viet Election Doesn't End Danger

SOUTH VIET NAM'S free and resoundingly anti - Communist elections do not diminish the dangers ahead in that troubled land.

Some of these dangers are:

That the Johnson administration, seeking as usual to turn even an international crisis into domestic political advantage, will compromise the cause of freedom in Viet Nam in order to achieve some illusion of peace or progress during the upcoming congressional elections.

That the situation will drift out of real control back and forth between periods of extreme elation and depression until the even more crucial 1968 elections, at which time domestic politicians of the Johnson and Bobby Kennedy variety could turn the entire election into a gigantic auction with candidates falling over themselves to outbid their opponents with reckless plans for ending the Asian confrontation.

THAT THE U. S. administration will continue to undercut the South Vietnamese administration of Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, goaded on by the factions in this country which clearly prefer to see us dealing more with the Viet Cong and less with the general, whose steadfast anti-Communism they cannot abide.

That the administration will use the election results as "proof" that the entire Asian confrontation is merely a political difference that may be resolved by traditional diplomatic palaver.

That the administration will use the election results as "proof" that the South Vietnamese, even if forced into a coalition government with North Vietnamese and local Communists, could "hold their own" electorally, thus making a coalition a perfectly suitable settlement of the fighting.

Is the Johnson administration capable of using this war for its own domestic political purposes? Fewer and fewer Americans doubt this. Polls and studies have shown that the President's wheeling and dealing is his principal political trademark.

THE FACT THAT the Viet Nam situation has slipped pretty much out of the administration's control also is apparent. The administration has made some publicity with descriptions of how well things are going — and could certainly do this during an election — but we are still mired in what most military experts have so long warned against, a major land war in Asia.

The more this stalemate continues, the more President Johnson will actually have to give away to the enemy in any grandstand play for peace at election time. On the other hand there are many who fear that the President may cynically be withholding the decisions needed to break that stalemate until election time.

As to the administration's attitude toward Gen. Ky, it has been hostile all along without strong Presidential opposition to those within his administration who have vilified Ky as harshly as once they attacked the murdered President Diem.

And the Ky administration's effectiveness in permitting the elections has been largely overlooked in the Presidential pleasure at the election returns.

Gen. Ky's projected trip to this country will offer President Johnson a good opportunity to make up for past lack of support. It will be interesting to see if he takes it or continues to be scared off by the pressures of his supporters.

'Poverty' Money Taxes

If our federal government is right in saying people who earn less than $3,000 a year are in the "poverty" class, the national administration is being extremely inconsistent in holding the tax-exemption level down to only $600 per person. Since the government claims members of a family can't live on less than $3,000 a year, why does it tax $2,400 of that $3,000 and then give this money out in doles to the people from whom it took the money in the first place?

More Foolish

That becomes even worse than "robbing Peter to pay Paul." The way it looks to us, it is "robbing Peter to pay Peter." And what could be more foolish than that? Putting it another way, it is like trying to enrich some one by taking money out of one of his pockets and putting some of it back into another pocket after dropping some of the money along the way — in the form of slush funds and high salaries for "cooperators." That kind of enriching just doesn't get the job done for the people.

Nobody thinks Uncle Sam will raise the income tax exemption level from $600 to $3,000, so all the "poverty" people will be exempted entirely, but anyone would think the government would make some adjustment to offset partly the $3,000 every family must have before it has enough to live on. The government might at least raise the income exemption to $1,000 a person so that the amount saved would be a little more than enough to pay for the person's haircuts.

Personally, we don't know of one single individual in the United States who would like to have his income taxes increased on the mere possibility that draining away his money might tend to hold back inflation. Every economist in this country, every level-headed businessman and practically everyone else knows the government can push back the inflation as easily and swiftly as the waters of the River Jordan and of the Red Sea were rolled back when the Children of Israel fled from bondage.

All the government has to do to stop the inflation cold in its tracks is to stop priming a pump that is already gushing over with water — in this case, money.

Stop Squandering

This could be done if the government would stop squandering untold billions in foreign aid, in lush salaries for "poverty" officials, in bribery in the name of integration and in ways so numerous that it would take a "human computer" brain like the one purportedly possessed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara even to begin to comprehend their vastness.

Right now the federal government is said to be ready to launch a fantastic, shocking scheme to spend $5.7 billion over the next five years as a bribery or subsidization fund to compel every school in the nation to integrate teaching staffs and students to the ultimate degree. Why this is necessary under the loathsome integration program that is already being forced down the throats of school officials, parents and children, no one can conceive.

Are we willing to pay even more than the shockingly high present rate of income tax in order to enable the federal government to pay bribes to those schools which replace white teachers with Negroes at the fastest rate? What the government is saying in effect is: "Put as many Negro teachers into the white schools as fast as you can and we'll give you a big hunk of the people's tax money as a reward, or bribe, and we'll have plenty for that as soon as the elections are over and we raise income taxes."

President Johnson apparently is afraid to raise income taxes until after the congressional elections in November but the big guillotine is said to be already poised and ready to come slashing down as soon as Congress convenes in January.

An income tax boost would be absolutely wrong as long as federal funds are flowing into foreign aid and "poverty" programs like a giant river.

Public Justified

The public would certainly be justified in its indignation if income taxes, which President Johnson boasted of lowering, were raised. Income taxes already are sky-high and are a terrible, unnecessary and inexcusable burden on our citizenry.

As pointed out by Arthur Korck, distinguished observer of the national scene, domestic welfare programs constitute the "prime source" of the current inflation in the United States.

Every time billions of dollars are pumped into some area inflamed into rioting by the government's racial favoritism, such as the Watts district or other similar nests of anti-social activity, there is waste that adds to the inflationary bonfire.

If Congress would only slash the welfare machinery of the so-called Great Society, particularly that part dealing with huge anti-poverty programs for Negroes and others who won't work, and would knock the foreign aid program down to a size we could approve (about pint-sized), income taxes could be cut instead of increased. In fact, some economists say that if the federal government would limit itself to performing governmental duties and to defending this country from enemies, the federal income tax could be eliminated entirely.

If that were to happen, people could draw their full pay instead of having to figure their income on two bases — one their salary rating and the other, usually some 20 per cent less, the amount they actually get to take home.

What hope have we from the need is a lot of new, conservative faces in Congress. Only an awakening by the people can bring that about.

Just Keeping Tabs

Arrest of 13 persons unequivocally described as "underworld chieftains," Thursday at a "little Apalachan" meeting in a Queens restaurant in New York, was given big news play and sounded like a big story. To the crime chiefs, however, it probably was regarded as little more than a brief annoyance. Apparently, the law does not provide any way in which men of this type can be handled.

Among those taken into custody were: Michael Miranda, a Cosa Nostra under-boss from New York, arrested in a similar round-up of 60 hoodlums in New York in 1957; Carlos Marcello, of New Orleans, who has been described in Senate testimony as Cosa Nostra leader for the South; his brother Joseph Marcello; Santo Trafficante, once a big shot in the pre-Castro Cuban rackets and described to Senate investigators as the Cosa Nostra boss in Florida; Carlo Gambino and Joseph Columbo, who head two of New York's five Cosa Nostra families.

This was only a sampling. Others in the group taken into custody reportedly had reputations no more savory than those of the ones named above.

Police said they expected to gain valuable information by questioning the men. It is too bad that nothing more can be done with men of this type.

The first steam locomotive that actually pulled a train on a track was built by John Stevens, Oct. 23, 1924, at Hoboken, N. J.

Anti-Poverty Bill Action Unlikely

Opposition May Stall Measure Until Election

THE HOUSE IS slated next week to consider a rule to take up the long-stalled $1.75 billion anti-poverty authorization bill, but it's a toss-up when this hotly embattled legislation actually will be acted on.

It's not at all unlikely that nothing will be done about it until after the November election.

This major Great Society measure has been awaiting House consideration since late June. A principal reason for this extraordinary delay is administration fear that bipartisan disillusionment with the anti-poverty program has become so intense that it will be extensively dismantled by amendments from the House floor.

This strong possibility accounts for the backstage report that anti-poverty legislation will be quietly allowed to go over until after the November balloting.

That means if Congress recesses around the middle of next month, the issue presumably would be brought up in a lame-duck session in the closing weeks of this year. On the other hand, if Congress adjourns, the anti-poverty program could be continued by a resolution allowing it to function on the basis of last year's budget until the new Congress convenes in January.

ACTUALLY, anti - poverty director Sargent Shriver has been doing that since July 1, start of the current fiscal year.

A bill is ready and waiting to drastically recast the widely controversial anti-poverty set-up.

Sponsored by Representatives Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., and Albert Quie, R-Minn., members of the Labor Committee, which has jurisdiction over this legislation, and supported by Democrats, the measure would:

Strip the Office of Economic Opportunity, headed by Shriver, of all its programs except Community Action and VISTA. The training programs would be turned over to the Labor Department; educational programs, including Headstart, to the Office of Education; and the remaining programs to the Small Business Administration, Farmers Home Administration, etc.

Community Action funds would be more than doubled, and a new Industry Youth Corps would be established under which "private employers would be given a realistic incentive to hire untrained young people between 16 and 22, with one-third of their wages paid while they undergo on-the-job training in meaningful permanent employment."

CHEAPER AND BETTER — Backers of this substitute anti-poverty program, which they have labeled "Opportunity Crusade," claim it would cost $300 million less, double the funds for Headstart, and "place more emphasis on state and local responsibility."

The proposed Industry Youth Corps is aimed squarely at the Job Corps program, the single most expensive and severely assailed OEO project.

If and when the House does take up the anti-poverty agency's new budget, the Job Corps will be subjected to the heaviest blasting on charges of excessive costs, including high salaries, maladministration, waste, incompetence and misconduct. Few of the 26 centers (10 men, 16 women) will escape castigation.

At present some 27,000 are enrolled in these centers. OEO puts the drop-out rate at 30 per cent, and estimates training costs at $9,500 to $13,000 per enrollee a year.

That amount of money would finance a four-year college education anywhere in the country.

In the first year of the Job Corps' existence, it cost taxpayers $190 million; last year $310 million; and $200 million is earmarked for this purpose in the pending budget.

MOST JOB CORPS centers have been in hot water. One in St. Petersburg, Fla., had to be shut down because of furious community hostility. In New Bedford, Mass., the city council unanimously voted to get rid of the center there. Similar local action has been taken against the Camp Kilmer center in New Jersey and the Ft. Custer and Battle Creek centers in Michigan.

Other centers have experienced riots and other difficulties, notably Camp Atterbury, Ind., Camp Breckenridge, Ky., and Tongue Point, Ore.

Significantly illustrative of the bipartisan disapproval of the Job Corps program is what Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., said about it following a shooting episode by an enrollee in his state:

"The basic idea of the Job Corps is fine, but I have become concerned about its implementation, the screening process used in filling the camps, and overall inadequacies in the administration of the program . .. I am well aware that there can be bad apples in every program, but it seems to me there is something wrong."

If and when the House gets a crack at the long-withheld anti-poverty budget, there is a very good chance something will be done about Senator Mansfield's complaints.

In the Senate, Chairman Joseph Clark, D-Pa., of the subcommittee handling this legislation, favors an investigation of the entire anti-poverty program. He is talking of getting one underway next year.

Picard and drove him off to Tanganyika on the mainland.

These guerrilla experts, to say nothing of those trained by Red China, spread north and south of Zambia. They are entrenched in Ghana, Guinea, Burundi, the Cameroons, the Sudan, Somaliland, Tanganyika, Northern Rhodesia, Mali, Morocco and clear down to the border of South Africa.

Once back in their homelands they pillage the helpless people, exactly as the Viet Cong have in South Viet Nam. They do this where anti-Communists often outnumber them 100 to 1. Then the pillaged are left moribund, terrified and ruined by the treachery of their own countrymen.

The foreign policy of the United States should be established on three fundamentals: We must define America's interests clearly; we must realize that so-called world opinion is often merely a Trojan horse manipulated by the Communists themselves; and we should never — never — proceed abroad on the basis of domestic politics here at home.

South Viet Election Doesn't End Danger

SOUTH VIET NAM'S free and resoundingly anti - Communist elections do not diminish the dangers ahead in that troubled land.

Some of these dangers are:

That the Johnson administration, seeking as usual to turn even an international crisis into domestic political advantage, will compromise the cause of freedom in Viet Nam in order to achieve some illusion of peace or progress during the upcoming congressional elections.

That the situation will drift out of real control back and forth between periods of extreme elation and depression until the even more crucial 1968 elections, at which time domestic politicians of the Johnson and Bobby Kennedy variety could turn the entire election into a gigantic auction with candidates falling over themselves to outbid their opponents with reckless plans for ending the Asian confrontation.

THAT THE U. S. administration will continue to undercut the South Vietnamese administration of Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, goaded on by the factions in this country which clearly prefer to see us dealing more with the Viet Cong and less with the general, whose steadfast anti-Communism they cannot abide.

That the administration will use the election results as "proof" that the entire Asian confrontation is merely a political difference that may be resolved by traditional diplomatic palaver.

That the administration will use the election results as "proof" that the South Vietnamese, even if forced into a coalition government with North Vietnamese and local Communists, could "hold their own" electorally, thus making a coalition a perfectly suitable settlement of the fighting.

Is the Johnson administration capable of using this war for its own domestic political purposes? Fewer and fewer Americans doubt this. Polls and studies have shown that the President's wheeling and dealing is his principal political trademark.

THE FACT THAT the Viet Nam situation has slipped pretty much out of the administration's control also is apparent. The administration has made some publicity with descriptions of how well things are going — and could certainly do this during an election — but we are still mired in what most military experts have so long warned against, a major land war in Asia.

The more this stalemate continues, the more President Johnson will actually have to give away to the enemy in any grandstand play for peace at election time. On the other hand there are many who fear that the President may cynically be withholding the decisions needed to break that stalemate until election time.

As to the administration's attitude toward Gen. Ky, it has been hostile all along without strong Presidential opposition to those within his administration who have vilified Ky as harshly as once they attacked the murdered President Diem.

And the Ky administration's effectiveness in permitting the elections has been largely overlooked in the Presidential pleasure at the election returns.

Gen. Ky's projected trip to this country will offer President Johnson a good opportunity to make up for past lack of support. It will be interesting to see if he takes it or continues to be scared off by the pressures of his supporters.

SUNDAY THOUGHT — "In war there is no substitute for Victory" — Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

War And Politics

Speaking of war — as distasteful as it is — we seem to be not striving for all out victory in Viet Nam. Seemingly, the present administration is engaged in an all-out effort to prevent the war from intruding into the consciousness of the American people — at least until after the November elections. This political thesis argues that as long as the war does not affect their personal lives or pocketbooks, the American people will remain only dimly conscious of it.

To this end, inflation has been accepted as a lesser political evil than increased general taxes, a war profits tax or economic controls. In the same vein, the increased forces required to support the war in Viet Nam have been provided by creating new active-duty units instead of calling up trained units of the National Guard and reserve forces. Secretary McNamara has boasted that this program has had minimal effect on the general public.

THIS KIND of political management of war is essentially evil and must reap its retribution. When a nation goes to war, prudence requires it to subordinate all other considerations to the primary objective of winning the war. Thereafter the people can resume their peaceful pursuits.

As Secretary McNamara discovered in 1961, the call-up of reserve forces entails adjustments to the economy and public criticism in time of peace. The 1961 call-up was especially ill-advised because it involved only a show of force and not war necessity.

IN CONSEQUENCE, the Johnson Administration is now carrying out a force expansion comparable with the Korean mobilization but without calling up reserve forces. It is putting the burden of war on young men newly called into service and holding back from the war trained men who have been drawing reserve pay for years. This policy makes a mockery of defense organization.

The inequity of political decision-making which withholds trained units from combat while feeding young recruits into combat has now provoked protest from the U.S. Senate. A rider to the Defense authorization bill would empower the President to call individuals from the reserve units into active service to complete a two-year active duty obligation. Under existing law, these men can be called only with their units.

THE SENATE action only palliates the evil. Reserve units would become training elements supplying the active-duty forces with trained manpower. If heavy drafts of reserve manpower were made, the strength of the reserve forces could be gutted.

We have some fine units in the National Guard and organized reserves. They would certainly prefer to be called up as units and to render their service together rather than provide fillers for active forces. Today they are stymied by the Administration decision to fight a low-key war.

THIS politics of the low-key war plays right into the hands of the enemy. It is the kind of bourgeois reaction on which Soviet strategists have planned. It is the enemy's assurance that the United Sates can be bled in a long war of attrition without ever rising up to end the war.

IN CASE YOU didn't know it, the Census Bureau is getting curiouser and curiouser about your personal affairs. Now it is considering asking questions about marriage and fertility in order to make more accurate population projections and aid in developing the poverty program. Some suggested questions: The date you entered into your present marital status; the date and reason for terminating your first marriage, if you did; the birth of your latest and your first child. P.S. You are required by law to answer all census questions.

You Can't Always Win

Sometimes you can't win — no matter what.

Take the case of Jeffrey Thomason, 18, of London, whose career as a thief had been limited to stealing chickens until recently when he decided to try for the big time and discovered that it takes more than a gun to make a gunman.

Thomason tried to hold up five Londoners in one night and failed miserably each time: (1) Chary of firearms, he loaded his gun with blanks and tried to force a night watchman to help him rob a factory. The watchman's dog barked and Thomason ran away. (2) He then challenged a taxi driver, but the cabbie tricked him and drove off. (3) His next victim, a bus conductor, shouted, scaring Thomason away. (4) He waved a gun at another taxi, but the driver noticed his hand was shaking and calmly passed him by. (5) Finally he tried to stick up two Indian sailors. They didn't speak any English, thought he was trying to sell them the gun, shook their heads and walked away. The one-man crime wave ended when a policeman saw Thomason with a gun in hand and subdued him.

Not Own Anything

I'm about convinced of one thing — the only sure way to avoid slavery in a civilized world is not to own anything and have enough money not to have to work for someone.

MODERN man has been oversold on the prestige of ownership and the supposed security it brings, and there are signs he is in rebellion against it.

It can be argued that the only things worth owning today, aside from personal clothing and a few souvenirs, are a good credit rating and your own soul. Ownership of anything else puts you in bondage, sometimes for life.

The pleasures of owning things are far outweighed by the pleasures of not owning things.

Man is divided into two types — the owner and the renter. Show me an owner and I'll show you a fearful, burdened man. Show me a renter, and I'll show you a liberated man.

The man who thinks he owns things is kidding himself. They own him. He is their slave.

If a man owns a home, that is where he must live, no matter how he may come to hate his neighbors. He fights crabgrass and termites, worries about the vagaries of hurricanes and tax assessors. Everything is a possible threat to the value of his property.

HE OWNS the phonograph records and paintings in his own home, those are the ones he must listen to or look at, though in time they may bore him utterly.

If he owns his car, that is the kind of car he must drive until he can afford a new one. He must insure it, paint it, buy it a license, protect its fenders from scratches and keep it in repair. It is as much trouble as having a child — except that he doesn't have to fret about sending it through college.

Now let us consider the happy renter.

If the neighborhood he lives in runs down, he can pack up and move away. As a matter of fact, he can wreck the neighborhood himself, if he feels like it, and then move away.

Every weekend he can rent a different model car, and if it breaks down he can pocket the key, go back to the agency and rent another. Upkeep problems don't annoy him.

DOES his wife want to stun the other guests at a fancy dress ball? Well, what if she doesn't own a diamond necklace? He can rent one for the evening, and if thieves steal it, what does he care? It doesn't belong to him. He's not out of pocket.

Yep, the more you analyze the so-called joys of ownership the more you realize they may be largely spurious.

The World's Week In Focus

Katzenbach Promoted (?) To No. 2 At State

By Oland Silk

PRESIDENT Johnson casually shuffled his cabinet. Congressional committees split the Adam and approved an anti-inflation program. Arthur Goldberg, U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations, proposed a new peace plan; it called for a de-escalation of air and ground warfare and a phased, supervised military withdrawal by both sides from South Viet Nam.

The cost of living went up four tenths of one per cent. The jump was most noticeable at the supermarket, the doctor's office, and the used car lots. To make matters a little worse, Ford, Chrysler and General Motors hiked new car prices. Inceases in that order, respectively, amounted to $113, $92, and $56 per auto. American Motors will not announce any changes until next week. The increases were frowned on by the Johnson Administration, and denounced as "scandalous" by Walter Reuther, United Auto Worker President.

AS OF late Thursday, these were the major news highlights. Then came the arrest of 13 underworld chieftains, including the biggest names in the Cosa Nostra (Mafia). The "little Appalachin" meeting in Queens, New York, was raided by state police. Netted were Michael Miranda, top Mafia boss in New York, and Carlos Marcello, Louisiana underworld figure described in Senate testimony as Mafia kingpin of the South.

Marcello, whose headquarters is in New Orleans, was accompanied by three other visitors from that city: Joseph Marcello, a brother, Joseph Gagliano, and Anthony Corillo.

ALL 13 were named by Joseph Valachi, former Mafia member, in testimony before Senate investigators. Valachi is in prison under close guard against gang reprisal.

Cabinet Shift

WASHINGTON was surprised and not a little puzzled by President Johnson's announcement that Attorney General Katzenbach would step down and become undersecretary of state. The puzzlement centered on two things: Katzenbach would leave a Cabinet post for a lesser one at a $5,000 cut in salary; secondly, although he is an expert on international law, he has no experience in foreign affairs. Senators, especially those on the Foreign Relations Committee, hauled out their crystal ball for a reading into the tidy little mystery. No hard conclusions were reached by Friday.

Katzenbach, architect of the 1966 civil rights legislation, will replace George Ball, who will resume law practice. Ball has been the lone "dove" among Administration advisers, having no stomach for our Viet Nam policies. As No. 2 man under Secretary Rusk, this put him in an awkward spot.

OBSERVERS immediately speculated on the possibility that Katzenbach would one day become Secretary of State when and if Rusk resigns. They tried to visualize Katzenbach dealing with the Russians. One wag shrugged such doubts off this way: "Anyone who can deal with Senator Dirksen won't have any trouble with Gromyko."

Other changes:

THE NO. 3 State Department post went to Eugene Rostow, replacing Thomas Mann. Rostow, a former dean of Yale Law school, will devote himself primarily to international economic affairs.

Foy Kohler, U.S. Ambassador to Moscow, will become deputy undersecretary replacing U. Alexis Johnson, now serving as Ambassador to Japan. The big question left unanswered was — who will replace Katzenbach. The President said he hadn't made up his mind.

Clipped Wings

A NEW YORK jurist once said of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N. Y., after the latter had played hare to the court's legal hounds, that he was like a "mackerel that shines and stinks in the night."

There is little doubt that Powell's private life is a mess. He has been married twice and is now estranged from his third wife. He has been sued successfully for libel. He recently hired a playboy bunny as a staff assistant. To evade a host of private troubles, the Harlem Congressman-Preacher, has aped a famous Harlem group, the Globetrotters.

His private life interfered so much into his public life that fellow members of his House Labor and Education Committee mutinied. Although the committee voted 27 to 1 to clip his Chairmanly wings, Powell said everything was just fine, that the steps taken to reduce his powers were "very progressive." The leaders of the mutiny thought so, too.

HERE'S WHAT THEY DID:

Authorized the chairman of a subcommittee which handles a bill to call it up for action if the chairman refuses to do so. Powell has been accused of pocketing committee-approved bills he doesn't like — a trick not unknown to other Committee chairmen.

Gave the committee veto power over Powell's appointments of committee employes and his use of committee funds. The original proposal would have given these powers to a majority of the committee's 21 Democrats, but Powell got an amendment through which allowed him to make staff changes "in consultation and with the approval of the majority."

REP. SAM Gibbons, D-Fla., led the revolt. He did so because of Powell's mixed-up private life, his notorious absenteeism, his advocacy of "Black Power," and his high-handed committee methods. Gibbons was convinced Powell's wings had been clipped, not "pruned" as others stated.

The lone supporter of Powell was Rep. William Ayres, of Ohio, the committee's ranking Republican.

Powell's troubles may be only beginning. Tomorrow a special House subcommittee begins an investigation into his financial affairs.

Governors Meet

SOUTHERN governors met at Kentucky Dam Village to discuss common problems. The old rallying cry of states rights was muted. There was more concern about state responsibility and how the states could play a more vital role in the federal system.

Still a bone of contention were the federal integration guidelines. Thus the race issue popped up where in the past it has been shelved for obvious reasons.

Most of the state leaders agreed with Gov. Wallace of Alabama that the federal government is pushing too hard, too fast on desegregation. But none of those interviewed had any intentions of following Wallace's urging and pass state laws forbidding school mixing except under court order. However, the governors of South Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi, Virginia and Georgia agreed unanimously that the guidelines go beyond the Civil Rights Act.

Gov. Wallace said he was seriously thinking of running for President in 1968 . . . . and in all 50 states. He ran in three preferrential primaries in 1964, garnering 40 per cent of the vote in Maryland, Indiana, and Wisconsin. He withdrew from the race to support GOP nominee, Barry Goldwater.

AT WEEK'S end, Wallace faced a contempt of court showdown for the second time in his turbulent career. Attorneys for the NAACP filed a motion charging Wallace had violated a 1964 court order which prohibited him from interfering by any means the elimination of racial discrimination by local school officials. If upheld, Wallace could be jailed, or total statewide desegregation in Alabama could be ordered.

IN NEW York's Harlem, Black Power advocates converged on a $5 million model school where a controversy raged over who should run it—blacks or whites. The white principal, Stanley Lisser, voluntarily resigned, but was reinstated by the school board when parents, teachers and other Harlem principals sprang to his defense.

Parents of the mainly Negro and Puerto Rican children originally demanded that white children be bused into Harlem as an integration measure. When this was denied, they sought control of the school curriculum and faculty, and the replacement of Lisser by a Negro principal.

Mayor John Lindsay stepped into the fracas Thursday. He took a stand against the clamorous black power advocates. "Control should be in the hands of the Board of Education," he told them. Demonstrations, picketing, and arrests kept police hopping at the lavishly equipped school.

STOKELY Carmichael, militant leader of SNCC and the Black Panther party, failed to prevent classes from being held. Fresh from an Atlanta jail, Carmichael and CORE leaders boasted of making the school a "national battleground."

Lindsay, who backed Lisser all the way as one of the finest principals in New York, said, "the important thing is that the teachers teach and the children learn."

IN GRENADA, Miss., FBI agents arrested 13 white men — one a justice of the peace — on federal charges of conspiracy in the attacks on Negro school children. Maximum punishment under the charges would be 10 years imprisonment and a $5,000 fine. A petition signed by 300 whites condemned the use of "violence in the settlement of our problems."

In Jackson, the defense won an indefinite delay of trial for 17 white men accused of conspiracy in the murder of three civil rights workers in Philadelphia, Miss. The 17 include Sheriff Lawrence Rainey and deputy Cecil Price.

Weapon Found

AN ARMY bayonet found within throwing distance of the Kenilworth, Ill., home where Valerie Percy was beaten and stabbed to death may be the murder weapon. The 14-inch bayonet was recovered from Lake Michigan by Coast Guard divers. Miss Percy was the daughter of Charles Percy, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate against Democrat incumbent Paul Douglas. The tragedy halted all campaigning for an indefinite period.

A "good fingerprint" found on glass cut from a French door of the Percy home was the best clue in the case. The bayonet was under microscopic examination.

Other major domestic news:

REPUBLICANS issued a lengthy critique of Administration policy on Viet Nam. They said a way must be found to "end this war more speedily and at smaller cost while safeguarding the independence and freedom of South Viet Nam." The report traced the history of the war, but gave no suggestions on how to conduct it or win it.

THE MILITARY lowered mental standards in order to draft 20,000 men within nine months for special training and eventual regular service.

SENATOR DIRKSEN lost by nine votes to get Senate approval of his constitutional amendment permitting voluntary prayers in the public schools. He vowed to continue the fight. The Illinois Republican emphasized that his amendment would specifically ban school authorities from prescribing the form or content of payers, but would allow voluntary prayers, silent or oral.

THE HOUSE Ways and Means Committee voted to suspend until 1967 the seven per cent investment credit enjoyed by business since 1962. With civil rights dead for this session, Congress took up gun control, truth in packaging, teacher corps, transportation, Cuban refugees, and antipoverty.

THE HOUSE Rules Committee called for an investigation of the school desegregation guidelines. The House must approve the plan.

SURVEYOR 2 smashed into the moon at 6,000 miles an hour Thursday night. It was supposed to have made a soft landing and photograph terrain where astronauts may land. Trouble developed when a small rocket motor refused to fire on command.

Same Old Reaction

MOSCOW scorned the peace proposal of Ambassador Goldberg as announced before the U.N. There was more of the same from Warsaw. As of Friday, there was no answer from Hanoi.

The Goldberg plan was bared shortly after the 21st session of the world agency got underway. U Thant agreed to remain secretary general until the end of the year, but no further.

RED CHINA'S internal troubles piled higher. The young Red Guards were taking on the Army. Nationalist China viewed the unleashing of young hoodlums as evidence Mao is desperately trying to remain in power.

POLLS SHOWED President Johnson in trouble with the voter because of Viet Nam. Meanwhile the buildup continued. More warplanes were ordered as Guam-based bombers roared over North Viet Nam in the largest action of the war. U.S. pilots downed two MIGs. It was also disclosed that tons of plant-killing chemicals were dropped onto the 6-mile demilitarized zone to halt infiltration.

The Week's Twin Cities-Area News In Review

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

Fall arrived officially last week, but all the smoke was not from burning leaves. There was hot copy on the home front.

Naturally, some of the smoke was rising from the political turf as a decimated field turned into the stretch of Saturday's second Democratic primary. There were billows from many another quarter, however.

Indeed, if so-called hot copy did generate smoke, the Ouachita Police Jury would probably have occupied the week's most voluminous cloud. Besides turning the parish ship of state down what some members have chosen to call private driveways, the jurors at a single meeting: raised the possibility of abolishing the jury; did abolish a frequently-debated fireworks ban; and sounded an implication of "malfeasance."

TYLER

It was billed as a routine meeting. Later developments, however, had one juror calling for another's resignation, while the latter apparently was going ahead with plans for a referendum to change the face of parish government.

Meanwhile, the City of Monroe was stoking the fire under the long-simmering issue of unpleasant odors experienced on its southside. After a double sifting of the ashes in two recent, inconclusive studies of the problem, Mayor W. L. Howard announced dramatically, following a tour of Olin Mathieson in West Monroe, that the industry was making an "all-out" effort to eliminate the odors.

Both the city and Olin had been named in the earlier studies as possible contributors.

And thus did fall come to the Twin City area in name only. Though there were a couple of cool nights, the weather, true to form, stayed unseasonably warm, and the temperature of the news matched it, degree for degree.

Following are a few details of these and other events of National Dog and U.S. Constitution Week:

RIGHT-OF-WAY

Hub of one of the police jury debates was the right size for a right-of-way on a parish road project. The ordinance book lists a minimum of 60 feet, but the jury Monday night, by 13-6, decided that 40 would do — at least on the Floyd Leonard Extension project in Ward 9.

An opponent, Curtis Joiner, Ward 3, raised again the cry of "private driveway," since the $1,487 extension would serve only one home, being built, and saw possible "malfeasance" in the apparent contradiction to the ordinance.

Ultimately, President T. W. Humphries directed the parish engineer to seek acquisition of a larger right-of-way. The district attorney's office, meanwhile, not consulted Monday night, asked copies of proposed road resolutions prior to the jury meetings so it could "offer an opinion if one is asked."

But it was M. W. Montgomery, Ward 3, who gave the meeting what likely was its biggest jolt, when he declared, after defeat of his motion to pay part of a raise for the parish voter registrar, "I move we go to a commission type of government and do away with the jury, get rid of this mess."

Tabling apparently did not blunt the veteran members unexpected thrust, as he stated and restated the next day his intent to circulate a petition for an election on the government change. Only an election could gauge the depth of support for a change. However, the first thing Montgomery's plan earned him was a suggestion of resignation from John Wilhite of Ward 1.

Branding commission government "almost a dictatorship," Wilhite held that, "I don't think he can conscientiously represent his people while seeking another form of government." Montgomery declined the suggestion: "The governor and the people of Ward 3 are the only ones that can make me resign."

The same jury session included fireworks on the subject of fireworks, as, in a third recent vote on the parish ban of the lesser explosives, the prohibition fell in ruins. Shaky from the beginning, support for the measure diminished with each nose count, finally going into the minority by one vote. Insisting to the end it was a good ordinance, its sponsor, Curtis Joiner, conceded the ban a dead issue.

Curiously, the least fiery end accomplished by the jury during the week could be construed to have the greatest literal connection with smoke, though this is not to say the project didn't have its moments while developing over the past two years.

The reference is to the rural fire protection program and to gala groundbreaking ceremonies Wednesday for the first of four fire stations — the headquarters station on Fink's Hideaway Road. An impressive roster of official and volunteer workers in the program turned out to witness and participate in the symbolic start of the station.

The main facility, to be joined soon by a second, west of the river, is marked for completion around the first of 1967. The third and fourth stations for Chief Homer Massingill's department will be operational in August of 1967.

Humphries, Fred Huenefeld Jr., chairman of the citizens' group which beat the drums for the tax-bond issue that made the work possible, and others present predicted a "great future" for Ouachita Parish.

Also encouraging during the week, according to the jury president, were bids opened on the building of a new road department headquarters in West Monroe. Though taken under advisement, the apparent low, $105,550, was considered good for the work on Well Road, where the massive operation is moving. The present headquarters site, on the Sterlington Road, has been sold for $71,000.

MASSIVE MOVES

The subject of massive moves opens other vistas.

Parish courthouse operations during the week were continuing their phasing into the former Ouachita High School a few blocks away, to allow courthouse expansion and renovation ample room. The cutting of the first of about 12 trees — some of them a venerable 40-years-old — was going ahead as the week closed, and without the outery that greeded the initial mention of their loss.

In West Monroe, Glenwood Hospital officials were proceeding with a large move of their own, as bids were opened Friday on the addition of two floors and major new treatment facilities. Curtailed when the hospital commissioners declined to go along with conditions on the use of fedeal money, the project still includes a full 34-bed fifth floor and a sixth floor of the same size to be shelled in. An original $870,000 bond issue, passed in 1964, has grown with interest to a total resource of approximately $1 million. Friday's bids were placed under study.

Another of the week's massive moves was the assembling of the first working meeting of intergovernmental planners from Monroe, West Monroe and the police jury. Robert Downing, chairman of the jury's intergovernmental delegation, called the conclave in Mayor W. L. Howard's office as the outgrowth of a mid-May gathering at which the merits of closer cooperation were agreed upon.

The meeting Thursday was closed to the press, but statements later listed concentrated efforts planned in the areas of roads, drainage, insect control and garbage disposal. Chief among these will be roads, in view of stiffer federal planning requirements in the transportation field.

The proposed Fifth District sales tax also was discussed, but officials brushed off questions about the new tentative funds-split that was deemed acceptable by the three governments. School salary raises, the originally announced main purpose for the tax, received a shot in the arm during the week when Gov. John McKeithen indicated state funds are being sought to provide the recommended increases, irrespective of local arrangements.

And, lastly, in massive moves, election officials were hoping for a massive move by voters to the polls in Saturday's primary. Results are on today's Page One, but at stake were three Ouachita School Board seats, a Monroe School Board seat and the Third District seat on the Louisiana Public Service Commission.

A record total of 37,241 parish Democrats — including 5,033 registered by federal people — could have gone to the polls. At last report, federal observers were due again to watch the polls Saturday, as they did in the August primary, not withstanding that no federal posts were involved in the runoff.

ODOR PROBLEM

The southside odor problem, a nettle since summer a year ago, reached an apparent milestone with the previously-mentioned comments of the Monroe mayor. Though Olin Mathieson has said little publicly, Howard stressed that, "The City Council very definitely feels that once Olin has been able to eliminate their problem, the situation on the southside of our city will vanish."

His remarks represented the first indication of a foreseeable end of foul odors "during certain wind and weather conditions," and the first public dsiclosure that Monroe and the industry were pursuing a joint interest in the matter.

Howard, after talks at Olin, did not attempt a timetable, but he said special equipment has been ordered by the company, and he added his and the council's satisfaction that, "They are experimenting in every way they can." He gave his intention to "keep close contact with Olin officials as to the progress being made."

Some residents have blamed the city's sewerage treatment plant, started in September, 1965, and Howard, while he admitted creation of odor "for a matter of a few weeks," declared that this was "only until bacterial activation took place."

LAST PARAGRAPHS

Down to the last paragraphs, with volumes still to write, the customary dodge of a flash-by again is required. And so:

—The near crash of an Orlando, Fla., man on landing at Monroe Municipal Airport last Sunday was ominous. The same day, Henry Troy Parsons of Vicksburg, Miss., took off, flying for home from Shreveport. Two days later, his small airplane and then Parsons' body were found by Civil Air Patrol units from Louisiana, where they fell in woodlands nine miles northwest of Holly Ridge.

— A local Negro Marine, Lance Cpl. Claiborne L. Shaw, 18, gave his life in Viet Nam fighting, dispatches said, while other releases acclaimed a Columbia Marine, Lance Cpl. Floyd A. Graves, the hero of a an August battle in the same theatre. Graves was part of a company which repulsed a key Viet Cong attack, killing about 80 enemy.

— A two-vehicle crash Wednesday on Louisiana Hwy. 15 near Ferriday killed three and injured two others. The dead were identified as Mrs. Annie Mae Clark of Clayton, Lawrence Benthley, 57-year-old Clayton Negro, and his wife, Carolyn.

—Seventeen-year-old Susan Gale Carter of Mer Rouge was selected queen of the North Louisiana Cotton Festival and Fair at Bastrop.

— T. O. Moses, president, and Lionel O. Green, secretary, of the Ouachita Parish Central Trades and Labor Council were elected to serve on the board of directors of the United Givers' campaign.

— Members of the Monroe Large Business Division of the United Givers' Fund gathered to receive their assignments, kicking off an effort to gather pledges totalling $107,191.

—Circus-goers were awaiting the arrival of the Clyde Beauty-Cole Brothers show in Monroe, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus. Performances are today at Bernstein Ball Park, set for 2 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. Ouachita Parish crippled children have been invited to attend the first show free.

— Mrs. Cecile Burkett, until her recent discharge the principal of Drew Elementary School, was the apparent subject of a compromise worked out behind closed doors Tuesday by the Ouachita School Board. Mrs. Burkett, spokesmen said, is offered a year's leave with pay and employment afterwards in a capacity other than principal.

In the same vein, the increased forces required to support the war in Viet Nam have been provided by creating new active-duty units instead of calling up trained units of the National Guard and reserve forces. Secretary McNamara has boasted that this program has had minimal effect on the general public.

THIS KIND of political management of war is essentially evil and must reap its retribution. When a nation goes to war, prudence requires it to subordinate all other considerations to the primary objective of winning the war. Thereafter the people can resume their peaceful pursuits.

As Secretary McNamara discovered in 1961, the call-up of reserve forces entails adjustments to the economy and public criticism in time of peace. The 1961 call-up was especially ill-advised because it involved only a show of force and not war necessity.

IN CONSEQUENCE, the Johnson Administration is now carrying out a force expansion comparable with the Korean mobilization but without calling up reserve forces. It is putting the burden of war on young men newly called into service and holding back from the war trained men who have been drawing reserve pay for years. This policy makes a mockery of defense organization.

The inequity of political decision-makin which withholds trained units from combat while feeding young recruits into combat has now provoked protest from the U.S. Senate. A rider to the Defense authorization bill would empower the President to call individuals from the reserve units into active service to complete a two-year active duty obligation. Under existing law, these men can be called only with their units.

THE SENATE action only palliates the evil. Reserve units would become training elements supplying the active-duty forces with trained manpower. If heavy drafts of reserve manpower were made, the strength of the reserve forces could be gutted.

We have some fine units in the National Guard and organized reserves. They would certainly prefer to be called up as units and to render their service together rather than provide fillers for active forces. Today they are stymied by the Administration decision to fight a low-key war.

THIS politics of the low-key war plays right into the hands of the enemy. It is the kind of bourgeois reaction on which Soviet strategists have planned. It is the enemy's assurance that the United Sates can be bled in a long war of attrition without ever rising up to end the war.

IN CASE YOU didn't know it, the Census Bureau is getting curiouser and curiouser about your personal affairs. Now it is considering asking questions about marriage and fertility in order to make more accurate population projections and aid in developing the poverty program. Some suggested questions: The date you entered into your present marital status; the date and reason for terminating your first marriage, if you did; the birth of your latest and your first child. P.S. You are required by law to answer all census questions.

You Can't Always Win

Sometimes you can't win — no matter what.

Take the case of Jeffrey Thomason, 18, of London, whose career as a thief had been limited to stealing chickens until recently when he decided to try for the big time and discovered that it takes more than a gun to make a gunman.

Thomason tried to hold up five Londoners in one night and failed miserably each time: (1) Chary of firearms, he loaded his gun with blanks and tried to force a night watchman to help him rob a factory. The watchman's dog barked and Thomason ran away. (2) He then challenged a taxi driver, but the cabbie tricked him and drove off. (3) His next victim, a bus conductor, shouted, scaring Thomason away. (4) He waved a gun at another taxi, but the driver noticed his hand was shaking and calmly passed him by. (5) Finally he tried to stick up two Indian sailors. They didn't speak any English, thought he was trying to sell them the gun, shook their heads and walked away. The one-man crime wave ended when a policeman saw Thomason with a gun in hand and subdued him.

Not Own Anything

I'm about convinced of one thing — the only sure way to avoid slavery in a civilized world is not to own anything and have enough money not to have to work for someone.

MODERN man has been oversold on the prestige of ownership and the supposed security it brings, and there are signs he is in rebellion against it.

It can be argued that the only things worth owning today, aside from personal clothing and a few souvenirs, are a good credit rating and your own soul. Ownership of anything else puts you in bondage, sometimes for life.

The pleasures of owning things are far outweighed by the pleasures of not owning things.

Man is divided into two types — the owner and the renter. Show me an owner and I'll show you a fearful, burdened man. Show me a renter, and I'll show you a liberated man.

The man who thinks he owns things is kidding himself. They own him. He is their slave.

If a man owns a home, that is where he must live, no matter how he may come to hate his neighbors. He fights crabgrass and termites, worries about the vagaries of hurricanes and tax assessors. Everything is a possible threat to the value of his property.

HE OWNS the phonograph records and paintings in his own home, those are the ones he must listen to or look at, though in time they may bore him utterly.

If he owns his car, that is the kind of car he must drive until he can afford a new one. He must insure it, paint it, buy it a license, protect its fenders from scratches and keep it in repair. It is as much trouble as having a child — except that he doesn't have to fret about sending it through college.

Now let us consider the happy renter.

If the neighborhood he lives in runs down, he can pack up and move away. As a matter of fact, he can wreck the neighborhood himself, if he feels like it, and then move away.

Every weekend he can rent a different model car, and if it breaks down he can pocket the key, go back to the agency and rent another. Upkeep problems don't annoy him.

DOES his wife want to stun the other guests at a fancy dress ball? Well, what if she doesn't own a diamond necklace? He can rent one for the evening, and if thieves steal it, what does he care? It doesn't belong to him. He's not out of pocket.

Yep, the more you analyze the so-called joys of ownership the more you realize they may be largely spurious.

The World's Week In Focus

Katzenbach Promoted (?) To No. 2 At State

By Oland Silk

PRESIDENT Johnson casually shuffled his cabinet. Congressional committees split the Adam and approved an anti-inflation program. Arthur Goldberg, U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations, proposed a new peace plan; it called for a de-escalation of air and ground warfare and a phased, supervised military withdrawal by both sides from South Viet Nam.

The cost of living went up four tenths of one per cent. The jump was most noticeable at the supermarket, the doctor's office, and the used car lots. To make matters a little worse, Ford, Chrysler and General Motors hiked new car prices. Inceases in that order, respectively, amounted to $113, $92, and $56 per auto. American Motors will not announce any changes until next week. The increases were frowned on by the Johnson Administration, and denounced as "scandalous" by Walter Reuther, United Auto Worker President.

AS OF late Thursday, these were the major news highlights. Then came the arrest of 13 underworld chieftains, including the biggest names in the Cosa Nostra (Mafia). The "little Appalachin" meeting in Queens, New York, was raided by state police. Netted were Michael Miranda, top Mafia boss in New York, and Carlos Marcello, Louisiana underworld figure described in Senate testimony as Mafia kingpin of the South.

Marcello, whose headquarters is in New Orleans, was accompanied by three other visitors from that city: Joseph Marcello, a brother, Joseph Gagliano, and Anthony Corillo.

ALL 13 were named by Joseph Valachi, former Mafia member, in testimony before Senate investigators. Valachi is in prison under close guard against gang reprisal.

Cabinet Shift

WASHINGTON was surprised and not a little puzzled by President Johnson's announcement that Attorney General Katzenbach would step down and become undersecretary of state. The puzzlement centered on two things: Katzenbach would leave a Cabinet post for a lesser one at a $5,000 cut in salary; secondly, although he is an expert on international law, he has no experience in foreign affairs. Senators, especially those on the Foreign Relations Committee, hauled out their crystal ball for a reading into the tidy little mystery. No hard conclusions were reached by Friday.

Katzenbach, architect of the 1966 civil rights legislation, will replace George Ball, who will resume law practice. Ball has been the lone "dove" among Administration advisers, having no stomach for our Viet Nam policies. As No. 2 man under Secretary Rusk, this put him in an awkward spot.

OBSERVERS immediately speculated on the possibility that Katzenbach would one day become Secretary of State when and if Rusk resigns. They tried to visualize Katzenbach dealing with the Russians. One wag shrugged such doubts off this way: "Anyone who can deal with Senator Dirksen won't have any trouble with Gromyko."

Other changes:

THE NO. 3 State Department post went to Eugene Rostow, replacing Thomas Mann. Rostow, a former dean of Yale Law school, will devote himself primarily to international economic affairs.

Foy Kohler, U.S. Ambassador to Moscow, will become deputy undersecretary replacing U. Alexis Johnson, now serving as Ambassador to Japan. The big question left unanswered was — who will replace Katzenbach. The President said he hadn't made up his mind.

Clipped Wings

A NEW YORK jurist once said of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N. Y., after the latter had played hare to the court's legal hounds, that he was like a "mackerel that shines and stinks in the night."

There is little doubt that Powell's private life is a mess. He has been married twice and is now estranged from his third wife. He has been sued successfully for libel. He recently hired a playboy bunny as a staff assistant. To evade a host of private troubles, the Harlem Congressman-Preacher, has aped a famous Harlem group, the Globetrotters.

His private life interfered so much into his public life that fellow members of his House Labor and Education Committee mutinied. Although the committee voted 27 to 1 to clip his Chairmanly wings, Powell said everything was just fine, that the steps taken to reduce his powers were "very progressive." The leaders of the mutiny thought so, too.

HERE'S WHAT THEY DID:

Authorized the chairman of a subcommittee which handles a bill to call it up for action if the chairman refuses to do so. Powell has been accused of pocketing committee-approved bills he doesn't like — a trick not unknown to other Committee chairmen.

Gave the committee veto power over Powell's appointments of committee employes and his use of committee funds. The original proposal would have given these powers to a majority of the committee's 21 Democrats, but Powell got an amendment through which allowed him to make staff changes "in consultation and with the approval of the majority."

REP. SAM Gibbons, D-Fla., led the revolt. He did so because of Powell's mixed-up private life, his notorious absenteeism, his advocacy of "Black Power," and his high-handed committee methods. Gibbons was convinced Powell's wings had been clipped, not "pruned" as others stated.

The lone supporter of Powell was Rep. William Ayres, of Ohio, the committee's ranking Republican.

Powell's troubles may be only beginning. Tomorrow a special House subcommittee begins an investigation into his financial affairs.

Governors Meet

SOUTHERN governors met at Kentucky Dam Village to discuss common problems. The old rallying cry of states rights was muted. There was more concern about state responsibility and how the states could play a more vital role in the federal system.

Still a bone of contention were the federal integration guidelines. Thus the race issue popped up where in the past it has been shelved for obvious reasons.

Most of the state leaders agreed with Gov. Wallace of Alabama that the federal government is pushing too hard, too fast on desegregation. But none of those interviewed had any intentions of following Wallace's urging and pass state laws forbidding school mixing except under court order. However, the governors of South Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi, Virginia and Georgia agreed unanimously that the guidelines go beyond the Civil Rights Act.

Gov. Wallace said he was seriously thinking of running for President in 1968 . . . . and in all 50 states. He ran in three preferrential primaries in 1964, garnering 40 per cent of the vote in Maryland, Indiana, and Wisconsin. He withdrew from the race to support GOP nominee, Barry Goldwater.

AT WEEK'S end, Wallace faced a contempt of court showdown for the second time in his turbulent career. Attorneys for the NAACP filed a motion charging Wallace had violated a 1964 court order which prohibited him from interfering by any means the elimination of racial discrimination by local school officials. If upheld, Wallace could be jailed, or total statewide desegregation in Alabama could be ordered.

IN NEW York's Harlem, Black Power advocates converged on a $5 million model school where a controversy raged over who should run it—blacks or whites. The white principal, Stanley Lisser, voluntarily resigned, but was reinstated by the school board when parents, teachers and other Harlem principals sprang to his defense.

Parents of the mainly Negro and Puerto Rican children originally demanded that white children be bused into Harlem as an integration measure. When this was denied, they sought control of the school curriculum and faculty, and the replacement of Lisser by a Negro principal.

Mayor John Lindsay stepped into the fracas Thursday. He took a stand against the clamorous black power advocates. "Control should be in the hands of the Board of Education," he told them. Demonstrations, picketing, and arrests kept police hopping at the lavishly equipped school.

STOKELY Carmichael, militant leader of SNCC and the Black Panther party, failed to prevent classes from being held. Fresh from an Atlanta jail, Carmichael and CORE leaders boasted of making the school a "national battleground."

Lindsay, who backed Lisser all the way as one of the finest principals in New York, said, "the important thing is that the teachers teach and the children learn."

IN GRENADA, Miss., FBI agents arrested 13 white men — one a justice of the peace — on federal charges of conspiracy in the attacks on Negro school children. Maximum punishment under the charges would be 10 years imprisonment and a $5,000 fine. A petition signed by 300 whites condemned the use of "violence in the settlement of our problems."

In Jackson, the defense won an indefinite delay of trial for 17 white men accused of conspiracy in the murder of three civil rights workers in Philadelphia, Miss. The 17 include Sheriff Lawrence Rainey and deputy Cecil Price.

Weapon Found

AN ARMY bayonet found within throwing distance of the Kenilworth, Ill., home where Valerie Percy was beaten and stabbed to death may be the murder weapon. The 14-inch bayonet was recovered from Lake Michigan by Coast Guard divers. Miss Percy was the daughter of Charles Percy, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate against Democrat incumbent Paul Douglas. The tragedy halted all campaigning for an indefinite period.

A "good fingerprint" found on glass cut from a French door of the Percy home was the best clue in the case. The bayonet was under microscopic examination.

Other major domestic news:

REPUBLICANS issued a lengthy critique of Administration policy on Viet Nam. They said a way must be found to "end this war more speedily and at smaller cost while safeguarding the independence and freedom of South Viet Nam." The report traced the history of the war, but gave no suggestions on how to conduct it or win it.

THE MILITARY lowered mental standards in order to draft 20,000 men within nine months for special training and eventual regular service.

SENATOR DIRKSEN lost by nine votes to get Senate approval of his constitutional amendment permitting voluntary prayers in the public schools. He vowed to continue the fight. The Illinois Republican emphasized that his amendment would specifically ban school authorities from prescribing the form or content of payers, but would allow voluntary prayers, silent or oral.

THE HOUSE Ways and Means Committee voted to suspend until 1967 the seven per cent investment credit enjoyed by business since 1962. With civil rights dead for this session, Congress took up gun control, truth in packaging, teacher corps, transportation, Cuban refugees, and antipoverty.

THE HOUSE Rules Committee called for an investigation of the school desegregation guidelines. The House must approve the plan.

SURVEYOR 2 smashed into the moon at 6,000 miles an hour Thursday night. It was supposed to have made a soft landing and photograph terrain where astronauts may land. Trouble developed when a small rocket motor refused to fire on command.

Same Old Reaction

MOSCOW scorned the peace proposal of Ambassador Goldberg as announced before the U.N. There was more of the same from Warsaw. As of Friday, there was no answer from Hanoi.

The Goldberg plan was bared shortly after the 21st session of the world agency got underway. U Thant agreed to remain secretary general until the end of the year, but no further.

RED CHINA'S internal troubles piled higher. The young Red Guards were taking on the Army. Nationalist China viewed the unleashing of young hoodlums as evidence Mao is desperately trying to remain in power.

POLLS SHOWED President Johnson in trouble with the voter because of Viet Nam. Meanwhile the buildup continued. More warplanes were ordered as Guam-based bombers roared over North Viet Nam in the largest action of the war. U.S. pilots downed two MIGs. It was also disclosed that tons of plant-killing chemicals were dropped onto the 6-mile demilitarized zone to halt infiltration.

The Week's Twin Cities-Area News In Review

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

Fall arrived officially last week, but all the smoke was not from burning leaves. There was hot copy on the home front.

Naturally, some of the smoke was rising from the political turf as a decimated field turned into the stretch of Saturday's second Democratic primary. There were billows from many another quarter, however.

Indeed, if so-called hot copy did generate smoke, the Ouachita Police Jury would probably have occupied the week's most voluminous cloud. Besides turning the parish ship of state down what some members have chosen to call private driveways, the jurors at a single meeting: raised the possibility of abolishing the jury; did abolish a frequently-debated fireworks ban; and sounded an implication of "malfeasance."

TYLER

It was billed as a routine meeting. Later developments, however, had one juror calling for another's resignation, while the latter apparently was going ahead with plans for a referendum to change the face of parish government.

Meanwhile, the City of Monroe was stoking the fire under the long-simmering issue of unpleasant odors experienced on its southside. After a double sifting of the ashes in two recent, inconclusive studies of the problem, Mayor W. L. Howard announced dramatically, following a tour of Olin Mathieson in West Monroe, that the industry was making an "all-out" effort to eliminate the odors.

Both the city and Olin had been named in the earlier studies as possible contributors.

And thus did fall come to the Twin City area in name only. Though there were a couple of cool nights, the weather, true to form, stayed unseasonably warm, and the temperature of the news matched it, degree for degree.

Following are a few details of these and other events of National Dog and U.S. Constitution Week:

RIGHT-OF-WAY

Hub of one of the police jury debates was the right size for a right-of-way on a parish road project. The ordinance book lists a minimum of 60 feet, but the jury Monday night, by 13-6, decided that 40 would do — at least on the Floyd Leonard Extension project in Ward 9.

An opponent, Curtis Joiner, Ward 3, raised again the cry of "private driveway," since the $1,487 extension would serve only one home, being built, and saw possible "malfeasance" in the apparent contradiction to the ordinance.

Ultimately, President T. W. Humphries directed the parish engineer to seek acquisition of a larger right-of-way. The district attorney's office, meanwhile, not consulted Monday night, asked copies of proposed road resolutions prior to the jury meetings so it could "offer an opinion if one is asked."

But it was M. W. Montgomery, Ward 3, who gave the meeting what likely was its biggest jolt, when he declared, after defeat of his motion to pay part of a raise for the parish voter registrar, "I move we go to a commission type of government and do away with the jury, get rid of this mess."

Tabling apparently did not blunt the veteran members unexpected thrust, as he stated and restated the next day his intent to circulate a petition for an election on the government change. Only an election could gauge the depth of support for a change. However, the first thing Montgomery's plan earned him was a suggestion of resignation from John Wilhite of Ward 1.

Branding commission government "almost a dictatorship," Wilhite held that, "I don't think he can conscientiously represent his people while seeking another form of government." Montgomery declined the suggestion: "The governor and the people of Ward 3 are the only ones that can make me resign."

The same jury session included fireworks on the subject of fireworks, as, in a third recent vote on the parish ban of the lesser explosives, the prohibition fell in ruins. Shaky from the beginning, support for the measure diminished with each nose count, finally going into the minority by one vote. Insisting to the end it was a good ordinance, its sponsor, Curtis Joiner, conceded the ban a dead issue.

Curiously, the least fiery end accomplished by the jury during the week could be construed to have the greatest literal connection with smoke, though this is not to say the project didn't have its moments while developing over the past two years.

The reference is to the rural fire protection program and to gala groundbreaking ceremonies Wednesday for the first of four fire stations — the headquarters station on Fink's Hideaway Road. An impressive roster of official and volunteer workers in the program turned out to witness and participate in the symbolic start of the station.

The main facility, to be joined soon by a second, west of the river, is marked for completion around the first of 1967. The third and fourth stations for Chief Homer Massingill's department will be operational in August of 1967.

Humphries, Fred Huenefeld Jr., chairman of the citizens' group which beat the drums for the tax-bond issue that made the work possible, and others present predicted a "great future" for Ouachita Parish.

Also encouraging during the week, according to the jury president, were bids opened on the building of a new road department headquarters in West Monroe. Though taken under advisement, the apparent low, $105,550, was considered good for the work on Well Road, where the massive operation is moving. The present headquarters site, on the Sterlington Road, has been sold for $71,000.

MASSIVE MOVES

The subject of massive moves opens other vistas.

Parish courthouse operations during the week were continuing their phasing into the former Ouachita High School a few blocks away, to allow courthouse expansion and renovation ample room. The cutting of the first of about 12 trees — some of them a venerable 40-years-old — was going ahead as the week closed, and without the outcry that greeded the initial mention of their loss.

In West Monroe, Glenwood Hospital officials were proceeding with a large move of their own, as bids were opened Friday on the addition of two floors and major new treatment facilities. Curtailed when the hospital commissioners declined to go along with conditions on the use of fedeal money, the project still includes a full 34-bed fifth floor and a sixth floor of the same size to be shelled in. An original $870,000 bond issue, passed in 1964, has grown with interest to a total resource of approximately $1 million. Friday's bids were placed under study.

Another of the week's massive moves was the assembling of the first working meeting of intergovernmental planners from Monroe, West Monroe and the police jury. Robert Downing, chairman of the jury's intergovernmental delegation, called the conclave in Mayor W. L. Howard's office as the outgrowth of a mid-May gathering at which the merits of closer cooperation were agreed upon.

The meeting Thursday was closed to the press, but statements later listed concentrated efforts planned in the areas of roads, drainage, insect control and garbage disposal. Chief among these will be roads, in view of stiffer federal planning requirements in the transportation field.

The proposed Fifth District sales tax also was discussed, but officials brushed off questions about the new tentative funds-split that was deemed acceptable by the three governments. School salary raises, the originally announced main purpose for the tax, received a shot in the arm during the week when Gov. John McKeithen indicated state funds are being sought to provide the recommended increases, irrespective of local arrangements.

And, lastly, in massive moves, election officials were hoping for a massive move by voters to the polls in Saturday's primary. Results are on today's Page One, but at stake were three Ouachita School Board seats, a Monroe School Board seat and the Third District seat on the Louisiana Public Service Commission.

A record total of 37,241 parish Democrats — including 5,033 registered by federal people — could have gone to the polls. At last report, federal observers were due again to watch the polls Saturday, as they did in the August primary, not withstanding that no federal posts were involved in the runoff.

ODOR PROBLEM

The southside odor problem, a nettle since summer a year ago, reached an apparent milestone with the previously-mentioned comments of the Monroe mayor. Though Olin Mathieson has said little publicly, Howard stressed that, "The City Council very definitely feels that once Olin has been able to elminate their problem, the situation on the southside of our city will vanish."

His remarks represented the first indication of a foreseeable end of foul odors "during certain wind and weather conditions," and the first public dsiclosure that Monroe and the industry were pursuing a joint interest in the matter.

Howard, after talks at Olin, did not attempt a timetable, but he said special equipment has been ordered by the company, and he added his and the council's satisfaction that, "They are experimenting in every way they can." He gave his intention to "keep close contact with Olin officials as to the progress being made."

Some residents have blamed the city's sewerage treatment plant, started in September, 1965, and Howard, while he admitted creation of odor "for a matter of a few weeks," declared that this was "only until bacterial activation took place."

LAST PARAGRAPHS

Down to the last paragraphs, with volumes still to write, the customary dodge of a flash-by again is required. And so:

—The near crash of an Orlando, Fla., man on landing at Monroe Municipal Airport last Sunday was ominous. The same day, Henry Troy Parsons of Vicksburg, Miss., took off, flying for home from Shreveport. Two days later, his small airplane and then Parsons' body were found by Civil Air Patrol units from Louisiana, where they fell in woodlands nine miles northwest of Holly Ridge.

— A local Negro Marine, Lance Cpl. Claiborne L. Shaw, 18, gave his life in Viet Nam fighting, dispatches said, while other releases acclaimed a Columbia Marine, Lance Cpl. Floyd A. Graves, the hero of a an August battle in the same theatre. Graves was part of a company which repulsed a key Viet Cong attack, killing about 80 enemy.

— A two-vehicle crash Wednesday on Louisiana Hwy. 15 near Ferriday killed three and injured two others. The dead were identified as Mrs. Annie Mae Clark of Clayton, Lawrence Benthley, 57-year-old Clayton Negro, and his wife, Carolyn.

—Seventeen-year-old Susan Gale Carter of Mer Rouge was selected queen of the North Louisiana Cotton Festival and Fair at Bastrop.

— T. O. Moses, president, and Lionel O. Green, secretary, of the Ouachita Parish Central Trades and Labor Council were elected to serve on the board of directors of the United Givers' campaign.

— Members of the Monroe Large Business Division of the United Givers' Fund gathered to receive their assignments, kicking off an effort to gather pledges totalling $107,191.

—Circus-goers were awaiting the arrival of the Clyde Beauty-Cole Brothers show in Monroe, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus. Performances are today at Bernstein Ball Park, set for 2 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. Ouachita Parish crippled children have been invited to attend the first show free.

— Mrs. Cecile Burkett, until her recent discharge the principal of Drew Elementary School, was the apparent subject of a compromise worked out behind closed doors Tuesday by the Ouachita School Board. Mrs. Burkett, spokesmen said, is offered a year's leave with pay and employment afterwards in a capacity other than principal.

Latin America Mountains Scene Of Savage Warfare

Guerrillas who are pushing the conflict, are not winning it, nor is Cuba's communist leader, Fidel Castro, who finds his revolution is not exportable. Venezuela, Colombia, and Guatemala are fighting back, with arms and reforms.

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG

GUATELAMA (AP) — High in isolated jungle-covered mountains of Guatemala, Venezuela and Colombia, a silent, savage war is being fought.

Bands of Communist guerrillas engage in a deadly game of hide-and-seek with army patrols of the three nations.

Except in Guatemala, the guerrillas have taken some hard losses in recent months.

Sharp ideological disputes-based generally on conflicting soft line or Moscow policies versus hard line or Peking positions-have deeply divided the Latin-American Communists. The feuding at times has been so bitter that government officials privately admit some of the successful strikes against guerrillas have been due to tips given by one Communist group informing on another.

In none of the three countries do the guerrillas appear to have any hope they can soon obtain their goals of overthrowing existing governments, eliminating "Yankee imperialism," and setting up Communist regimes.

Some guerrillas, discouraged by recent setbacks, have abandoned the armed struggle.

Others, though their numbers, are not large, remain in the trackless, rugged mountains, dedicated to combat, waiting and hoping for the political tide to flow their way.

LONG PERILOUS WAIT

Their wait is long and dangerous.

They keep on the move: seeking the aid of peasants, fearful of betrayal, avoiding army patrols — unless they spot a chance for a successful ambush and then they strike hard.

Item: Bogota, Colombia — on August 19 fifteen soldiers were killed and 16 wounded in an ambush in the southwestern Department of Huila.

Item: Guatemalá City — On May 15 fourteen soldiers were killed in an ambush in the northeastern department of Zacapa.

From Cuba, Communist leader Fidel Castro is the idol of the guerrillas, continually beseeches the rebels to try harder.

Apparently disappointed by their lack of success so far, Castro berated them in a speech July 26: "In the immense majority of Latin-American countries there are superior conditions for revolution than those which existed in Cuba, and if these revolutions are not made in these countries it is because of a lack of conviction in many who call themselves revolutionaries."

OUT OF TOUCH

But to some Latin-American revolutionaries it is Castro who is somewhat out of touch with the situation.

A Colombian Communist commented after Castro's speech: "It's all very well for him to tell us to lead a revolution, but the Colombian army is not a paper tiger. Each party must face its own conditions and cannot follow the dictates of someone from another country."

There is little doubt that secret shipments of arms-and propaganda material-are reaching the rebels, much of it believed from Cuba, although there is no concrete proof. But it is no secret that hundreds of Latin Americans, mostly university students have gone to Cuba, the Soviet Union and Red China for Communist indoctrination and guerrilla warfare training.

The guerrillas, however, seize most of their weapons in raids on isolated military and police units, or purchase guns from smugglers.

One of the best organized guerrilla groups in Latin America today appears to be the Rebel Armed Forces in Guatemala.

These guerrillas are commanded by Luis Augusto Turcios Lima, 24, a former Guatemalan army lieutenant who received ranger training in Ft. Benning, Ga., in 1960.

On November 13, 1960, Turcios was one of a group of young officers who attempted to oust President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentss.

The revolt was smashed, but it led to the formation of a guerrilla group led by Lt. Antonio Yon Sosa-who also received U. S. training — which is called the 13th of November Revolutionary Movement of MR 13.

The MR 13 subsequently developed a "Chinese" political line calling for active, armed rebellion to establish a "revolutionary socialist" regime in Guatemala.

Yon Sosa, now 37, has been quoted as stating he visited Cuba in the early days of his movement and received some aid.

Tucios, who commanded one of the guerrilla fronts, later joined up with the FAR which had been organized by the outlawed, pro-Moscow Communist party in Guatemala, known as the Guatemalan Labor Party.

At the beginning of 1965 FAR was reorganized with Turcios in command.

CASTRO FAVOR

Castro's Cuba has been an inspiration to both groups but at the Tricontinental Revolutionary conference in Havana in January this year, Castro gave his blessing to Turcios who slipped out of Guatemala to attend the meeting.

With the support of the Communist party, the FAR appears to have grown stronger and more active while the MR 13 is believed by observers to have lost supporters. Some officials say it's numerical strength may be down to around 25 active, gun-toting members.

Estimates of effective FAR strength range from around 75 up to 300. Estimating guerrilla forces is very tricky because the actual number varies often; some members are weekend guerrillas-holding jobs or attending university classes during the week-while others may be sympathizers who are occasionally called upon for some duty.

OPERATIONS CENTER

Both FAR and MR 13 operate principally in the Sierra de Las Minas Mountains in northeastern Guatemala.

FAR has a list of so-called "enemies of the people" marked for execution. In a recent mimeographed bulletin FAR announced it had carried out two death sentences against "comisionados militares," local village authorities, in Santa Rosa on May 6 and in Escuintla on May 16.

The guerrilla movements in Guatemala Venezuela and Colombia have found some shootings and holdups have been committed in their names by criminals trying to throw off police pursuit.

The guerrillas usually issue quick denials of such crimes and the FAR, for one, generally has been quick to confirm any actions carried out by its forces.

The FAR is counting on a long struggle in its efforts to seize power and the Guatemalan guerrillas fully expect that some day, the United States will send Marines to Guatemala to combat them.

Many in Guatemala wonder why the 12,000-man armed forces, which successfully destroyed some rebel units in 1962, have not been able to eliminate the FAR and MR 13. Some observers believe army [illegible] do not take the guerrillas seriously.

Col. Rafael Arriaga Bosque, Guatemala's new defense minister, said in an interview last month that the guerrillas "do not represent any danger to the government because they do not have any base. They have no support from other sectors of the population."

With former law school dean, Julio Cesar Mendez Montenegro, now installed as a freely elected president, many Guatemalans feel the guerrillas will lose some of the sympathy they formerly had among students, intellectuals and workers.

Officials hope that if the new government can take effective steps to improve the impoverished conditions of most peasants, the guerrilla movement will fade.

In Venezuela the guerrilla movement—the Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN) — has been seriously torn by ideological arguments and personality clashes.

FALN action has dwindled considerably from a peak about three years ago when it carried out raids on police and army units, conducted kidnappings and holdups in Caracas and blew up oil pipelines.

SMALL FORCES

A high government official calculates FALN effective forces now at between 150 to 200. But a Communist party leader in Caracas claims the total guerrilla force throughout the country is close to 1,000. Other intelligence sources give lower figures, putting 200 at a maximum.

But as one official pointed out, numbers are not really important when it comes to ability to carry out terrorist acts. One person can place a deadly bomb; a marksman in a car can play havoc in a city street.

FALN has been described by the Communist party of Venezuela as its military arm. But not all members of the guerrilla force are members of the party.

One major part of FALN consists of members of the Movement of the Revolutionary Left (MIR), an extreme leftist group.

The Venezuelan army has been carrying out a vigorous offensive against the guerrillas who are located principally in the western states of Lara and Falcon.

Venezuela's peasants have never given much support to the guerrillas. The Accion Democratica party, which elected former President Romulo Betancourt and the current President Raul Leoni, has its main strength in the rural areas of the country which gave the party enough votes to overcome electoral losses in the capital.

FORCES WEAKENING

Lacking peasant support, suffering from internal Moscow - Peking feuds, inept organization and pursued by aggressive army patrols, the Venezuelan guerrillas have been weakening recently. Most guerrilla losses this year have been in the form of the surrenders or arrests.

Officials say they find no evidence now that the guerrillas are receiving aid from Cuba. But some were concerned about a reported landing of a group of bearded, armed men in a small boat on a Caribbean beach in Falson in late July. It has not been determined whether this group came from abroad or was a small band moving from one part of the state to another.

Observers in Venezuela say, as they do in Guatemala, that if the country should be hit by another military coup this would give the guerrillas their biggest boost.

In neighboring Colombia there are two main active guerrilla groups. One is a hard line, pro-Chinese group called the Army of National Liberation ELN made up of Cuban-trained university students, some teachers and other leftists extremists from the capital city.

The other is the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia FARC made up of various Communist guerrilla groups which had been driven out of "independent republics" they had set up previously in rural areas.

Estimates of ELN strength range up to 150 while the active strength of FARC is estimated by observers and officials at from 150 to 500.

The army has been claiming success in its drive to eliminate the guerrillas.

And whether because of losses suffered or due to a change in strategy, the Colombian Communist party this year proposed that the FARC seek to cooperate with the ELN to form a common front.

SOMEWHERE IN THE rugged terrain of the Guatemalan jungles, recently, this was the temporary campsite of the MR 13 guerrillas. Many in Guatemala wonder why the 12,000-troops government armed forces (who successsfully destroyed some rebel units in 1962) have not been able to eliminate the FAR, and MR 13 today. Some observers believe that army leaders do not take the guerrillas seriously. In a recent interview, Col. Rafael Arriaga Bosque, new Defense Minister, said they "do not represent any danger because they have no base, and no support from the population". However, many agree that if the country has another military coup, the ranks and strength of the guerrillas will quickly swell. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

IN THE SILENT, guerrilla war in the mountains of Latin America, local governments, armies, and police in the countries of Guatemala, Venezuela and Colombia are fighting back, with arms and with reforms — agrarian and civil. Here, in the trackless and rugged mountains "somewhere in Guatemala", are the top leaders of one of the best-organized groups, the Rebel Armed Forces (FAR): from left to right, Cesar Montes, No. 2; Luis Augusto Turcios Lima (aged 24, and Ranger-trained at Ft. Benning, Georgia) the leader; and Arnaldo (called "El Chino"), No. 3. Despite sharp ideological disputes, based on "soft-line" ("Moscow") policies vs. "hard-line" ("Peking") positions, in Guatemala at least, there has been some blending, physically, of both proponents in terms of helping each other since 1960, against anti-Communist factions. IS THE LETHAL power of the hammer and sickle symbolism steadily, but surely, becoming a fanciful "pie in the sky" promise to the "workers of the world"? All around the world, the Communists — after World War II — seized power in labor unions. But a strange thing has been happening: workers are now rejecting Communism. The influence of the Red Party everywhere is apparently on the wane due to the continuing Moscow-Peking feuding spilt. An Associated Press survey of organized labor around the free world produces this indication: a steady, downward trend in communist influence — in both the advanced countries, as well as in the underdeveloped areas (long the prime targets of Communist penetration). Survey Shows Reds' Labor Influence Is In Decline

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Communism professes to stand for rule of the workers, by the workers and for the workers. It has a tough time getting far with the workers.

or years communism has been sliding downhill in organized labor around the non-communist world. In much of that world, labor is in the vanguard of anticommunism.

Communism remains a powerful factor in labor in some key areas. But it has passed its zenith of power. With the mounting internal disarray within the world Communist movement, the extreme left has run into serious difficulties.

Red entrenchment in labor movements was accomplished swiftly after World War II in the confusion and bitterness of rubbled nations. Until the early 1950s the World Federation of Trade unions - WFTU - a creature of Moscow, made capital of war fears and hysteria, mounted Moscow-inspired "peace" campaigns made the most of defeatist attitudes in Western Europe and vacuums in labor leadership.

TURNING POINT

This situation began to change after it became clear that the war in Korea had been localized and would not spread to other areas. It changed even more after Joseph Stalin died in 1953 and the Red drive lost some of its dynamism. The Communist grip on labor organizations slipped even more after the Soviet crackdown on the Hungarian revolution in 1956.

Today, the Communist federation by its own accounts is heading for a sort of crisis produced by slackening Soviet authority over parties in non-Communist areas and the splintering of the movement in the wake of the Soviet Chinese rift.

Gradually, the WFTU's chief rival, the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions - ICFTU - has increased its influence. ICFTU officials say that their membership now includes 181 organizations in 94 nations representing more than 63 million workers. The WFTU claims about 100 million members, but 90 per cent of these are in Communist nations where labor unions are unions in name only and are totally controlled by governments.

The example of the AFL-CIO in trade union organization in the United States also has had a powerful influence in many areas, notably in Latin America.

Communist labor organization has lost ground in much of Latin America and non-Communist Asia. It has failed to make headway in Africa. In North Africa and the Middle East, even in areas of vocal anti-Americanism, it is regarded with caution and deep suspicion. In Europe, where many Communist parties are seeking a look of respectability in public eyes, the extreme left element in trade unions has lost much of its steam.

INFLUENCE DECLINE

An Associated Press survey of organized labor around the free world produces a picture of a steady downward trend in Communist influence in both the advanced countries and in the so-called underdeveloped areas which long have been the prime targets of Communist penetration.

— The Developed Countries—

When Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev visited the United States in 1959 for his spectacular puzzlement and dismay at the attitude of those he would have called "the workers" or "the toiling masses." They laughed at him. Union leaders did not take him seriously. In fact, he and other visiting Russians appeared to find it much less difficult to talk with representatives of what he would deem the "capitalist class" than with those of organized labor.

Soviet Communists, in fact, regularly denounce organized labor in the United States - or at least its leaders — as tools of "the ruling circles." They have been unable to fathom why the party purporting to be the "vanguard of the working class" was unable to make any significant headway with the American workers.

DOMINANT AREAS

In Europe today, Communists remain strong in the Italian and French labor organizations. They had seized opportunities immediately after the big war to gain dominant positions and still hold many, but have been losing ground in recent years while their power declined elsewhere on the continent.

In Italy, until 1948, the General Confederation of Labor was the only general union grouping, embracing all political colors. But in turn the Christian Democrats, Democratic Socialists and Republicans broke away, leaving the General Confederation with only the Communists and Socialists. In that period, the Communists used mass demonstrations as political weapons. But Christian Democrats dominated the governments and cracked down with military and police.

Today Italy has three major union groupings: the General Confederation of Italian Labor — CGIL, the Italian Confederation of Workers Union — CSIL — and the Italian Labor Union — UIL. Italy's labor force totals 21 million, but only from 2.5 to 5 million are unionized.

The CGIL, largest and best organized is Communist-controlled. It claims 2.7 million members, but foreign specialists say the figure is closer to 1.5 million. More than half its members and most of its leaders are considered to be in the Communist camp.

The CSIL, controlled by Christian Democrats, has a strength between a half million and 1.5 million. The UIL, run by Democratic Socialists, has about 300,000 members.

LEADERSHIP SPLIT

The Communists seem fairly secure in the CGIL, but the leadership is split into pro-Soviet and pro-Chinese factions. At the same time many non-Communist Socialists in the CGIL disagree with the leaders' politics, though they are reluctant to pull out and leave Italy's biggest federation entirely in Communist hands.

Though it is split, the CGIL has the power to mount demonstrations and harass governments. It is dominant in the automobile, heavy metal and construction industries. Its big strength is in industrial central and northern Italy. But Italians dislike paying dues and the CGIL must get funds from the Communist party. It has other drawbacks, too, in the lack of modern organization, collection and accounting methods, so that it cannot build strike funds to support more than brief walkouts. It demands mainly on political organization.

Non-Communist unions in Italy reject WFTU attempts at building bridges, even though they may make common cause with the Communists in special circumstances in times of strikes or negotiations.

Labor specialists in Rome doubt that the WFTU has anything more to offer because of its heavy emphasis on politics rather than bread and butter issues.

FRANCE RED STRONGHOLD

France is the second major stronghold of Communists in European labor. The experience there has been somewhat similar to that of Italy.

France has a labor force of 19 million. Unions claim 3 million members, but only about a million pay dues regularly. Unions are poor in comparison with their American counterparts, and unable to afford long strikes.

The General Confederation of Labor — CGT — is considered an adjunct of the French Communist party. Some of its leaders have parallel functions in union and party. Led and inspired by Moscow, it claims 1.2 million members, but many do not pay dues.

Once the CGT was anti-Communist. The Communists moved in quickly after the war and in a few years were strong enough to bring France to the brink of civil war while communism strove to keep the nation unstable. This activity led to crisis and split in the labor movement when the Worker's Force — FO — led by anti-Communist Socialists, broke away in 1948.

Yet another organization, the Democratic Confederation of Labor, was built around the former Christian Workers Federation. It and the FO together claim close to a million members.

DE GAULLE APPROACH

The CGT is the best managed, most militant organization of the three. Other unions, as in Italy, sometimes cooperate on economic issues, but the two sides tend to diverge on politics. In addition, the Communist CGT is hampered by President Charles de Gaulle's policy of approach to Moscow, which keeps the Communists from applying too much pressure on his government.

In West Germany's labor organizations, Communists have just about no influence. The Iron Curtain division of the German nation generates anti-Communist feeling. Attempts of Communists to infiltrate have been dismal failures. The same is true of Scandinavia. The Communists have virtually no influence in the labor movements of Norway, Denmark and Sweden.

Austria, which lived for a long time under the Soviet Shadow, has little Communist influence in its trade union movement. More than half of its labor force is organized in the Trade Union Congress in which Socialists are the main political force. The Communists have some members in small unions, but the Congress was a founding member of the ICFTU and is hostile to the WFTU.

Latin America Mountains Scene Of Savage Warfare

Guerrillas who are pushing the conflict, are not winning it, nor is Cuba's communist leader, Fidel Castro, who finds his revolution is not exportable. Venezuela, Colombia, and Guatemala are fighting back, with arms and reforms.

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG

GUATELAMA (AP) — High in isolated jungle-covered mountains of Guatemala, Venezuela and Colombia, a silent, savage war is being fought.

Bands of Communist guerrillas engage in a deadly game of hide-and-seek with army patrols of the three nations.

Except in Guatemala, the guerrillas have taken some hard losses in recent months.

Sharp ideological disputes-based generally on conflicting soft line or Moscow policies versus hard line or Peking positions-have deeply divided the Latin-American Communists. The feuding at times has been so bitter that government officials privately admit some of the successful strikes against guerrillas have been due to tips given by one Communist group informing on another.

In none of the three countries do the guerrillas appear to have any hope they can soon obtain their goals of overthrowing existing governments, eliminating "Yankee imperialism," and setting up Communist regimes.

Some guerrillas, discouraged by recent setbacks, have abandoned the armed struggle.

Others, though their numbers, are not large, remain in the trackless, rugged mountains, dedicated to combat, waiting and hoping for the political tide to flow their way.

LONG PERILOUS WAIT

Their wait is long and dangerous.

They keep on the move: seeking the aid of peasants, fearful of betrayal, avoiding army patrols — unless they spot a chance for a successful ambush and then they strike hard.

Item: Bogota, Colombia — on August 19 fifteen soldiers were killed and 16 wounded in an ambush in the southwestern Department of Huila.

Item: Guatemala City — On May 15 fourteen soldiers were killed in an ambush in the northeastern department of Zacapa.

From Cuba, Communist leader Fidel Castro is the idol of the guerrillas, continually beseeches the rebels to try harder.

Apparently disappointed by their lack of success so far, Castro berated them in a speech July 26: "In the immense majority of Latin-American countries there are superior conditions for revolution than those which existed in Cuba, and if these revolutions are not made in these countries it is because of a lack of conviction in many who call themselves revolutionaries."

OUT OF TOUCH

But to some Latin-American revolutionaries it is Castro who is somewhat out of touch with the situation.

A Colombian Communist commented after Castro's speech: "It's all very well for him to tell us to lead a revolution, but the Colombian army is not a paper tiger. Each party must face its own conditions and cannot follow the dictates of someone from another country."

There is little doubt that secret shipments of arms-and propaganda material-are reaching the rebels, much of it believed from Cuba, although there is no concrete proof. But it is no secret that hundreds of Latin Americans, mostly university students have gone to Cuba, the Soviet Union and Red China for Communist indoctrination and guerrilla warfare training.

The guerrillas, however, seize most of their weapons in raids on isolated military and police units, or purchase guns from smugglers.

One of the best organized guerrilla groups in Latin America today appears to be the Rebel Armed Forces in Guatemala.

These guerrillas are commanded by Luis Augusto Turcios Lima, 24, a former Guatemalan army lieutenant who received ranger training in Ft. Benning, Ga., in 1960.

On November 13, 1960, Turcios was one of a group of young officers who attempted to oust President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentss.

The revolt was smashed, but it led to the formation of a guerrilla group led by Lt. Antonio Yon Sosa-who also received U. S. training — which is called the 13th of November Revolutionary Movement of MR 13.

The MR 13 subsequently developed a "Chinese" political line calling for active, armed rebellion to establish a "revolutionary socialist" regime in Guatemala.

Yon Sosa, now 37, has been quoted as stating he visited Cuba in the early days of his movement and received some aid.

Tucios, who commanded one of the guerrilla fronts, later joined up with the FAR which had been organized by the outlawed, pro-Moscow Communist party in Guatemala, known as the Guatemalan Labor Party.

At the beginning of 1965 FAR was reorganized with Turcios in command.

CASTRO FAVOR

Castro's Cuba has been an inspiration to both groups but at the Tricontinental Revolutionary conference in Havana in January this year, Castro gave his blessing to Turcios who slipped out of Guatemala to attend the meeting.

With the support of the Communist party, the FAR appears to have grown stronger and more active while the MR 13 is believed by observers to have lost supporters. Some officials say it's numerical strength may be down to around 25 active, gun-toting members.

Estimates of effective FAR strength range from around 75 up to 300. Estimating guerrilla forces is very tricky because the actual number varies often; some members are weekend guerrillas-holding jobs or attending university classes during the week-while others may be sympathizers who are occasionally called upon for some duty.

OPERATIONS CENTER

Both FAR and MR 13 operate principally in the Sierra de Las Minas Mountains in northeastern Guatemala.

FAR has a list of so-called "enemies of the people" marked for execution. In a recent mimeographed bulletin FAR announced it had carried out two death sentences against "comisionados militares," local village authorities, in Santa Rosa on May 6 and in Escuintla on May 16.

The guerrilla movements in Guatemala Venezuela and Colombia have found some shootings and holdups have been committed in their names by criminals trying to throw off police pursuit.

The guerrillas usually issue quick denials of such crimes and the FAR, for one, generally has been quick to confirm any actions carried out by its forces.

The FAR is counting on a long struggle in its efforts to seize power and the Guatemalan guerrillas fully expect that some day, the United States will send Marines to Guatemala to combat them.

Many in Guatemala wonder why the 12,000-man armed forces, which successfuly destroyed some rebel units in 1962, have not been able to eliminate the FAR and MR 13. Some observers believe army leaders do not take the guerrillas seriously.

Col. Rafael Arriaga Bosque, Guatemala's new defense minister, said in an interview last month that the guerrillas "do not represent any danger to the government because they do not have any base. They have no support from other sectors of the population."

With former law school dean, Julio Cesar Mendez Montenegro, now installed as a freely elected president, many Guatemalans feel the guerrillas will lose some of the sympathy they formerly had among students, intellectuals and workers.

Officials hope that if the new government can take effective steps to improve the impoverished conditions of most peasants, the guerrilla movement will fade.

In Venezuela the guerrilla movement—the Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN) — has been seriously torn by ideological arguments and personality clashes.

FALN action has dwindled considerably from a peak about three years ago when it carried out raids on police and army units, conducted kidnappings and holdups in Caracas and blew up oil pipelines.

Hunt's Victory Statement Given

John S. Hunt, winner of the third district Public Service commission seat, issued a victory statement Saturday night.

"My victory tonight was strictly on my record as Public Service Commissioner for the past two years — of making sure that the people of Louisiana had adequate utility service and transportation services at reasonable rates.

"Also, I credit my victory to the fact that since I have been commisoner, I have worked constantly to improve the image of our state so as to attract new industry and expand our existing industries so as to create more jobs, better wages and a better way of life for all our people.

"I have overcome a slanderous campaign and by winning, I have tremendously enhanced the image of this state.

"I am known by my opponent and his associate to be a conservative in political belief.

"In spite of the attack of my opponent on my character and his charges that I was a liberal, my public record was proof to the people of my public service district.

"I greatly appreciate the endorsement of Congressman Otto E. Passman and his support in the Fifth Congressional District in this race. He is a man that would not have endorsed me unless he was sure I had the same beliefs in government he had. I believe that Louisiana is on the move in an effort by our administration, our Public Service Commission, our congressional delegation and other elected officials to better our industry, and in our drive to improve our image and improve the lives of all our people.

"I would like to thank all the thousands of people who voted for me in the first and second primary and all the many workers who gave of their time so tirelessly during this long campaign.

"As in the past, I shall conduct my office in an open manner and welcome anyone in the Third Public Service Commission District to write, call, or see me personally concerning any problem that falls under the commission.

I have conducted my campaign in a high and clean level throughout, and have gone into the rural areas of North Louisiana to talik and visit with our voters.

I am thankful that our people are ready to see Louisiana move ahead with good government."

Negroes Beaten Out In Area Elections

By BOB CARROLL
State Editor

Three Negroes, running for school board positions in as many Northeast Louisiana parishes, lost out in the second Democratic primary Saturday.

W. M. (Bill) Latham beat Henry A. Montgomery (Negro) by a 1,469 to 1,150 margin in Concordia Parish. Mrs. Doris Carpenter beat a Negro competitor, Rev. Frank Wilson, by a count of 195 to 136 in Madison Parish, and in East Carroll Parish, Lloyd Clements compiled 1,351 votes to ease out Eric L. Armstrong (Negro), who garnered 1,179 votes.

In a hot battle for representative from LaSalle Parish, H. G. (Sam) Wilbanks nosed out Chester Floyd, by a margin of 2,970 to 2,038.

In one of the top races, the district attorney for the 7th Judicial District, which includes both Catahoula and Concordia parishes, W. C. Falkenheimer compiled 5,522 votes to Roy S. Holcomb's 4,085.

Falkenheimer got 2,031 votes in Catahoula and 3,491 in Concordia, while Holcomb got 1,309 in Catahoula and 2,676 in Concordia.

The complete unofficial returns are:

CALDWELL

School board, Ward 2 — (11-14 precincts) Lelon Kenny, 223; Jack Kachey, 171.

CATAHOULA

District attorney, 7th Judicial District (Catahoula 13-13 precincts and Concordia 22-22 precincts combined) W. C. Falkenheiner, 5,522; Roy S. Holcomb, 4,085.

CONCORDIA

District attorney, 7th Judicial District (see Catahoula parish).

School board, Ward 7—W.M. (Bill) Latham, 1,469; Henry A. Montgomery, (Negro), 1,150.

Police jury, Ward 5 — Raymond J. Guillory, 1,259; Mrs. Dave Manning Jr., 781.

School board, Ward 8 — Harry L. Greer, 183; Mrs. Daphney Bradford, 183.

LASALLE

Parish representative—(30-30 precincts) H. G. (Sam) Wilbanks, 2,970; Chester Floyd, 2,038.

MADISON

School board, Ward 2 — (14-14 precincts) Mrs. Doris Carpenter, 195; Rev. Frank Wilson (Negro), 136.

UNION

School board, Ward 6—(18-18 precincts) Jerry Daniels, 203; W. G. Odom, 186.

EAST CARROLL

School board — (10-10 precincts) Lloyd Clements, 1,351; Eric L. Armstrong (Negro), 1,179.

WINN

Winnfield city judge — (5-5 precincts) R. D. Cantwell, 1,208; James L. Womack, 705.

RAPIDES

State senator (special election) — (83-83 precincts) Cecil Blair, 6,246; Ray Bradford, 858; David George, 3,939; Camille Gravel, 7,926; Mrs. George Ray Lee, 4,658; Robert Nash, 1,071, and Lloyd Teekell 3,158. (A runoff between Blair and Gravel will be held with the Nov. 8 general election.)

Judge, 9th Judicial District (Rapides) Division C — A.M. D'Angelo, 14,568; Morris Shapiro, 12,756.

School board, Ward 1 (for three positions) — Lloyd Bell, 7,804; Carl B. Close, 5,902; Mrs. Gladys Higdon, 7,095; J. Edward Hines Jr., (Negro), 4860; Mrs. George H. Pitts, 5,806; William E. Skye, 6,206. (Bell, Mrs. Higdon, and Skye won the three posts.)

Police jury, Ward 1 — Howard N. Nugent Jr., 6,829; Walter B. Gatlin, 6,124.

Acting Maturity Long Process, Says Actress

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Maturing as an actress is "like wine," says Italy's Luciana Paluzzi.

"You have to through experiences. Everything shows. There are no stars 17 years old.

"Elizabeth Taylor — do you want to compare what she was at 12 with what she is today as an actress?

"It's too bad women can't go on till they're 50 and 60, like men. Look at Cary Grant" (62).

Miss Paluzzi, toiling in a two-hour television drama, "The Midnight Oil," has quite a way to go. She is in her mid-20s.

CARPETED WORKSHOP

BRENTWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Actor Fred MacMurry is an ardent carpentry hobbyist with a well-equipped workshop in his home. To assure him positive comfort, the workshop has wall-to-wall carpeting.

LANKY LUCY

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Lucille Ball has a candid memory of herself as a child.

"I was tall and skinny, with flaming red hair and braces," she says. "I looked like a kitchen match with buck teeth."

Youths Cause Soviet Rift, Crackdown

MOSCOW (UPI) —Juvenile delinquency, drunkenness, violence and vandalism—all are forcing the Soviet Union into an agonizing study of crime and how to cure it.

The answer so far—get tough.

Russia is in the midst of a major campaign to crack down on "hooliganism"—a form of Soviet crime vaguely defined as anything from drunkenness to vandalism to wanton personal violence, much of it committed by teen-agers.

The campaign is aimed at stiffening police, courts and public in the fight for safety on Soviet streets. Two incidents indicate the direction it is taking:

Youth Gang Let Off

In April, a Soviet official, calling for new toughness against hooligans, said one youth gang was let off without punishment because the victim of their knife attack did not die.

One month later, a court in southern Russia sentenced a 19-year - old thug to death for stabbing two persons—both of whom survived.

A Moscow drunk who started a fight a year ago would have received 15 days. But recently one was sentenced to four years at hard labor.

Westerners here believe that in comparison to, say, New York, violence and delinquency in Russia still is minimal. Street fights are rare, murder infrequent and vandalism usually confined to stealing windshield wipers.

But as the Soviet Union gets further from the heady days of the revolution and closer to affluence, its restless youth appear to be an increasing problem.

Saddle Routine Long For Drury

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Saddle sores, anyone? James Drury averages 2½ hours a day on horseback as star of "The Virginian." One weekend day a month he rides 11½ hours in the Hollywood hills with other reserve deputies in the Los Angeles County sheriff's posse.

Asian Payments Slump

Soviets Up Exports To North Vietnamese

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet nonmilitary exports to North Viet Nam rose sharply last year to nearly $75 million while Vietnamese exports in payment slumped to $30.5 million, according to statistics published Saturday.

The Soviet 1965 trade statistics, just out, also show that Soviet exports to Communist China ended a long decline and rose 42 per cent from 1964. Imports from China continued to drop, but remained ahead of exports.

The statistics do not show Soviet military equipment supplied to North Viet Nam. The Kremlin reportedly told some foreign Communist parties that it gave Hanoi more than $555 million worth of weapons and other aid in 1965.

The Russians value the ruble at $1.11.

On this basis trade figures show $74.78 million in Soviet nonmilitary exports to North Viet Nam in 1965. This was up from $47.67 million in 1964.

Two-thirds of the exports were machinery and equipment, much of it small items to round out the North Vietnamese economy.

Items included 340 movable electrical generators with a combined rating of 803,000 kilowatts, 27 cranes, 18 excavators, 503 trucks, 280 cars, 5,555 radios and 121,000 metric tons of oil products.

(Though these were listed as ordinary trade goods, all could contribute in some measure to North Viet Nam's war effort. Trucks and oil products particularly are involved in the movement of troops and supplies and, as such, are rated as prime military targets in the American bombing campaign against North Viet Nam.)

Soviet imports from North Viet Nam, which had been rising in recent years, dropped from $34.8 million in 1964 to $30.5 million.

A North Vietnamese delegation led by Deputy Premier Le Thanh Nghi is now in Moscow seeking "further expansion of economic cooperation and trade." This is believed to mean Hanoi wants more Soviet aid.

The decline in Hanoi's 1965 shipments indicates the war is making it increasingly difficult for North Viet Nam to pay for needed items. American air raids on North Viet Nam began on a regular basis in February 1965.

The Kremlin has repeatedly promised Hanoi all necessary aid for defense against the air raids. This aid has extended beyond weapons to general economic support.

A Soviet gift of about $2 million worth of consumer goods for Hanoi was announced Thursday.

Soviet exports to China in 1965 were valued at $191.67 million, against $135.3 million in 1964.

The 1964 figure was the low point of a decline from Soviet exports worth some $2.8 billion a year ago in the heyday of Moscow-Peking relations a decade ago.

The 1965 exports to China were mainly in industrial equipment. China needs spare parts and some semifinished products to run industries built for it by the Soviet Union.

One of the sharpest drops was from 504,900 tons of oil products sold to China in 1964 to 37,900 tons in 1965.

Soviet imports from China have been running higher than exports as Peking paid for Soviet-built industries and other loans.

The bill has now been almost entirely paid and imports dropped from $314.2 million in 1964 to $225.5 million last year.

World Bank Opens Meet For Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 104 member nations of the International Monetary Fund open on Monday a five-day meeting which could set the pattern for reform of international financing.

No hard decisions are expected at the meeting as most of the time will be devoted to speechmaking. It's here, however, that fund leaders hope to get the guidelines for reform of the system which keeps the gears of world trade well greased.

The annual meeting of the World Bank — officially, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development — will be held in conjunction with the fund sessions.

Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, the fund's managing director, told a news conference in advance of the annual meeting that he sees no technical problems which can't be solved "in a reasonably short period" in reaching agreement on a revision plan.

Up till now, discussions of possible reform have been in the hands of the world's 10 largest industrial nations — called the group of 10 — but they voted last July to make smaller nations part of the discussion through the fund.

The fund has been an observer at previous group of 10 meetings.

The group also foresaw a need for a contingent reform plan to be activated only when a shortage of world reserves actually occurred. France disagreed, contending there's no need for even contingent planning.

Schwetzer, however, said the discussions should be intensified and widened because of the progress made thus far.

He said he would work personally during the week to make arrangements for a joint meeting between the group of 10 — the industrial nations are also fund members — and the fund's executive directors.

Schweitzer said the first joint meeting probably could be held before Christmas.

Many experts believe the need for new international money will arise once the United States stops feeding dollars into the international system by deficits in its balance of payments. The United States has embarked on a massive program to end this dollar drain.

Since dollars are now the principal world currency, new money would be required to fill the gap, the reasoning goes.

Schweitzer said the 104 member board of governors need not adopt a formal resolution to authorize joint meetings with the group of 10 deputy finance ministers. The fund's executive directors already have the power to do this and will take part in the joint venture, he said.

But he added that guidelines can be drawn from speeches the fund governors ill make next week. And most of the speechmaking, he said, is likely to concentrate on this topic.

Schweitzer and George D. Woods, World Bank president, will be the main speakers at Monday's opening session. President Johnson also is expected to address the group although no definite time has been fixed.

Schweitzer also reported that for the first time in its 21-year existence, the fund has outstanding drawings on its resources of more than $5 billion while its total quotas had increased to $20.58 billion by Aug. 31 compared with $15.9 billion last Jan. 1.

Two Arrested On Charges Of Theft

Monroe police Saturday arrested two men on charges of theft in connection with a chain saw taken from a truck sometime Friday night.

Arrested were George O. Dyer, 46, Miller Hotel, Monroe, and Robert E. Yorkley, 54, of Rt. 4 Box 97, West Monroe.

They are charged with taking a cham saw valued at $240 from a truck belonging to Willie Shirley, Winnfield, while it was parked in the 100 block of Hall Street. The saw was found in a Monroe pawn shop. A third man is being sought.

In other action, Monroe police booked Louis A. Geneaville, 18, of No. 66 Bon Air Dr. for indecent exposure and disturbing the peace. Booked on a warrant for theft was Glenn A. Farron, 17, of Masur Hall, Northeast Louisiana State College.

Booked for aggravated battery in Monroe was Tommy Pratt, 26, of 608 Stone St., Monroe. Charged with simple and aggravated battery in West Monroe was Clarence Everett, 17, of Rayville.

Two counts of theft by check were lodged in West Monroe against Barbara Bryant, 30, of 210 Vine St., West Monroe.

State Raids Hit Sex Ring Of Lewdness

ATLANTA (UPI)—State and county authorities staged raids in three metropolitar Atlanta counties Saturday and broke up what police said appeared to be part of a nationwide ring dealing in lewd pictures and magazines.

Three raids were staged simultaneously early Saturday morning by Georgia Bureau of Investigation agents and police from Fulton, DeKalb and Cobb counties at residences in all three counties.

GBI agent Robert Hightower said most of the material that was confiscated was found at a private home in Marietta. Agents found a number of pornographic magazines, several albums of lewd pictures, obscene party records and several pairs of handcuffs and manacles which officers said possibly were used in acts of sadism.

Several persons were apprehended at the home but released into the custody of their lawyers. No charges were filed immediately.

Hightower said several mailing lists were found in the Marietta home which were believed to have been used in the distribution of pornographic matter.

He said there were indications that 20 to 25 Atlanta residents were involved in the operations of the ring. Several magazines from the Club Rebel which was raided in Atlanta several months ago were found at the residence and Hightower said there was evidence the two organizations were connected.

Hightower said the Cobb solicitor's office was reviewing the case to determine if any charges were to be brought.

Mississippi Production Announced

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Deep oil production has been assured in Clarke County with a wildcat well about three miles east of Quitman flowing 380 barrels per day.

The new discovery is the Brandon No. 1 with the perforated interval tested at 11,191-201 feet in the Cotton Valley zone.

Operators have released very little detailed information. Tests on a second zone at 11,400 feet in the Smackover lime were reported to have been swabbed at the rate of 200 barrels of oil per day.

Electrical log has been run and sidewall cores are being taken in an effort to evaluate oil shows found in a Smith County wildcat. The closely watched well is Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. No. 1, Middleton, about three miles northwest of Raleigh.

A number of oil shows have been logged in the Cotton Valley zone from 14,190 feet to present depth of 15,150 feet.

In the recently found Tallahatta Creek field of Smith County, Shell Oil and R. Merrill Harris are below 11,300 feet in their confirmation well the Orin James No. 1 about four miles south of Sylvarena.

The discovery well was completed several weeks ago flowing 900 barrels per day from perforations in the Cotton Valley at 15,598-621 feet.

Sun Oil is swabbing its Franklin County wildcat, the Miller-Federal, from perforations in the Wilcox sand at 6480-84 feet in an effort to complete as a new discovery.

Pan American Petroleum is drilling below 15,000 feet at its closely watched Wayne County wildcat, the No. 1, USA-GM&O Land Co., about nine miles southwest of Waynesboro.

The potential new discovery is reported having indicated on drill stem test in open hole a possible flow rate of in excess of 600 barrels per day from the Smackover at 13,400 feet.

Operators are releasing no information. A string of seven inch production casing has been set to about 13,500 feet.

Phillips Petroleum has perforated at 14,180-200 feet and is attempting to swab its Simpson County wildcat, the Zellerbach No. 1.

The disappointing venture was drilled to 21,052 feet and logged only slight shows of hydrogen sulphide gas in the Smackover lime below 19,800 feet.

Viet Songs No Candidate For Top 10

By ROBERT IBRAHIM
United Press International

HUE (UPI) —The real songs of the Viet Nam war probably will never make the Top Ten—they're strictly for "in" group consumption.

They're soft and plaintive ballads. The lyrics may sound humorous but it's a humor drawn from irony and frustration.

These are the ballads of the American advisers—the forgotten men of the Viet Nam war—who no longer make the headlines.

For years they were the only Americans involved in the fighting, making news only when they were killed. They are still there, Amerians and Australians, wherever a Vietnamese unit fights.

"The Song of the Co Van My" tells the story of the American adviser, fighting a war over strange terrain with outdated maps and Vietnamese rations.

Bitterness Shows

Bitterness shows as it discusses the rear echelon adviser, "moving imaginary battalions across outdated maps"—or "when in doubt send in the B52s."

Cut off from the comradeship and inward - turning communities of the big American units, the advisers become Vietnamese-oriented.

A favorite among their Vietnamese counterparts is a song called simply "Tai Sao Tai Vi."

In Vietnamese, it means "Why? Because."

It sums up one of the major frustrations of an adviser. When he asks his Vietnamese counterpart why he has done something or failed to do it, the answer frequently is a shrug, a smile and "tai vi."

Bar Girl Story

But the song tells a different story. It is the story of the Vietnamese bar girl, in her own language.

WINNER in the hotly contested 6th District race for Congress Saturday was former Dist. Judge John Rarick who defeated Rep. James Morrison.

Scientists Tint Clouds, Trigger Telephone Calls

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (UPI) — Scientists seeking more knowledge of the earth's magnetic field streaked multi-colored clouds hundreds of miles into space Saturday — visible over most of the eastern United States.

The green, red and blue clouds were seen as far west as Illinois and may have touched off reports of unidentified flying objects in Illinois, Michigan and Indiana.

The aerial spectacular was sent aloft by a Javelin sounding rocket fired by a team of U.S. and German scientists at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's (NASA) station at 5:13 a.m. EDT. It ejected cloud-forming particles of barium and copper oxide at altitudes of 310 and 570 miles.

By tracking the movement of the vari-colored clouds, scientists hoped to learn more about the earth's magnetic fields and the wind motion in the upper atmosphere.

At first, the clouds appeared light green, then turned red in the rising sun's rays. They became bluish as they enlarged into patterns several hundred miles long and stretched out into a north-south direction.

It was the first experiment conducted under a cooperative agreement between the Max Planck Institute of Munich, Germany, and NASA. The payload was developed by a scientific team headed by Professor Reimar Luest, the institute's director.

Scientists said the clouds could be seen as far west as Illinois. At about the same time the Javelin was launched, there were reports of an unidentified flying object in Illinois, Indiana and Michigan. It was described as a "brilliant white ball that changed shapes."

A weather station in the Greenville - Spartanburg, S.C., area received an excited report soon after the launching from a person who sighted a bright fireball in the eastern sky, followed by a blue cloud.

Hunt's Victory Statement Given

John S. Hunt, winner of the third district Public Service commission seat, issued a victory statement Saturday night.

"My victory tonight was strictly on my record as Public Service Commissioner for the past two years — of making sure that the people of Louisiana had adequate utility service and transportation services at reasonable rates.

"Also, I credit my victory to the fact that since I have been commisoner, I have worked constantly to improve the image of our state so as to attract new industry and expand our existing industries so as to create more jobs, better wages and a better way of life for all our people.

"I have overcome a slanderous campaign and by winning, I have tremendously enhanced the image of this state.

"I am known by my opponent and his associate to be a conservative in political belief.

"In spite of the attack of my opponent on my character and his charges that I was a liberal, my public record was proof to the people of my public service district.

"I greatly appreciate the endorsement of Congressman Otto E. Passman and his support in the Fifth Congressional District in this race. He is a man that would not have endorsed me unless he was sure I had the same beliefs in government he had. I believe that Louisiana is on the move in an effort by our administration, our Public Service Commission, our congressional delegation and other elected officials to better our industry, and in our drive to improve our image and improve the lives of all our people.

"I would like to thank all the thousands of people who voted for me in the first and second primary and all the many workers who gave of their time so tirelessly during this long campaign.

"As in the past, I shall conduct my office in an open manner and welcome anyone in the Third Public Service Commission District to write, call, or see me personally concerning any problem that falls under the commission.

I have conducted my campaign in a high and clean level throughout, and have gone into the rural areas of North Louisiana to talik and visit with our voters.

I am thankful that our people are ready to see Louisiana move ahead with good government."

Negroes Beaten Out In Area Elections

By BOB CARROLL
State Editor

Three Negroes, running for school board positions in as many Northeast Louisiana parishes, lost out in the second Democratic primary Saturday.

W. M. (Bill) Latham beat Henry A. Montgomery (Negro) by a 1,469 to 1,150 margin in Concordia Parish. Mrs. Doris Carpenter beat a Negro competitor, Rev. Frank Wilson, by a count of 195 to 136 in Madison Parish, and in East Carroll Parish, Lloyd Clements compiled 1,351 votes to ease out Eric L. Armstrong (Negro), who garnered 1,179 votes.

In a hot battle for representative from LaSalle Parish, H. G. (Sam) Wilbanks nosed out Chester Floyd, by a margin of 2,970 to 2,038.

In one of the top races, the district attorney for the 7th Judicial District, which includes both Catahoula and Concordia parishes, W. C. Falkenheimer compiled 5,522 votes to Roy S. Holcomb's 4,085.

Falkenheiner got 2,031 votes in Catahoula and 3,491 in Concordia, while Holcomb got 1,309 in Catahoula and 2,676 in Concordia.

The complete unofficial returns are:

CALDWELL

School board, Ward 2—(14-14 precincts) Lelon Kenny, 223; Jack Kaehey, 171.

CATAHOULA

District attorney, 7th Judicial District (Catahoula 13-13 precincts and Concordia 22-22 precincts combined) W. C. Falkenheiner, 5,522; Roy S. Holcomb, 4,085.

CONCORDIA

District attorney, 7th Judicial District (see Catahoula parish).

School board, Ward 7—W.M. (Bill) Latham, 1,469; Henry A. Montgomery, (Negro), 1,150.

Police jury, Ward 5 — Raymond J. Guillory, 1,259; Mrs. Dave Manning Jr., 781.

School board, Ward 8 — Harry L. Greer, 183; Mrs. Daphney Bradford, 183.

LASALLE

Parish representative—(30-30 precincts) H. G. (Sam) Wilbanks, 2,970; Chester Floyd, 2,038.

MADISON

School board, Ward 2 — (14-14 precincts) Mrs. Doris Carpenter, 195; Rev. Frank Wilson (Negro), 136.

UNION

School board, Ward 6—(18-18 precincts) Jerry Daniels, 203; W. G. Odom, 186.

RAPIDES

State senator (special election) — (83-83 precincts) Cecil Blair, 6,246; Ray Bradford, 858; David George, 3,939; Camille Gravel, 7,926; Mrs. George Ray Lee, 4,658; Robert Nash, 1,071; and Lloyd Teekell 3,158. (A runoff between Blair and Gravel will be held with the Nov. 8 general election.)

Judge, 9th Judicial District (Rapides) Division C — A.M. D'Angelo, 14,568; Morris Shapiro, 12,756.

School board, Ward 1 (for three positions) — Lloyd Bell, 7,804; Carl B. Close, 5,902; Mrs. Gladys Higdon, 7,095; J. Edward Hines Jr., (Negro), 4860; Mrs. George H. Pitts, 5,806; William E. Skye, 6,206. (Bell, Mrs. Higdon, and Skye won the three posts.)

Police jury, Ward 1 — Howard N. Nugent Jr., 6,829; Walter B. Gatlin, 6,124.

Acting Maturity Long Process, Says Actress

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Maturing as an actress is "like wine," says Italy's Luciana Paluzzi.

"You have to through experiences. Everything shows. There are no stars 17 years old.

"Elizabeth Taylor — do you want to compare what she was at 12 with what she is today as an actress?

"It's too bad women can't go on till they're 50 and 60, like men. Look at Cary Grant" (62).

Miss Paluzzi, toiling in a two-hour television drama, "The Midnight Oil," has quite a way to go. She is in her mid-20s.

CARPETED WORKSHOP

BRENTWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Actor Fred MacMurry is an ardent carpentry hobbyist with a well-equipped workshop in his home. To assure him positive comfort, the workshop has wall-to-wall carpeting.

LANKY LUCY

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Lucille Ball has a candid memory of herself as a child.

"I was tall and skinny, with flaming red hair and braces," she says,. "I looked like a kitchen match with buck teeth."

Youths Cause Soviet Rift, Crackdown

MOSCOW (UPI) —Juvenile delinquency, drunkenness, violence and vandalism—all are forcing the Soviet Union into an agonizing study of crime and how to cure it.

The answer so far—get tough.

Russia is in the midst of a major campaign to crack down on "hooliganism"—a form of Soviet crime vaguely defined as anything from drunkenness to vandalism to wanton personal violence, much of it committed by teen-agers.

The campaign is aimed at stiffening police, courts and public in the fight for safety on Soviet streets. Two incidents indicate the direction it is taking:

Youth Gang Let Off

In April, a Soviet official, calling for new toughness against hooligans, said one youth gang was let off without punishment because the victim of their knife attack did not die.

One month later, a court in southern Russia sentenced a 19-year - old thug to death for stabbing two persons—both of whom survived.

A Moscow drunk who started a fight a year ago would have received 15 days. But recently one was sentenced to four years at hard labor.

Westerners here believe that in comparison to, say, New York, violence and delinquency in Russia still is minimal. Street fights are rare, murder infrequent and vandalism usually confined to stealing windshield wipers.

But as the Soviet Union gets further from the heady days of the revolution and closer to affluence, its restless youth appear to be an increasing problem.

Saddle Routine Long For Drury

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Saddle sores, anyone? James Drury averages 2½ hours a day on horseback as star of "The Virginian." One weekend day a month he rides 11½ hours in the Hollywood hills with other reserve deputies in the Los Angeles County sheriff's posse.

Asian Payments Slump

Soviets Up Exports To North Vietnamese

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet nonmilitary exports to North Viet Nam rose sharply last year to nearly $75 million while Vietnamese exports in payment slumped to $30.5 million, according to statistics published Saturday.

The Soviet 1965 trade statistics, just out, also show that Soviet exports to Communist China ended a long decline and rose 42 per cent from 1964. Imports from China continued to drop, but remained ahead of exports.

The statistics do not show Soviet military equipment supplied to North Viet Nam. The Kremlin reportedly told some foreign Communist parties that it gave Hanoi more than $555 million worth of weapons and other aid in 1965.

The Russians value the ruble at $1.11.

On this basis trade figures show $74.78 million in Soviet nonmilitary exports to North Viet Nam in 1965. This was up from $47.67 million in 1964.

Two-thirds of the exports were machinery and equipment, much of it small items to round out the North Vietnamese economy.

Items included 340 movable electrical generators with a combined rating of 803,000 kilowatts, 27 cranes, 18 excavators, 503 trucks, 280 cars, 5,555 radios and 121,000 metric tons of oil products.

(Though these were listed as ordinary trade goods, all could contribute in some measure to North Viet Nam's war effort. Trucks and oil products particularly are involved in the movement of troops and supplies and, as such, are rated as prime military targets in the American bombing campaign against North Viet Nam.)

Soviet imports from North Viet Nam, which had been rising in recent years, dropped from $34.8 million in 1964 to $30.5 million.

A North Vietnamese delegation led by Deputy Premier Le Thanh Nghi is now in Moscow seeking "further expansion of economic cooperation and trade." This is believed to mean Hanoi wants more Soviet aid.

The decline in Hanoi's 1965 shipments indicates the war is making it increasingly difficult for North Viet Nam to pay for needed items. American air raids on North Viet Nam began on a regular basis in February 1965.

The Kremlin has repeatedly promised Hanoi all necessary aid for defense against the air raids. This aid has extended beyond weapons to general economic support.

A Soviet gift of about $2 million worth of consumer goods for Hanoi was announced Thursday.

Soviet exports to China in 1965 were valued at $191.67 million, against $135.3 million in 1964.

The 1964 figure was the low point of a decline from Soviet exports worth some $2.8 billion a year ago in the heyday of Moscow-Peking relations a decade ago.

The 1965 exports to China were mainly in industrial equipment. China needs spare parts and some semifinished products to run industries built for it by the Soviet Union.

One of the sharpest drops was from 504,900 tons of oil products sold to China in 1964 to 37,900 tons in 1965.

Soviet imports from China have been running higher than exports as Peking paid for Soviet-built industries and other loans.

The bill has now been almost entirely paid and imports dropped from $314.2 million in 1964 to $225.5 million last year.

Two Arrested On Charges Of Theft

Monroe police Saturday arrested two men on charges of theft in connection with a chain saw taken from a truck sometime Friday night.

Arrested were George O. Dyer, 46, Miller Hotel, Monroe, and Robert E. Yorkley, 54, of Rt. 4 Box 97, West Monroe.

They are charged with taking a chain saw valued at $240 from a truck belonging to Willie Shirley, Winnfield, while it was parked in the 100 block of Hall Street. The saw was found in a Monroe pawn shop. A third man is being sought.

In other action, Monroe police booked Louis A. Geneaville, 18, of No. 66 Bon Air Dr. for indecent exposure and disturbing the peace. Booked on a warrant for theft was Glenn A. Farron, 17, of Masur Hall, Northeast Louisiana State College.

Booked for aggravated battery in Monroe was Tommy Pratt, 26, of 608 Stone St., Monroe. Charged with simple and aggravated battery in West Monroe was Clarence Everett, 17, of Rayville.

Two counts of theft by check were lodged in West Monroe against Barbara Bryant, 30, of 210 Vine St., West Monroe.

World Bank Opens Meet For Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 104 member nations of the International Monetary Fund open on Monday a five-day meeting which could set the pattern for reform of international financing.

No hard decisions are expected at the meeting as most of the time will be devoted to speechmaking. It's here, however, that fund leaders hope to get the guidelines for reform of the system which keeps the gears of world trade well greased.

The annual meeting of the World Bank — officially, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development — will be held in conjunction with the fund sessions.

Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, the fund's managing director, told a news conference in advance of the annual meeting that he sees no technical problems which can't be solved "in a reasonably short period" in reaching agreement on a revision plan.

Up till now, discussions of possible reform have been in the hands of the world's 10 largest industrial nations — called the group of 10 — but they voted last July to make smaller nations part of the discussion through the fund.

The fund has been an observer at previous group of 10 meetings.

The group also foresaw a need for a contingent reform plan to be activated only when a shortage of world reserves actually occurred. France disagreed, contending there's no need for even contingent planning.

Schwetzer, however, said the discussions should be intensified and widened because of the progress made thus far.

He said he would work personally during the week to make arrangements for a joint meeting between the group of 10 — the industrial nations are also fund members — and the fund's executive directors.

Schweitzer said the first joint meeting probably could be held before Christmas.

Many experts believe the need for new international money will arise once the United States stops feeding dollars into the international system by deficits in its balance of payments. The United States has embarked on a massive program to end this dollar drain.

Since dollars are now the principal world currency, new money would be required to fill the gap, the reasoning goes.

Schweitzer said the 104 member board of governors need not adopt a formal resolution to authorize joint meetings with the group of 10 deputy finance ministers. The fund's executive directors already have the power to do this and will take part in the joint venture, he said.

But he added that guidelines can be drawn from speeches the fund governors ill make next week. And most of the speechmaking, he said, is likely to concentrate on this topic.

Schweitzer and George D. Woods, World Bank president, will be the main speakers at Monday's opening session. President Johnson also is expected to address the group although no definite time has been fixed.

Schweitzer also reported that for the first time in its 21-year existence, the fund has outstanding drawings on its resources of more than $5 billion while its total quotas had increased to $20.58 billion by Aug. 31 compared with $15.9 billion last Jan. 1.

State Raids Hit Sex Ring Of Lewdness

ATLANTA (UPI)—State and county authorities staged raids in three metropolitar Atlanta counties Saturday and broke up what police said appeared to be part of a nationwide ring dealing in lewd pictures and magazines.

Three raids were staged simultaneously early Saturday morning by Georgia Bureau of Investigation agents and police from Fulton, DeKalb and Cobb counties at residences in all three counties.

GBI agent Robert Hightower said most of the material that was confiscated was found at a private home in Marietta. Agents found a number of pornographic magazines, several albums of lewd pictures, obscene party records and several pairs of handcuffs and manacles which officers said possibly were used in acts of sadism.

Several persons were apprehended at the home but released into the custody of their lawyers. No charges were filed immediately.

Hightower said several mailing lists were found in the Marietta home which were believed to have been used in the distribution of pornographic matter.

He said there were indications that 20 to 25 Atlanta residents were involved in the operations of the ring. Several magazines from the Club Rebel which was raided in Atlanta several months ago were found at the residence and Hightower said there was evidence the two organizations were connected.

Hightower said the Cobb solicitor's office was reviewing the case to determine if any charges were to be brought.

Mississippi Production Announced

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Deep oil production has been assured in Clarke County with a wildcat well about three miles east of Quitman flowing 380 barrels per day.

The new discovery is the Brandon No. 1 with the perforated interval tested at 11,191-201 feet in the Cotton Valley zone.

Operators have released very little detailed information. Tests on a second zone at 11,400 feet in the Smackover lime were reported to have been swabbed at the rate of 200 barrels of oil per day.

Electrical log has been run and sidewall cores are being taken in an effort to evaluate oil shows found in a Smith County wildcat. The closely watched well is Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. No. 1, Middleton, about three miles northwest of Raleigh.

A number of oil shows have been logged in the Cotton Valley zone from 14,190 feet to present depth of 15,150 feet.

In the recently found Tallahatta Creek field of Smith County, Shell Oil and R. Merrill Harris are below 11,300 feet in their confirmation well the Orin James No. 1 about four miles south of Sylvarena.

The discovery well was completed several weeks ago flowing 900 barrels per day from perforations in the Cotton Valley at 15,598-621 feet.

Sun Oil is swabbing its Franklin County wildcat, the Miller-Federal, from perforations in the Wilcox sand at 6480-84 feet in an effort to complete as a new discovery.

Pan American Petroleum is drilling below 15,000 feet at its closely watched Wayne County wildcat, the No. 1, USA-GM&O Land Co., about nine miles southwest of Waynesboro.

The potential new discovery is reported having indicated on drill stem test in open hole a possible flow rate of in excess of 600 barrels per day from the Smackover at 13,400 feet.

Operators are releasing no information. A string of seven inch production casing has been set to about 13,500 feet.

Phillips Petroleum has perforated at 14,180-200 feet and is attempting to swab its Simpson County wildcat, the Zellerbach No. 1.

The disappointing venture was drilled to 21,052 feet and logged only slight shows of hydrogen sulphide gas in the Smackover lime below 19,800 feet.

Viet Songs No Candidate For Top 10

By ROBERT IBRAHIM
United Press International

HUE (UPI) —The real songs of the Viet Nam war probably will never make the Top Ten—they're strictly for "in" group consumption.

They're soft and plaintive ballads. The lyrics may sound humorous but it's a humor drawn from irony and frustration.

These are the ballads of the American advisers—the forgotten men of the Viet Nam war—who no longer make the headlines.

For years they were the only Americans involved in the fighting, making news only when they were killed. They are still there, Amerians and Australians, wherever a Vietnamese unit fights.

"The Song of the Co Van My" tells the story of the American adviser, fighting a war over strange terrain with outdated maps and Vietnamese rations.

Bitterness Shows

Bitterness shows as it discusses the rear echelon adviser, "moving imaginary battalions across outdated maps"—or "when in doubt send in the B52s."

Cut off from the comradeship and inward - turning communities of the big American units, the advisers become Vietnamese-oriented.

A favorite among their Vietnamese counterparts is a song called simply "Tai Sao Tai Vi."

In Vietnamese, it means "Why? Because."

It sums up one of the major frustrations of an adviser. When he asks his Vietnamese counterpart why he has done something or failed to do it, the answer frequently is a shrug, a smile and "tai vi."

Bar Girl Story

But the song tells a different story. It is the story of the Vietnamese bar girl, in her own language.

WINNER in the hotly contested 6th District race for Congress Saturday was former Dist. Judge John Rarick who defeated Rep. James Morrison.

Scientists Tint Clouds, Trigger Telephone Calls

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (UPI) — Scientists seeking more knowledge of the earth's magnetic field streaked multi-colored clouds hundreds of miles into space Saturday — visible over most of the eastern United States.

The green, red and blue clouds were seen as far west as Illinois and may have touched off reports of unidentified flying objects in Illinois, Michigan and Indiana.

The aerial spectacular was sent aloft by a Javelin sounding rocket fired by a team of U.S. and German scientists at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's (NASA) station at 5:13 a.m. EDT. It ejected cloud-forming particles of barium and copper oxide at altitudes of 310 and 570 miles.

By tracking the movement of the vari-colored clouds, scientists hoped to learn more about the earth's magnetic fields and the wind motion in the upper atmosphere.

At first, the clouds appeared light green, then turned red in the rising sun's rays. They became bluish as they enlarged into patterns several hundred miles long and stretched out into a north-south direction.

It was the first experiment conducted under a cooperative agreement between the Max Planck Institute of Munich, Germany, and NASA. The payload was developed by a scientific team headed by Professor Reimar Luest, the institute's director.

Scientists said the clouds could be seen as far west as Illinois. At about the same time the Javelin was launched, there were reports of an unidentified flying object in Illinois, Indiana and Michigan. It was described as a "brilliant white ball that changed shapes."

A weather station in the Greenville - Spartanburg, S.C., area received an excited report soon after the launching from a person who sighted a bright fireball in the eastern sky, followed by a blue cloud.

Final Meeting For Flag Loop

The Monroe Recreation Department will hold their final meetings Monday, September 26th, for the purpose of organizing their Flag Football Program.

There will be two leagues; a High School League for boys 18 years and under, in high school, and non - varsity. The City League is for adults, no age limit.

Meetings for the High School League will be held at 6:30 p.m. and the City League 7 p.m. Both meetings will be held at the Benoit Recreation Center, 1700 Oaklawn Drive.

'Huskers Get' Victory Over Utah State

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Fourth-ranked Nebraska, plauged by offensive ineptness, shook off its troubles in the third period Saturday, tallied 15 points in three minutes of game time and defeated Utah State 28—7 in an intersectional football clash before a record Memorial Stadium crowd of 63,543.

A 38-yard field goal by Larry Wachholtz which barely skimmed the crossbar broke a 7-7 tie with 46 seconds remaining in the third quarter.

Moments later, Nebraska middle guard Wayne Meylan blocked a Ron Stewart punt and recovered on Utah State's eight. A three-yard plunge by Ron Kirkland converted the break into a touchdown.

Two minutes later, Wachholtz pulled in a Utah State punt and rambled 72 yards for a touchdown to ice the contest.

It was Nebraska's second win of the season, Utah State's second loss.

Defensive toughness by Utah State coupled with fumbles, intercepted passes, penalties and assorted other Nebraska miscues made it a wild contest.

Nebraska scored early with the help of a timely offside penalty called and rode the 7-0 bulge until the spirited Aggies retaliated in the third quarter.

A 37-yard punt return by Wachholtz to Utah State's 31 set up the initial Nebraska score, saved by a Utah State penalty call on the play which saw quarterback Bob Churchich fumble and Utah State recover. The penalty gave Nebraska possession on the Utah State's two and Charlie Winters bulled for the touchdown.

Utah State got in position for its tying touchdown when a Conhusker touched the ball on an Aggie punt and Mike O'Shea fell on the live ball on Nebraska's 38.

A Ron Edwards pass to Mac Arthur Lane ate up 32 yards, and Edwards scored on a one-yard keeper.

A penalty call aided the Nebraska cause again as it moved toward its tie breaking field goal. A pass interference call on Utah State in the end zone gave Nebraska a first down on its one. The rushes of Aggie tackle Billy Staley helped throw Nebraska back to the 23 and the field goal followed.

Gophers Crush

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Curt Wilson, Minnesota's scampering quarterback, befuddled Stanford with his dazzling rollouts and laterals, and paced the Gophers to a 35-21 crushing of the Indians in an intersectional football game Saturday.

Underdog Rice Tops LSU

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Sophomore substitute quarterback Robby Shelton raced 13 yards for the winning touchdown with just over two minutes left in the game to give underdog Rice a 17-15 intersectional football victory over Louisiana State Saturday night.

Shelton, a 165-pounder, took over in the second half with the two-touchdown underdog Owls trailing 15-7 and thrilled a partisan crowd of 63,000 by guiding Rice to victory.

Prior to Shelton's winning run it appeared a deflected pass picked off by an LSU defensive end and taken 42 yards for a score would prove the difference.

The victory was doubly sweet for Rice fans as the game was the beginning of the 27th and last season for head coach Jess Neely. Neely, dean of college coaches, announced before the season began this would be his last.

Rice's winning touchdown engineered by Shelton covered 80 yards in 11 plays with Shelton going around right end for the 13 final yards with only 2:06 left in the game.

LSU jumped to a 15-7 half time lead on a 25-yard field goal by Steve Daniel, a six-yard scoring pass from quarterback Nelson Stokely to Tommy Morel and the 42-yard run by Tiger end John Garlington.

The run by Garlington came when Rice quarterback Robert Bailey, back to pass, was hit and the ball was deflected. Garlington grabbed it and raced in untouched.

Rice cut the score to 15-10 with Frank Pustka's 21-yard field goal in the third and then won it on Shelton's run in the final quarter.

The final statistics were about as close at the final score. Rice had 187 yards rushing to 183 for the Tigers. LSU had 71 yards passing and Rice 59.

Shelton who carried 15 times for 68 yards was the top ground gainer. Rice's slashing tailback L. V. Benningfield, who scored on a nine yard run following a pitchout from Hailey, added 64 yards on 14 carries. The top gainer for LSU was tailback Jim Dousay with 49 yards on six tries.

With LSU leading 3-0 on Danpel's field goal, Rice came back to take a brief 7-3 lead on Benningfield's run. The Rice drive covered 69 yards in 13 plays. Sixteen yard and 10 yard passes from Hailey to Dan Van Winkle kept the drive alive.

LSU took the lead again on Garlington's run and Stokley's pass to Morel but then along came Shelton and a stout Rice defense and the Owls pulled off the upset.

The series is one of the longest in intersectional football, beginning in 1915. Despite Rice's victory, LSU still leads 20-12-4.

Longhorns Outlast Texas Tech

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Halfback Greg Lott thundered 88 yards for a touchdown with the opening kickoff to get the University of Texas off to a lead the Longhorns never relinquished Saturday night as they outlasted Texas Tech 31-21 in a Southwest Conference opener.

Texas rolled up the points in the first half on a 47-yard field goal by David Conway, a six-inch touchdown plunge by sophomore quarterback Bill Bradley, and a three-yard TD pass from Bradley to end Tom Higgins.

The Longhorns led at halftime 24-8 with the Red Raiders scoring after Bradley bobbled a punt. Quarterback John Sovell of Tech rifled a 43-yard touchdown pass to end Larry Gilbert and connected with Jerry Lovelace for the conversion.

The Longhorns, who have never lost a conference game to Tech since the Red Raiders entered the SWC in 1960, had all they could handle in the second half.

Texas ran the score up to 31-8 in the third quarter when Bradley dashed three yards for a touchdown around right end. Texas Tech took advantage of an interference call against the Texas defense on the Longhorns' one-yard line to set up a touchdown plunge by halfback Mike Leinert.

The ball-hawking Red Raiders got the ball again in the final quarter and Scovell snapped a 13-yard touchdown pass to halfback Gary Golden for the final total.

The loss put both teams at 1-1 for the season. The Red Raiders beat Kansas 23-7 last week and Texas lost 10-6 to Southern California.

Colgate Erupts Past Columbia

NEW YORK (AP)—Colgate, stalled for most of the first half, erupted for two quick touchdowns late in the second quarter behind the passing and running of Ron Burton and went in to a 38-0 football victory over Columbia Saturday.

Burton, a sophomore quarterback, scored the first Colgate touchdown on a 12-yard run. A minute later, after Tom Wilson recovered a fumble on Columbia's 34-yard line, Burton fired a 28-yard pass to Wilson for the second score.

Burton also led a first period drive, by running for 28 yards in three carries. Marvin Hubbard booted a 28-yard field goal when the drive stalled, giving the Raiders a 17-0 margin at the half.

Beavers Snatch Grid Victory

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Aroused Oregon State took only four plays to ring up a touchdown, added 10 more points during the first half, then held determined but error plagued Iowa at bay for a 17-3 intersectional football victory here Saturday.

The Beavers, bouncing back from a 41-0 stinging from Michigan the week before, turned loose a bevy of speedy backs that ripped through Iowa's small young line with ease.

Missouri Gains Win Over Illini

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Two pass interceptions, one being returned 60 yards for a touchdown y Jim Whitaker, rallied Missouri in the last quarter for a 21-14 intersectional football triumph over Illinois Saturday.

Cage Officials Slate Meeting

The Northeast Louisiana High School Basketball Officials Association will hold an organizational meeting Wednesday night in room 232-B, Stubbs Hall on the Northeast campus.

Dave McKenzie, the association's commissioner, urged all officials and persons wishing to officiate basketball to attend the meeting, which will get underway at 7:30 p.m.

McKenzie stressed the point that young officials are needed for the association, and the only requirement regarding entering the group is no high school students will be accepted.

Harding Defeats Southern State

SEARCY, Ark. (Special) — Harding College defeated Southern State, 35-13, here Saturday night.

All scoring was done in the first half of the contest as the defenses took over control in the final two periods.

Jim Leonard gained 129 yards to lead Harding. Jim Howard, former Neville star, 93 strips on 29 carries to aid the winners.

Traweek Races Slated Today

Action at Traweek Raceway in West Monroe will be at a fast pace today.

Time trials for the day are set to get underway at 1:30 and the races are scheduled for a 2 p.m. start.

Stock and coupe cars are involved in the races. The raceway is located three and a half miles past the paper mill on the Jonesboro Road.

Tech Downs Colonials In Easy Fashion

BLACKSBURG, Va. (UPI)—Quarterback Tommy Stafford dashed 42 yards in the first period Saturday to open the flood gate as touchdown greedy Virginia Tech rolled over George Washington 49-0.

Living up to pre-season expectations after a disappointing opening game loss to Tulane last week, Tech scored six touchdowns, a safety and two field goals to take their first win of the year before 18,000 fans.

Stafford, a senior, was aided by the defensive work of end George Fousseiks, and the running of wingback Tommy Francisco and halfback Eddie Bullheller, as Tech raced past the outclassed Colonials.

Despite sometimes brilliant play by halfback Tom Metz, the Southern Conference Colonials were frustrated all afternoon and managed only one sustained drive. It was their second loss of the season.

The Tech men struck midway in the first period as Tommy Stafford zipped up the middle on a draw for his 41 yard scoring jaunt.

Tech's English-kicking specialist, John Utin, booted the point after. Utin, a junior, did well for the day, booting five of six extra points and two fourth-quarter field goals from 31 and 40 yards out.

With 23 seconds left in the first period, Tech's safety Frank Loria took a punt from GW's Bob Schmidt and raced 80 yards for the game's second touchdown.

21-14 Win Best Thing Ever In Tribe History

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Editor

GREENVILLE, N. C. — The greatest thing that ever happened to Northeast State football. That has to be the perfect summation of Northeast State's 21-14 victory over major college East Carolina here Saturday night before a crowd of 14,130 — the largest to ever witness a Northeast football game, and possibly the most unhappy crowd to ever see one.

Coach Dixie White's Indians were tremendous all night, in fact, they were even greater that that. They were unbeatable.

From the first quarter when quarterback Steve Mansur spun and weaved for a 40 yard touchdown that gave little Northeast a shocking 7-0 lead, all the way through the fourth period when Dalton LeBlanc sped first for a game - tying three - yard paydirt sweep and later to the go ahead TD on a 64 yard scamper, Northeast was a winner.

It fell behind 14-7 in the third quarter on a touchdown by East Carolina's Jim Flowe, but still it was a winner. Time and again it came up with the big plays, both offensively and defensively.

To name stars is unfair, it was the epitomy of a team effort.

Even after the Indians swept back into the lead in the last period, East Carolina still had 10 minutes to come back against the team it routed by 45 points last year.

But twice the Indians held. First with seven minutes left in the game, East Carolina was forced to punt from the Northeast 41 facing fourth and sixth.

And, then finally, came the clincher. The Pirates got possession for one last try with 2:12 left. And with field position after a 29 yard punt return by Bob Ellis gave EC the ball at its own 42.

Quickly tailback Bill Bailey, sensational all night, passed the Pirates to Northeast 41 and visions of years gone by must have danced in the minds of Tribe fans. But not of Tribe players.

On second and 10 a the NLSC 41, Bailey hit Tom Grant on a screen pass in the right flat. But just as Grant started to run, coverback Larry Johnson sreamed him with a perfect tackle. Grant coughed up the ball and Tribesman Jerry Vega was there to gobble it up and secure the sweetest football victory ever for Northeast.

LeBlanc's game - winning touchdown run climaxed 90-yard Northeast march after the Indians held off a sustained Pirate march that seemed headed for six points until Johnson came up with a crucial tackle on Hughes at the 10.

Taking over on the 10, Northeast marched out to its own 37 in five plays, setting the stage for LeBlanc's touchdown.

Although statistics cannnot tell all the store of this victory, for there was so very much heart involved, they don't dim the triumph at all.

Behind the devastating blocking of center Vic Bender, guards Andy Mapp and Steve Brasher and tackles James Kirkendall and Charles Rogers, Tribe backs scampered for 331 yards on the ground.

Meanwhile, East Carolina — noted for its ground attack off the single wing — wound up with 274 against the never tiring efforts of Tribe defenders like Ron Sumter, Rodger Bowman, Greg Jubert, Johnson, Wayne Cunningham, Ron Gaetano, Alton Thomas and Thomas Eddleman.

Special praise has to go to offensive guard Mapp and tackle Rodgers who anchor down the right side of the line — the side which LeBlanc raced for 135 yards on 18 trips.

Quarterback Mansur, running the boot-leg to perfection, finished with 89 on 12 trips including several clutch gains which picked up first downs in very "needy" situations.

Tailback Bailey was the biggest pain in the side of Northeast all night. The fine runner, who scored the Pirates' first TD on a nine yard scamper, finished with 141 yards in 19 trips. Flowe had 63 in 11 trips and Hughes ran eight times for 51 yards.

FIRST HALF

Despite the 7-7 tie going into the second half, the first 30 minutes of play belonged to Northeast. Meeting the big Pirates head on time after time, the Indians ripped for six first downs while the home team collected eight, four of which were collected on the TD march at the conclusion of the half.

However, with the crunching blocks of the entire Northeast offensive wall opening gaping holes most of the time, the Tribe backs rammed for 136 yards as the Pirates were getting 115.

The contest took on a rather frightening look from a tribe standpoint as the outset as East Carolina got good field position quickly after a punt went off the left side of Ronny Holland's toe for only 12 yards, to the Pirates' 38.

Still, it was evident just as quickly that the Pirates were in for a much different battle this time around than in last season's 45-0 rout.

With linebackers Ron Gaetano and Wayne Cunningham, plus the entire interior wall consistently stopping the single wing power bursts at the line of scrimmage, East Carolina slowly but surely found itself giving up the good field position it enjoyed earlier.

Finally, with about four minutes left in the first period the Indians forced EC to punt from its 48. Little Bubbie Dupont fielded the punt at the Indians' 14 and returned to the 30.

And, here the Northeast offense made good on the fine running and well executed blocking it had previewed before.

Halfback Dalton LeBlanc, who had 49 yards on eight trips at intermission, ripped off 18 on first down, pushing the ball to the NE 38. He hit the same spot on he next play for three and Bobby Scafidel followed with a four yard gain to the EC 45.

LeBlanc came back with another five yarder off right tackle and then Mansur wheeled and dealed for his 40 yard touchdown scamper when he boot-legged beautifully to the right, bounced off a Pirate near the East Carolina tackler, going in standing up.

Clarke Blake tacked on the PART and Northeast had a stunning 7-0 lead over the Southern Conference Pirates.

East Carolina, facing the reality of going to the halftime break behind, hooked up on its first impressive drive of the night — and made it pay off with a minute left when hard-working Bailey pushed over from the nine.

The 69 yard march was built around the bull-like thrusts of Bailey plus a couple of 12 yard runs by Earl Hughes. It included 16 plays and four first downs.

Following Bailey's scoring run, Robert Farris tied things 7-7 with a kick that went straight up but had enough "ugh" to reach the cross bar, which it ticked and fell across.

Demons Get Non-League Win 49-0

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Northwestern State College threw up a warning flare to Gulf State Conference opponents here Saturday night by crushing non-league foe Louisiana College 49-0 in the season opener for the Demons.

Scoring in every period and pushing across 21 points in the fourth quarter, Northwestern handed the Wildcats their second straight loss of the year.

The Demons erupted late in the opening period when quarterback Donald Guidry hit Dick Reding with a 44-yard pass to the Louisiana College 14-yard line. Flanker Gary Pittman hauled it over for the score on the next play.

A 29-yard Guidry to Reding aerial early in the second period put the Demons on top 14-0. Later in the quarter, Malcolm Lewis capped an 89-yard drive with a scoring blast from the one to put Northwestern ahead 21-0 at halftime.

Midway through the third quarter, Neal Prather zipped through Wildcat defenders for through Wildcat defenders for a 37-yard run to the six and finished up the job on the next play with a touchdown sweep around left end.

Northwestern struck early in the last stanza with a 45-yard touchdown pass from Lewis to freshman Kenneth Callens. Less than a minute later, Demon safety Al Dodd picked off a pass from Bobby Gravolet and sprinted it back 27 yards for a touchdown.

The Demons' offensive assault ended with five minutes left in the game when freshman John all carrid over from th John Hall carried over from the eight after Northwestern had driven from the Wildcat 42 following a fumble recovery.

Meetings For Managers Set

A meeting of managers, whose teams plan to play in the Recreation Volleyball leagues, will be held Tuesday night at 7:00 at the Wossman Recreation Center on Westminster Street.

Deadline for entering the two leagues, one for men and one for men and ladies, has been set for Thursday afternoon at 5 p.m.

For further information on the leagues, contact the Recreation Department.

Final Meeting For Flag Loop

The Monroe Recreation Department will hold their final meetings Monday, September 26th, for the purpose of organizing their Flag Football Program.

There will be two leagues; a High School League for boys 18 years and under, in high school, and non - varsity. The City League is for adults, no age limit.

Meetings for the High School League will be held at 6:30 p.m. and the City League 7 p.m. Both meetings will be held at the Benoit Recreation Center, 1700 Oaklawn Drive.

'Huskers Get' Victory Over Utah State

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Fourth-ranked Nebraska, plauged by offensive ineptness, shook off its troubles in the third period Saturday, tallied 15 points in three minutes of game time and defeated Utah State 28—7 in an intersectional football clash before a record Memorial Stadium crowd of 63,543.

A 38-yard field goal by Larry Wachholtz which barely skimmed the crossbar broke a 7-7 tie with 46 seconds remaining in the third quarter.

Moments later, Nebraska middle guard Wayne Meylan blocked a Ron Stewart punt and recovered on Utah State's eight. A three-yard plunge by Ron Kirkland converted the break into a touchdown.

Two minutes later, Wachholtz pulled in a Utah State punt and rambled 72 yards for a touchdown to ice the contest.

It was Nebraska's second win of the season, Utah State's second loss.

Defensive toughness by Utah State coupled with fumbles, intercepted passes, penalties and assorted other Nebraska miscues made it a wild contest.

Nebraska scored early with the help of a timely offside penalty called and rode the 7-0 bulge until the spirited Aggies retaliated in the third quarter.

A 37-yard punt return by Wachholtz to Utah State's 31 set up the initial Nebraska score, saved by a Utah State penalty call on the play which saw quarterback Bob Churchich fumble and Utah State recover. The penalty gave Nebraska possession on the Utah State's two and Charlie Winters bulled for the touchdown.

Utah State got in position for its tying touchdown when a Conhusker touched the ball on an Aggie punt and Mike O'Shea fell on the live ball on Nebraska's 38.

A Ron Edwards pass to Mac Arthur Lane ate up 32 yards, and Edwards scored on a one-yard keeper.

A penalty call aided the Nebraska cause again as it moved toward its tie breaking field goal. A pass interference call on Utah State in the end zone gave Nebraska a first down on its one. The rushes of Aggie tackle Billy Staley helped throw Nebraska back to the 23 and the field goal followed.

Gophers Crush

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Curt Wilson, Minnesota's scampering quarterback, befuddled Stanford with his dazzling rollouts and laterals, and paced the Gophers to a 35-21 crushing of the Indians in an intersectional football game Saturday.

Underdog Rice Tops LSU

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Sophomore substitute quarterback Robby Shelton raced 13 yards for the winning touchdown with just over two minutes left in the game to give underdog Rice a 17-15 intersectional football victory over Louisiana State Saturday night.

Shelton, a 165-pounder, took over in the second half with the two-touchdown underdog Owls trailing 15-7 and thrilled a partisan crowd of 63,000 by guiding Rice to victory.

Prior to Shelton's winning run it appeared a deflected pass picked off by an LSU defensive end and taken 42 yards for a score would prove the difference.

The victory was doubly sweet for Rice fans as the game was the beginning of the 27th and last season for head coach Jess Neely. Neely, dean of college coaches, announced before the season began this would be his last.

Rice's winning touchdown engineered by Shelton covered 80 yards in 11 plays with Shelton going around right end for the 13 final yards with only 2:06 left in the game.

LSU jumped to a 15-7 half time lead on a 25-yard field goal by Steve Daniel, a six-yard scoring pass from quarterback Nelson Stokely to Tommy Morel and the 42-yard run by Tiger end John Garlington.

The run by Garlington came when Rice quarterback Robert Bailey, back to pass, was hit and the ball was deflected. Garlington grabbed it and raced in untouched.

Rice cut the score to 15-10 with Frank Pustka's 21-yard field goal in the third and then won it on Shelton's run in the final quarter.

The final statistics were about as close at the final score. Rice had 187 yards rushing to 183 for the Tigers. LSU had 71 yards passing and Rice 59.

Shelton who carried 15 times for 68 yards was the top ground gainer. Rice's slashing tailback L. V. Benningfield, who scored on a nine yard run following a pitchout from Hailey, added 64 yards on 14 carries. The top gainer for LSU was tailback Jim Dousay with 49 yards on six tries.

With LSU leading 3-0 on Danpel's field goal, Rice came back to take a brief 7-3 lead on Benningfield's run. The Rice drive covered 69 yards in 13 plays. Sixteen yard and 10 yard passes from Hailey to Dan Van Winkle kept the drive alive.

LSU took the lead again on Garlington's run and Stokley's pass to Morel but then along came Shelton and a stout Rice defense and the Owls pulled off the upset.

The series is one of the longest in intersectional football, beginning in 1915. Despite Rice's victory, LSU still leads 20-12-4.

Longhorns Outlast Texas Tech

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Halfback Greg Lott thundered 88 yards for a touchdown with the opening kickoff to get the University of Texas off to a lead the Longhorns never relinquished Saturday night as they outlasted Texas Tech 31-21 in a Southwest Conference opener.

Texas rolled up the points in the first half on a 47-yard field goal by David Conway, a six-inch touchdown plunge by sophomore quarterback Bill Bradley, and a three-yard TD pass from Bradley to end Tom Higgins.

The Longhorns led at halftime 24-8 with the Red Raiders scoring after Bradley bobbled a punt. Quarterback John Sovell of Tech rifled a 43-yard touchdown pass to end Larry Gilbert and connected with Jerry Lovelace for the conversion.

The Longhorns, who have never lost a conference game to Tech since the Red Raiders entered the SWC in 1960, had all they could handle in the second half.

Texas ran the score up to 31-8 in the third quarter when Bradley dashed three yards for a touchdown around right end.

Texas Tech took advantage of an interference call against the Texas defense on the Longhorns' one-yard line to set up a touchdown plunge by halfback Mike Leinert.

The ball-hawking Red Raiders got the ball again in the final quarter and Scovell snapped a 13-yard touchdown pass to halfback Gary Golden for the final total.

The loss put both teams at 1-1 for the season. The Red Raiders beat Kansas 23-7 last week and Texas lost 10-6 to Southern California.

Colgate Erupts Past Columbia

NEW YORK (AP)—Colgate, stalled for most of the first half, erupted for two quick touchdowns late in the second quarter behind the passing and running of Ron Burton and went in to a 38-0 football victory over Columbia Saturday.

Burton, a sophomore quarterback, scored the first Colgate touchdown on a 12-yard run. A minute later, after Tom Wilson recovered a fumble on Columbia's 34-yard line, Burton fired a 28-yard pass to Wilson for the second score.

Burton also led a first period drive, by running for 28 yards in three carries. Marvin Hubbard booted a 28-yard field goal when the drive stalled, giving the Raiders a 17-0 margin at the half.

Beavers Snatch Grid Victory

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Aroused Oregon State took only four plays to ring up a touchdown, added 10 more points during the first half, then held determined but error plagued Iowa at bay for a 17-3 intersectional football victory here Saturday.

The Beavers, bouncing back from a 41-0 stinging from Michigan the week before, turned loose a bevy of speedy backs that ripped through Iowa's small young line with ease.

Missouri Gains Win Over Illini

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Two pass interceptions, one being returned 60 yards for a touchdown y Jim Whitaker, rallied Missouri in the last quarter for a 21-14 intersectional football triumph over Illinois Saturday.

Cage Officials Slate Meeting

The Northeast Louisiana High School Basketball Officials Association will hold an organizational meeting Wednesday night in room 232-B, Stubbs Hall on the Northeast campus.

Dave McKenzie, the association's commissioner, urged all officials and persons wishing to officiate basketball to attend the meeting, which will get underway at 7:30 p.m.

McKenzie stressed the point that young officials are needed for the association, and the only requirement regarding entering the group is no high school students will be accepted.

Harding Defeats Southern State

SEARCY, Ark. (Special) — Harding College defeated Southern State, 35-13, here Saturday night.

All scoring was done in the first half of the contest as the defenses took over control in the final two periods.

Jim Leonard gained 129 yards to lead Harding. Jim Howard, former Neville star, 93 strips on 29 carries to aid the winners.

Traweek Races Slated Today

Action at Traweek Raceway in West Monroe will be at a fast pace today.

Time trials for the day are set to get underway at 1:30 and the races are scheduled for a 2 p.m. start.

Stock and coupe cars are involved in the races. The raceway is located three and a half miles past the paper mill on the Jonesboro Road.

21-14 Win Best Thing Ever In Tribe History

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Editor

GREENVILLE. N. C. — The greatest thing that ever happened to Northeast State football. That has to be the perfect summation of Northeast State's 21-14 victory over major college East Carolina here Saturday night before a crowd of 14,130 — the largest to ever witness a Northeast football game, and possibly the most unhappy crowd to ever see one.

Coach Dixie White's Indians were tremendous all night, in fact, they were even greater that that. They were unbeatable.

From the first quarter when quarterback Steve Mansur spun and weaved for a 40 yard touchdown that gave little Northeast a shocking 7-0 lead, all the way through the fourth period when Dalton LeBlanc sped first for a game - tying three - yard paydirt sweep and later to the go ahead TD on a 64 yard scamper, Northeast was a winner.

It fell behind 14-7 in the third quarter on a touchdown by East Carolina's Jim Flowe, but still it was a winner. Time and again it came up with the big plays, both offensively and defensively.

To name stars is unfair, it was the epitomy of a team effort.

Even after the Indians swept back into the lead in the last period, East Carolina still had 10 minutes to come back against the team it routed by 45 points last year.

But twice the Indians held. First with seven minutes left in the game, East Carolina was forced to punt from the Northeast 41 facing fourth and sixth.

And, then finally, came the clincher. The Pirates got possession for one last try with 2:12 left. And with field position after a 29 yard punt return by Bob Ellis gave EC the ball at its own 42.

Quickly tailback Bill Bailey, sensational all night, passed the Pirates to Northeast 41 and visions of years gone by must have danced in the minds of Tribe fans. But not of Tribe players.

On second and 10 a the NLSC 41, Bailey hit Tom Grant on a screen pass in the right flat. But just as Grant started to run, coverback Larry Johnson sreamed him with a perfect tackle. Grant coughed up the ball and Tribesman Jerry Vega was there to gobble it up and secure the sweetest football victory ever for Northeast.

LeBlanc's game - winning touchdown run climaxed 90-yard Northeast march after the Indians held off a sustained Pirate march that seemed headed for six points until Johnson came up with a crucial tackle on Hughes at the 10.

Taking over on the 10, Northeast marched out to its own 37 in five plays, setting the stage for LeBlanc's touchdown.

Although statistics cannnot tell all the store of this victory, for there was so very much heart involved, they don't dim the triumph at all.

Behind the devastating blocking of center Vic Bender, guards Andy Mapp and Steve Brasher and tackles James Kirkendall and Charles Rogers, Tribe backs scampered for 331 yards on the ground.

Meanwhile, East Carolina — noted for its ground attack off the single wing — wound up with 274 against the never tiring efforts of Tribe defenders like Ron Sumter, Rodger Bowman, Greg Jubert, Johnson, Wayne Cunningham, Ron Gaetano, Alton Thomas and Thomas Eddleman.

Special praise has to go to offensive guard Mapp and tackle Rodgers who anchor down the right side of the line — the side which LeBlanc raced for 135 yards on 18 trips.

Quarterback Mansur, running the boot-leg to perfection, finished with 89 on 12 trips including several clutch gains which picked up first downs in very "needy" situations.

Tailback Bailey was the biggest pain in the side of Northeast all night. The fine runner, who scored the Pirates' first TD on a nine yard scamper, finished with 141 yards in 19 trips. Flowe had 63 in 11 trips and Hughes ran eight times for 51 yards.

FIRST HALF

Despite the 7-7 tie going into the second half, the first 30 minutes of play belonged to Northeast. Meeting the big Pirates head on time after time, the Indians ripped for six first downs while the home team collected eight, four of which were collected on the TD march at the conclusion of the half.

However, with the crunching blocks of the entire Northeast offensive wall opening gaping holes most of the time, the Tribe backs rammed for 136 yards as the Pirates were getting 115.

The contest took on a rather frightening look from a tribe standpoint as the outset as East Carolina got good field position quickly after a punt went off the left side of Ronny Holland's toe for only 12 yards, to the Pirates' 38.

Still, it was evident just as quickly that the Pirates were in for a much different battle this time around than in last season's 45-0 rout.

With linebackers Ron Gaetano and Wayne Cunningham, plus the entire interior wall consistently stopping the single wing power bursts at the line of scrimmage, East Carolina slowly but surely found itself giving up the good field position it enjoyed earlier.

Finally, with about four minutes left in the first period the Indians forced EC to punt from its 48. Little Bubbie Dupont fielded the punt at the Indians' 14 and returned to the 30.

And, here the Northeast offense made good on the fine running and well executed blocking it had previewed before.

Halfback Dalton LeBlanc, who had 49 yards on eight trips at intermission, ripped off 18 on first down, pushing the ball to the NE 38. He hit the same spot on he next play for three and Bobby Scafidel followed with a four yard gain to the EC 45.

LeBlanc came back with another five yarder off right tackle and then Mansur wheeled and dealed for his 40 yard touchdown scamper when he boot-legged beautifully to the right, bounced off a Pirate near the East Carolina tackler, going in standing up.

Clarke Blake tacked on the PART and Northeast had a stunning 7-0 lead over the Southern Conference Pirates.

East Carolina, facing the reality of going to the halftime break behind, hooked up on its first impressive drive of the night — and made it pay off with a minute left when hard-working Bailey pushed over from the nine.

The 69 yard march was built around the bull-like thrusts of Bailey plus a couple of 12 yard runs by Earl Hughes. It included 16 plays and four first downs.

Following Bailey's scoring run, Robert Farris tied things 7-7 with a kick that went straight up but had enough "ugh" to reach the cross bar, which it ticked and fell across.

Tech Downs Colonials In Easy Fashion

BLACKSBURG, Va. (UPI)— Quarterback Tommy Stafford dashed 42 yards in the first period Saturday to open the flood gate as touchdown greedy Virginia Tech rolled over George Washington 49-0.

Living up to pre-season expectations after a disappointing opening game loss to Tulane last week, Tech scored six touchdowns, a safety and two field goals to take their first win of the year before 18,000 fans.

Stafford, a senior, was aided by the defensive work of end George Fousseiks, and the running of wingback Tommy Francisco and halfback Eddie Bullheller, as Tech raced past the outclassed Colonials.

Despite sometimes brilliant play by halfback Tom Metz, the Southern Conference Colonials were frustrated all afternoon and managed only one sustained drive. It was their second loss of the season.

The Tech men struck midway in the first period as Tommy Stafford zipped up the middle on a draw for his 41 yard scoring jaunt.

Tech's English-kicking specialist, John Utin, booted the point after. Utin, a junior, did well for the day, booting five of six extra points and two fourth-quarter field goals from 31 and 40 yards out.

With 23 seconds left in the first period, Tech's safety Frank Loria took a punt from GW's Bob Schmidt and raced 80 yards for the game's second touchdown.

Demons Get Non-League Win 49-0

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Northwestern State College threw up a warning flare to Gulf State Conference opponents here Saturday night by crushing non-league foe Louisiana College 49-0 in the season opener for the Demons.

Scoring in every period and pushing across 21 points in the fourth quarter, Northwestern handed the Wildcats their second straight loss of the year.

The Demons erupted late in the opening period when quarterback Donald Guidry hit Dick Reding with a 44-yard pass to the Louisiana College 14-yard line. Flanker Gary Pittman hauled it over for the score on the next play.

A 29-yard Guidry to Reding aerial early in the second period put the Demons on top 14-0. Later in the quarter, Malcolm Lewis capped an 89-yard drive with a scoring blast from the one to put Northwestern ahead 21-0 at halftime.

Midway through the third quarter, Neal Prather zipped through Wildcat defenders for hrough Wildcat defenders for a 37-yard run to the six and finished up the job on the next play with a touchdown sweep around left end.

Northwestern struck early in the last stanza with a 45-yard touchdown pass from Lewis to freshman Kenneth Callens. Less than a minute later, Demon safety Al Dodd picked off a pass from Bobby Gravolet and sprinted it back 27 yards for a touchdown.

The Demons' offensive assault ended with five minutes left in the game when freshman John all carrid over from th John Hall carried over from the eight after Northwestern had driven from the Wildcat 42 following a fumble recovery.

Alabama Clips La. Tech

65,000 See Champions Win, 34-0

By STUART HILL
World Sports Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Defending national champion Alabama clipped little Louisiana Tech 34-0 before a fantastic crowd of 65,000 here Saturday night, but without a scrap from the Louisiana Bulldogs, not even defending champion of their own small college conference.

Tech, unawed by the qualifications of Paul "Bear" Bryant's obviously superior Crimson Tide, picked the Alabama secondary with passes for a dangerously close touchdown and, in general, made a more than credible showing against the terrible Tide.

Tech, with flashes of defensive brilliance, and Alabama, seeming to play the waiting game, finished the opening quarter in a 0-0 draw before the Tide's waiting off and Alabama hit for two quick scores in the second period.

With Kenny (Snake) Stabler directing the Bears' Tide, the Alabama crew sent flankerback Dennis Holman streaking down the sidelines to haul in a 32-yard Snake touchdown pass for the first score.

The same combination was to click for 79 yards in the early minutes of the fourth to give the Tide a 28-0 advantage.

Stabler got the second Alabama score with 5:54 remaining in the half when he drifted around right end for seven yards after a pass interception at the Tech 24 yard line. Six-footer Eddie Bow Rogers, standing about three yards behind the line of scrimmage, reached up to snare the Phil Robertson pass and returned to the Tech eight to set up the score.

Fullback Hal Moore put the wraps on another short Alabama drive in the third with a one-yard plunge which came after the Tide had driven 35 yards following another interception. The score came with 9:47 remaining and took eight plays.

After Bear's 'Bama had its 14-0 lead in the second frame, Tech put on a passing rush that picked up 54 yards and riddled the Alabama waiting pass defense.

The drive, which carried from the Tech 32 to the Alabama 14, was halted with a Bob Childs interception on the Tide two yard line.

The Robertson-led display began after the kickoff following the second Alabama score.

Robert Brunet returned the kickoff 28 yards to the Bulldog 31 and Tom Linder gained only one yard on the first play from scrimmage. Robertson, aided by Alabama's infrequent pass rush and Tech's quickly executed pass patterns, then hit Ken Liberto with a seven - yarder, struck him again with a 12-yarder for a first down at the Alabama 49. Brunet then took in two straight for 18 yards and then carried for another four and a first at the 'Bama 14.

Childs' interception came on the following play and the first half ran out as 'Bama's Steve Davis pounded a 62-yard punt.

Alabama became a wide open ball club in the second half. Stabler and reserve Wayne Trimbel threw more, more end sweeps and roll outs were used, and the Tide set out to prove what everyone knows — that it is seeking its third straight national crown.

The Red Wave got its final marker of the night with 6:37 remaining as Holmon barrelled over from five yards out, following a 40-yard pass from Stabler to Conrad Fowler.

Tech got the ball with three minutes remaining in the game and started going for the bomb and undertaking the Bulldogs had not tried all night.

But the Tide got the ball with 1:36 left after Robertson was thrown for a tremendous lost at the Tech's 33 and the scrubs came in and moved to the one before time ran out.

Outstanding defensive play came from linebackers Bob McKinnon and Joe Raymond Peace, end Speedy Campbell and backs Bill Jones, Alden Reeves, Butch Daniel and Tom Stringer.

David Chatwood paced the Alabama ground gainers with 59 yards on nine carries, followed by Moore with 41 on 10 tries.

Brunet and Linder were the only Tech load-luggers to finish on the plus side. Brunet had seven on five attempts and Linder with four on four.

Robertson, who had an outstanding opening half but was wrinkled by the Alabama defense, finished the night with a minus 40 yards rushing but connected on 14 of 35 attempts for 183 yards.

Arkansas Razorbacks Stiffle Tulsa Hurricane With Defense

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) —Sixth-ranked Arkansas turned to a mighty defense Saturday and rolled to a 27-8 victory over Tulsa after Martin Bercher opened the scoring with a 64-yard punt return in the second quarter.

It was the 23rd consecutive regular season victory for the Razorbacks, whose only loss in 24 games came at the hands of Louisiana State in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1.

Arkansas' defense shut out the high-scoring Tulsans for almost 57 minutes before the Hurricane scored in its 50th straight game. The touchdown came on a six-yard pass from Glen Dobbs to Gary McDermott.

Sophomore tailback Bruce Maxwell scored touchdowns on runs of two and one yards. He led the Arkansas attack with 122 yards on 27 carries.

Arkansas' other touchdown came on a 13-yard pass from Jon Brittenum to Tommy Burnett, ending the Razorbacks' only long offensive drive of the day. It covered 61 yards and took only five plays.

The Razorbacks built a four-touchdown advantage in the second and third quarters and Coach Frank Broyles then turned loose sophomore-loaded offensive and defensive teams.

Tulsa managed to preserve its scoring streak by moving 80 yards in the final quarter.

It was the first time in 27 games the Hurricane failed to score at least twice.

Bercher, a 175-pound senior, brought a record Razorback stadium crowd of 41,000 to its feet in the second period when he took a punt at his 36, started to the right sidelines and sprinted the distance, faking Tulsa's last defender at the Hurricane 10.

Middle guard David Cooper set up two touchdowns, one with a fumble recovery at the Tulsa 25, the other on a pass interception which he returned 14 yards to the Hurricane 27. Maxwell scored both touchdowns.

Brittenum, who led Arkansas to its second straight Southwest Conference title last year, completed two passes in the 61-yard scoring drive.

Memphis State Downs Dietzel Led Gamecocks

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI) — Junior quarterback Jerry Padgett led Memphis State to a 16-7 win over South Carolina Saturday night in coach Paul Dietzel's first home stand since taking over as head coach of the Gamecocks.

Memphis State scored one touchdown drive of 58 and 29 yards and a 30-yard pass from reserve quarterback Ted Wingard to wingback Ben Garnto.

The touchdown was set up when Memphis State punter Bob Baxter, attempting a kick from his end zone, was forced to run and was dropped at the Memphis State three.

The South Carolina offense was crippled in the second period when quarterback Mike Mair sustained a hip injury that knocked him out of the first period, drove 58 yards on seven plays for its first score Padgett carried 14 yards on a sweep around the right side for the touchdown.

The drive was kept alive by a 14 yard pass from Padgett to end Rich Coady and a 26-yard run by fullback Lee Narramore.

The Gamecocks came charging back with a drive of 62 yards that stalled at the Memphis State four. A 40-yard pass from Wingard to Johnny Gregory carried to the Memphis 29.

Two plays later South Carolina was at the Tiger's six, but the drive ran into a wall of Memphis State linemen and was stopped.

With less than two minutes left in the half, Memphis State elected to run out the clock.

A fourth down kicking situation resulted with a bad pass from center and South Carolina State three.

Wingard passed to Garnto and Jimmy Pool kicked the extra point for a half time score of 7-7.

Tailback Tom Wallace capped off the final Memphis State touchdown with a two-yard plunge over the left side in the third period.

Southpaw Slinger Puts Tulane Past Aggies 11

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Bobby Duhon, the southpaw slinger from the Cajun country, directed Tulane to a 21-13 conquest of favored Texas A&M Saturday night to give himself a big 20th birthday present.

Tulane's defense, which looked weak and porous in practice, came up with the biggest surprise, however, and recovered three Aggie fumbles. They were turned into touchdowns.

The turning point came in the third quarter when Tulane guard Vic Eumont recovered the ball in the A&M end zone after Aggie kicker Steve O'Neal fumbled while trying to get off a punt.

Less than a minute earlier, a Tulane drive had been stopped at the Aggie three when Mike Findley fumbled and A&M's Robert Cortez recovered.

O'Neal was set to punt on second down but the Aggies were penalized for delay of game. The ball was then snapped from the one and a nervous O'Neal dropped it as Tulane defenders keyed on him.

Eumont's recovery gave Tulane a 14-7 lead.

The Greenies scored in the first period on a three-yard run by Duhon and A&M tied it up in the second on a 24-yard scoring strike from Edd Hargett to Tom Buckman.

Duhon's touchdown followed Lanis O'Steen's recovery of an Aggie fumble on the Tulane 49.

After Eumont's score, A&M's Tommy Maxwell took the kickoff and ran it to the 30 before fumbling. Jim Darnley recovered for Tulane. On the next play, sophomore Jim Trahan almost dropped the ball on a pitchout from Duhon but hung on to it during a 24-yard run to the six. Four plays later, on fourth down, Duhon went over from the one.

A&M went to the airways but Tulane stopped two Aggie drives on the 16 and the two before Hargett tossed nine yards to Ronnie Lindsey for the final Aggie touchdown.

Patriots Facing Test Against Chiefs

Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Nance of the Boston Patriots has taken off weight—and taken off.

Admittedly out of shape last season, Nance has trimmed down to a svelte 235 pounds and moved up to the No. 1 spot among the ground gainers in the American Football League while giving the Patriots a strong running game for the first time in several years.

Nance, who has gained 194 yards on 36 carries for a 5.4 average against San Diego and Denver, gets the biggest test of his new rating today when the Patriots meet the Kansas City Chiefs in one of the four games on the program.

In other games, San Diego, tied with Kansas City for the top spot in the West, is at Oakland, Eastern Division leading New York is at Denver and Houston is at Buffalo.

Nance, meanwhile, will be trying to show he's a legitimate contender for the rushing crown by doing as well against the Chiefs, No. 1 team in the league against rushing, as he has done in his first two games. He should be able to.

"I've got my weight down and my cordination back," Nance explained. "It wasn't too hard but I'm going to get down to 225 so I can get into the line even quicker.

"I came in out of shape last year," the former Syracuse standout continued. "I decided to do a lot of personal things—get myself straightened out—and I never did get to my conditioning."

Then, finally, he began to think.

"I started thinking that a man who does things right pleases himself," Nance said. "Then I thought about Holovak (Coach Mike Holovak) and me and realized he was right to get mad when I didn't do things the way he wanted me to."

And he also forgot one thing.

"I forgot Jimmy Brown and the comparisons," he said pointedly, "and for the first time I wanted to play football."

And he has. In two games he has gained more than one-half of his entire 1965 production of 321 yards and, if Babe Parilli can be in connecting with his passes consistently, the Patriots just might give the Chiefs a tussle.

The Chiefs have established their credentials as Western title threats and last week against Oakland unviled Mike Garrett as a running back and he proceeded to show his Heisman Trophy form by gaining 83 yards in 10 carries.

Both the Chargers and Raiders have had trouble getting their round games going. Gene Foster has taken over at fullback or San Diego with Paul Lowe and Keith Lincoln battling for the other spot. Oakland's Clem Daniels also has yet to break loose.

The Jets established themselves as Eastern title threats by rolling over Houston 52-13 behind Joe Namath's five touchdown passes while the Broncos established that they have problems. Ray Malavasi, who succeeded Mac Speedie as coach, has them now.

The Bills finally put together their offense against Miami last week and with Jack Kemp's arm getting stronger, they should get stronger. The Oilers will have to do better than they did last week in New York, which shouldn't be difficult.

Florida State Drops Miami, 23-20

MIAMI (AP)—Florida State's fired-up Seminoles hit Miami with three scoring bombs Saturday night, made a game-saving fumble recovery with two minutes to go, and defeated the Hurricanes 23-20 in a wild battle of intrastate football rivals.

With a first down at the Seminole four and a chance to pull it out, the Hurricanes failed when its hard-running fullback Doug McGee fumbled.

Gary Pajcic had nailed Ron Sellers and Thurston Taylor with 27-yard touchdown passes, T. K. Wetherell scored on a 94-yard kickoff return, and Pete Roberts provided the margin of victory with a 32-yard field goal.

The alert Seminoles baffled Miami's two-touchdown favorites with their pass formations and stifled the Hurricane offense by intercepting four of Bill Miller's passes. Bill Campbell and Wayne Giardino stole two each.

Miller threw touchdown shots of 47 yards to Jim Cox and seven yards to Jerry Daanen. On a halfback pass, John Acuff hit Daanen with another scoring throw of 19 yards.

But Florida State, which had shut out the Hurricanes in their last two meetings, couldn't be denied tonight and wrecked Miami's home opener before 54,262 fans.

Miami led 7-0 after a 93-yard drive ending with Miller's pass to Daanen but when Pajcic came in to replace the starting Seminole quarterback, Jim Hammond, the Seminoles broke the game open with a 17-point spurt in the second period.

After one 66-yard drive climaxed by Pajcic's touchdown pass to Sellers, FSU pulled off the big one of the night.

Bill Moreman took a Miami kickoff on his six-yard line and lateraled to Wetherell, who carried 83 yards to the score. Roberts' field goal made it 17-13 at halftime.

Miami went ahead in the third on Miller's long pass to Cox.

Alabama Clips La. Tech

65,000 See Champions Win, 34-0

By STUART HILL
World Sports Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Defending national champion Alabama clipped little Louisiana Tech 34-0 before a fantastic crowd of 65,000 here Saturday night, but without a scrap from the Louisiana Bulldogs, not even defending champion of their own small college conference.

Tech, unawed by the qualifications of Paul "Bear" Bryant's obviously superior Crimson Tide, picked the Alabama secondary with passes for a dangerously close touchdown and, in general, made a more than credible showing against the terrible Tide.

Tech, with flashes of defensive brilliance, and Alabama, seeming to play the waiting game, finished the opening quarter in a 0-0 draw before the Tide's waiting off and Alabama hit for two quick scores in the second period.

	L.A Tech	Alabama
First downs	11	13
Rushing yardage	—32	154
Passing yardage	183	187
Passes	14-35	5-11
Passes Intercepted by	1	4
Punts	9-35	6-44

With Kenny (Snake) Stabler directing the Bears' Tide, the Alabama crew sent flankerback Dennis Holman streaking down the sidelines to haul in a 32-yard Snake touchdown pass for the first score.

The same combination was to click for 79 yards in the early minutes of the fourth to give the Tide a 28-0 advantage.

Stabler got the second Alabama score with 5:54 remaining in the half when he drifted around right end for seven yards after a pass interception at the Tech 24 yard line. Six-footer Eddie Bow Rogers, standing about three yards behind the line of scrimmage, reached up to snare the Phil Robertson pass and returned to the Tech eight to set up the score.

Fullback Hal Moore put the wraps on another short Alabama drive in the third with a one-yard plunge which came after the Tide had driven 35 yards following another interception. The score came with 9:47 remaining and took eight plays.

After Bear's 'Bama had its 14-0 lead in the second frame, Tech put on a passing rush that picked up 54 yards and riddled the Alabama waiting pass defense.

The drive, which carried from the Tech 32 to the Alabama 14, was halted with a Bob Childs interception on the Tide two-yard line.

The Robertson-led display began after the kickoff following the second Alabama score.

Robert Brunet returned the kickoff 28 yards to the Bulldog 31 and Tom Linder gained only one yard on the first play from scrimmage. Robertson, aided by Alabama's infrequent pass rush and Tech's quickly executed pass patterns, then hit Ken Liberto with a seven-yarder, struck him again with a 12-yarder for a first down at the Alabama 49. Brunet then took in two straight for 18 yards and then carried for another four and a first at the 'Bama 14.

Childs' interception came on the following play and the first half ran out as 'Bama's Steve Davis pounded a 62-yard punt.

Alabama became a wide open ball club in the second half. Stabler and reserve Wayne Trimbel threw more, more end sweeps and roll outs were used, and the Tide set out to prove what everyone knows — that it is seeking its third straight national crown.

The Red Wave got its final marker of the night with 6:37 remaining as Holmon barrelled over from five yards out, following a 40-yard pass from Stabler to Conrad Fowler.

Tech got the ball with three minutes remaining in the game and started going for the bomb and undertaking the Bulldogs had not tried all night.

But the Tide got the ball with 1:36 left after Robertson was thrown for a tremendous lost at the Tech's 33 and the scrubs came in and moved to the one before time ran out.

Outstanding defensive play came from linebackers Bob McKinnon and Joe Raymond Peace, end Speedy Campbell and backs Bill Jones, Alden Reeves, Butch Daniel and Tom Stringer.

David Chatwood paced the Alabama ground gainers with 59 yards on nine carries, followed by Moore with 41 on 10 tries.

Brunet and Linder were the only Tech load-luggers to finish on the plus side. Brunet had seven on five attempts and Linder with four on four.

Robertson, who had an outstanding opening half but was wrinkled by the Alabama defense, finished the night with a minus 40 yards rushing but connected on 14 of 35 attempts for 183 yards.

Arkansas Razorbacks Stiffle Tulsa Hurricane With Defense

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) —Sixth-ranked Arkansas turned to a mighty defense Saturday and rolled to a 27-8 victory over Tulsa after Martin Bercher opened the scoring with a 64-yard punt return in the second quarter.

It was the 23rd consecutive regular season victory for the Razorbacks, whose only loss in 24 games came at the hands of Louisiana State in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1.

Arkansas' defense shut out the high-scoring Tulsans for almost 57 minutes before the Hurricane scored in its 50th straight game. The touchdown came on a six-yard pass from Glen Dobbs to Gary McDermott.

Sophomore tailback Bruce Maxwell scored touchdowns on runs of two and one yards. He led the Arkansas attack with 122 yards on 27 carries.

Arkansas' other touchdown came on a 13-yard pass from Jon Brittenum to Tommy Burnett, ending the Razorbacks' only long offensive drive of the day. It covered 61 yards and took only five plays.

The Razorbacks built a four-touchdown advantage in the second and third quarters and Coach Frank Broyles then turned loose sophomore-loaded offensive and defensive teams.

Tulsa managed to preserve its scoring streak by moving 80 yards in the final quarter.

It was the first time in 27 games the Hurricane failed to score at least twice.

Bercher, a 175-pound senior, brought a record Razorback stadium crowd of 41,000 to its feet in the second period when he took a punt at his 36, started to the right sidelines and sprinted the distance, faking Tulsa's last defender at the Hurricane 10.

Middle guard David Cooper set up two touchdowns, one with a fumble recovery at the Tulsa 25, the other on a pass interception which he returned 14 yards to the Hurricane 27. Maxwell scored both touchdowns.

Brittenum, who led Arkansas to its second straight Southwest Conference title last year, completed two passes in the 61-yard scoring drive.

Memphis State Downs Dietzel Led Gamecocks

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI) — Junior quarterback Jerry Padgett led Memphis State to a 16-7 win over South Carolina Saturday night in coach Paul Dietzel's first home stand since taking over as head coach of the Gamecocks.

Memphis State scored one touchdown drive of 58 and 29 yards and a 30-yard pass from reserve quarterback Ted Wingard to wingback Ben Garnto.

The touchdown was set up when Memphis State punter Bob Baxter, attempting a kick from his end zone, was forced to run and was dropped at the Memphis State three.

The South Carolina offense was crippled in the second period when quarterback Mike Mair sustained a hip injury that knocked him out of the first period, drove 58 yards on seven plays for its first score Padgett carried 14 yards on a sweep around the right side for the touchdown.

The drive was kept alive by a 14-yard pass from Padgett to end Rich Coady and a 26-yard run by fullback Lee Narramore.

The Gamecocks came charging back with a drive of 62 yards that stalled at the Memphis State four. A 40-yard pass from Wingard to Johnny Gregory carried to the Memphis 29.

Two plays later South Carolina was at the Tiger's six, but the drive ran into a wall of Memphis State linemen and was stopped.

With less than two minutes left in the half, Memphis State elected to run out the clock.

A fourth down kicking situation resulted with a bad pass from center and South Carolina State three.

Wingard passed to Garnto and Jimmy Pool kicked the extra point for a half time score of 7-7.

Tailback Tom Wallace capped off the final Memphis State touchdown with a two-yard plunge over the left side in the third period.

Southpaw Slinger Puts Tulane Past Aggies 11

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Bobby Duhon, the southpaw slinger from the Cajun country, directed Tulane to a 21-13 conquest of favored Texas A&M Saturday night to give himself a big 20th birthday present.

Tulane's defense, which looked weak and porous in practice, came up with the biggest surprise, however, and recovered three Aggie fumbles. They were turned into touchdowns.

The turning point came in the third quarter when Tulane guard Vic Eumont recovered the ball in the A&M end zone after Aggie kicker Steve O'Neal fumbled while trying to get off a punt.

Less than a minute earlier, a Tulane drive had been stopped at the Aggie three when Mike Findley fumbled and A&M's Robert Cortez recovered.

O'Neal was set to punt on second down but the Aggies were penalized for delay of game. The ball was then snapped from the one and a nervous O'Neal dropped it as Tulane defenders keyed on him.

Eumont's recovery gave Tulane a 14-7 lead.

The Greenies scored in the first period on a three-yard run by Duhon and A&M tied it up in the second on a 24-yard scoring strike from Edd Hargett to Tom Buckman.

Duhon's touchdown followed Lanis O'Steen's recovery of an Aggie fumble on the Tulane 49.

After Eumont's score, A&M's Tommy Maxwell took the kickoff and ran it to the 30 before fumbling. Jim Darnley recovered for Tulane. On the next play, sophomore Jim Trahan almost dropped the ball on a pitchout from Duhon but hung on to it during a 24-yard run to the six. Four plays later, on fourth down, Duhon went over from the one.

A&M went to the airways but Tulane stopped two Aggie drives on the 16 and the two before Hargett tossed nine yards to Ronnie Lindsey for the final Aggie touchdown.

Patriots Facing Test Against Chiefs

Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Nance of the Boston Patriots has taken off weight—and taken off.

Admittedly out of shape last season, Nance has trimmed down to a svelte 235 pounds and moved up to the No. 1 spot among the ground gainers in the American Football League while giving the Patriots a strong running game for the first time in several years.

Nance, who has gained 194 yards on 36 carries for a 5.4 average against San Diego and Denver, gets the biggest test of his new rating today when the Patriots meet the Kansas City Chiefs in one of the four games on the program.

In other games, San Diego, tied with Kansas City for the top spot in the West, is at Oakland, Eastern Division leading New York is at Denver and Houston is at Buffalo.

Nance, meanwhile, will be trying to show he's a legitimate contender for the rushing crown by doing as well against the Chiefs, No. 1 team in the league against rushing, as he has done in his first two games. He should be able to.

"I've got my weight down and my cordination back," Nance explained. "It wasn't too hard but I'm going to get down to 225 so I can get into the line even quicker.

"I came in out of shape last year," the former Syracuse standout continued. "I decided to do a lot of personal things—get myself straightened out—and I never did get to my conditioning."

Then, finally, he began to think.

"I started thinking that a man who does things right pleases himself," Nance said. "Then I thought about Holovak (Coach Mike Holovak) and me and realized he was right to get mad when I didn't do things the way he wanted me to."

And he also forgot one thing.

"I forgot Jimmy Brown and the comparisons," he said pointedly, "and for the first time I wanted to play football."

And he has. In two games he has gained more than one-half of his entire 1965 production of 321 yards and, if Babe Parilli can be in connecting with his passes consistently, the Patriots just might give the Chiefs a tussle.

The Chiefs have established their credentials as Western title threats and last week against Oakland unviled Mike Garrett as a running back and he proceeded to show his Heisman Trophy form by gaining 83 yards in 10 carries.

Both the Chargers and Raiders have had trouble getting their round games going. Gene Foster has taken over at fullback or San Diego with Paul Lowe and Keith Lincoln battling for the other spot. Oakland's Clem Daniels also has yet to break loose.

The Jets established themselves as Eastern title threats by rolling over Houston 52-13 behind Joe Namath's five touchdown passes while the Broncos established that they have problems. Ray Malavasi, who succeeded Mac Speedie as coach, has them now.

The Bills finally put together their offense against Miami last week and with Jack Kemp's arm getting stronger, they should get stronger. The Oilers will have to do better than they did last week in New York, which shouldn't be difficult.

Florida State Drops Miami, 23-20

MIAMI (AP)—Florida State's fired-up Seminoles hit Miami with three scoring bombs Saturday night, made a game-saving fumble recovery with two minutes to go, and defeated the Hurricanes 23-20 in a wild battle of intrastate football rivals.

With a first down at the Seminole four and a chance to pull it out, the Hurricanes failed when its hard-running fullback Doug McGee fumbled.

Gary Pajcic had nailed Ron Sellers and Thurston Taylor with 27-yard touchdown passes, T. K. Wetherell scored on a 94-yard kickoff return, and Pete Roberts provided the margin of victory with a 32-yard field goal.

The alert Seminoles baffled Miami's two-touchdown favorites with their pass formations and stifled the Hurricane offense by intercepting four of Bill Miller's passes. Bill Campbell and Wayne Giardino stole two each.

Miller threw touchdown shots of 47 yards to Jim Cox and seven yards to Jerry Daanen. On a halfback pass, John Acuff hit Daanen with another scoring throw of 19 yards.

But Florida State, which had shut out the Hurricanes in their last two meetings, couldn't be denied tonight and wrecked Miami's home opener before 54,262 fans.

Miami led 7-0 after a 93-yard drive ending with Miller's pass to Daanen but when Pajcic came in to replace the starting Seminole quarterback, Jim Hammond, the Seminoles broke the game open with a 17-point spurt in the second period.

After one 66-yard drive climaxed by Pajcic's touchdown pass to Sellers, FSU pulled off the big one of the night.

Bill Moreman took a Miami kickoff on his six-yard line and lateraled to Wetherell, who carried 83 yards to the score. Roberts' field goal made it 17-13 at halftime.

Miami went ahead in the third on Miller's long pass to Cox.

More About Enforcement

With Paul Martin

The price the poacher must pay may vary over the state, but does a $100 fine and loss of all hunting and fishing rights during two years probation sound profitable?

A lot of men may not miss $100 but loss of hunting and fishing, even to escape a 60-day jail sentence, would be quite a blow to most hunters.

Judge Mack Barham of the Fifth District Court, showing an example of how our courts are taking strong measures to make poaching unpopular, recently meted out such sentences.

He fined three Morehouse parish men for illegal deer kills $100 each or 30 days in jail, plus a 60-day sentence to be suspended on condition of two-year probation and confiscation of all firearms owned by the men who may not possess firearms or hunt and fish during the probation period.

Dr. Leslie Glasgow, director of the Louisaina and Wild Life and Fisheries commission, commenting on the Bastrop case said, "the present attitude of the courts regarding violations of game and fish laws demonstrates a deeper appreciation of the importance of outdoor recreation and the need for enforcement to safeguard the future of Louisiana's wildlife resources.

Stamp Out Violations

"We are steping up our enforcement." Glasgow said. "Every effort is going to be made to stamp out game and fish violations."

If you read this column last week, oyu got a briefing on the pressure building against game violations. But the ink on that issue wasn't dry before rangers made an arrest for jumping the squirrel season. The accused had five squirrels.

The sporstman's concern about game enforcement is reflected in a recent letter that, in addition to encouragement for our writings to support enforcement of seasons and bag limits, had this to say:

"There is too much disregard for game laws. I can not understand the reasoning of so many individuals . . . I was out with an individual when we saw a buck, and I do believe he would have shot it if he had had a rifle.

"The layman hears much more than you do of the bragging about killing deer and duck out of season. I fear and feel that the squirrel season has already opened in many sections."

And right this man is. We think he is happy to learn of the arrests and the pressures being made to put an end to game thefts.

Safety Clinic Continues

The Archery and Gun Safety Clinic has its last session this afternoon, beginning at 1:30 o'clock at Bancroft Camp with youth of the area as special guests of the Greater Monroe Optimist Club and The Twin Cities Optimist Club.

The instruction in gun and bow safety, precautions against snakes, and sportmanship requirements toward landowners and other hunters can be valuable at some future date for the youths of all ages who have and will attend these clinics.

Any kids needing a ride to the clinic, everything free, will find a city bus ready to leave the Monroe city hall at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Fifteen minutes later it will make a pickup at the First Baptist Church in West Monroe. And the bus will return you to town when the clinic is over.

'Wings From The North'

The Ouachita Wildlife Unit's meeting Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the agricultural building in West Monroe will feature the film, "Wings From The North."

"Sonny" Johnson, a committeeman in arranging the program, said the film, in color, is a new production from Ducks Unlimited and has been labeled by many as "one of the finest duck films ever made."

An invitation also is being extended to Clark Hoffpauir, duck expert of the LWLFC to attend.

"Mr. Hoffpauir is probably the foremost duck authority in Louisiana," unit president John Ensminger said. "If he can attend he'll give up a first hand report of duck surveys already in progress in the state and just what the waterfowl hunters can expec this season."

Squirrel, Rabbit Season Near

The experimental teal season closes at sunset today and no legal hunting can take place in the state before next Saturday. For the next five days, however, the sporting goods stores will be mighty busy supplying the hunters. Their advertisements furnish good check lists.

Next Saturday is opening day for the squirrel and rabbit. Some game management areas will allow squirrel and rabbit hunting for a few brief days, but outside the GMA's the season runs for 151 days for rabbit and 102 days for squirrel.

The seasons on this game end Jan. 10 for squirrel and Feb. 28 for rabbit. Daily limits are eight for rabbit or squirrel.

Permits will be needed for for game management areas where hunting is permitted. These are secured free at your area LWLFC office and are needed except where daily permits are required.

Cities Service Will Open

Contrary to some stories making the rounds, the Cities Service GMA in Ouachita parish will be opened for hunting in this first year of its being. Rabbit and squirrel hunting will be, season permit, the same as in the area outside the GMA except that no dogs will be allowed.

The area will also be open to deer hunting when that season begins on the "same as outside" basis, also still hunting, and quail may be hunted in CS-GMA Jan. 9-Feb. 28, 1967, with season permit.

Dog owners in the Cities Service area of Swartz-Fairbanks eastward in Ouachita are cautioned not to allow their dogs to roam in the GMA at any time. Dogs are not permitted to range any GMAs except when birddogs are permitted where quail hunting is allowed.

While on the subject of birddogs, that field trial clinic scheduled by the North Louisiana Pointer and Setter Club has, through its president, Joe B. Zuber, extended an invitation to all persons interested in birddogs or bird hunting.

The clinic will be held Sunday, Oct. 30, near Wilhite. That's nearly a month away, giving you plenty of time to plan to attend. The club's annual championship field trials will follow the clinic on Nov. 12-13.

The Catahoula Barbecue

The Catahoula Parish Sportsmen's Association caps its membership drive with a barbecue next Friday evening at 7 o'clock on Fort Hill at Harrisonburg.

T. E. Kirby, association president, said the membership deadline is tomorrow with each member entitled to bring one guest to the barbecue.

Secure those memberships with Catahoula sportsmen and barbecue qualifications from T. E. Kirby, E. L. Cannady, E. B. McGuffee or Ernest Guinn in Harrisonburg, A. D. Swayze at Jonesville, Guy Price or Raymond Larrison at Sicily Island and W. A. Book at Larto.

Keeping Score Outdoors

There was a reduction in fishing success during the week, but some went home with notable catches.

M. H. LARRY, Monroe, took bass limits three straight days at Bussey Brake where TED SUTTON, Monroe, twice took limits and BILL BICKHAM, Monroe, made one trip for the limit. EUGENE and MRS. SAMPLES, El Dorado, Ark., took 29 bass, one short of the limit for both. J. W. and MRS. WOMACK, Bastrop, took a dozen nice crappie.

JOHNNY DANA and PAUL DANNA went to Black Bayou Lake for bass limits. JOE and ANN WILKINS took 63 specks and 30 bream, and MRS. C. C. LANGFORD, Sterlington, caught 15 large specks.

HENRY TARVER, Monroe, worked Big Horseshoe at Monterey for the white perch limit, and RENEAU HALL, Natchez, took the bass limit there. JIM JUNE, Natchez, used an artificial red worm for the bass limit at Lake St. John, and bass limits were taken at Lake Concordia by ALLEN DELANDERVILLE, Gonzales, and GEORGE BOOTH, Natchez., JACK ST. JOHN, Natchez, took eight big ones at Concordia, the largest weighing five pounds, six ounces. All Concordia catches were on Mighty Minnow.

R. T. KUHN worked his personally designed lure in Chenniere Lake for five bass Wednesday.

D'Arbonne Lake catches included bass limits for STANLEY HENDERSON, Arcadia, and BILL CALLOWAY, Ferriday. BILL CORAN took 13 bass Thursday, several over three pounds. Other good catches were CLARENCE GRIFFIN, Arcadia, 40 crappie and six bass; CALVIN and MRS. PRAPHIO, El Dorado, 40 crappie and 18 bass; PRICE HOLLAND, and CLYDE TYLER, Jonesboro, each 40 crappie and HOLLAND additionally eight bass; HAROLD GREEN, Jonesboro, 45 crappie; HAROLD ODOM, Jonesboro, 35 bream; TOM RINEHART and daughter, JEANETTE, Ruston, 50 crappie, 20 of them by JEANETTE, and TOMMY GRAVES, Ruston, 30 white perch.

ACTION LIKE this will be seen today at the Twin City Rambler's scramble races, to be held at Selman Field. The Track opens at 12 o'clock and races get underway at 1 p.m. About 60 contestants are expected, with two races in each of five classes.

Cunningham Sparks Ole Miss To 17-0 Win Over Kentucky

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Swift tailback Doug Cunningham provided the offensive spark Saturday night as Mississippi's Rebels' swept through erratic Kentucky defenses for a 17-0 Southeastern Conference victory.

Cunningham, the 182-pound broken field ace, set up both Mississippi touchdowns with his darting slants through and around the slower Kentucky linemen.

Although he did not figure in the scoring itself, it was his five key carries in the first quarter that paved the way for the first Rebel score and it was his brilliant 48-yard sprint in the second quarter that made the second possible.

Ole Miss got its first touchdown on a seven-yard right end sweep by quarterback Joe Graves after a 44-yard march and its second on a three-yard thrust by fullback Don Street. Guard Jimmy Keyes' converted after each and added a 33-yard field goal in the final quarter.

recovered one at the 26 and linebacker Ronnie Roberts another at the 19. On both occasions, the Rebels pushed Kentucky back before taking over.

Kentucky's big moment of glory came in the dying minutes after Rebel halfback Tommy James intercepted a Roger Walz pass at the Kentucky 30 and sprinted to the three. The Kentucky line stopped the second string Rebel backfield inches from the goal on the fourth down.

The Rebel offense clicked off 181 yards on the ground and 82 in the air, while Kentucky managed only 76 rushing and 47 passing.

24-Tilt Cage Slate Set For Tribe

A 24-game schedule that features a Dec. 1 opener at home against Southeastern Conference power Mississippi State and two tournaments has been arranged for Northeast State's basketball team.

The schedule, announced by Athletic Director Dixie White, features 19 single games — 10 at home and nine away — the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference Holiday Tournament in Magnolia, Ark., and the Rapides Parish Nurses Benefit Tournament in Pineville.

Both tourneys will have consolation brackets and Coach Lenny Faut's Northeast club will play three games in Magnolia and two in Pineville.

Entered in the Dec. 28-29-30 Arkansas meet are Northeast, Sam Houston of the Lone Star Conference and Arkansas State Teachers, Ouachita Baptist, Henderson State, Arkansas College, College of the Ozarks and host Southern State of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference.

Northwestern, Arkansas State and host Louisiana College are the other teams entered at Pineville Jan. 26-27.

Scheduled for home-and-away games during the season are William Carey, Louisiana College, Delta State and Gulf States Conference foes Southwestern, Northwestern, McNeese, Southeastern, Nicholls State and Louisiana Tech.

The single game between Mississippi State and Northeast will be the fifth between the two institutions. Last year Northeast whipped the Bulldogs at Starkville, 78-72, in one of the year's big upsets. That loss was one of only two at home for State, which finished third in the SEC. The other was to top-ranked Kentucky by four points.

Northeast's first GSC home game will be Dec. 13 when the Indians and league champ Southwestern meet here.

Final contest of the season will be at Mrrch 3 date with Louisiana Tech at Ruston.

Last season's Indians compiled a 16-8 record for their fifth consecutive winning mark. Four lettermen are missing from that team — two - time all - GSC guard Tommy Enloe, Billy Brooks, James Brian and Lawson Swearington. Six return, headed by all-conference Glynn Saulters:

More About Enforcement

With Paul Martin

The price the poacher must pay may vary over the state, but does a $100 fine and loss of all hunting and fishing rights during two years probation sound profitable?

A lot of men may not miss $100 but loss of hunting and fishing, even to escape a 60-day jail sentence, would be quite a blow to most hunters.

Judge Mack Barham of the Fifth District Court, showing an example of how our courts are taking strong measures to make poaching unpopular, recently meted out such sentences.

He fined three Morehouse parish men for illegal deer kills $100 each or 30 days in jail, plus a 60-day sentence to be suspended on condition of two-year probation and confiscation of all firearms owned by the men who may not possess firearms or hunt and fish during the probation period.

Dr. Leslie Glasgow, director of the Louisaina and Wild Life and Fisheries commission, commenting on the Bastrop case said, "the present attitude of the courts regarding violations of game and fish laws demonstrates a deeper appreciation of the importance of outdoor recreation and the need for enforcement to safeguard the future of Louisiana's wildlife resources.

Stamp Out Violations

"We are steping up our enforcement," Glasgow said. "Every effort is going to be made to stamp out game and fish violations."

If you read this column last week, oyu got a briefing on the pressure building against game violations. But the ink on that issue wasn't dry before rangers made an arrest for jumping the squirrel season. The accused had five squirrels.

The sporstman's concern about game enforcement is reflected in a recent letter that, in addition to encouragement for our writings to support enforcement of seasons and bag limits, had this to say:

"There is too much disregard for game laws. I can not understand the reasoning of so many individuals . . . I was out with an individual when we saw a buck, and I do believe he would have shot it if he had had a rifle.

"The layman hears much more than you do of the bragging about killing deer and duck out of season. I fear and feel that the squirrel season has already opened in many sections."

And right this man is. We think he is happy to learn of the arrests and the pressures being made to put an end to game thefts.

Safety Clinic Continues

The Archery and Gun Safety Clinic has its last session this afternoon, beginning at 1:30 o'clock at Bancroft Camp with youth of the area as special guests of the Greater Monroe Optimist Club and The Twin Cities Optimist Club.

The instruction in gun and bow safety, precautions against snakes, and sportmanship requirements toward landowners and other hunters can be valuable at some future date for the youths of all ages who have and will attend these clinics.

Any kids needing a ride to the clinic, everything free, will find a city bus ready to leave the Monroe city hall at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Fifteen minutes later it will make a pickup at the First Baptist Church in West Monroe. And the bus will return you to town when the clinic is over.

'Wings From The North'

The Ouachita Wildlife Unit's meeting Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the agricultural building in West Monroe will feature the film, "Wings From The North."

"Sonny" Johnson, a committeeman in arranging the program, said the film, in color, is a new production from Ducks Unlimited and has been labeled by many as "one of the finest duck films ever made."

An invitation also is being extended to Clark Hoffpauir, duck expert of the LWLFC to attend.

"Mr. Hoffpauir is probably the foremost duck authority in Louisiana," unit president John Ensminger said. "If he can attend he'll give up a first hand report of duck surveys already in progress in the state and just what the waterfowl hunters can expec this season."

Squirrel, Rabbit Season Near

The experimental teal season closes at sunset today and no legal hunting can take place in the state before next Saturday. For the next five days, however, the sporting goods stores will be mighty busy supplying the hunters. Their advertisements furnish good check lists.

Next Saturday is opening day for the squirrel and rabbit. Some game management areas will allow squirrel and rabbit hunting for a few brief days, but outside the GMA's the season runs for 151 days for rabbit and 102 days for squirrel.

The seasons on this game end Jan. 10 for squirrel and Feb. 28 for rabbit. Daily limits are eight for rabbit or squirrel.

Permits will be needed for for game management areas where hunting is permitted. These are secured free at your area LWLFC office and are needed except where daily permits are required.

Cities Service Will Open

Contrary to some stories making the rounds, the Cities Service GMA in Ouachita parish will be opened for hunting in this first year of its being. Rabbit and squirrel hunting will be, season permit, the same as in the area outside the GMA except that no dogs will be allowed.

The area will also be open to deer hunting when that season begins on the "same as outside" basis, also still hunting, and quail may be hunted in CS-GMA Jan. 9-Feb. 28, 1967, with season permit.

Dog owners in the Cities Service area of Swartz-Fairbanks eastward in Ouachita are cautioned not to allow their dogs to roam in the GMA at any time. Dogs are not permitted to range any GMAs except when birddogs are permitted where quail hunting is allowed.

Rathet Picks Pros

By MIKE RATHET

NEW YORK (AP) — Watch out for the flood!

Your Peerless Pro Prognasticator hit the high water mark of his career when he lifted his batting average to .750 over-all last week by hitting on eight of 11 selections.

It probably will never be that high again.

Anyway here's a stab at this week's winners (all games Sunday):

National League

Green Bay 24, Los Angeles 17 — The Rams, who knocked off Chicago last week, lead the NFL in total offense but there may not be a tougher team to pass against than the Packers. Another vote for Bart Starr, Paul Hornung, Jim Taylor and friends.

Cleveland 28, St. Louis 21 — The Browns, who almost toppled the Packers, should have the edge with the Cardinals taking to the road for the first time. Cleveland's Frank Ryan to Gary Collins battery is working well and Ernie Green and Leroy Kelly are providing ample yardage on the ground.

Dallas 42, Minnesota 31 — Both teams know how to score, but the Cowboys also play defense. Fleet Bob Hayes, the Dallas bullet, is becoming the toughest player in the league to handle. Cowboys should slow the Vikings' Tommy Mason-Bill Brown ground combine.

Baltimore 35, San Francisco 21 — Ray Berry of the Colts will be out to break Bill Howton's alltime yardage mark for receivers. Berry needs 58 yards, and should get it. But the Colts had better watch Dave Parks, who grabbed nine passes for 231 yards at Baltimore last year.

Philadelphia 24, New York 21 — The Giants are having trouble putting pressure on the passer and that should let Norm Snead bring the Eagles home ahead. Izzy Lang providing ground yardage for Philadelphia.

Detroit 14, Atlanta 10 — The Lions aren't scoring much — 17 points in two games —but they still have a fierce pass rush and it might be enough to rattle young Randy Johnson.

Washington 24, Pittsburgh 20 — Sub quarterback Ron Smith did an outstanding job for the Steelers last week, but it says here that the Redskins will finally get victory No. 1.

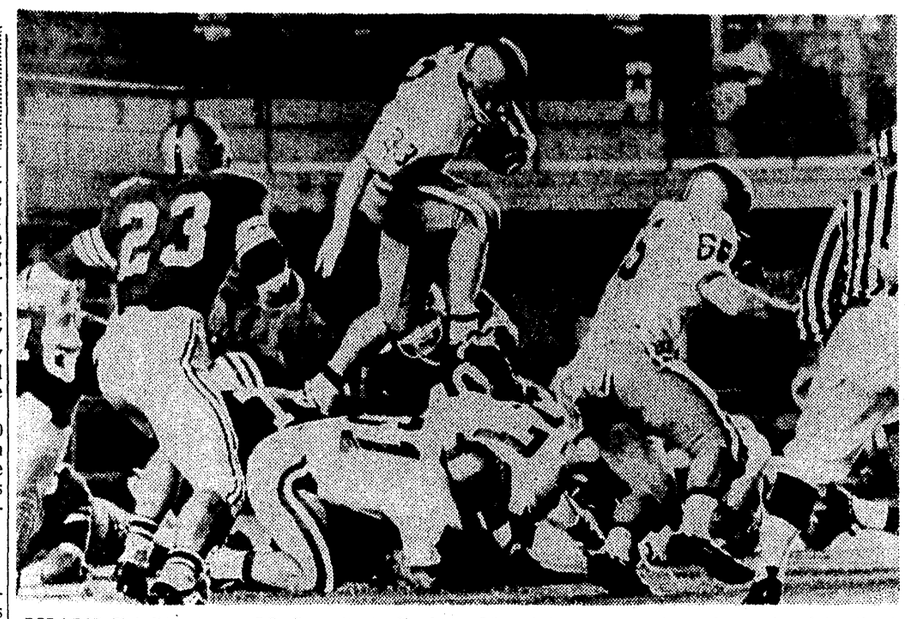
American League

Kansas City 35, Boston 21 — The Chiefs have not scored less than 31 points in four exhibitions and two regular season games. Kansas City will test Jim Nance, the Patriots' fullback and currently the No. 1 ground gainer in the league.

Buffalo 28, Houston 17 — The Oilers may still be suffering from last week's shocking loss to New York. The Bills, with quarterback Jack Kemp finding the target for the first time against Miami, seem finally ready to head in the right direction.

San Diego 28, Oakland 27 — This match-up always develops into a war, and there's little doubt that past performance means anything. Give the rested Chargers, idle last week, the edge because of John Hadl's passes to Lance Alworth.

New York 31, Denver 14 — The Broncos have a new coach in Ray Malavasi but what they really need are some new players. Joe Namath is hitting the home run for the Jets.



MIAMI BACK Doug McGee (33) finding no hole in the line, walks over the Florida State University forward wall in Saturday night's game in Miami. He picked up a first down in this first period action. Watching McGee go over is FSU's Wayne Giardino (23). (AP Wirephoto)

Ohio State Drops TCU In Opener

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Bill Long mixed his passes with Paul Hudson's bruising runs to guide Ohio State to a 14-7 opening football victory over Texas Christian University Saturday.

But it took an alert Buckeye defense to stop P. D. Shabay from steering the Texans into a tie or victory. Three times in the final period, the Bucks intercepted Shabay passes to halt threats.

	TCU	Ohio State
First downs	15	18
Rushing yardage	114	200
Passing yardage	175	106
Passes	15-24	12-14
Passes intercepted by	0	3
Punts	4-43	5-38
Fumbles lost	2	5
Yards penalized	50	40

Hudson scored both Buckeye touchdowns, on runs of two and 18 yards, to climax drives of 47 and 78 yards.

Shabay capped a 67-yard TCU drive to open the second half with a two-yard scoring drive.

Will Thomas returned the opening kickoff 91 yards for Ohio State, but lost the ball at the two, one of nine fumbles in the first half.

Ohio State scored the next time it got the ball, then was unable to move again until the closing moments of the period when a penalty and a fumble stopped a march to the nine.

TCU, unable to drive beyond the Buckeye 45 in the first half, started the third quarter with a determined march to tally.

Texas Christian	0	0	7	0—7
Ohio State	7	0	0	7—14

OSU—Hudson 2 run (Cairns, kick)
TCU—Shabay 2 run (Alford, kick)

Talbott Helps Tar Heels 11 By Wolfpack

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (UPI) —Quarterback Danny Talbott, North Carolina's most exciting back since Choo-Choo Charlie Justice, passed fifteen yards to Tom Lampman for a touchdown that whipped old rival North Carolina State 10-7 here Saturday.

State had the game as good as won when Talbott suddenly found the form that made him the region's best prospect for All-America.

Behind 7-3, with only five minutes left, with the veteran North Carolina State defense getting tougher as the game waned, Talbott started a 63-yard drive with a 30-yard pass to Lampman.

Lampman bulled two yards, Dave Riggs got one, and Talbott ran three quarterback keepers for 15 yards. Then he tossed a bullseye to Lampman in the left corner and the Carolina majority of the crowd of 46,000 went wild.

Talbott also kicked the extra point. That, with Bill Dodson's second period 33-yard field goal, was all the Tarheels needed.

7th Inning Rally Means Victory For Pittsburgh

ATLANTA (AP) -- Roberto Clemente's two-run homer in the seventh inning capped a five run Pittsburgh rally that gave the Pirates an 8-6 victory over Atlanta Saturday.

The triumph moved the Pirates to 1½ games behind the National League leading Los Angeles Dodgers, who lost to Chicago 4-0.

With the Pirates trailing 6-3 entering the seventh, Bob Bailey led off with a single and went to third on a single by Jesse Gonder. Jerry Lynch singled, scoring Bailey and Lynch went to second on Matty Alou's sacrifice bunt.

Gene Alley then doubled in two runs, tying the score. Clemente followed with his 27th homer of the season over the right center field wall off Braves' reliever Jay Ritchie.

The Pirates took a quick first inning lead when Alou scored from third base on Clemente's sacrifice fly.

But the Braves tied the score at 1-1 in the bottom of the first on a run-producing double by Rico Carty then added another run in the second and three in the third inning to take a 5-1 lead.

A triple by Don Clendenon, a sacrifice fly by Bill Mazeroski and a solo home run by Bailey in the top of the fourth inning kept the Pirates within reach before their seventh inning explosion.

Bailey's homer in the fourth was his 13th of the season. Denis Menke and Gene Oliver hit solo home runs for the Braves. For Menke, it was the 15th of the season and Oliver's solo shot in the fifth inning was his eighth.

Steve Blass, 10-6, got the victory in relief.

Rookie Chicago Pitcher Shuts Out Los Angeles

CHICAGO (AP) — Rookie pitcher Ferguson Jenkins shut out National League leading Los Angeles on four hits Saturday as Chicago beat the Dodgers 4-0.

The defeat, coupled with Pittsburgh's 8-6 victory over Atlanta, cut the Dodgers' league lead to 1½ games and left Los Angeles' magic number at seven. Any combination of seven Los Angeles victories and Pittsburgh losses would give the Dodgers the pennant.

The Cubs scored on infield outs in the first and fourth innings and picked up two more in the eighth on a single by Jimmy Stewart and a passed ball.

Jenkins, now 6-7, pitched his first shutout and second complete game of the season.

The Cubs pushed over a run in the first when Glenn Beckert pulled a perfect fake on the Dodger defense. Don Kessinger opened with a single. After faking a bunt toward first base, Beckert pushed a single past Wes Parker as the Los Angeles first baseman charged in the next pitch.

Indiana Upsets Northwestern 11

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Frank Stavroff tossed a 60-yard touchdown pass and then scrambled 13 yards for another score on a broken pass play to guide Indiana to a 26-14 victory over Northwestern Saturday in a Big Ten Conference football opener.

The senior quarterback put the Hoosiers on the board with six seconds to play in the first quarter when he found halfback Terry Cole open 15 yards up the middle and Cole outraced the surprised Wildcat defenders the remaining 45 yards for the touchdown.

Until the big play Northwestern had controlled the game by twice marching deep into Indiana territory, but failing to connect on key plays.

Rathet Picks Pros

By MIKE RATHET

NEW YORK (AP) — Watch out for the flood!

Your Peerless Pro Prognasticator hit the high water mark of his career when he lifted his batting average to .750 over-all last week by hitting on eight of 11 selections.

It probably will never be that high again.

Anyway here's a stab at this week's winners (all games Sunday):

National League

Green Bay 24, Los Angeles 17 — The Rams, who knocked off Chicago last week, lead the NFL in total offense but there may not be a tougher team to pass against than the Packers. Another vote for Bart Starr, Paul Hornung, Jim Taylor and friends.

Cleveland 28, St. Louis 21 — The Browns, who almost toppled the Packers, should have the edge with the Cardinals taking to the road for the first time. Cleveland's Frank Ryan to Gary Collins battery is working well and Ernie Green and Leroy Kelly are providing ample yardage on the ground.

Dallas 42, Minnesota 31 — Both teams know how to score, but the Cowboys also play defense. Fleet Bob Hayes, the Dallas bullet, is becoming the toughest player in the league to handle. Cowboys should slow the Vikings' Tommy Mason-Bill Brown ground combine.

Baltimore 35, San Francisco 21 — Ray Berry of the Colts will be out to break Bill Howton's alltime yardage mark for receivers. Berry needs 58 yards, and should get it. But the Colts had better watch Dave Parks, who grabbed nine passes for 231 yards at Baltimore last year.

Philadelphia 24, New York 21 — The Giants are having trouble putting pressure on the passer and that should let Norm Snead bring the Eagles home ahead. Izzy Lang providing ground yardage for Philadelphia.

Detroit 14, Atlanta 10 — The Lions aren't scoring much — 17 points in two games —but they still have a fierce pass rush and it might be enough to rattle young Randy Johnson.

Washington 24, Pittsburgh 20 — Sub quarterback Ron Smith did an outstanding job for the Steelers last week, but it says here that the Redskins will finally get victory No. 1.

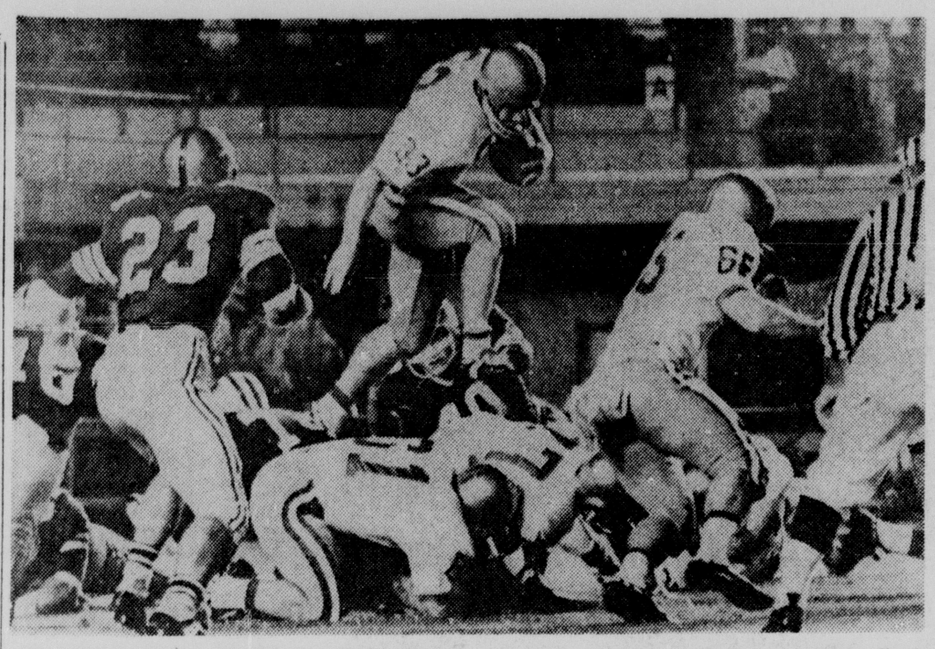
American League

Kansas City 35, Boston 21 — The Chiefs have not scored less than 31 points in four exhibitions and two regular season games. Kansas City will test Jim Nance, the Patriots' fullback and currently the No. 1 ground gainer in the league.

Buffalo 28, Houston 17 — The Oilers may still be suffering from last week's shocking loss to New York. The Bills, with quarterback Jack Kemp finding the target for the first time against Miami, seem finally ready to head in the right direction.

San Diego 28, Oakland 27 — This match-up always develops into a war, and there's little doubt that past performance means anything. Give the rested Chargers, idle last week, the edge because of John Hadl's passes to Lance Alworth.

New York 31, Denver 14 — The Broncos have a new coach in Ray Malavasi but what they really need are some new players. Joe Namath is hitting the home run for the Jets.



MIAMI BACK Doug McGee (33) finding no hole in the line, walks over the Florida State University forward wall in Saturday night's game in Miami. He picked up a first down in this first period action. Watching McGee go over is FSU's Wayne Giardino (23). (AP Wirephoto)

Ohio State Drops TCU In Opener

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Bill Long mixed his passes with Paul Hudson's bruising runs to guide Ohio State to a 14-7 opening football victory over Texas Christian University Saturday.

But it took an alert Buckeye defense to stop P. D. Shabay from steering the Texans into a tie or victory. Three times in the final period, the Bucks intercepted Shabay passes to halt threats.

Hudson scored both Buckeye touchdowns, on runs of two and 18 yards, to climax drives of 47 and 78 yards.

Shabay capped a 67-yard TCU drive to open the second half with a two-yard scoring drive.

Will Thomas returned the opening kickoff 91 yards for Ohio State, but lost the ball at the two, one of nine fumbles in the first half.

Ohio State scored the next time it got the ball, then was unable to move again until the closing moments of the period when a penalty and a fumble stopped a march to the nine.

TCU, unable to drive beyond the Buckeye 45 in the first half, started the third quarter with a determined march to tally.

Talbott Helps Tar Heels 11 By Wolfpack

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (UPI) —Quarterback Danny Talbott, North Carolina's most exciting back since Choo-Choo Charlie Justice, passed fifteen yards to Tom Lampman for a touchdown that whipped old rival North Carolina State 10-7 here Saturday.

State had the game as good as won when Talbott suddenly found the form that made him the region's best prospect for All-America.

Behind 7-3, with only five minutes left, with the veteran North Carolina State defense getting tougher as the game waned, Talbott started a 63-yard drive with a 30-yard pass to Lampman.

Lampman bulled two yards, Dave Riggs got one, and Talbott ran three quarterback keepers for 15 yards. Then he tossed a bullseye to Lampman in the left corner and the Carolina majority of the crowd of 46,000 went wild.

Talbott also kicked the extra point. That, with Bill Dodson's second period 33-yard field goal, was all the Tarheels needed.

7th Inning Rally Means Victory For Pittsburgh

ATLANTA (AP) — Roberto Clemente's two-run homer in the seventh inning capped a five run Pittsburgh rally that gave the Pirates an 8-6 victory over Atlanta Saturday.

The triumph moved the Pirates to 1½ games behind the National League leading Los Angeles Dodgers, who lost to Chicago 4-0.

With the Pirates trailing 6-3 entering the seventh, Bob Bailey led off with a single and went to third on a single by Jesse Gonder. Jerry Lynch singled, scoring Bailey and Lynch went to second on Matty Alou's sacrifice bunt.

Gene Alley then doubled in two runs, tying the score. Clemente followed with his 27th homer of the season over the right center field wall off Braves' reliever Jay Ritchie.

The Pirates took a quick first inning lead when Alou scored from third base on Clemente's sacrifice fly.

But the Braves tied the score at 1-1 in the bottom of the first on a run-producing double by Rico Carty then added another run in the second and three in the third inning to take a 5-1 lead.

A triple by Don Clendenon, a sacrifice fly by Bill Mazeroski and a solo home run by Bailey in the top of the fourth inning kept the Pirates within reach before their seventh inning explosion.

Bailey's homer in the fourth was his 13th of the season. Denis Menke and Gene Oliver hit solo home runs for the Braves. For Menke, it was the 15th of the season and Oliver's solo shot in the fifth inning was his eighth.

Steve Blass, 10-6, got the victory in relief.

Tennessee Utilizes Powerful Attack To Whip Auburn, 28-0

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — The Tennessee Volunteers unleashed a powerful aerial attack with a rugged defense to match and whipped the young Auburn Tigers 28-0 in a Southeastern Conference football opener for both teams Saturday.

Tennessee quarterback Dewey Warren, operating behind a fiercely aggressive offensive line, passed to end Austin Denney for two touchdowns and substitute Art Galiffa hurled a scoring pass to end Jerry Dalton. Fullback Bob Mauriello plunged one yard for another Tennessee touchdown.

	Tennessee	Auburn
First downs	21	10
Rushing yardage	145	120

Passes	18-24	2-13
Passes intercepted by	3	0
Punts	6-43	6-39
Fumbles lost	2	2
Yards penalized	50	35

Tennessee nearly scored after taking the opening kickoff, marching to the Auburn 11 where a 15-yard field goal attempt by Jerry White went wide.

But on the next series of downs, Auburn punter Tommy Lunceford bobbled a pass from center and Tennessee got the ball on the Auburn 16. It was one of many Auburn miscues which drowned any hopes for a Tiger upset.

After losing three yards, Warren pitched a 19-yard touchdown pass to Denney who made a sensational, falling grab in the end zone.

The victory marked Tennessee as a power to contend with in the SEC. Coach Doug Dickey's Volunteers have been pegged as one of the biggest threats to Alabama's campaign for a third straight conference title.

Tennessee dominated play throughout. Auburn penetrated Volunteer territory only once in the first half and mounted only one sustained drive which died on the Tennessee 42. This came in the second half when the Tigers moved from their own 18 to the Tennessee 42 before the Volunteer defense Stiffened, forcing an Auburn punt.

After being held at bay in the second and third quarters, the Volunteers tore loose for three touchdowns in the fourth perid. The first came n the second play of the quarter when Mauriello plunged over from the one, capping a 65-yard driv.e

The last two Tennessee touchdowns came after the Volunteers recovered Auburn fumbles deep in Auburn territory. Doug Archibald picked off a Tom Bryan bobble on the Auburn 38 and six plays later, Warren found Denney in the end zone again with a 17-yard pass.

UCLA Romps To Easy Win Over Orangemen

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Quarterback Gary Beban manufactured three touchdowns in the space of five minutes in the second period and Ray Armstrong returned a punt 62 yards for another score in the third as second-ranked UCLA crushed Syracuse 31-12 Saturday in a soggy intersectional football game.

	UCLA	Syracuse

Passes	7-10	10-19
Passes intercepted by	3	0
Punts	5-35	6-44
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	72	27

Held to 12 yards in nine carries in the opening half, Syracuse's celebrated Floyd Little redeemed himself with two scores in the final half—one on a four-yard run and the other on a spectacular 65-yard punt return—and tied the late Ernie Davis' career record of 35 touchdowns for the Orangemen.

The double-threat Beban, who led his team to a crushing 57-14 triumph over Pittsburgh in the opener last week, scored UCLA's first touchdown from the four, set up the second with a 49-yard pass to Harold Busby and hit Busby again with a 13-yard pass on the goal line moments later.

Earlier in the second period, before either team had scored, Beban had a 46-yard scoring pass to Busby called back because of a penalty. Kurt Zimmerman, UCLA's place-kicker converted after each of the touchdowns and contributed a 32-yard field goal in the thir quarter.

Georgia Tech Again Romps In 2nd Half

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Georgia Tech capitalized on Vanderbilt's miscues to score three touchdowns within seven minutes in the third period and went on to a 42-0 football victory Saturday.

The Yellow Jackets, held to one touchdown in the first two periods, exploded in the second half to score an easy victory over their foes of the Southeastern Conference.

Tackle Mike Ashmore hit Vandy quarterback Gary Davis, forcing a fumble at the Commodore 21, which Ashmore recovered. Tech scored in just three plays with quarterback Kim King scoring on a three-yard keeper.

Vandy's Steve Bevil fumbled the kickoff and Haven Kicklighter recovered for Tech at the 27. Tailback Lenny Snow exploded for 24 yards on a pitchout to the five and then romped over on another pitchut on the next play, only five seconds after King's tally.

Kicklighter intercepted a Davis pass a few minutes later and went 51 yards for the Jackets' fourth touchdown.

Georgia Tech put on a show in the last period for the crowd of 42,260 watching in near 80-degree weather under clear skies. Jimmy Brown, a 5-foot-8 safety man, gathered in a Vandy punt and scampered 69 yards for a score. And Lou Heller ran 16 yards for another tally after second string quarterback Larry Good had moved the Jackets deep into Commodore territory with runs of 12 and 18 yards.

Tech's pro-type defense held Vanderilt to just three yards rushing in the first half and a game total of 17. The Jackets, meanwhile, ran up 291 yards rushing and 214 passing. King hit on 17 of 24 attempts and Good completed 3 of 7.

Vandy threatened only once. In the second period, following Tech's first touchdown, Davis hit Bevil on a 51-yard pass that carried to the Tech 23. Safetyman Sammy Burke caught Bevil, or he would have gone in untouched.

The threat died right there. However, Vandy was back in business in Tech territory just a few minutes later as Jacket fullback John Weaver fumbled on his own 31 and linebacker Sid Ransom claimed the ball for the Commodores. But Vandy was unable again to move and Fred Klass missed on a 41-yard field goal attempt.

Tech had scored first on the third play of the second quarter as Snow took a pitchout from King and scampered around right end for seven yards for the touchdown.

Bunky Henry added the first of his six extra points.

That drive went 52 yards in just five plays as Snow ran 11 yards and King hit fullback Doc Harvin for eight and wingback Craig Baynham for seven more. A 15-yard penalty against Vandy followed the pass to Harvin.

Clemson's 11 Squeezes By Cavs, 40-35

CLEMSON, S. C. (UPI) — Jimmy Addison, a frail quarterback with a precision arm, passed to tailback Jackie Jackson for a 75 - yard touchdown with five minutes remaining Saturday to give Clemson an uphill 40-35 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over surprising Virginia.

Clemson, trailing 35-18 in the third period, fought back with three touchdowns to keep intact its perfect 10-year record against the Cavaliers.

Virginia quarterback Bob Davis, bidding impressively for Allstar honors, accounted for all five Cavalier touchdowns. He ran for three and passed to tailback Frank Quayle for the other two. Davis completed 26 passes, an ACC record.

Sooners Sweep

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Oklahoma overwhelmed Iowa State 33-11 Saturday with a well integrated passing and running game in the Big Eight Conference football opener for both teams.

Gators Use 3rd Period To Rout State

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Florida stunned Mississippi State by scoring 21 points in a seven-minute surge in the third quarter Saturday, and the Gators rolled to a 28-7 Southeastern Conference football triumph set up by daring defensive play.

Steve Spurrier tossed two touchdown passes to lead the Florida attack which boosted the Gators' record to 2-0 and saddled the Maroons with their second 1966 defeat and their eighth straight loss.

	Miss. State	Florida

Passes	3-13	10-19
Passes intercepted by	2	3
Punts	8-39	5-37
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	55	49

The Gators intercepted three straight passes thrown by Mississippi State quarterack Don Saget, and turned them all into touchdowns in Florida's league opener planed before a record crowd of 49,333.

Bobby Downs made the first interception, on the Florida 20, and a 44-yard pass from Spurrier to Richard Trapp set up Spurrier's 16 yard touchdown pass to end Jack Coons early in the seaond quarter.

After Mississippi State tied the score 7-7, the Gators exploded late in the third period to wipe out the Maroons' bid for an upset. Spurrier's passes set up a six-yard touchdown sprint by sophomore halfback Larry Smith with seven minutes left in the quarter. Harmon Wages, Spurrier's replacement, scored from the one-yard line two minutes later after Larry Rentz' interception on the Maroons' 25.

Spurrier tossed a 13 - yard touchdown pass to end Paul Ewaldsen with two seconds left in the quarter after Don Barrett returned an intercepted pass to the Mississippi State 17.

Mississippi State, unable to generate a steady offense against Florida's surprisingly rugged defenses, converted a Gator fumble into its only touchdown.

Defensive halfback Tommy Corbett pounced on Graham McKeel's fumble on the Florida 34, and Saget scored on a 23-yard bootleg run after faking out most of the Florida defenders.

The Maroons missed a chance to take the lead at the half when Jim Neill as wide with a 29-yard field goal kick set up by a pass interference call against Florida.

Saget, who caught the winning pass as an end against Florida a year ago, had trouble finding his receivers. He hit on only 3 of 11 passes and had three straight tosses picked off during a slump in the second and third periods.

Spurrier hit on 10 of 16 passes for 138 yards. McKeel was Florida's leading runner with 50 yards in 12 tries. Saget paced Mississippi State runners with 52 yards in 9 carries.

Giants Top Astros In 13 Innings

HOUSTON (AP)—Willie McCovey's run-scoring triple in the 13th inning broke a 4-4 tie and triggered a five-run rally that gave San Francisco a 9-5 victory over Houston Saturday.

The victory left the third-place Giants four games behind National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, who lost to Chicago 4-0.

McCovey's hit came off reliever Chris Zachary and drove in Frank Johnson, who singled. Willie Mays then walked and Jim Hart doubled to left scoring McCovey and Mays. Alou singled scoring Hart. Carroll Sembera replaced Zachary and gave up a single to Jim Davenport and when the ball got away from Astro left-fielder Joe Gaines, Alou scored.

Sophomores Pave Way For Irish Over Purdue

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame unveiled a sensational sophomore passing combination, Terry Hanratty and Jim Seymour, who clicked for touchdown passes of 84, 39 and 7 yards, leading the Fighting Irish to a 26-14 season-opener conquest of Purdue's Boilermakers Saturday.

Seymour, 6-foot-4, 205-pounder from Berkley, Mich., speared 13 Hanratty tosses for 276 yards to completely overshadow Purdue's heralded passer, Bob Griese.

	Purdue	Norte Dame

Passing yardage	178	304
Passes	14-26	16-24
Passes intercepted by	1	1
Punts	6-35	2-43
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	45	43

Hanratty, 6-foot-,190, from Butler, Pa., completed 16 of 24 passes for 304 yards in the nationally televised game.

Purdue's secondary was demoralized by Seymour, who made one sensational catch after another. The best was his fingertip catch in full stride of Hanratty's long toss on the 84-yard scoring play which put the Irish ahead for keeps, 14-7, in the second quarter.

The heroics of Seymour and Hanratty, plus halfback Nick Eddy's 96-yard touchdown run on the kickoff following Purdue's first touchdown in the opening quarter, avenged Notre Dame's 25-21 loss at Purdue last fall.

Griese completed 14 of 26 tosses for 178 yards and was a dancing scrambler against the Fierce Irish defense, but the Boiler-makers were against much superior firepower in the amazing Hanratty-Seymour display.

Purdue scored first on Leroy Keys' 94-yard sprint for a touchdown after grabbing Rocky Bleier's fumble in midair late in the first quarter.

But 14 seconds later, Eddy streaked 96 yards straight up field with Griese's ensuing kickoff to make it 7-7.

Notre Dame seemingly had the game wrapped up at 20-7 on Hanratty's 39-yard touchdown toss to Seymour starting the fourth quarter.

But Purdue had some kick left, marching 75 yards behind Griese's sharp passing to score on Percy Williams' one-yard plunge.

That made it Notre Dame 20-14, but the Irish quickly exploited a Purdue fumble recovered on the Boilermaker 12.

Three plays later Hanratty hit Seymour in the end zone with t seven-yarder that made it 26-14.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Stopped In Minutes

Science Finds New Healing Substance That Promptly Stops Itching and Pain of Piles

New York, N. Y. (Special) — One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles." It is most embarrassing for the victim during the day and especially aggravating at night.

No matter what you've used without results—here's good news. For the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to promptly stop the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids—without surgery. Medical science has proved this substance produces a remarkably effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. This improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' duration.

The secret is this new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — discovery of a world-famous research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H®. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters.

Tennessee Utilizes Powerful Attack To Whip Auburn, 28-0

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — The Tennessee Volunteers unleashed a powerful aerial attack with a rugged defense to match and whipped the young Auburn Tigers 28-0 in a Southeastern Conference football opener for both teams Saturday.

Tennessee quarterback Dewey Warren, operating behind a fiercely aggressive offensive line, passed to end Austin Denney for two touchdowns and substitute Art Galiffa hurled a scoring pass to end Jerry Dalton. Fullback Bob Mauriello plunged one yard for another Tennessee touchdown.

	Tennessee	Auburn
First downs	21	10
Rushing yardage	145	120

Passes	18-24	2-13
Passes intercepted by	3	0
Punts	6-43	6-39
Fumbles lost	2	2
Yards penalized	50	35

Tennessee nearly scored after taking the opening kickoff, marching to the Auburn 11 where a 15-yard field goal attempt by Jerry White went wide.

But on the next series of downs, Auburn punter Tommy Lunceford bobbled a pass from center and Tennessee got the ball on the Auburn 16. It was one of many Auburn miscues which drowned any hopes for a Tiger upset.

After losing three yards, Warren pitched a 19-yard touchdown pass to Denney who made a sensational, falling grab in the end zone.

The victory marked Tennessee as a power to contend with in the SEC. Coach Doug Dickey's Volunteers have been pegged as one of the biggest threats to Alabama's campaign for a third straight conference title.

Tennessee dominated play throughout. Auburn penetrated Volunteer territory only once in the first half and mounted only one sustained drive which died on the Tennessee 42. This came in the second half when the Tigers moved from their own 18 to the Tennessee 42 before the Volunteer defense Stiffened, forcing an Auburn punt.

After being held at bay in the second and third quarters, the Volunteers tore loose for three touchdowns in the fourth perid. The first came n the second play of the quarter when Mauriello plunged over from the one, capping a 65-yard driv.e

The last two Tennessee touchdowns came after the Volunteers recovered Auburn fumbles deep in Auburn territory. Doug Archibald picked off a Tom Bryan bobble on the Auburn 38 and six plays later, Warren found Denney in the end zone again with a 17-yard pass.

UCLA Romps To Easy Win Over Orangemen

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Quarterback Gary Beban manufactured three touchdowns in the space of five minutes in the second period and Ray Armstrong returned a punt 62 yards for another score in the third as second-ranked UCLA crushed Syracuse 31-12 Saturday in a soggy intersectional football game.

	UCLA	Syracuse
First downs	11	11

Passes	7-10	10-19
Passes intercepted by	3	0
Punts	5-35	6-44
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	72	27

Held to 12 yards in nine carries in the opening half, Syracuse's celebrated Floyd Little redeemed himself with two scores in the final half—one on a four-yard run and the other on a spectacular 65-yard punt return—and tied the late Ernie Davis' career record of 35 touchdowns for the Orangemen.

The double-threat Beban, who led his team to a crushing 57-14 triumph over Pittsburgh in the opener last week, scored UCLA's first touchdown from the four, set up the second with a 49-yard pass to Harold Busby and hit Busby again with a 13-yard pass on the goal line moments later.

Earlier in the second period, before either team had scored, Beban had a 46-yard scoring pass to Busby called back because of a penalty. Kurt Zimmerman, UCLA's place-kicker converted after each of the touchdowns and contributed a 32-yard field goal in the thir quarter.

Georgia Tech Again Romps In 2nd Half

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Georgia Tech capitalized on Vanderbilt's miscues to score three touchdowns within seven minutes in the third period and went on to a 42-0 football victory Saturday.

The Yellow Jackets, held to one touchdown in the first two periods, exploded in the second half to score an easy victory over their foes of the Southeastern Conference.

	Vanderbilt	Georgia Tech

Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	50	90

Tackle Mike Ashmore hit Vandy quarterback Gary Davis, forcing a fumble at the Commodore 21, which Ashmore recovered. Tech scored in just three plays with quarterback Kim King scoring on a three-yard keeper.

Vandy's Steve Bevil fumbled the kickoff and Haven Kicklighter recovered for Tech at the 27. Tailback Lenny Snow exploded for 24 yards on a pitchout to the five and then romped over on another pitchut on the next play, only five seconds after King's tally.

Kicklighter intercepted a Davis pass a few minutes later and went 51 yards for the Jackets' fourth touchdown.

Georgia Tech put on a show in the last period for the crowd of 42,260 watching in near 80-degree weather under clear skies. Jimmy Brown, a 5-foot-8 safety man, gathered in a Vandy punt and scampered 69 yards for a score. And Lou Heller ran 16 yards for another tally after second string quarterback Larry Good had moved the Jackets deep into Commodore territory with runs of 12 and 18 yards.

Tech's pro-type defense held Vanderilt to just three yards rushing in the first half and a game total of 17. The Jackets, meanwhile, ran up 291 yards rushing and 214 passing. King hit on 17 of 24 attempts and Good completed 3 of 7.

Vandy threatened only once. In the second period, following Tech's first touchdown, Davis hit Bevil on a 51-yard pass that carried to the Tech 23. Safetyman Sammy Burke caught Bevil, or he would have gone in untouched.

The threat died right there. However, Vandy was back in business in Tech territory just a few minutes later as Jacket fullback John Weaver fumbled on his own 31 and linebacker Sid Ransom claimed the ball for the Commodores. But Vandy was unable again to move and Fred Klass missed on a 41-yard field goal attempt.

Tech had scored first on the third play of the second quarter as Snow took a pitchout from King and scampered around right end for seven yards for the touchdown.

Bunky Henry added the first of his six extra points.

That drive went 52 yards in just five plays as Snow ran 11 yards and King hit fullback Doc Harvin for eight and wingback Craig Baynham for seven more. A 15-yard penalty against Vandy followed the pass to Harvin.

Clemson's 11 Squeezes By Cavs, 40-35

CLEMSON, S. C. (UPI) — Jimmy Addison, a frail quarterback with a precision arm, passed to tailback Jackie Jackson for a 75 - yard touchdown with five minutes remaining Saturday to give Clemson an uphill 40-35 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over surprising Virginia.

Clemson, trailing 35-18 in the third period, fought back with three touchdowns to keep intact its perfect 10-year record against the Cavaliers.

Virginia quarterback Bob Davis, bidding impressively for All-star honors, accounted for all five Cavalier touchdowns. He ran for three and passed to tailback Frank Quayle for the other two. Davis completed 26 passes, an ACC record.

Sooners Sweep

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Oklahoma overwhelmed Iowa State 33-11 Saturday with a well integrated passing and running game in the Big Eight Conference football opener for both teams.

Gators Use 3rd Period To Rout State

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Florida stunned Mississippi State by scoring 21 points in a seven-minute surge in the third quarter Saturday, and the Gators rolled to a 28-7 Southeastern Conference football triumph set up by daring defensive play.

Steve Spurrier tossed two touchdown passes to lead the Florida attack which boosted the Gators' record to 2-0 and saddled the Maroons with their second 1966 defeat and their eighth straight loss.

	Miss. State	Florida

Passes	3-13	10-19
Passes intercepted by	2	3
Punts	8-39	5-37
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	55	49

The Gators intercepted three straight passes thrown by Mississippi State quarterack Don Saget, and turned them all into touchdowns in Florida's league opener planed before a record crowd of 49,333.

Bobby Downs made the first interception, on the Florida 20, and a 44-yard pass from Spurrier to Richard Trapp set up Spurrier's 16 yard touchdown pass to end Jack Coons early in the seaond quarter.

After Mississippi State tied the score 7-7, the Gators exploded late in the third period to wipe out the Maroons' bid for an upset. Spurrier's passes set up a six-yard touchdown sprint by sophomore halfback Larry Smith with seven minutes left in the quarter. Harmon Wages, Spurrier's replacement, scored from the one-yard line two minutes later after Larry Rentz' interception on the Maroons' 25.

Spurrier tossed a 13 - yard touchdown pass to end Paul Ewaldsen with two seconds left in the quarter after Don Barrett returned an intercepted pass to the Mississippi State 17.

Mississippi State, unable to generate a steady offense against Florida's surprisingly rugged defenses, converted a Gator fumble into its only touchdown.

Defensive halfback Tommy Corbett pounced on Graham McKeel's fumble on the Florida 34, and Saget scored on a 23-yard bootleg run after faking out most of the Florida defenders.

The Maroons missed a chance to take the lead at the half when Jim Neill as wide with a 29-yard field goal kick set up by a pass interference call against Florida.

Saget, who caught the winning pass as an end against Florida a year ago, had trouble finding his receivers. He hit on only 3 of 11 passes and had three straight tosses picked off during a slump in the second and third periods.

Spurrier hit on 10 of 16 passes for 138 yards. McKeel was Florida's leading runner with 50 yards in 12 tries. Saget paced Mississippi State runners with 52 yards in 9 carries.

Giants Top Astros In 13 Innings

HOUSTON (AP)—Willie McCovey's run-scoring triple in the 13th inning broke a 4-4 tie and triggered a five-run rally that gave San Francisco a 9-5 victory over Houston Saturday.

The victory left the third-place Giants four games behind National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, who lost to Chicago 4-0.

McCovey's hit came off reliever Chris Zachary and drove in Frank Johnson, who singled. Willie Mays then walked and Jim Hart doubled to left scoring McCovey and Mays. Alou singled scoring Hart. Carroll Sembera replaced Zachary and gave up a single to Jim Davenport and when the ball got away from Astro left-fielder Joe Gaines, Alou scored.

Sophomores Pave Way For Irish Over Purdue

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame unveiled a sensational sophomore passing combination, Terry Hanratty and Jim Seymour, who clicked for touchdown passes of 84, 39 and 7 yards, leading the Fighting Irish to a 26-14 season-opener conquest of Purdue's Boilermakers Saturday.

Seymour, 6-foot-4, 205-pounder from Berkley, Mich., speared 13 Hanratty tosses for 276 yards to completely overshadow Purdue's heralded passer, Bob Griese.

	Purdue	Norte Dame
First down	7	12

Passing yardage	178	304
Passes	14-26	16-24
Passes intercepted by	1	1
Punts	6-35	2-43
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	45	43

Hanratty, 6-foot-,190, from Butler, Pa., completed 16 of 24 passes for 304 yards in the nationally televised game.

Purdue's secondary was demoralized by Seymour, who made one sensational catch after another. The best was his fingertip catch in full stride of Hanratty's long toss on the 84-yard scoring play which put the Irish ahead for keeps, 14-7, in the second quarter.

The heroics of Seymour and Hanratty, plus halfback Nick Eddy's 96-yard touchdown run on the kickoff following Purdue's first touchdown in the opening quarter, avenged Notre Dame's 25-21 loss at Purdue last fall.

Griese completed 14 of 26 tosses for 178 yards and was a dancing scrambler against the Fierce Irish defense, but the Boiler-makers were against much superior firepower in the amazing Hanratty-Seymour display.

Purdue scored first on Leroy Keys' 94-yard sprint for a touchdown after grabbing Rocky Bleier's fumble in midair late in the first quarter.

But 14 seconds later, Eddy streaked 96 yards straight up field with Griese's ensuing kickoff to make it 7-7.

Notre Dame seemingly had the game wrapped up at 20-7 on Hanratty's 39-yard touchdown toss to Seymour starting the fourth quarter.

But Purdue had some kick left, marching 75 yards behind Griese's sharp passing to score on Percy Williams' one-yard plunge.

That made it Notre Dame 20-14, but the Irish quickly exploited a Purdue fumble recovered on the Boilermaker 12.

Three plays later Hanratty hit Seymour in the end zone with t seven-yarder that made it 26-14.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Stopped In Minutes

Science Finds New Healing Substance That Promptly Stops Itching and Pain of Piles

New York, N. Y. (Special) — One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles." It is most embarrassing for the victim during the day and especially aggravating at night.

No matter what you've used without results—here's good news. For the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to promptly stop the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids—without surgery. Medical science has proved this substance produces a remarkably effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. This improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' duration.

The secret is this new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — discovery of a world-famous research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H®. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters.

HUNTSMAN TECHNICAL REPORT

5 STAR

Ratings extend from one star to five, and are based mathematically on the score received in our technical report, seen below. The price of the unit is also taken into consideration. The percentage points scored out of a possible 100 per cent allow us to determine the star rating. Any unit rated at three or more stars is, in our judgment, an excellent purchase; these are the homes, trailers and campers we search out for evaluations, so as to present you with unbiased information on the best new products. A star rating is in effect for a period of two years only, dating from the month in which the test report was published.—Ed.

WORKMANSHIP
General	Body formed around a frame of 2x2 fir floor joists and 1x2 kiln-dried pine studs and rafters. Interior birch panels are glued and nailed to these. Exterior prepainted aluminum is tightened and stapled to the studs to allow for metal contraction and expansion. Floor section is undersealed.	X
Interior	Every area is well joined and nicely seamed. There are no rough spots. All areas nicely finished	X
Exterior	Prepainted .024-gauge Fumetco aluminum. Taut, without wrinkles. Joints are Pittsburgh-type and all are seamed and caulked to prevent moisture penetration	X
Insulation	1" fiberglass blanket in all areas but floor		X
Floor covering	Armstrong service grade		X
DESIGN
Exterior	Clean and simple lines, no ostentation	X
Interior	The accent is on good taste	X
ELECTRICAL SYSTEM
Wiring	110-12-volt combination with 14-3 grounded Romex wiring. 15-amp heavy-duty Square D circuit breaker. Meets or exceeds California Code specifications		X
Lighting	Three lights, nicely spotted to give good illumination in all areas	X
Outlets	Three—one in each of the light fixtures		X
LIVABILITY
Floor plan	One of the most versatile I've tested. Excellent use of space, notable lack of congestion	X
Dinette	Demountable pull-out center table is made of tough molded fiberglass. It is rugged and easily moved. Plenty of dining space on both sides	X
Kitchen	Molded fiberglass counter with good range, single-well sink and some work space. Cabinets are plentiful and well-made, mounted to paneling with glue and staples	X
Sleeping	Five adults—two in cab-over, two in right expanding gaucho and one in single left gaucho. The arrangement minimizes congestion	X
Ventilation	Six windows, plus Hehr overhead vent		X
Storage	Good to excellent in all areas	X
PERFORMANCE
Sway	Little noted	X
Roll	None noted	X
Wind resistance	Minimum recorded, even in heavy gusts		X
GENERAL FACTORS
Warranty period	Lifetime guarantee	X

HUNTSMAN TECHNICAL REPORT

5 STAR

Ratings extend from one star to five, and are based mathematically on the score received in our technical report, seen below. The price of the unit is also taken into consideration. The percentage points scored out of a possible 100 per cent allow us to determine the star rating. Any unit rated at three or more stars is, in our judgment, an excellent purchase; these are the homes, trailers and campers we search out for evaluations, so as to present you with unbiased information on the best new products. A star rating is in effect for a period of two years only, dating from the month in which the test report was published.—Ed.

ITEM	DESCRIPTION	RATING: Above Average	Average	Below Average
WORKMANSHIP — General	Body formed around a frame of 2x2 fir floor joists and 1x2 kiln-dried pine studs and rafters. Interior birch panels are glued and nailed to these. Exterior prepainted aluminum is tightened and stapled to the studs to allow for metal contraction and expansion. Floor section is undersealed.	X
Interior	Every area is well joined and nicely seamed. There are no rough spots. All areas nicely finished	X
Exterior	Prepainted .024-gauge Fumetco aluminum. Taut, without wrinkles. Joints are Pittsburgh-type and all are seamed and caulked to prevent moisture penetration	X
Insulation	1" fiberglass blanket in all areas but floor		X
Floor covering	Armstrong service grade		X
DESIGN — Exterior	Clean and simple lines, no ostentation	X
Interior	The accent is on good taste	X
ELECTRICAL SYSTEM — Wiring	110/12-volt combination with 14-3 grounded Romex wiring. 15-amp heavy-duty Square D circuit breaker. Meets or exceeds California Code specifications		X
Lighting	Three lights, nicely spotted to give good illumination in all areas	X
Outlets	Three—one in each of the light fixtures		X
LIVABILITY — Floor plan	One of the most versatile I've tested. Excellent use of space, notable lack of congestion	X
Dinette	Demountable pull-out center table is made of tough molded fiberglass. It is rugged and easily moved. Plenty of dining space on both sides	X
Kitchen	Molded fiberglass counter with good range, single-well sink and some work space. Cabinets are plentiful and well-made, mounted to paneling with glue and staples	X
Sleeping	Five adults—two in cab-over, two in right expanding gaucho and one in single left gaucho. The arrangement minimizes congestion	X
Ventilation	Six windows, plus Hehr overhead vent		X
Storage	Good to excellent in all areas	X
PERFORMANCE — Sway	Little noted	X
Roll	None noted	X

Russian, U.S. Education Compared By Expert Writer

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW (UPI) —The Russians have a word for what they accomplished in education in the 49 years following the revolution. The word is "stormovshina"—storm.

The country the Bolsheviks seized in 1917 was 70 per cent illiterate. But at the same time, it had some of the finest schools in Europe. Czarist education, as far as it went, compared favorably with anything in the West.

The trouble with education under the czars was it did not go far enough to reach the great majority—the people the Russians called "tyomni lyudi" (Blind people), meaning the illiterate, ignorant and superstitious. Tolstoy, one of the great writers of the 19th Century, could not be read by most of his countrymen.

When the Bolsheviks took over, some of the rural areas in European Russia had only a two-to-four year parochial school (one of which Nikita Khrushchev attended). In many parts of the vast Russain empire, particulary in Russian-controlled Asia and among the non-Russain nationalities, educational facilities were inadequate or totally lacking. Many villages were wholly illiterate.

ALL-OUT CAMPAIGN

Then came "stormovshina."

All persons who could read and write—a little over 20 per cent of the population—were mobilized to teach the illiterates. Even small schoolchildren and teen-agers became the teachers of grizzled old peasants and workers.

By 1918 the newly formed Red army boasted 444 schools to liquidate illiteracy among soldiers and compulsory literacy courses were introduced in every company, battery and squadron.

Still unsatisfied, Lenin in 1919 ordered all persons from 8 to 50 years old to attend literacy classes.

In 1920 there were 1.5 million pupils in schools for illiterates and the number reached six million in 1926. The astronomic number of 50 million illiterates had gone to school by 1935. By 1938 the problem of illiteracy was declared solved.

By 1960, the Russian educational system was so big that then Premier Khrushchev could boast that Russia had four times more students than Britain, West Germany, France and Italy taken together, even though their aggregate populations were about equal to that of Russia.

To achieve the goal of capturing the minds of their people the Soviet rulers at the outset believed they had to destroy several of the pillar-institutions of the old regime such as the church and the czarist educational establishment.

LIMITED SUBJECT MATTER

Thorough indoctrination of the people in the teachings of Marxism and Leninism was considered essential. Many of the academic humanities were rejected and natural sciences and mathematics were emphasized instead.

The students of the first period in Soviet educational history were accordingly strong on ideology and weak on general knowledge.

The first generation of Soviet educators (including Lenin's wife, Nadezhda Krupskaya) was obsessed with all the "progressive." pedgogical reforms of the 1920s. The "project method," in a peculiarly "collective" context, was then in vogue. There were no classes but "groups."

Students studied not individually but in 'brigades." A joke of the time said: "They studied collectively and were ignorant individually."

Everything from history to geometry was somehow related to Marxism, the class struggle and the world revolution. There was little discipline among students and some of the teachers were terrorized.

But when the new regime was stabilized and industrialization launched, Josef Stalin introduced his first major educational reform.

A new generation had risen which took the Soviet regime for granted, and Stalin now found it safe to reestablish the pre-revolutionary methods of teaching, modeled on the German system.

CHANGE CURRICULUM

More humanistic studies were included at the expense of reduced ideological work, but mathematics and sciences remained foremost.

The free and easy atmosphere of the "progressive school" vanished with the reappearance of strict discipline, uniforms for pupils and finally segregation of the sexes.

The trend toward wider studies of the humanities and the gradual reduction of ideological subjects continued. The general object was to get as many students as possible into the universities.

The Soviet Union's educational plant was chiefly built by men whose own educations could hardly have varied more. Lenin got an excellent education at one of the few of the universities in czarist Russia, the university in Kazan. Stalin had two years in a theological seminary.

The education of Nikita Khrushchev was sparse. A century after Abraham Lincoln had trudged through the woods for catch-as-catch-can schooling, Khrushchev managed to attend between two to four classes in a village parochial school. After that he became a shepherd and later, still in his teens, a coal miner.

It was only after the revolution, when Khrushchev was already showing promise as a rising official in the Ukrainian political machine that he went to night school and later to an industrial academy.

In the late 1950s, significantly for the shape of Soviet education today, Khrushchev became infuriated at what he considered to be snobbish attitudes of Russian college students. Such students were expected to perform a number of extra-curricular "social" chores such as helping dig up the potato harvest, build a sports stadium or volunteer for farm work in the virgin lands. Whenever they could, they evaded such labor.

STRICT LEGISLATION

"If I could educate myself and become premier of the great Soviet Union why cannot other youth do the same?" Khrushchev complained, and the result was the enactment in 1958 of sweeping education reforms embodied in legislation titled "Law on Tightening the Ties of School with Life."

Soviet educational theory has always called for close ties between the school and industry and agriculture. The rationale lies not only in the fact that the school is charged with training youth to make its contribution to the economy and society as a while. Soviet leaders also believe that proper political and psychological traits can best be developed by intimate contact, if not dedication, to physical labor.

Students in the upper grades form joint committees with the Komsomol (Young Communist League) in the factories for the organization of lectures, sports activities and social events.

In the smaller communities factories have special committees to work with parents and teachers. They often undertake to expedite the construction of new school buildings, make repairs or build equipment for the schools.

In rural areas students are expected to do some work in the fields and familiarize themselves with farm technology. Thousands of students spend their summer vacations working on the vast farmlands of the virgin lands in Siberia and Kazakhstan.

MORE PRACTICAL TRAINING

After Stalins death in 1953 Soviet officials waged a campaign for the more practical training of youth along polytechnical lines. It was argued in effect that university graduates could talk glibly about the origins of the Greek theatre but could not handle a hammer and sickle.

Khrushchev's reform accordingly decreed that after the initial eight year school period (roughly from the age of 7 to 15) both boys and girls were to enter either two-year trade schools or four years "tekhnikums" to acquire manual and technical skills.

At the same time several extra hours of "shop work" were added to the curriculum of the already overburdened pupils of the combined eight years of elementary and secondary schools.

It was only after graduates of the eight-year school had spent two years in industry that they would be eligible to apply for the universities, Khrushchev's law provided. Some exceptions were made for the more gifted graduates of the secondary schools who were permitted to proceed directly to the university but even they, once there, had to spend several hours a day in physical work.

Many educators objected to Khrushchevs law. They argued that higher education in modern civilization as more necessary than ever and should not be interrupted for two years. But at the same time there was no denying that Russia's ever expanding industry needed armies of skilled workers and technicians as much as scientists. So there have been compromises.

MODIFY PROGRAM

The law on "life and school" has not been repealed, but its application has been modified. Secondary schools principals manage to push their promising pupils into higher academic work without the intermediary factory experience. And recently university authorities have excused their freshman students from outside physical labor.

The present situation, although still in flux, has been described by a high official of the education ministry as follows:

Compulsory shopwork in the schools has been reduced from six to four hours a week. Henceforth students in industrial areas may in addition to the required four hours, take another two hours voluntarily at special shops built for them by industrial enterprises.

Students of higher educational institution are deferred from military service. Many of those who remain in academic life manage to escape the draft altogether except perhaps for occasional summer workouts at army camps.

For many children in the Soviet Union, school starts with voluntary enrollment in kindergarten which specializes in training children in behavior, group activities, physical activities and learning to do things for themselves such as washing, taking care of animals, dusting the classroom. Group activities include singing, dancing, reciting, music, drawing and modelling. The rudiments of the alphabet and numerals are taught by using plastic cubes and blocks.

STANDARD CURRICULUM

After kindergarten, the standard school curriculum for most Soviet children today provides:

Grades 1-3: Russian language and literature, arithmetic, drawing, singing, physical education and introduction to manual training.

Grade 4: History, geography and elementary bology are added to the subjects taught in the first three grades.

Grades 5-10: Russian language and literature, history, arithmetic, alegebra, geometry, trigonometry, physics, chemistry, botany, zoology, anatomy, Darwinism, geography, astronomy, drafting, industrial and agricultural training, drawing, singing and physical education. (This curriculum is standard throughout the Soviet Union except for some variations in schools for gifted children specializing in music, art or dancing.)

Thus the graduate of the 10-year school has had 10 years of mathematics, six years of geography, six years of biology, five years of physics, four years of chemistry and one year of astronomy.

According to a Soviet publication, the purpose of the 10-year school is to furnish "a solid command of general and polytechnical knowledge, engendering the labor habit, training for socially useful work and shaping a spiritual, physical and aesthetically sound generation."

ASSESS STUDIES

A team of Western educators which studied Soviet schools reported that 38 per cent of a student's time is devoted to general subjects such as language, literature, humanities and the social sciences; 29 per cent is devoted to mathematics and sciences and 33 per cent to applied activities and manual vocational training.

Beginning with the eighth grade a subject described as "talks about our society" is introduced. This covers the Soviet constitution and the nature of the regime.

The current education minister claims that today only 10 per cent of the students' time is devoted to ideology.

The schools adhere to Marxist ideology in accordance with the current party line and religion is taboo as a subject of instruction in this aggressively atheistic state.

The process of education for communism which starts from nursery school and continues through life does not, however, rely on the school alone. It is carried on through literature, the arts, the press and other media of communications. It is in the very air every citizen breathes.

All education, from the elementary grades through graduate school, is free. There are no tuition or laboratory fees at the universities and about 90 per cent of the students have stipends for living expenses.

CLASS APART

At the higher academic levels students are what might be called "professional students." Stangely enough in Russia's revolutionary society they consider themselves a class apart and, unlike their American counterparts, they will undertake no after-study hours jobs to supplement their incomes. It

Wedding Breakfast Follows Hussing-Shelton Nuptials

Miss Martha Clifton Shelton, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frazier Clifton Shelton of Monroe, became the bride of Lewis Henry Hussing Jr. of Dallas and Texarkana, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Henry Hussing of Texarkana, Ark., on September 17 at 11 a.m.

The Rev. David Dabria performed the double ring ceremony in the Church of Jesus the Good Shepherd in the presence of members of the two families and a few close friends of the couple. Organ music was provided by Mrs. Robert Easterling for the processional and recessional.

Magnolia foliage and ivy were used in altar arrangements and pedestal urns and flanking the altar were seven branched candelabra holding lighted tapers.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a street length dress of ivory silk with matching coat, enclosed by self-covered buttons. Her headpiece was of heavy ivory lace loops, knotted at the center with tiny pearls. She wore short kid gloves and a cameo brooch that had belonged to her maternal grandmother and carried a bouquet of white rosebuds.

Mrs. Barre Tanguis of Ruston, who served as matron of honor and only attendant to the bride, wore an A-line model of aqua raw silk. Her headdress was a flat aqua Dior bow and she carried a bouquet of bronze daisy chrysanthemums.

Kenneth Kinslow of Russellville, Ark. attended Mr. Hussing as best man and usher was John Nipper, brother-in-law of the groom.

The bride's mother who was escorted by her brother, Lynton B. Culpepper, was wearing for the occasion a beige silk suit with hat of beige velvet leaves and matching accessories. Her corsage was of bronze pompon chrysanthemums. The groom's mother chose a suit of soft green looped silk with green pillbox hat and matching accessories and a corsage of white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Floyd Duke, grandmother of the groom, was attired in a navy silk ensemble with a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums.

A wedding breakfast following the ceremony was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Culpepper, aunt and uncle of the bride. Members of the wedding party and guests assembled on the patio and in the patio room where the breakfast table was centered with a large arrangement of Summer Sunshine roses in an antique silver and crystal compote, flanked by matching candelabra.

The bride's cake was served from a small table, covered with a cutwork cloth and garlanded with ivy leaves. Groom's cake, garnished with green grapes and ivy, was served with coffee on the patio. Champagne was passed by waiters.

Members of the houseparty assisting in courtesies were Mrs. A. E. Culpepper, Mrs. Lynton B. Culpepper, Mrs. Philip P. Lynch, Mrs. John Culpepper, Miss Caroline Moore and Mrs. Paul Fink.

For their wedding trip to New Orleans the bride traveled in a blue silk tweed A-line shift with beige accessories. After the middle of October the couple will be at home in Alexandria, Virginia, where Mr. Hussing will be attending officer candidate school at Fort Belvoir.

Wedding Breakfast Follows Hussing-Shelton Nuptials

Miss Martha Clifton Shelton, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frazier Clifton Shelton of Monroe, became the bride of Lewis Henry Hussing Jr. of Dallas and Texarkana, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Henry Hussing of Texarkana, Ark., on September 17 at 11 a.m.

The Rev. David Dabria performed the double ring ceremony in the Church of Jesus the Good Shepherd in the presence of members of the two families and a few close friends of the couple. Organ music was provided by Mrs. Robert Easterling for the processional and recessional.

Magnolia foliage and ivy were used in altar arrangements and pedestal urns and flanking the altar were seven branched candelabra holding lighted tapers.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a street length dress of ivory silk with matching coat, enclosed by self-covered buttons. Her headpiece was of heavy ivory lace loops, knotted at the center with tiny pearls. She wore short kid gloves and a cameo brooch that had belonged to her maternal grandmother and carried a bouquet of white rosebuds.

Mrs. Barre Tanguis of Ruston, who served as matron of honor and only attendant to the bride, wore an A-line model of aqua raw silk. Her headdress was a flat aqua Dior bow and she carried a bouquet of bronze daisy chrysanthemums.

Kenneth Kinslow of Russellville, Ark. attended Mr. Hussing as best man and usher was John Nipper, brother-in-law of the groom.

The bride's mother who was escorted by her brother, Lynton B. Culpepper, was wearing for the occasion a beige silk suit with hat of beige velvet leaves and matching accessories. Her corsage was of bronze pompon chrysanthemums. The groom's mother chose a suit of soft green looped silk with green pillbox hat and matching accessories and a corsage of white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Floyd Duke, grandmother of the groom, was attired in a navy silk ensemble with a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums.

A wedding breakfast following the ceremony was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Culpepper, aunt and uncle of the bride. Members of the wedding party and guests assembled on the patio and in the patio room where the breakfast table was centered with a large arrangement of Summer Sunshine roses in an antique silver and crystal compote, flanked by matching candelabra.

The bride's cake was served from a small table, covered with a cutwork cloth and garlanded with ivy leaves. Groom's cake, garnished with green grapes and ivy, was served with coffee on the patio. Champagne was passed by waiters.

Members of the houseparty assisting in courtesies were Mrs. A. E. Culpepper, Mrs. Lynton B. Culpepper, Mrs. Philip P. Lynch, Mrs. John Culpepper, Miss Caroline Moore and Mrs. Paul Fink.

For their wedding trip to New Orleans the bride traveled in a blue silk tweed A-line shift with beige accessories. After the middle of October the couple will be at home in Alexandria, Virginia, where Mr. Hussing will be attending officer candidate school at Fort Belvoir.

MISS JAN TOUCHSTONE

Miss Jan Touchstone Engaged To Wed Rayburn Leroy Doege

Mr. and Mrs. H. Kirt Touchstone Jr., Bayou Bend Drive, Monroe, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Jan Touchstone and Rayburn Leroy Doege. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Doege of Houston, Texas.

The wedding is planned for November 5 at 6:30 p.m. in Grace Episcopal Church with the Rev. W. Bradley Trimble officiating.

The bride-elect has chosen her sister, Mrs. D. E. Vanderhoeven to serve as matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Susan Sherrouse, Miss Barbara Masur, Miss Karen Crow, Miss Connie Yancey, all of Monroe and Miss Jesse Lee Lamb, Cookeville, Tenn.

W. B. House Jr. has been named by Mr. Doege to serve as best man. Chosen to serve as ushers are Clayton Cole, Rick Hyland, David Marchman, Victor Mitchell and Kirt Touchstone, brother of the bride-elect.

Miss Touchstone is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh H. Miller of Franklin and of Mrs. H. Kirt Touchstone Sr., Monroe. A graduate of Neville high school, she attended Louisiana State University and is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

The prospective bridegroom was graduated from Sam Houston State College at Huntsville, Texas and is now assistant golf professional at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. His fraternity is Sigma Chi.

Following their marriage the couple will be at home in Monroe.

His mother is the former Miss Mary Pearl McClanahan and he is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Emile McClanahan of Columbia and the late Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Jarrell of Columbia.

Dr. Jarrell is now engaged in an internship in oral surgery at Charity Hospital in New Orleans. Following their marriage the couple will reside in New Orleans.

Slips Coordinate Fall Wardrobe

When assembling the fall wardrobe, don't forget to pay equal attention to slips. It's entirely possible that all-purpose slips will no longer serve any purpose, if only because they're too long.

Slips must have a particular purpose now. Above-knee sportswear means the mini slip, while a slightly longer length will be needed for knee-cap styles.

Knits need smooth, non-cling slips that won't show through and won't ride up. Does a wool dress or suit have no lining in the sleeves? There are slips with sleeves for lining such dresses.

THIN PANCAKES

Thin pancakes — the French call them crepes — make a delicious dessert when they are sprinkled with confectioners sugar and orange-flavored liqueur.

New Wall Cloth Gives Luxurious Look To Bathroom

The bathroom is usually the last room in the house to get a face lifting. Decorating efforts in its behalf all too often simply consist of a quick coat of paint and coordinating the colors of the towels with the soap. Yet, with only a little more effort, the bathroom can be given a luxurious new look which will effectively match the decor of the rest of the house.

New wall cloths have been developed that will completely transform a bathroom without the expense of major alterations or the installation of new fixtures. The cloths, which are washable and mildew resistant, are attractively flocked with acrylic fiber in a variety of rich designs.

In addition to giving the bathroom a more luxurious look, use of these patterned wall coverings will create a point of interest, drawing the eye away from the utilitarian and crowded appearance of a typical small bathroom. In a room without windows, the selection of a pattern in warm golds, for example, can compensate for the lack of natural light.

CHARMING CENTERPIECE

A group of small pitchers, of clear glass or in harmonious shades of china or pottery, may be grouped, filled with flowers or leaves and used as a charming centerpiece for a dining table. Such pitchers — with some age, but not "antique" — may often be picked up at inexpensive prices.

CERAMIC CLEANER

Washing soda may do a good job in cleaning glazed ceramic wall tile. If the tiles are badly discolored, wipe the tiles with a damp rag on which a little of the powdered material has been sprinkled.

Dr. Jarrell is now engaged in an internship in oral surgery at Charity Hospital in New Orleans. Following their marriage the couple will reside in New Orleans.

Slips Coordinate Fall Wardrobe

When assembling the fall wardrobe, don't forget to pay equal attention to slips. It's entirely possible that all-purpose slips will no longer serve any purpose, if only because they're too long.

Slips must have a particular purpose now. Above-knee sportswear means the mini slip, while a slightly longer length will be needed for knee-cap styles.

Knits need smooth, non-cling slips that won't show through and won't ride up. Does a wool dress or suit have no lining in the sleeves? There are slips with sleeves for lining such dresses.

THIN PANCAKES

Thin pancakes — the French call them crepes — make a delicious dessert when they are sprinkled with confectioners sugar and orange-flavored liqueur.

New Wall Cloth Gives Luxurious Look To Bathroom

The bathroom is usually the last room in the house to get a face lifting. Decorating efforts in its behalf all too often simply consist of a quick coat of paint and coordinating the colors of the towels with the soap. Yet, with only a little more effort, the bathroom can be given a luxurious new look which will effectively match the decor of the rest of the house.

New wall cloths have been developed that will completely transform a bathroom without the expense of major alterations or the installation of new fixtures. The cloths, which are washable and mildew resistant, are attractively flocked with acrylic fiber in a variety of rich designs.

In addition to giving the bathroom a more luxurious look, use of these patterned wall coverings will create a point of interest, drawing the eye away from the utilitarian and crowded appearance of a typical small bathroom. In a room without windows, the selection of a pattern in warm golds, for example, can compensate for the lack of natural light.

CHARMING CENTERPIECE

A group of small pitchers, of clear glass or in harmonious shades of china or pottery, may be grouped, filled with flowers or leaves and used as a charming centerpiece for a dining table. Such pitchers — with some age, but not "antique" — may often be picked up at inexpensive prices.

CERAMIC CLEANER

Washing soda may do a good job in cleaning glazed ceramic wall tile. If the tiles are badly discolored, wipe the tiles with a damp rag on which a little of the powdered material has been sprinkled.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES HENRY WOODS

Claudia Dean Terral Becomes Bride Of James Henry Woods

In the presence of members of the immediate families Miss Claudia Dean Terral, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Forrest M. Terral of Lake Providence became the bride of James Henry Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Woods of Monroe, on Friday, September 16.

The Rev. Ned Stout performed the double ring ceremony at 10:30 a.m. in First Methodist Church of Lake Providence, with organ selections rendered by Mrs. Jack Holt.

White stock, gladioli and Fuji chrysanthemums in brass altar vases formed a setting at the altar for the exchange of vows.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a flowing tent dress of coral antique satin in afternoon length designed with rounded neckline and bracelet sleeves. Back interest was created by deep folds cascading from the lowered neckline closed at intervals with self fabric bows. She wore matching coral satin shoes and a Spanish mantilla of beige lace. Her bouquet was a cascade of champagne cymbidium orchids and English ivy.

Mrs. James B. Collier of Birmingham, Ala., served as her sister's matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a champagne silk two piece model which featured a silk organza ruffled collar and self fabric bow at the neckline. Her headpiece was a Dior bow with tiny veil and she carried a cascade of coral cymbidium orchids and ivy.

Mr. Woods attended his son as best man and ushers were Tim Terral and Thomas Terral, brothers of the bride and John Michael Yeldell of Mer Rouge.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Terral wore a beige silk sheath with Rosetta pink satin hat trimmed with an ostrich plume. Mrs. Woods, mother of the groom, was wearing a green raw silk ensemble with hat of matching green velvet leaves.

The home of the bride's parents was scene of a reception and brunch following the ceremony. A mass arrangement of white gladioli, stock and chrysanthemums centered the dining table which held a silver coffee service at each end, presided over by Mrs. John Terral of Lake Providence and Mrs. Vann Pratt. Mrs. G. G. Lawhon of Houston, Texas, served the bride's cake which was centered on a round table and wreathed with clusters of white grapes and leatherleaf fern.

Mrs. Thomas Terral of Lake Providence, presided at the bride's book table which was covered with a cloth of hunter's green linen, trimmed in gold braid and ornamented by a large memory candle encircled by coral Gerbera daisies.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to Florida the couple will be at home in Monroe. The bride is a graduate of Lake Providence high school and of Louisiana State University. Her sorority is Chi Omega. Mr. Woods was graduated from Neville high school and from LSU and is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

New Faculty Members Feted At Reception

President and Mrs. George T. Walker and the faculty of Northeast Louisiana State College entertained at a reception Sunday afternoon honoring new faculty members.

A total of 79 new faculty members were honored at the festive affair, held in the large reception room of the College Union Building. Fall colors predominated throughout the reception area.

In the foyer a large chrysanthemum arrangement was accented against the brick wall. The two refreshment tables featured pyramid arrangements of Fuji mums, pompons and fruit in fall shades.

Vigilites flanked the arrangements. Coffee and punch were served from silver services.

Chrysanthemum plants in autumn colors were interspersed throughout the reception room.

Receiving with Dr. and Mrs. Walker were Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Holtzclaw, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Vines, Dr. and Mrs. William Easley, Dr. and Mrs. Glenn Powers, Dr. and Mrs. William Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sigler, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Pale, Vivid Hues Feature Fashion's Color Picture

An interesting aspect of fall's color "picture" is its almost endless spectrum, encompassing palest pales strong medium tones sparkling, primary, brights; deep, subtle darks. And unusually vast color palette of this sort indicates that a number of color groups — rather than one of two — seem equally destined to dominate the fall fashion scene. Color leaders appear to be:

The Plum-Grape Group . . . darkened with reds, blues and browns in its deepest tonalities of burgundy, purple and aubergine . . . then lightening into shades of violet, wisteria, and strawberry pink. Equally plentiful, however, are greens . . . ranging from vibrant jades touched with blue or yellow . . . to dark and light olives . . . and deep forest tones.

Then there are blues . . . the cheerful sort — bright Bristols and teals . . . as well as softly grayed medium tones . . . sapphires . . . and clear winter navies.

Leaf Colors Of Autumn and other hues that appear perennially on nature's dazzling fall canvas have also been reproduced in plentitude in the artful medium of wool. . . bright bittersweet hues, lighter, brighter, pumpkin shades; rich brick and rusty reds; mustard and goldenrod golds.

Dark — almost black—browns are the deepest tones of a group of earth colors that also includes somewhat lighter, redder browns and clay colors. . .and then lightens into a variety of wheat shades.

Current Fashions For Teens Keyed To Off-Beat Note

Off-beat color combinations in dresses and separates keynote the current fashion scene for mix and matches of solids, the current fashion scene for teens. All systems are go for mixes and matches of solids, patterns and textures. So let your imagination run its course, right into your school-time and date-time wardrobe.

But once your vivid, vibrant fashions are worn and laundered a few times, it won't take any imagining to know they've lost some of their body and bounce. Holding the shape of fashion, though is easy and little effort for you when you treat your washable fashions to some loving fabric care.

Pale, Vivid Hues Feature Fashion's Color Picture

An interesting aspect of fall's color "picture" is its almost endless spectrum, encompassing palest pales strong medium tones sparkling, primary, brights; deep, subtle darks. And unusually vast color palette of this sort indicates that a number of color groups — rather than one of two — seem equally destined to dominate the fall fashion scene. Color leaders appear to be:

The Plum-Grape Group . . . darkened with reds, blues and browns in its deepest tonalities of burgundy, purple and aubergine . . . then lightening into shades of violet, wisteria, and strawberry pink. Equally plentiful, however, are greens . . . ranging from vibrant jades touched with blue or yellow . . . to dark and light olives . . . and deep forest tones.

Then there are blues . . . the cheerful sort — bright Bristols and teals . . . as well as softly grayed medium tones . . . sapphires . . . and clear winter navies.

Leaf Colors Of Autumn and other hues that appear perennially on nature's dazzling fall canvas have also been reproduced in plentitude in the artful medium of wool. . .bright bittersweet hues, lighter, brighter, pumpkin shades; rich brick and rusty reds; mustard and goldenrod golds.

Dark — almost black—browns are the deepest tones of a group of earth colors that also includes somewhat lighter, redder browns and clay colors. . .and then lightens into a variety of wheat shades.

Current Fashions For Teens Keyed To Off-Beat Note

Off-beat color combinations in dresses and separates keynote the current fashion scene for mix and matches of solids, the current fashion scene for teens. All systems are go for mixes and matches of solids, patterns and textures. So let your imagination run its course, right into your school-time and date-time wardrobe.

But once your vivid, vibrant fashions are worn and laundered a few times, it won't take any imagining to know they've lost some of their body and bounce. Holding the shape of fashion, though is easy and little effort for you when you treat your washable fashions to some loving fabric care.

MRS. JAMES HARVEY SMITH

Saturday Ceremony Unites Melba Wamble, James Smith

Miss Melba Lynne Wamble and James Harvey Smith exchanged wedding vows Saturday, September 24, in a double ring ceremony at Central Baptist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Wamble, 203 Mouton, Monroe and parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Smith of Vicksburg, Mississippi.

An arch entwined with ivy flanked by baskets of white gladioli and lighted tapers in seven branched candelabra formed a setting at the altar where Rev. Roy Myers performed the ceremony at 3 p.m.

Miss Peggy Wilson, organist and David Whitman, soloists, provided traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a traditional floor length gown of white satin styled with fitted bodice, modified scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves ending in points over the hands. The semi-fitted skirt was outlined with re-embroidered lace motifs forming a panel in back. Her triple tiered elbow length veil of silk illusion fell from a cap of pearlized orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Harry Hays served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Peggy Hayden and Miss Carolyn Smith. They wore short gowns of turquoise satin designed with fitted bodices, scoop necklines and brief sleeves. Their shoulder length veils were held in place by large bows of turquoise satin. Each carried a single long stemmed pink rose.

Miss Stacey Walston, flower girl, wore an empire shift of turquoise satin with pink velvet banding and streamers. Her veil was identical to those of the other attendants and she carried a miniature basket of pink roses.

Serving as best man for Mr. Smith was his brother-in-law, Lamar Teddar of Raymond, Miss. Groomsmen were Harry Hays and James Curtis Wamble, brother of the bride and ushers were Douglas Williams and Charles Kolher. Ring bearer was Wayne Walston.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Wamble wore a gown of dusty gold silk linen appliqued with matching lace motifs. Her accessories were of matching hue and she wore a cymbidium orchid corsage. The groom's mother chose a blue crepe model with accessories to match and a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was given by the bride's parents in the church social hall. Miss Linda Sutton presided at the guest book at a table, ornamented with a memory candle.

The bride's table, covered with a white cutwork cloth over turquoise, was centered with an arrangement of white carnations and love birds. The tiered wedding cake was served alternately by Mrs. Barry Wiley and Mrs. Doyle Berry. Miss Dianne Taylor presided at the crystal punch bowl. Rice girls were Judy Epinette and Nancy Berry, cousin of the bride of Houston, Mississippi.

For travel the bride changed to a three piece suit of moss green and turquoise print with matching accessories and a corsage of rosebuds. After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Vicksburg, where Mr. Smith is employed.

ABWA Holds Annual Fall Friendship Tea

Annual Hand of Friendship tea, sponsored by the Tupawek Chapter of American Business Women's Association was held Sunday, September 18 in the home of Mrs. Billie Kasperek, 200 Belmont Drive, Monroe, between the hours of 2:30 and 4:30 p.m.

Mrs. Floy McMillon, tea chairman, extended a welcome and introduced the new president, Mrs. Marjorie Avery, who then named chairmen of the various committees and their coworkers. Mrs. McMillon recognized Mrs. Mildred Chapman, elected by the chapter as "Woman of the Year" and who will represent the local chapter at the A.B.W.A. National convention being held in Tulsa, Okla., in October.

"Stepping Stones" was theme of the program given by various members telling the story of the beginning and growth of A.B.W.A. Purpose of the tea is to acquaint business women with aims and advantages of membership in the association. These aims are opportunities of greater accomplishment in their chosen occupation; the promotion of better employer - employe relationships; stimulating the desire for educational and technical training which will later qualify them for rewarding and useful careers. The ultimate goal is to alert business women to the need for efficient and enlightened service to the business community and to provide a social opportunity in keeping with busy lives.

There are now 625 chapters with over 39,000 active members in the association which was founded in 1949 by Hillary A. Bufton Jr., in Kansas City, Mo.

An informal period followed the program in the den where the A.B.W.A. colors, black and gold, were used.

The tea table, covered with a bronze cloth, was centered with a low footed bowl of golden chrysanthemums flanked by tall golden tapers in silver holders. Mrs. Jean Stokes served golden fruit punch and Mrs. Chapman presided at the silver coffee service.

Guests and members present were Mrs. Pearl Averett, Mrs. Bettye Jackson, Mrs. Blondel Barlowe, Mrs. Kathryn Holloway, Mrs. Murl Stokes, Mrs. Vera Gaddis, Mrs. Edna Becton, Mrs. Sue Bruno, Mrs. Virginia Wilhite, Mrs. Jewel Boutwell, Mrs. Myra Overton, Mrs. Avery, Mrs. McMillon, Mrs. Stokes, Mrs. Chapman and the hostess.

Burgers Get Nod Of French Miss

EUREKA, Kan. (UPI) — Any Brissaud says Kansas is "much too flat," when compared with the Alps of her native Chamonix, France.

"But I don't really miss anything in France," she said. "The hamburgers and cheeseburgers here are just lovely."

Miss Brissaud was one of eight French students spending a month visiting Eureka families as part of the Experiment in International Living project.

"It is wonderful the way we have been received," she added. "It isn't that way in France. People here are so friendly. The kids here have much more freedom than in France.

"I like the American clothes. Of course, it is the fashion in Europe now to wear American clothes."

Davidson-Liner Vows Read In Candlelight Ceremony

Solemnized Saturday, September 24 in Ruston Presbyterian Church was the wedding of Miss Karen Elizabeth Liner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Liner and William C. Davidson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlton Davidson, all of Ruston.

Antique gold candelabra holding tall white tapers, palms and ceramic urns filled with seasonal white flowers formed a setting for the double ring ceremony at 6 p.m. performed by Rev. J. W. Lipscomb.

Mrs. Paul Davis, organist and Mrs. Emmett McKaskle, soloist, presented appropriate music preceding the ceremony and as the candles were lighted by Misses Dianne Fowler and Donna Fowler. They wore dresses of gold crystalline and wrist corsages of bronze pompons.

Mr. Liner gave his daughter in marriage. The bride was gowned in white silk peau de soie etched in Alencon lace. The molded bodice was fashioned with portrait neckline and long fitted sleeves tapering to points over the hands. Appliques of the pearl encrusted lace were featured around the neckline and down front of the dress. The controlled skirt was accented in back with a soft bow from which the full chapel train fell in graceful folds. Her tiered veil of silk illusion drifted from a cluster of silk roses and lily of the valley. She carried a white Bible topped with a cascading bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid and touches of English ivy and poufs of tulle. Her only jewelry was a diamond teardrop pendant, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Bobby Bryan, sister of the bride was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. David Eppinette and Miss Ella Anne Davidson, sisters of the groom and Miss Ginny Orr. They were identically dressed in gold silk floor length gowns, designed with shaped skirts, scoop necklines and long pointed sleeves. The fitted waistlines featured wide bands of Belgian lace and a flat back bow from which soft panels of the silk flowed to the hemline. They wore chapeaux of matching gold leaves and carried bouquets of bronze pompon chrysanthemums accented with green tulle and bronze velvet ribbon.

Serving as best man was Oliver Houck and groomsmen were George Davidson, brother of the groom; David Eppinette, Mark Taylor. Ushers were Jerry Liner, brother of the bride and Glen Wright.

A reception followed in the church parlor. Mrs. Liner, mother of the bride, received her guests wearing a Celadon green silk crepe sheath with matching lace sequin-embroidered jacket, accessories in matching shade and a cymbidium orchid corsage. The groom's mother wore a coral lace sheath with matching accessories and a cymbidium orchid corsage.

The bride's table was covered with an organdy floor length cloth centered with a gold five-branch candelabrum holding yellow tapers and epergnes of yellow roses and champagne carnations. A memory candle graced the guest book table, also covered with an organdy cloth.

Mrs. A. D. Tabor, Shreveport, aunt of the bride, served the wedding cake and presiding at the punch bowl were Mrs. George Davidson and Mrs. Jackie Alexander. Seated at the guest book table was Mrs. Jimmy Rickerson, Monroe.

Tea girls were Misses Beth Roy, Betty Jo Johnson, Linda Dick and Patty Porter. Rice bags of white net tied with gold ribbon were distributed by Miss Dawn Fowler, who wore a dress of gold crystalline and a wrist corsage of bronze chrysanthemums. Others assisting with courtesies were Mrs. Brice Wright, Mrs. Alex Boyd and Mrs. Herman Ladner. Miss Martha Sue Price, cousin of the bride, Livingston, Texas, provided piano music throughout the reception.

For travel when the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride changed into a white wool skimmer with which she wore emerald green accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. They will be at home on their return in Ruston where both are employed. Both graduated from Ruston high school and attended Louisiana Tech.

Shag Carpets Big News For Season

CHICAGO (UPI) — The shag makes carpet news for fall.

The spaghetti look of shags, casual and bulky, make this type of carpeting a natural for modern design or for contrast with period decorating. The shags, many in acrylics, showed through several carpet collections at the recent home furnishings market here.

A Beauty Hint

Margaret Merril advises that it is quite simple for every woman to promote an English countryside complexion. Her hint to gain a peaches-and-cream loveliness is to damp a cloth with cold water from your refrigerator and press it over your face for a few minutes once or twice a day. Then, to hold the good of the complexion - beautifying cold water smooth on a little tropical oil of Olay. This oil is rather scarce and expensive but your drug store should be able to get you a small supply.

Manco Lee Snapp Jr., Bride Leave For California Base

In a double ring ceremony at Covenant Presbyterian Church on Saturday, September 17, Miss Sandra Jeanne Riddle, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. David E. Riddle Jr., 901 Glenmar became the bride of Manco Lee Snapp Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Manco L. Snapp, 2004 North Third St., Monroe.

A single white taper and open Bible on the altar was flanked by arrangements of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and carnations interspersed with candelabra and fern trees.

Rev. G. Preston Brown officiated at the 11 a.m. ceremony with nuptial music provided by Ronnie Brothers, organist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white silk peau de soie, featuring an A-line skirt, empire bodice and elbow sleeves, embellished with Alencon lace and tiny seed pearls. A chapel train was attached under appliques of the lace at the high rise waist. Her full length veil of silk illusion was attached to a heightened cap of lace. She carried a bouquet of white butterfly roses with white satin streamers in crescent design.

Miss Brenda Jo Riddle, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Marcelena Taylor, Monroe; Miss Jennifer Anne Lee, Alexandria and Miss Ilala Snapp, sister of the groom. Their identical gowns of moss green sake were fashioned on princess lines with square necklines and floating back floor length panels attached to the shoulders with tiny bows. They wore headdresses of matching flowers with small circle veils and carried crescent bouquets of miniature white chrysanthemums with green net and green satin streamers.

Serving as best man was Roger Smith of Springhill and groomsmen-ushers were John Christian, Alexandria; Charles Snapp, New Orleans, Karl Long, Pineville; Bobby Riddle and Steve Parker of Monroe.

Mrs. Riddle was wearing for the occasion a yellow silk suit with matching accessories and the groom's mother was attired in a brown silk ensemble with accessories to match. Their corsages were of white cymbidium orchids.

A reception followed in the church parlor where all tables were draped with floor length cloths of white satin and garlanded with Northern smilax. Centering the punch table was a white Alabaster cupid epergne holding an arrangement of white carnations and chrysanthemums, flanked by cupid candelabra with tall white tapers. Punch bowls were placed at either end.

The all white bride's cake was served from a round table and near the entrance the guest book table was adorned with a memory candle.

For travel when the couple left for California to establish a home at Mather Air Force Base in Sacramento, the bride was wearing a grape wool dress and cutaway jacket ensemble with a picture hat of paisley print in shades of pink and plum. Her other accessories were black.

Mrs. Snapp attended Elizabethtown high school in Pennsylvania and graduated from Neville high school and prior to her marriage was a senior at Louisiana Tech. Her sorority is Phi Mu. The bridegroom was graduated from Neville high school and from Louisiana Tech, where he was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and the Arnold Air Society.

Computer Takes Uncertainty Out Of Blind Dating

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Two psychology students at Stanford University are using a computer to take the uncertainty out of blind dating.

"Within a week each participant will receive the names and address of everyone matched with him or her — four to 10 matches being guaranteed," said Ronald Starr, of Portland, Ore., and Donald Bamber, of Norwood, Mass.

The two doctoral candidates are conducting the experiment on the basis of compatibility. Some 250 men and 165 women are participating.

They hope to iron out problems which developed in a similar "Stanford Match" last year in which one girl was matched with 73 boys.

"She actually went out with 32 of them, while her roommates sat around green with envy," the young psychologists reported.

A few Stanford professors and staff members are in the experiment. Average student ages are 20-26 for men and 18-25 for women.

MRS. WELDON EDDIE KING

King-Killian Vows Solemnized In Pastor's Study

The pastor's study of First Baptist Church in West Monroe was scene of the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Carolyn Yvonne Killian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theo M. Killian of West Monroe and Weldon Eddie King of Bossier City, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie W. King of Strong, Ark.

Dr. Clifton R. Tennison performed the double ring vows at 3 p.m. on Sunday, September 11.

For her wedding the bride wore a floor length gown of white satin brocade fashioned empire style with a watteau train falling from the shoulders. Long sleeves tapered to points over the hands. Her shoulder length tulle veil was held in place by a crown of pearls. She carried a bouquet of white feathered chrysanthemums atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Burt Collins Jr., of Bossier City, served as matron of honor. Attired in pink, her dress comprised a bodice of lace and skirt of peau de soie in afternoon length, with which she wore a short veil attached to a pink circlet headdress. She carried a single long stem ivory rose.

Serving as best man was Larry King of Strong, Ark.

For the occasion Mrs. Killian, mother of the bride, wore a dress with pink floral motif on white background with white accessories. The groom's mother chose a lime green lace model with white accessories.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. Centering the bride's table was the square tiered wedding cake which was served by Miss Jeannie Kelley, West Monroe. Mrs. Joe Mack O'Neal, Delhi, presided at the bowl of green punch and Miss Kathy Killian had charge of the guest book.

For going-away the bride wore a blue and white pin stripe suit featuring a double breasted jacket, with red accessories and a corsage from her bouquet. After September 25 the couple will be at home in Bossier City where Mr. King is employed.

You can look it up.

Teen-Age Boys Rate Style Over Cost

NEW YORK (UPI) — One study of teen-age boys' clothes buying shows they rate style above price in purchasing.

The study, of 622 students in the 15-18 age bracket, showed 68.6 per cent rating style as "very important," 29.4 per cent mentioning price first. The Boys' Apparel & Accessories Manufacturers' Association Inc., made the survey.

Barbara Christian Is Bride Of Earl Hobbs Chumney Jr.

St. Peter Prince of the Apostles Catholic Church in San Antonio, Texas was scene of the wedding of Miss Barbara Sue Christian and Earl Hobbs Chumney Jr. on Saturday evening, September 17.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Christian of Corpus Christi, Texas. Mr. Chumney is the son of Mrs. Earl Hobbs Chumney of San Antonio, and the grandson of Mrs. Guy P. Stubbs of Monroe and the late Mr. Stubbs.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Thomas J. O'Brien, assisted by the Rev. Archie Andrus of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

The main aisle of the church was lined with tall wooden candelabra entwined with greenery and holding amber crystal votive candles. The main altar was banked with candles and a large arrangement of white Fuji chrysanthemums with candle trees at either side.

Entering on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a gown of candlelight rose - patterned Alencon lace, lavishly beaded with pearls and crystals. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a portrait neckline and tiny sleeves. A wide band of silk peau de soie encircled the modified A-line skirt and the cathedral length train of peau de soie was adorned with cascading motifs of the jeweled lace. A cluster of peau rose buds centered with pearls and jeweled lace leaves held her cathedral veil of English silk illusion. She carried a Roman garland of roses and miniature English ivy.

Miss Linda Lehmberg, Mason, Texas attended the bride as maid of honor and Mrs. David Michie of San Antonio, as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Eileen Doyle, Miss Marilyn Whaley, Miss Katherine Fulcher, Mrs. Pat Chumney, all of San Antonio and junior bridesmaid was Miss Susan Christilles, cousin of the bride. Flower girls were India Brewer Chumney and Winifred Swearingen Chumney, San Antonio.

The feminine attendants wore demi-fitted floor length gowns of willow green silk shantung, featuring rolled circlet necklines and tiny cuffed sleeves. The flared back was emphasized with a bow at the neckline. They carried sheafs of natural Italian wheat and harvest tone chrysanthemums tied with antique gold velvet and centered with amber crystal votive candles.

Thomas King Chumney attended his brother as best man and groomsmen were William Thomas Chumney Jr., Pat Swearingen Chumney, William Price Clark, Francis Markley Huey, Robert S. McClane, Leonard Magruder, all of San Antonio. Serving as ushers were Donald W. Garrett, C. Linden Sledge, James W. Walters, Tyree Hardy, all of San Antonio and Winston S. Morris Jr., Mexico City, Mexico.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the Anacacho Room of the St. Anthony Hotel, where the bride's table was centered with a towering arrangement of Fuji chrysanthemums and crystal votive cups. Arrangements of the flowers and greenery were used throughout the room.

Mrs. Christian received her guests wearing a long gown of petal pink chiffon with shirred draped bodice and floating side panel. She wore a coif of shaded pink chiffon blossoms, formal length gloves and a corsage of miniature green orchids. Mrs. Chumney, mother of the groom, wore a full length gown of meadow green crepe with a band of silver and gold bugle beads defining the waist and outlining the short sleeves. Her hat was of matching green crepe petals and her corsage was of bronze and gold tones. Mrs. Stubbs, grandmother of the groom, chose a gown of Dresden blue chiffon with jacket of re-embroidered French lace, a matching jeweled hat and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

After a wedding trip to Mexico City and Acapulco the couple will be at home in San Antonio, Texas. For traveling the bride wore a silk ensemble comprising a mint green A-line dress accented with jeweled neckline outlined in Wedgewood blue, and topped by a matching blue coat with flounced hemline and flared back. Her hat was a printed velvet turban in the tones of her costume.

Attending from Monroe in addition to the groom's grandmother were Mr. and Mrs. King Stubbs and Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Huey.

Buckles, Tongues Give High Rise Look To Shoes

With the youth kick still riding high, we see more and more man-tailored shoes, new shapes and cutouts, hardware treatments, laces and more laces, mules for after-five and at-home straps — ankle, vamp, instep and T's, more buckles and bows.

The high-rise look manifests itself in over-sized tongues, cockades and buckles riding high over the instep — toplines and throats covering more of the foot.

Squares are in the picture, but they're more rounded off.

MRS. GILBERT DEL BRAGG

Beverly McMillon, Gilbert Bragg Wed In Home Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Beverly Ann McMillon and Gilbert Del Bragg was solemnized Saturday, September 17 in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Stuckey, Monroe. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Herschell R. Bragg, also of this city.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Norman G. McMillon, was wearing a white linen suit featuring a fitted cutaway jacket with collar and long sleeves of white cotton lace. Her short veil was held in place by a lace-covered pillbox hat. She carried a bouquet of white orchids, surrounded by pale yellow carnations atop a white Bible.

Miss Melba Medaries served as maid of honor and only attendant. She was wearing a dress of yellow crepe and carried an arrangement of three yellow carnations with yellow streamers.

Danny Bragg attended his brother as best man.

Rev. Roy Myers performed the double ring ceremony beneath an arch entwined with greenery interspersed with roses.

A reception was held in the home following the exchange of vows. The bride's table was covered with a white damask cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums and greenery. Punch was served from one end with the bride's cake and coffee service opposite.

The couple will be at home in Monroe.

Your Problems

To Avoid Obligations Do Not Accept Favors

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am 22, married for two years and have a little girl. Both my husband and I work. We each drive our own car. I don't know if the trouble is me, my folks or my car. Anyway, it's getting me down and I need help.

Because I am working I don't have time to do my housework and marketing and many things most women do. My mother helps me a lot. My sister babysits whenever I need her. We are a very close family.

Almost every evening my mother or sister phones and asks me to drive one of them someplace. I usually have to take them home, too. My husband is getting annoyed with these calls and has told me to say no. He says I work all day and should not be expected to drive them around at night.

I want to please my husband but I also feel I should help out my family since they help me. What is your advice? — MRS. ??

Dear Mrs.: So long as you accept favors you are obliged to repay them. My advice is to hire help or stay home and do your own work and leave your relatives alone. Then you can say no without feeling guilty, and you will also be able to keep the peace with your husband, which should be your major concern.

MRS. WELDON EDDIE KING

King-Killian Vows Solemnized In Pastor's Study

The pastor's study of First Baptist Church in West Monroe was scene of the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Carolyn Yvonne Killian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theo M. Killian of West Monroe and Weldon Eddie King of Bossier City, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie W. King of Strong, Ark.

Dr. Clifton R. Tennison performed the double ring vows at 3 p.m. on Sunday, September 11.

For her wedding the bride wore a floor length gown of white satin brocade fashioned empire style with a watteau train falling from the shoulders. Long sleeves tapered to points over the hands. Her shoulder length tulle veil was held in place by a crown of pearls. She carried a bouquet of white feathered chrysanthemums atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Burt Collins Jr., of Bossier City, served as matron of honor. Attired in pink, her dress comprised a bodice of lace and skirt of peau de soie in afternoon length, with which she wore a short veil attached to a pink circlet headdress. She carried a single long stem ivory rose.

Serving as best man was Larry King of Strong, Ark.

For the occasion Mrs. Killian, mother of the bride, wore a dress with pink floral motif on white background with white accessories. The groom's mother chose a lime green lace model with white accessories.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. Centering the bride's table was the square tiered wedding cake which was served by Miss Jeannie Kelley, West Monroe. Mrs. Joe Mack O'Neal, Delhi, presided at the bowl of green punch and Miss Kathy Killian had charge of the guest book.

For going-away the bride wore a blue and white pin stripe suit featuring a double breasted jacket, with red accessories and a corsage from her bouquet. After September 25 the couple will be at home in Bossier City where Mr. King is employed.

You can look it up.

Teen-Age Boys Rate Style Over Cost

NEW YORK (UPI) — One study of teen-age boys' clothes buying shows they rate style above price in purchasing.

The study, of 622 students in the 15-18 age bracket, showed 68.6 per cent rating style as "very important," 29.4 per cent mentioning price first. The Boys' Apparel & Accessories Manufacturers' Association Inc., made the survey.

Barbara Christian Is Bride Of Earl Hobbs Chumney Jr.

St. Peter Prince of the Apostles Catholic Church in San Antonio, Texas was scene of the wedding of Miss Barbara Sue Christian and Earl Hobbs Chumney Jr. on Saturday evening, September 17.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Christian of Corpus Christi, Texas. Mr. Chumney is the son of Mrs. Earl Hobbs Chumney of San Antonio, and the grandson of Mrs. Guy P. Stubbs of Monroe and the late Mr. Stubbs.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Thomas J. O'Brien, assisted by the Rev. Archie Andrus of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

The main aisle of the church was lined with tall wooden candelabra entwined with greenery and holding amber crystal votive candles. The main altar was banked with candles and a large arrangement of white Fuji chrysanthemums with candle trees at either side.

Entering on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a gown of candlelight rose - patterned Alencon lace, lavishly beaded with pearls and crystals. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a portrait neckline and tiny sleeves. A wide band of silk peau de soie encircled the modified A-line skirt and the cathedral length train of peau de soie was adorned with cascading motifs of the jeweled lace. A cluster of peau rose buds centered with pearls and jeweled lace leaves held her cathedral veil of English silk illusion. She carried a Roman garland of roses and miniature English ivy.

Miss Linda Lehmberg, Mason, Texas attended the bride as maid of honor and Mrs. David Michie of San Antonio, as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Eileen Doyle, Miss Marilyn Whaley, Miss Katherine Fulcher, Mrs. Pat Chumney, all of San Antonio and junior bridesmaid was Miss Susan Christilles, cousin of the bride. Flower girls were India Brewer Chumney and Winifred Swearingen Chumney, San Antonio.

The feminine attendants wore demi-fitted floor length gowns of willow green silk shantung, featuring rolled circlet necklines and tiny cuffed sleeves. The flared back was emphasized with a bow at the neckline. They carried sheafs of natural Italian wheat and harvest tone chrysanthemums tied with antique gold velvet and centered with amber crystal votive candles.

Thomas King Chumney attended his brother as best man and groomsmen were William Thomas Chumney Jr., Pat Swearingen Chumney, William Price Clark, Francis Markley Huey, Robert S. McClane, Leonard Magruder, all of San Antonio. Serving as ushers were Donald W. Garrett, C. Linden Sledge, James W. Walters, Tyree Hardy, all of San Antonio and Winston S. Morris Jr., Mexico City, Mexico.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the Anacacho Room of the St. Anthony Hotel, where the bride's table was centered with a towering arrangement of Fuji chrysanthemums and crystal votive cups. Arrangements of the flowers and greenery were used throughout the room.

Mrs. Christian received her guests wearing a long gown of petal pink chiffon with shirred draped bodice and floating side panel. She wore a coif of shaded pink chiffon blossoms, formal length gloves and a corsage of miniature green orchids. Mrs. Chumney, mother of the groom, wore a full length gown of meadow green crepe with a band of silver and gold bugle beads defining the waist and outlining the short sleeves. Her hat was of matching green crepe petals and her corsage was of bronze and gold tones. Mrs. Stubbs, grandmother of the groom, chose a gown of Dresden blue chiffon with jacket of re-embroidered French lace, a matching jeweled hat and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

After a wedding trip to Mexico City and Acapulco the couple will be at home in San Antonio, Texas. For traveling the bride wore a silk ensemble comprising a mint green A-line dress accented with jeweled neckline outlined in Wedgewood blue, and topped by a matching blue coat with flounced hemline and flared back. Her hat was a printed velvet turban in the tones of her costume.

Attending from Monroe in addition to the groom's grandmother were Mr. and Mrs. King Stubbs and Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Huey.

Buckles, Tongues Give High Rise Look To Shoes

With the youth kick still riding high, we see more and more man-tailored shoes, new shapes and cutouts, hardware treatments, laces and more laces, mules for after-five and at-home straps — ankle, vamp, instep and T's, more buckles and bows.

The high-rise look manifests itself in over-sized tongues, cockades and buckles riding high over the instep — toplines and throats covering more of the foot.

Squares are in the picture, but they're more rounded off.

MRS. GILBERT DEL BRAGG

Beverly McMillon, Gilbert Bragg Wed In Home Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Beverly Ann McMillon and Gilbert Del Bragg was solemnized Saturday, September 17 in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Stuckey, Monroe. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Herschell R. Bragg, also of this city.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Norman G. McMillon, was wearing a white linen suit featuring a fitted cutaway jacket with collar and long sleeves of white cotton lace. Her short veil was held in place by a lace-covered pillbox hat. She carried a bouquet of white orchids, surrounded by pale yellow carnations atop a white Bible.

Miss Melba Medaries served as maid of honor and only attendant. She was wearing a dress of yellow crepe and carried an arrangement of three yellow carnations with yellow streamers.

Danny Bragg attended his brother as best man.

Rev. Roy Myers performed the double ring ceremony beneath an arch entwined with greenery interspersed with roses.

A reception was held in the home following the exchange of vows. The bride's table was covered with a white damask cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums and greenery. Punch was served from one end with the bride's cake and coffee service opposite.

The couple will be at home in Monroe.

Your Problems

To Avoid Obligations Do Not Accept Favors

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am 22, married for two years and have a little girl. Both my husband and I work. We each drive our own car. I don't know if the trouble is me, my folks or my car. Anyway, it's getting me down and I need help.

Because I am working I don't have time to do my housework and marketing and many things most women do. My mother helps me a lot. My sister babysits whenever I need her. We are a very close family.

Almost every evening my mother or sister phones and asks me to drive one of them someplace. I usually have to take them home, too. My husband is getting annoyed with these calls and has told me to say no. He says I work all day and should not be expected to drive them around at night.

I want to please my husband but I also feel I should help out my family since they help me. What is your advice? — MRS. ??

Dear Mrs.: So long as you accept favors you are obliged to repay them. My advice is to hire help or stay home and do your own work and leave your relatives alone. Then you can say no without feeling guilty, and you will also be able to keep the peace with your husband, which should be your major concern.

V. Vinson, president; Mrs. Joe Zarro, second vice-president and Miss Marie Smith, treasurer.

Credit Women's Club Uses Keys For Installation Theme

Annual installation of officers for the 1966-67 year was held by the Credit Women's Breakfast club Monday night at Julia Wossman Reacreation Center.

Bud Slaughter from the Credit Bureau, officiated as installing officer using Keys as the theme for the ceremony. A key was presented to each new officer symbolizing the duty of the office each was elected to hold for the coming year.

The Key of Trust was presented to the treasurer, Miss Marie Smith; the Key of Harmony to the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Angie Bruscato; the Key of Faithfulness to the secretary, Mrs. Glynn DeLaSalle; the Key of Promotion to the third vice-president, Mrs. Victor Guirlando; the Key of Growth to the second vice-president, Mrs. Joe Zarro; the Key of Intellect to the first vice-president, Mrs. Virginia Evers; the Key of Cooperation to the newest member, Miss Mildred Darden and a key representing a combination of all these duties to the new president, Mrs. A. V. Vinson.

Following the installation Mrs. Vinson presented the outgoing president, Miss Anita Cingolani with a charm in appreciation of her services for the past year. Miss Cingolani then presented the president's gavel to Mrs. Vinson.

Miss Cingolani also presented an engraved silver bowl to Miss Marie Smith as a remembrance of her title of Credit Woman of the Year in Louisiana for 1965. Concluding the ceremonies was the presentation of a leather brief case as a gift to the club by Miss Cingolani.

Covered with a white cloth the refreshment table was centered with a blue floral arrangement, flanked by blue candles.

Refreshments were served to Mr. Slaughter, Miss Smith, Mrs. Vinson, Mrs. Mildred White, Mrs. Beulah Ryland, Miss Jean Hall, Mrs. Charlotte Crawford, Mrs. Pat McClendon, Mrs. Evelyn Neal, Miss Patsy Johnson, Mrs. Lou Webb, Mrs. Zarro, Miss Mildred Darden, Mrs. Bobbie Byrd, Mrs. Mary Doerner, Mrs. Jerry Moore and Mrs. Evers.

Constitution Week Observed By Chief Tusquahoma DAR

In observance of Constitution Week, Chief Tusquahoma Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, had as guest speaker for the occasion, the Rev. E. W. Sandel, pastor of Claiborne Methodist Church. Introduced by Mrs. D. C. Brothers, program chairman, Rev. Sandel gave a brief history of the "Constitutional Convention," notes taken from a 4½ months course on the "History of the Constitution" under direction of Dr. John Loos, Head of the Department of History at L.S.U.

At the meeting held Saturday, September 17 at Highland Park Country Club, the regent, Mrs. Joseph B. Landreaux, welcomed the Rev. and Mrs. Sandel, Miss Happy McDonald, Mrs. W. M. Parks and Mrs. T. L. Gaddis as guests for the first meeting of the new club year. Miss Katie McGee, first vice regent, gave the president general's message.

Miss Lenee Lacey, secretary, read an invitation from Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society, Children of the American Revolution, to attend their silver tea in the home of Mrs. James W. Moore, 2711 Pargoud Boulevard. Miss Lacey also gave an account of the recent board meeting of the chapter.

A report on Constitution Week was given by Mrs. C. G. Wall Jr., chairman, who thanked members for their support, and invited them to see the many displays at schools, library, and business firms. Members were urged to display their flags during the observance.

Mrs. Landreaux announced that the name of Mrs. Belle D. Cathey, mother of Mrs. Doris Carmichael, will be placed on the chapter's memorial book at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Mrs. Cathey's death occurred September 16.

Mrs. James McGuire announced that a letter had been received from Kate Duncan Smith School in reply for the 158 pounds of clothing sent in July. Mrs. Donald Cannon reported that 62 pounds of clothing was sent this week to the Louisiana Indians at Elton, and reminded members to save old discarded jewelry for the Indian school project.

New year books were issued by Mrs. Brothers, with the national theme being "Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only." — James 1:22.

It was announced that the local C.A.R. would present the program on the Flag at the October 15 meeting, and each member was reminded to bring coupons which are presented to the society each month. These in turn are sent to the mountain schools by the C.A.R. Society.

The chapter voted to help West Monroe high school in defraying expenses of sending delegates to Pelican Girls State.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. J. C. Stewart, Mrs. Carter Cozine, Miss Lenee Lacey, Miss Katherine Averett, Miss Mary Louise Ellis, Mrs. Warren B. McGee, Mrs. Francis J. Ortis, Mrs. J. E. Dupuy Jr. and Mrs. Vaughn T. Watson.

Each place was marked with words of "The American's Creed," "The Preamble of the Constitution of the United States," "Pledge of Allegiance" and stickers for Constitution Week — September 17-23.

The head table was centered with an arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums and daisies. A salad course was served to members present including: Mrs. D. C. Brothers, Mrs. Joseph B. Landreaux, Miss Katie McGee, Mrs. H. C. Ervin, Mrs. V. O. Allen, Mrs. Malda Hedgepeth, Mrs. Faye Heard, Mrs. J. A. Rainbolt, Mrs. J. O. Miller, Mrs. J. Frank Jones, Mrs. J. L. Norris, Mrs. James L. McGuire, Mrs. R. E. Harrell, Mrs. Jeff W. Caldwell, Mrs. Maurice Lindsay, Mrs. Rudolph Farrar, Mrs. Herman M. McGuire, Mrs. Archie L. Dickerson, Mrs. Jack Willis, Mrs. H. C. Mize, and the guests, Rev. and Mrs. Sandel, Miss McDonald, Mrs. Parks and Mrs. Gaddis.

Fike-Harper Wedding Vows Exchanged In Autumn Setting

An arch of seven-branched wrought iron candelabra entwined with Southern smilax and holding yellow tapers flanked by fan shaped arrangements of bronze chrysanthemums formed an autumn setting in Monroe Church of God Tuesday, September 20 for the wedding of Miss Donna Harper and A. Terrell Fike Jr.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Harper, 1103 S. Third, and Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Fike Sr., Milhaven Road, Monroe.

The double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. was performed by Rev. Jerry R. Young of Slaton, Texas, brother-in-law of the bride, and Rev. James W. Miller, pastor of the church. Nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Delbert R. Anderson, sister of the bride, organist and David Whitman, soloist.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie styled with lily point sleeves and attached chapel train. The scoop neckline and front of the skirt were appliqued with Alencon lace. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion, bordered with scalloped lace, was held in place by a petal headpiece of lace, sequins and pearls. She carried a white Bible crested with a cluster of stephanotis and ribbon streamers centered with a purple throated white orchid.

Carrying out the autumn shades were the dresses and bouquests of the bride's attendants, Miss Sheryl Fike, sister of the groom, as maid of honor; Mrs. Michael Landrum, matron of honor, Miss Sheila McGough and Miss Alice Smith, bridesmaids. Their floor length gowns of autumn gold peau de soie featured fitted bodices of gold Alencon lace. Gold tulle veils anchored by two gold silk roses formed their headpieces and they carried nosegays of bronze chrysanthemums.

Flower girl, Miss Pamela Sue Anderson, niece of the bride, wore a gown similar to those of the bridesmaids and carried a basket of feathered bronze chrysanthemums. Michael Ray Young, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Mr. Fike attended his son as best man and groomsmen-ushers were Wiley Clement, Lawrence Levon Harper, D. W. Waldrop and D. R. Anderson.

For her daughter's wedding and reception which followed in Benoit Recreation Center, Mrs. Harper was wearing a dress of cranberry crepe with beige accessories and a cymbidium orchid corsage. The groom's mother chose a navy blue dress and jacket ensemble of bonded crepe with navy hat and a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Draped with a floor length white satin cloth, overlaid with white net, the bride's table was centered with the bridesmaids' bouquets with the crystal bowl of gold punch and the tiered wedding cake at either end. Also covered in white satin the guest book table held a memory candle based with the bride's bouquet.

Mrs. Lawrence Levon Harper presided at the guest book table and Mrs. Jerry Young, sister of the bride, served the cake. Alternating at the punch bowl were Mrs. Jerry Harrell, aunt of the groom and Mrs. Richard Doane, sister of the bride. Tea girls were Misses Sharon Anderson, Sandy Hobgood and Sandra Harper.

When the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride was wearing a beige knit suit with beige and avocado accessories. Mr. Fike is scheduled to leave within a few weeks for an overseas assignment with the U.S. Air Force. Both were graduated from Ouachita Parish high school and he attended Northeast Louisiana State College before entering service.

Slant Sunshade On Exposed Patio For More Privacy

Is your deck or patio exposed to view from a neighboring house that's on higher ground than yours? A privacy fence alone won't solve this problem, but often a sunshade will do wonders to block the view.

To make it work, build the sunshade with a slanting roof, tilting it down toward the neighbors and up on your side. That way, you can add three feet or more to the height of a privacy screen, which is usually held to six feet.

Some building codes, however, may require that this type of structure be moved in five feet or more from the property line. But that, too, could be an asset, placing the privacy sunshade and screen closer to the outdoor living area, where it's needed.

FORTHCOMING MARRIAGE of Miss Joyce Kelly and Nathan Dollar is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kelly of Monroe. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dollar of West Monroe. The wedding will be an event of October 8.

EASY TO MANEUVER

Kingsize mattress sets come in three pieces, to make delivery easy. Two twin size boxsprings are used with a single kingsize mattress that covers both boxsprings. A single rigid boxspring would not fit through doorways. Innerspring mattresses are fairly rigid, so many kingsize mattresses are made of latex foam rubber, which can be bent double or even rolled up to go through tight spots without suffering damage.

Credit Women's Club Uses Keys For Installation Theme

Annual installation of officers for the 1966-67 year was held by the Credit Women's Breakfast club Monday night at Julia Wossman Reacreation Center.

Bud Slaughter from the Credit Bureau, officiated as installing officer using Keys as the theme for the ceremony. A key was presented to each new officer symbolizing the duty of the office each was elected to hold for the coming year.

The Key of Trust was presented to the treasurer, Miss Marie Smith; the Key of Harmony to the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Angie Bruscato; the Key of Faithfulness to the secretary, Mrs. Glynn DeLaSalle; the Key of Promotion to the third vice-president, Mrs. Victor Guirlando; the Key of Growth to the second vice-president, Mrs. Joe Zarro; the Key of Intellect to the first vice-president, Mrs. Virginia Evers; the Key of Cooperation to the newest member, Miss Mildred Darden and a key representing a combination of all these duties to the new president, Mrs. A. V. Vinson.

Following the installation Mrs. Vinson presented the outgoing president, Miss Anita Cingolani with a charm in appreciation of her services for the past year. Miss Cingolani then presented the president's gavel to Mrs. Vinson.

Miss Cingolani also presented an engraved silver bowl to Miss Marie Smith as a remembrance of her title of Credit Woman of the Year in Louisiana for 1965. Concluding the ceremonies was the presentation of a leather brief case as a gift to the club by Miss Cingolani.

Covered with a white cloth the refreshment table was centered with a blue floral arrangement, flanked by blue candles.

Refreshments were served to Mr. Slaughter, Miss Smith, Mrs. Vinson, Mrs. Mildred White, Mrs. Bruscato, Mrs. Guirlando, Mrs. Teddy Adams, Mis Cingolani, Mrs. DeLaSalle; Mrs. Linda Scott, Mrs. Jewel Moore, Mrs. Beulah Ryland, Miss Jean Hall, Mrs. Charlotte Crawford, Mrs. Pat McClendon, Mrs. Evelyn Neal, Miss Patsy Johnson, Mrs. Lou Webb, Mrs. Zarro, Miss Mildred Darden, Mrs. Bobbie Byrd, Mrs. Mary Doerner, Mrs. Jerry Moore and Mrs. Evers.

Constitution Week Observed By Chief Tusquahoma DAR

In observance of Constitution Week, Chief Tusquahoma Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, had as guest speaker for the occasion, the Rev. E. W. Sandel, pastor of Claiborne Methodist Church. Introduced by Mrs. D. C. Brothers, program chairman, Rev. Sandel gave a brief history of the "Constitutional Convention," notes taken from a 4½ months course on the "History of the Constitution" under direction of Dr. John Loos, Head of the Department of History at L.S.U.

At the meeting held Saturday, September 17 at Highland Park Country Club, the regent, Mrs. Joseph B. Landreaux, welcomed the Rev. and Mrs. Sandel, Miss Happy McDonald, Mrs. W. M. Parks and Mrs. T L Gaddis as guests for the first meeting of the new club year. Miss Katie McGee, first vice regent, gave the president general's message.

Miss Lenee Lacey, secretary, read an invitation from Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society, Children of the American Revolution, to attend their silver tea in the home of Mrs. James W. Moore, 2711 Pargoud Boulevard. Miss Lacey also gave an account of the recent board meeting of the chapter.

A report on Constitution Week was given by Mrs. C. G. Wall Jr., chairman, who thanked members for their support, and invited them to see the many displays at schools, library, and business firms. Members were urged to display their flags during the observance.

Mrs. Landreaux announced that the name of Mrs. Belle D. Cathey, mother of Mrs. Doris Carmichael, will be placed on the chapter's memorial book at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Mrs. Cathey's death occurred September 16.

Mrs. James McGuire announced that a letter had been received from Kate Duncan Smith School in reply for the 158 pounds of clothing sent in July. Mrs. Donald Cannon reported that 62 pounds of clothing was sent this week to the Louisiana Indians at Elton, and reminded members to save old discarded jewelry for the Indian school project.

New year books were issued by Mrs. Brothers, with the national theme being "Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only." — James 1:22.

It was announced that the local C.A.R. would present the program on the Flag at the October 15 meeting, and each member was reminded to bring coupons which are presented to the society each month. These in turn are sent to the mountain schools by the C.A.R. Society.

The chapter voted to help West Monroe high school in defraying expenses of sending delegates to Pelican Girls State.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. J. C. Stewart, Mrs. Carter Cozine, Miss Lenee Lacey, Miss Katherine Averett, Miss Mary Louise Ellis, Mrs. Warren B. McGee, Mrs. Francis J. Ortis, Mrs. J. E. Dupuy Jr. and Mrs. Vaughn T. Watson.

Each place was marked with words of "The American's Creed," "The Preamble of the Constitution of the United States," "Pledge of Allegiance" and stickers for Constitution Week — September 17-23.

The head table was centered with an arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums and daisies. A salad course was served to members present including: Mrs. D. C. Brothers, Mrs. Joseph B. Landreaux, Miss Katie McGee, Mrs. H. C. Ervin, Mrs. V. O. Allen, Mrs. Malda Hedgepeth, Mrs. Faye Heard, Mrs. J. A. Rainbolt, Mrs. J. O. Miller, Mrs. J. Frank Jones, Mrs. J. L. Norris, Mrs. James L. McGuire, Mrs. R. E. Harrell, Mrs. Jeff W. Caldwell, Mrs. Maurice Lindsay, Mrs. Rudolph Farrar, Mrs. Herman M. McGuire, Mrs. Archie L. Dickerson, Mrs. Jack Willis, Mrs. H. C. Mize, and the guests, Rev. and Mrs. Sandel, Miss McDonald, Mrs. Parks and Mrs. Gaddis.

Fike-Harper Wedding Vows Exchanged In Autumn Setting

An arch of seven-branched wrought iron candelabra entwined with Southern smilax and holding yellow tapers flanked by fan shaped arrangements of bronze chrysanthemums formed an autumn setting in Monroe Church of God Tuesday, September 20 for the wedding of Miss Donna Harper and A. Terrell Fike Jr.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Harper, 1103 S. Third, and Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Fike Sr., Milhaven Road, Monroe.

The double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. was performed by Rev. Jerry R. Young of Slaton, Texas, brother-in-law of the bride, and Rev. James W. Miller, pastor of the church. Nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Delbert R. Anderson, sister of the bride, organist and David Whitman, soloist.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie styled with lily point sleeves and attached chapel train. The scoop neckline and front of the skirt were appliqued with Alencon lace. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion, bordered with scalloped lace, was held in place by a petal headpiece of lace, sequins and pearls. She carried a white Bible crested with a cluster of stephanotis and ribbon streamers centered with a purple throated white orchid.

Carrying out the autumn shades were the dresses and bouquests of the bride's attendants, Miss Sheryl Fike, sister of the groom, as maid of honor; Mrs. Michael Landrum, matron of honor, Miss Sheila McGough and Miss Alice Smith, bridesmaids. Their floor length gowns of autumn gold peau de soie featured fitted bodices of gold Alencon lace. Gold tulle veils anchored by two gold silk roses formed their headpieces and they carried nosegays of bronze chrysanthemums.

Flower girl, Miss Pamela Sue Anderson, niece of the bride, wore a gown similar to those of the bridesmaids and carried a basket of feathered bronze chrysanthemums. Michael Ray Young, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Mr. Fike attended his son as best man and groomsmen-ushers were Wiley Clement, Lawrence Levon Harper, D. W. Waldrop and D. R. Anderson.

For her daughter's wedding and reception which followed in Benoit Recreation Center, Mrs. Harper was wearing a dress of cranberry crepe with beige accessories and a cymbidium orchid corsage. The groom's mother chose a navy blue dress and jacket ensemble of bonded crepe with navy hat and a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Draped with a floor length white satin cloth, overlaid with white net, the bride's table was centered with the bridesmaids' bouquets with the crystal bowl of gold punch and the tiered wedding cake at either end. Also covered in white satin the guest book table held a memory candle based with the bride's bouquet.

Mrs. Lawrence Levon Harper presided at the guest book table and Mrs. Jerry Young, sister of the bride, served the cake. Alternating at the punch bowl were Mrs. Jerry Harrell, aunt of the groom and Mrs. Richard Doane, sister of the bride. Tea girls were Misses Sharon Anderson, Sandy Hobgood and Sandra Harper.

When the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride was wearing a beige knit suit with beige and avocado accessories. Mr. Fike is scheduled to leave within a few weeks for an overseas assignment with the U.S. Air Force. Both were graduated from Ouachita Parish high school and he attended Northeast Louisiana State College before entering service.

Slant Sunshade On Exposed Patio For More Privacy

Is your deck or patio exposed to view from a neighboring house that's on higher ground than yours? A privacy fence alone won't solve this problem, but often a sunshade will do wonders to block the view.

To make it work, build the sunshade with a slanting roof, tilting it down toward the neighbors and up on your side. That way, you can add three feet or more to the height of a privacy screen, which is usually held to six feet.

Some building codes, however, may require that this type of structure be moved in five feet or more from the property line. But that, too, could be an asset, placing the privacy sunshade and screen closer to the outdoor living area, where it's needed.

FORTHCOMING MARRIAGE of Miss Joyce Kelly and Nathan Dollar is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kelly of Monroe. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dollar of West Monroe. The wedding will be an event of October 8.

EASY TO MANEUVER

Kingsize mattress sets come in three pieces, to make delivery easy. Two twin size boxsprings are used with a single kingsize mattress that covers both boxsprings. A single rigid boxspring would not fit through doorways. Innerspring mattresses are fairly rigid, so many kingsize mattresses are made of latex foam rubber, which can be bent double or even rolled up to go through tight spots without suffering damage.

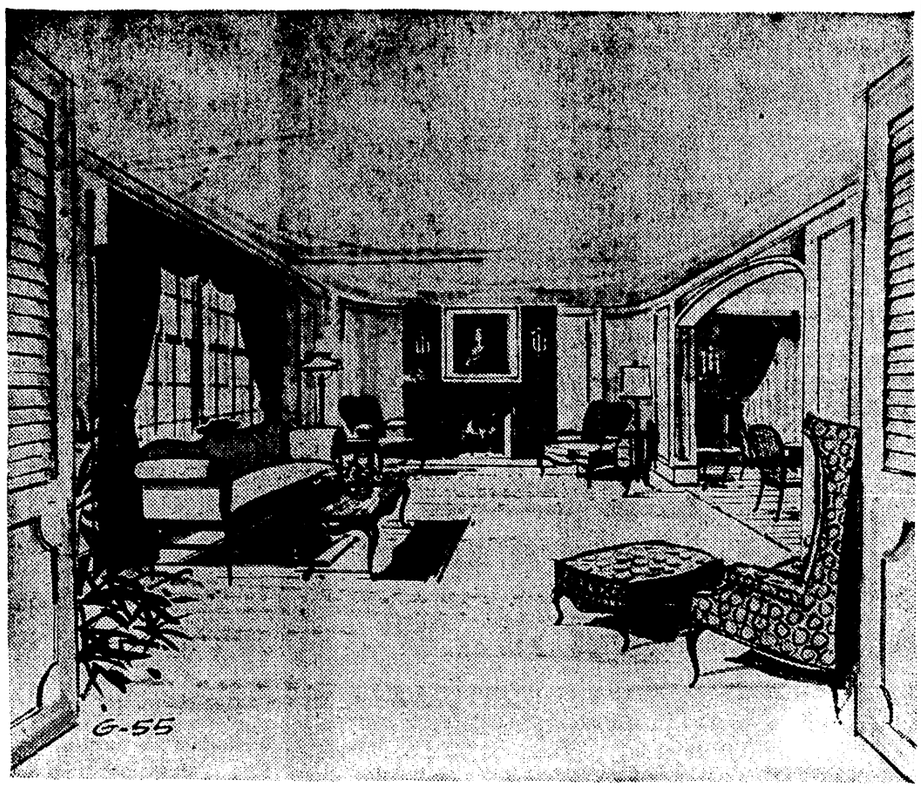
FRENCH PROVINCIAL: This type of house style, derived from a native French design, has held its popularity throughout the years because it has a special kind of elegance about it; the mansard roof design permits more spacious sleeping accommodations upstairs.



COMING BACK to its own in some American homes is the formal old-fashioned parlor, included in House of the Week's Design G-55. Note interesting rounded room corners.

Elegant Parlor Is Featured In French Provincial House

By ANDY LANG

A newspaper editor suggested to architect Herman H. York that, since the parlor is again becoming a focal point in some American homes, he should consider the design of a house incorporating one.

Such a room should be smaller than a conventional living room. It should be warm, intimate and have the appearance of having been "lived in." It should be furnished with any heirlooms, furnishings or paintings in which the owner may take particular pride. It should, in short, be a room in which to entertain guests who may be visiting the house for the first time, and who may be regarded as one step removed from the circle of family friends. The parlor, because of its formal, elegant appearance, flatters such guests because it gives them the feeling of being received in "the best room in the house."

A full study of this architect - designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe-Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan G-55.

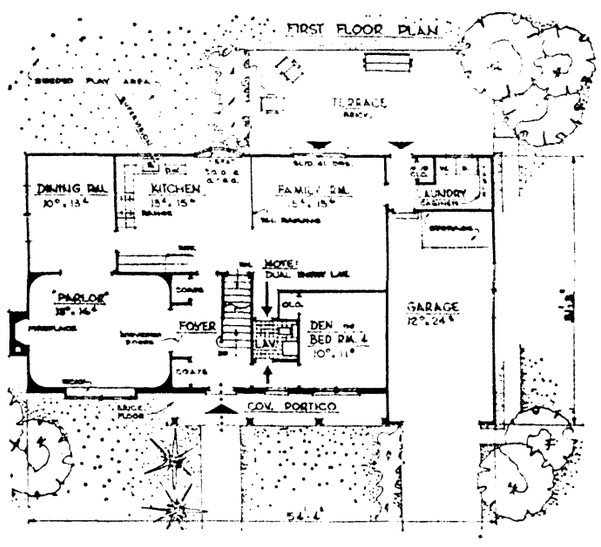
SPECIAL ROOM

In this three-bedroom, two-story French Provincial, York has incorporated such a room, smaller than the conventional family room and designed to include those architectural devices which contribute to the kind of entertaining described above.

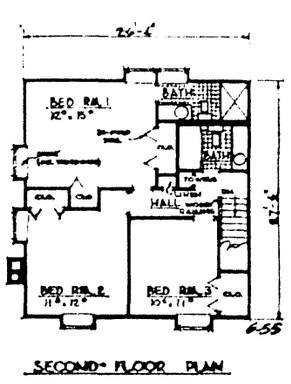
Here we find a small fireplace with a simple, paneled mantel on a direct sight line from the foyer. At the opening of this foyer are two louvered doors. Between the parlor and the dining room is a heavy arched opening framed in wood. The window seat is crowned by a valance on which to hang both curtains and drapes.

One refinement can be seen in the rounded corners of the room, giving added character in traditional detail. Applied wood mouldings can be used on the walls to resemble the style so prevalent in earlier days.

The balance of the house has a well-planned circulation pattern. From the covered front entrance portico, the foyer presents two coat closets and an open stair rail to the second floor. Somewhat unusual is the lavatory which serves both the front hall, den or family room, thus providing for visitors, overnight guests or family.



FLOOR PLANS: An excellent example of a first-rate circulation pattern, with foyer as hub of the traffic plan. Location of lavatory is unusual and makes it easily accessible to guests as well as family. Formal parlor has fireplace, louvered doors, window seat and rounded corners.



CONTROL CENTER

To the rear, the kitchen is the control center, serving the dining room, family room, living room and rear private terrace. A bow window provides a pleasant view from the eating table space to the rear yard. The kitchen is in an open-plan arrangement with the family room yet kept separate by a wrought iron railing. An over-all length of 31' makes for an air of spaciousness. Sliding glass doors in the family room give direct access to the outdoor dining and lounging terrace.

The laundry and the mud closet are between the service area and the garage. An extra rear door makes for convenient outdoor drying of clothes when desired. The one-car garage is over 4' deeper and 2' wider than standard garages, giving ample room for power equipment and garden tools.

UPSTAIRS

There are three bedrooms and two baths upstairs, making a total possibility of four separate sleeping quarters if the downstairs den is utilized. Interesting window seats are in all upstairs bedrooms, made possible by the mansard roof of the French Provincial exterior design. This type of roof eliminates the highly-slanted walls that characterize and cut down space in many upstairs bedrooms.

Garden Center Notes

Bluebirds Gain Backers

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Fifth District Garden Center program was presented last Wednesday by one of our most talented garden club members of the 5th District, Mrs. Paul Bourg, of Jonesoro-Hodge Garden Club.

Mrs. Bourg, a resident of Hodge, is accomplished in many things, that of teaching in flower show schools, L.G.C.F. accredited judging, lecturing to clubs on flower arranging and, one dear to her heart, filling the position of Louisiana Garden Club Federation bird chairman.

On the last we take our subject for today's column. The program presented by Mrs. Bourg last Wednesday touched on the broad subject of "Birds," their importance to us, their beauty, and our responsibility in caring for them. Conserving our natural resources is our personal duty, and, we know that our bluebirds, among others, are important to protect and entice into our surroundings.

FEEDERS, HOUSES

Mrs. Bourg showed many feeders and bird houses that we as individuals could place in our own yards or encourage home owners to install. The "Bluebirds Unlimited" project of the Grand Rapides Audubon Club was explained by Mrs. Bourg. This is a conservation program that is starting it's fourth year of operation. Over 3,500 brochures were sent on request in 1965. In three years 5,000 houses have been distributed, and unlimited number have been built from directions given in the brochure. We learned from her that the Audubon Club will print 4,000 of the new 1966 brochures for free distribution and increase the size to 10 pages. Two pages will be devoted to the purple martins. It is estimated that an average of one young bluebird is fledged from each house erected, and at the rate we are going there will soon be an annual migration of 10,000 young bluebirds from Michigan each fall. This will increase, of course, annually with hundreds of dedicated conservationists telling of this success in helping to re-establish this wonderful bird. Mrs. Bourg gave a plea to scoutmasters and other leaders of young people's groups as well as garden clubbers and woman's organizations to take this erecting of bird houses as a project. If you cannot take this on and know of such a group the Grand Rapids Audubon Club would appreciate the name of the group leader it can send a free brochure. Many are already dedicated in this endeavor, such as scoutmaster Bill Prichard and his troop 29, of Leland and Lake Leelanau, Mich. For 16 years this troop has won every conceivable state and national award. They have made Leelanau the bluebird capitol of Michigan.

EXTENSION THREAT

The bluebird, of the thrush family, is in danger of becoming extinct if we don't lend a helping hand. The main problem is lack of nesting boxes. Thus, the placing of nesting boxes, well designed and well placed across the country may with luck bring back the vanishing species.

Like the bluebird, the purple martin, largest of the swallow family, is now almost totally dependent upon man for a home. Mrs. Bourg gave a plea for this bird, also. The value of this bird to us is unlimited. It is our best mosquitoe exterminator. The adult male consumes 2,000 daily. Think about this a minute. What does this mean to us? It is so important to know how to erect their houses. We were told that the compartments should be 6"x6"x6" with an opening 2⅛-inches in diameter. The martins arrive here in mid-January. So we must erect the houses early. These birds are subject to mites, so put one tablespoon of dusting sulphur on the floor of each compartment in early spring just before the birds arrive to control poultry mites. This amount (no more) is safe and effective.

Directions for birdhouses have been left in the Fifth District Garden Center as well as a source for already until houses. The address for "Bluebirds Unlimited" is: 1966 Brouchure, Grand Rapids Audubon Club, 54 Jefferson S.E., Grand Rapids, Mich. 49502. Send a stamped, self addressed envelope for convenience for this free brochure.

Wednesday: The Bayou Vista Garden Club, with its president, Mrs. James A. Easterling, will present the program for the Fifth District Garden Center.

Time To Make Compost Heap

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

Mrs. Gardener our trees are beginning to drop their leaves, and it's time to make that compost heap. Those leaves are valuable, so don't burn them or pile them up on the street to be hauled off.

Make the compost pile in a non-conspicuous area of the yard. Use leaves, grass clippings and other vegetative waste. Sprinkle a complete fertilizer occasionally as vegetation is added. Keep the compost moist to hasten decomposition.

October is bulb planting time if we want spring bloom. So now is the time to make plans. Good drainage is essential. The depth of planting depends on soil. A general rule is to cover the crown at least 1½ times the depth of the greatest diameter of the bulb. Bulbs planted too shallow will be affected by frequent temperature changes while bulbs planted too deep will fail to bloom.

ORDER BULBS NOW

Talk to your nurserymen or seed dealers and order your bulbs now. Daffodils, narcissis, jonquils, and snowflakes should be planted in October or early November.

If you, Mrs. Gardener, have a wisteria, that failed to bloom, you should root prune the plant in October. Cut through the roots with a spade in a circle about 30 to 40 inches from the main stem.

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, have some lovely potted plants, be sure to get them ready to enter in our Ouachita Valley Fair Oct. 10. You may enter coleous; begonias (small and large leaf variety); geraniums; asparagus fern; Boston fern; rubber plant; wandering jew, small or large leaf; ivys; philodendron; large and small cactus; Christmas cactus; ornamental pepper; caladium; African violet; potted blooming chrysanthemums and many others. These plants must be entered by 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 10 and please, these potted plants must be small enough for ladies to handle.

There will, also be a class of cut flowers which includes: Dahlais, three blossoms; miniature dahlias, (three blossoms), roses (three blossoms) small; marigolds (small, three blossoms); zinnias (small, three blossoms); and large three blossoms; Celosia (three blossoms) celosia (three blossoms plum or feather); roses (three blossoms other variety). I will see you at the fair grounds October 10.

Do you, Mrs. Homemaker, know how much work buys an automatic washer. We American women take the automatic washer for granted, in fact, most homemakers here wouldn't know what to do without them. But there are countries where any washer can be counted a luxury. The average European must work from two to almost five times as many hours as a worker in our U. S. must work to earn the price of a new washing machine. We are lucky to be American homemakers, aren't we?

FREEZING SWEET POTATOES

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, want to freeze some sweet potatoes, then follow these directions: Choose medium to large mature sweet potatoes that have cured, sort according to size and wash, cook them until almost tender in water, in steam, in a pressure cooker, or in the oven. Let the sweet potatoes stand at room temperature until cool. Peel them, then cut in halves, slice or mash. To prevent darkening, dip whole or sliced sweet potatoes for five seconds in a solution of one tablespoon citric acid or one half cup lemon juice to one quart of water.

To keep mashed sweet potatoes from darkening, mix two tablespoons of orange or lemon juice with each quart of mashed sweet potatoes.

SOUND NUTRITION

Do you, Mrs. Homemaker, confuse sound nutrition with a daily diet of vitamin - mineral pills or strange foods? For the average person, in good health, can get all the nutritions needed from a regular well-balanced diet. See to it that your daily diet includes foods from each of the four food groups, namely: vegetable, fruit, meat, milk and bread-cereal.

If you are overweight, don't fall for a formula that promises you a slim, trim figure without dieting or calorie counting to reduce, you must consume fewer calories than you use up in daily living. That's the only magic formula.

Pink Crape Fills Need

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

After some 20 years, the beautiful bright light pink crape myrtle sold as Near East has established itself as the most important flowering shrub or tree introduced to southern gardens in half a century.

This gorgeous plant filled a real gap in the colors of crape myrtles. It was always hard to get a bright but light pink. Most pinks ran to near reds, and there were no really soft ones to be had except one that is an "off-shade." With the advent of Near East, however, we have a shrub with huge trusses of lively light pink produced in an unbelievable bounty all over the bush.

SPECIES CROSS

Near East is said to be a cross between Queen's crape myrtle and our common one. Queen's crape myrtle is not hardy enough to live out of doors much above the tropics, but when the cross occurred with our common one, the progeny got some hardiness from its commoner parent.

In the cold sections of the south — even in the upper Coastal belts — Near East may get killed back a little each year. During the past few extreme winters, gardeners found Near East cut back considerably when spring came around. After enough seasons have passed for this shrub to accumulate woody stems as big as your thumb Near East will rapidly grow into a very large shrub. Since it is pruned back annually by the winters, it will take it some time to become a small tree in the colder sections. Even in tree form, it is such a lavish grower that it will always look like a giant pile of pink suds.

MORE COLORS

As we have mentioned in the column before, if some garden club of individuals would plant seeds from crape myrtles inside in winter and raise them from seed, we would soon have some more colors in this beautiful little tree. The seeds are not hardy enough to live and come up out of doors by themselves but will grow easily in a greenhouse in winter.

Most of our landscapes call for more white crape myrtles. All of the colors would show up much better than they do if white were added to them.

FRENCH PROVINCIAL: This type of house style, derived from a native French design, has held its popularity throughout the years because it has a special kind of elegance about it; the mansard roof design permits more spacious sleeping accommodations upstairs.

COMING BACK to its own in some American homes is the formal old-fashioned parlor, included in House of the Week's Design G-55. Note interesting rounded room corners.

Elegant Parlor Is Featured In French Provincial House

By ANDY LANG

A newspaper editor suggested to architect Herman H. York that, since the parlor is again becoming a focal point in some American homes, he should consider the design of a house incorporating one.

Such a room should be smaller than a conventional living room. It should be warm, intimate and have the appearance of having been "lived in." It should be furnished with any heirlooms, furnishings or paintings in which the owner may take particular pride. It should, in short, be a room in which to entertain guests who may be visiting the house for the first time, and who may be regarded as one step removed from the circle of family friends. The parlor, because of its formal, elegant appearance, flatters such guests because it gives them the feeling of being received in "the best room in the house."

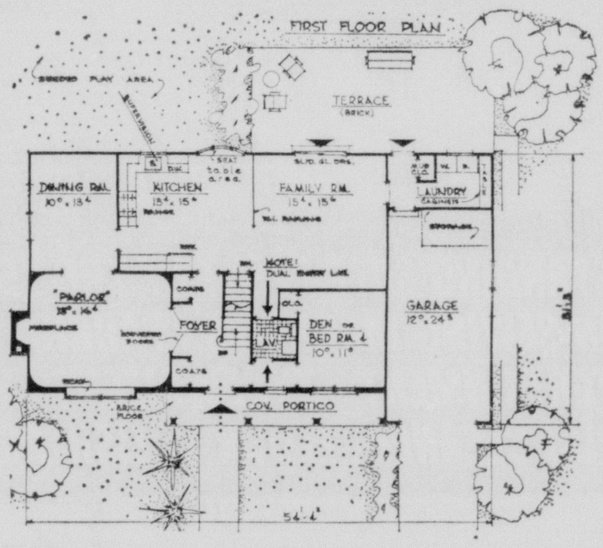
SPECIAL ROOM

In this three-bedroom, two-story French Provincial, York has incorporated such a room, smaller than the conventional family room and designed to include those architectural devices which contribute to the kind of entertaining described above.

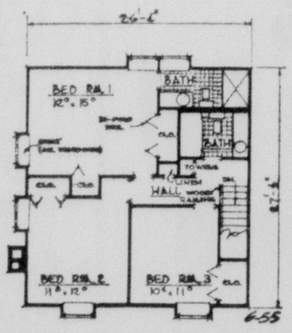
Here we find a small fireplace with a simple, paneled mantel on a direct sight line from the foyer. At the opening of this foyer are two louvered doors. Between the parlor and the dining room is a heavy arched opening framed in wood. The window seat is crowned by a valance on which to hang both curtains and drapes.

One refinement can be seen in the rounded corners of the room, giving added character in traditional detail. Applied wood mouldings can be used on the walls to resemble the style so prevalent in earlier days.

The balance of the house has a well-planned circulation pattern. From the covered front entrance portico, the foyer presents two coat closets and an open stair rail to the second floor. Somewhat unusual is the lavatory which serves both the front hall, den or family room, thus providing for visitors, overnight guests or family.



FLOOR PLANS: An excellent example of a first-rate circulation pattern, with foyer as hub of the traffic plan. Location of lavatory is unusual and makes it easily accessible to guests as well as family. Formal parlor has fireplace, louvered doors, window seat and rounded corners.



CONTROL CENTER

To the rear, the kitchen is the control center, serving the dining room, family room, living room and rear private terrace. A bow window provides a pleasant view from the eating table space to the rear yard. The kitchen is in an open-plan arrangement with the family room yet kept separate by a wrought iron railing. An over-all length of 31' makes for an air of spaciousness. Sliding glass doors in the family room give direct access to the outdoor dining and lounging terrace.

The laundry and the mud closet are between the service area and the garage. An extra rear door makes for convenient outdoor drying of clothes when desired. The one-car garage is over 4' deeper and 2' wider than standard garages, giving ample room for power equipment and garden tools.

UPSTAIRS

There are three bedrooms and two baths upstairs, making a total possibility of four separate sleeping quarters if the downstairs den is utilized. Interesting window seats are in all upstairs bedrooms, made possible by the mansard roof of the French Provincial exterior design. This type of roof eliminates the highly-slanted walls that characterize and cut down space in many upstairs bedrooms.

Garden Center Notes

Bluebirds Gain Backers

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Fifth District Garden Center program was presented last Wednesday by one of our most talented garden club members of the 5th District, Mrs. Paul Bourg, of Jonesoro-Hodge Garden Club.

Mrs. Bourg, a resident of Hodge, is accomplished in many things, that of teaching in flower show schools, L.G.C.F. accredited judging, lecturing to clubs on flower arranging and, one dear to her heart, filling the position of Louisiana Garden Club Federation bird chairman.

On the last we take our subject for today's column. The program presented by Mrs. Bourg last Wednesday touched on the broad subject of "Birds," their importance to us, their beauty, and our responsibility in caring for them. Conserving our natural resources is our personal duty, and, we know that our bluebirds, among others, are important to protect and entice into our surroundings.

FEEDERS, HOUSES

Mrs. Bourg showed many feeders and bird houses that we as individuals could place in our own yards or encourage home owners to install. The "Bluebirds Unlimited" project of the Grand Rapides Audubon Club was explained by Mrs. Bourg. This is a conservation program that is starting it's fourth year of operation. Over 3,500 brochures were sent on request in 1965. In three years 5,000 houses have been distributed, and unlimited number have been built from directions given in the brochure. We learned from her that the Audubon Club will print 4,000 of the new 1966 brochures for free distribution and increase the size to 10 pages. Two pages will be devoted to the purple martins. It is estimated that an average of one young bluebird is fledged from each house erected, and at the rate we are going there will soon be an annual migration of 10,000 young bluebirds from Michigan each fall. This will increase, of course, annually with hundreds of dedicated conservationists telling of this success in helping to re-establish this wonderful bird. Mrs. Bourg gave a plea to scoutmasters and other leaders of young people's groups as well as garden clubbers and woman's organizations to take this erecting of bird houses as a project. If you cannot take this on and know of such a group the Grand Rapids Audubon Club would appreciate the name of the group leader it can send a free brochure. Many are already dedicated in this endeavor, such as scoutmaster Bill Prichard and his troop 29, of Leland and Lake Leelanau, Mich. For 16 years this troop has won every conceivable state and national award. They have made Leelanau the bluebird capitol of Michigan.

EXTENSION THREAT

The bluebird, of the thrush family, is in danger of becoming extinct if we don't lend a helping hand. The main problem is lack of nesting boxes. Thus, the placing of nesting boxes, well designed and well placed across the country may with luck bring back the vanishing species.

Like the bluebird, the purple martin, largest of the swallow family, is now almost totally dependent upon man for a home. Mrs. Bourg gave a plea for this bird, also. The value of this bird to us is unlimited. It is our best mosquitoe exterminator. The adult male consumes 2,000 daily. Think about this a minute. What does this mean to us? It is so important to know how to erect their houses. We were told that the compartments should be 6"x6"x6" with an opening 2⅛-inches in diameter. The martins arrive here in mid-January. So we must erect the houses early. These birds are subject to mites, so put one tablespoon of dusting sulphur on the floor of each compartment in early spring just before the birds arrive to control poultry mites. This amount (no more) is safe and effective.

Directions for birdhouses have been left in the Fifth District Garden Center as well as a source for already until houses. The address for "Bluebirds Unlimited" is: 1966 Brouchure, Grand Rapids Audubon Club, 54 Jefferson S.E., Grand Rapids, Mich. 49502. Send a stamped, self addressed envelope for convenience for this free brochure.

Wednesday: The Bayou Vista Garden Club, with its president, Mrs. James A. Easterling, will present the program for the Fifth District Garden Center.

Time To Make Compost Heap

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

Mrs. Gardener our trees are beginning to drop their leaves, and it's time to make that compost heap. Those leaves are valuable, so don't burn them or pile them up on the street to be hauled off.

Make the compost pile in a non-conspicuous area of the yard. Use leaves, grass clippings and other vegetative waste. Sprinkle a complete fertilizer occasionally as vegetation is added. Keep the compost moist to hasten decomposition.

October is bulb planting time if we want spring bloom. So now is the time to make plans. Good drainage is essential. The depth of planting depends on soil. A general rule is to cover the crown at least 1½ times the depth of the greatest diameter of the bulb. Bulbs planted too shallow will be affected by frequent temperature changes while bulbs planted too deep will fail to bloom.

ORDER BULBS NOW

Talk to your nurserymen or seed dealers and order your bulbs now. Daffodils, narcissis, jonquils, and snowflakes should be planted in October or early November.

If you, Mrs. Gardener, have a wisteria, that failed to bloom, you should root prune the plant in October. Cut through the roots with a spade in a circle about 30 to 40 inches from the main stem.

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, have some lovely potted plants, be sure to get them ready to enter in our Ouachita Valley Fair Oct. 10. You may enter coleous; begonias (small and large leaf variety); geraniums; asparagus fern; Boston fern; rubber plant; wandering jew, small or large leaf; ivys; philodendron; large and small cactus; Christmas cactus; ornamental pepper; caladium; African violet; potted blooming chrysanthemums and many others. These plants must be entered by 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 10 and please, these potted plants must be small enough for ladies to handle.

There will, also be a class of cut flowers which includes: Dahlais, three blossoms; miniature dahlias, (three blossoms), roses (three blossoms) small; marigolds (small, three blossoms); zinnias (small, three blossoms); and large three blossoms; Celosia (three blossoms) celosia (three blossoms plum or feather); roses (three blossoms other variety). I will see you at the fair grounds October 10.

Do you, Mrs. Homemaker, know how much work buys an automatic washer. We American women take the automatic washer for granted, in fact, most homemakers here wouldn't know what to do without them. But there are countries where any washer can be counted a luxury. The average European must work from two to almost five times as many hours as a worker in our U. S. must work to earn the price of a new washing machine. We are lucky to be American homemakers, aren't we?

FREEZING SWEET POTATOES

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, want to freeze some sweet potatoes, then follow these directions: Choose medium to large mature sweet potatoes that have cured, sort according to size and wash, cook them until almost tender in water, in steam, in a pressure cooker, or in the oven. Let the sweet potatoes stand at room temperature until cool. Peel them, then cut in halves, slice or mash. To prevent darkening, dip whole or sliced sweet potatoes for five seconds in a solution of one tablespoon citric acid or one half cup lemon juice to one quart of water.

To keep mashed sweet potatoes from darkening, mix two tablespoons of orange or lemon juice with each quart of mashed sweet potatoes.

SOUND NUTRITION

Do you, Mrs. Homemaker, confuse sound nutrition with a daily diet of vitamin - mineral pills or strange foods? For the average person, in good health, can get all the nutritions needed from a regular well-balanced diet. See to it that your daily diet includes foods from each of the four food groups, namely: vegetable, fruit, meat, milk and bread-cereal.

If you are overweight, don't fall for a formula that promises you a slim, trim figure without dieting or calorie counting to reduce, you must consume fewer calories than you use up in daily living. That's the only magic formula.

Pink Crape Fills Need

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

After some 20 years, the beautiful bright light pink crape myrtle sold as Near East has established itself as the most important flowering shrub or tree introduced to southern gardens in half a century.

This gorgeous plant filled a real gap in the colors of crape myrtles. It was always hard to get a bright but light pink. Most pinks ran to near reds, and there were no really soft ones to be had except one that is an "off-shade." With the advent of Near East, however, we have a shrub with huge trusses of lively light pink produced in an unbelievable bounty all over the bush.

SPECIES CROSS

Near East is said to be a cross between Queen's crape myrtle and our common one. Queen's crape myrtle is not hardy enough to live out of doors much above the tropics, but when the cross occurred with our common one, the progeny got some hardiness from its commoner parent.

In the cold sections of the south — even in the upper Coastal belts — Near East may get killed back a little each year. During the past few extreme winters, gardeners found Near East cut back considerably when spring came around. After enough seasons have passed for this shrub to accumulate woody stems as big as your thumb Near East will rapidly grow into a very large shrub. Since it is pruned back annually by the winters, it will take it some time to become a small tree in the colder sections. Even in tree form, it is such a lavish grower that it will always look like a giant pile of pink suds.

MORE COLORS

As we have mentioned in the column before, if some garden club of individuals would plant seeds from crape myrtles inside in winter and raise them from seed, we would soon have some more colors in this beautiful little tree. The seeds are not hardy enough to live and come up out of doors by themselves but will grow easily in a greenhouse in winter.

Most of our landscapes call for more white crape myrtles. All of the colors would show up much better than they do if white were added to them.

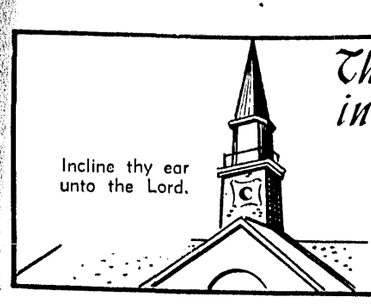
CIRCULATION DEPARTMENT

8 AM to 5 PM 322-5161

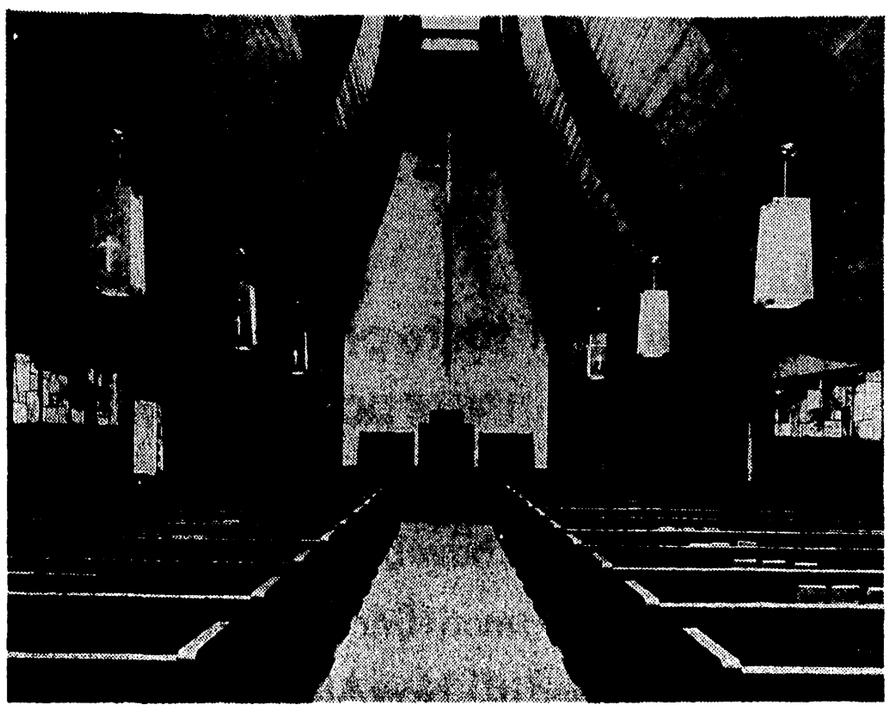
After 5 PM 323-2070



There's A Church Home For You in the Twin Cities...

Incline thy ear unto the Lord.

Anyone desiring to know the location of a church of any denomination in the Twin Cities and the time of its Sunday services may call The Morning World at 323-2070, 323-3660, 323-0501 and ask for the church service directory. We'll be glad to supply you the information.



THIS IS AN interior view of the new Forsythe Avenue Church of Christ, in the 2000 block of Forsythe, where an open house program will be held today from 3:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. when visitors will be taken on guided tours of the ultra modern facilities.

Open House Scheduled At New Church

The Forsythe Avenue Church of Christ, located on Monroe's north side, will hold an official open house today, from 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., with special tours of the new building conducted by officers of the congregation.

The unique architecture of this new church building has been described as "North Louisiana's Most Different Structure," in that the entire concept is somewhat foreign to normal conventional sanctuary design.

Designed to accommodate a "new" congregation on Monroe's north side, the Forsythe Avenue Church of Christ was planned to embrace a membership of approximately 250. However, plans are already underway for added expansions on the building, because the area's response to the new church has been unusual, church officials said.

Visitors attending the open house event, will have an opportunity to browse amid the striking views of the sanctuary's steep roofed enclosures. The building's unusual natural lighting, accorded by semi-transparent cathedral glass and white translucent skylite panels, gives the congregational area a rustic and open-air atmosphere.

OFFICIAL HOST

Congregational elders, including Max L. Riley, Otis L. Johnson, W. L. Howard, Simon Johnson and Jim Williams, will serve as official welcome hosts to visitors throughout the afternoon's ceremony.

The Forsythe Avenue Congregation was sponsored by the local Texas Avenue Church of Christ, and approximately 100 members made up the initial charter group to institute the erection of the new church in the 2000 block of Forsythe.

Visitors will be escorted on tours of the sleek 7,600 square foot building by congregational deacons including Bob Halelton, A. G. Barker, F. K. Fisher, Johnnie Usrey, D. L. Walsworth, J. A. Weir, G. J. Burroughs and C. J. Moseley. Refreshments will be served in the spacious recreational room throughout the afternoon, and the church nursery will be opened to care for children.

UNUSUAL ARCHES

The church building, which uniquely incorporates reverse curve arches as the basic structural theme, was designed by Architect Lon Heuer, Rivers and Heuer. The building skillfully blends a spectrum of both Oriental and Nordic trends in its appearance; however, it is termed as contemporary architecture by its local designers.

The open house function will accord visitors from the area an opportunity to view the unusual atmosphere created in the Church sanctuary's 36-foot tall exposed beam ceiling plan. Too, the completely carpeted auditorium renders a silent and hushed entry to worship services, adding a deep note of reverence to the surroundings.

A huge bronze cross is the center focal point of interest, immediately affixed to the soft beige wall behind the pulpit, upon entering the sanctuary. And, a series of three distinct subdued lighting effects may be achieved through special recessed fixtures in the elevated pulpit sector.

The congregation is seated upon upholstered walnut pews, which were designed to blend in color tones with the amber-bronze cathedral windows and the ceiling's impressive exposed soaring arch group.

Bro. E. C. McKenzie, widely known minister and civic speaker, fills the pulpit in the new congregation, which has grown approximately 25 per cent in membership during its initial nine weeks of operation on the north side.

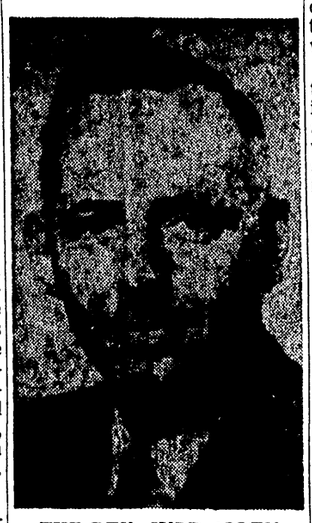
Ample parking facilities will be reserved for visitors, who will be welcomed by courtesy guides.

Pastor In Special Type Of Intermediary Work

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A border-jumper, at home in varied environments, the Rev. Dr. Robert McAfee Brown today exemplifies a new kind of Christian intermediary working to fuse some broken strands of life.

It's a peculiarly mobile calling, alternating from one sector of society to another, and it is enlisting a growing corps of church practitioners. Dr. Brown has been a path-breaker of the species.



THE REV. JUDD ALLEN

THE REV. W. D. EVANS JR.

"We don't seem to be of any single lineage," he says.

A common description in religious circles is "the new breed." Versatility and shifting settings mark the role. But there's no fixed pattern to it. It's trans-occupational.

Consider the case of Dr. Brown:

SECULAR INSTITUTION

A clergyman, he works for a secular institution. A Protestant, he is most frequently on the programs of Roman Catholic meetings. A scholarly theologian, he is also regularly at the scenes-of-action in the world.

"Christianity is not mainly for the professionals," he said in an interview, noting that his own approach to it often allies him with people more interested in specific social-moral issues than in the underlying doctrines.

Yet he himself is immersed in the classic Christian premises.

It is this linking up of the usually disjoined interests that mark the man.

"No Christian church can any longer enjoy the cozy privilege of being a religious enclave turned in upon itself," he says.

Dr. Brown, 46, a trim, 5-foot-11 man with a rapid-fire mind, wavy gray hair and reflective brown eyes behind horn-rimmed glasses, is an esteemed professor of religion at Stanford University — the home base for his wide-ranging activities.

A prime need, as he sees it, is for the churches not only to move into closer "relationship to one another intramurally," but also to "all men outside our walls, in their cries for justice and compassion and love."

SYMBOL OF EFFORT

He himself has become a working symbol of this effort to mediate between Protestantism and Roman Catholicism, and also between religious and temporal concerns, so as to involve church energies more fully in everyday affairs.

"It may be one of our primary jobs today," he says, "to show the world that love can be present on the picket line, in demonstration, 'out where the action is', in jails, in responsible protest against government policies that flout the Gospel."

He has been in some of those arenas himself, serving jail time for participating in one of the first "freedom rides" into the South in 1961. Recently, he was among clergy taking a hand in problems of striking West Coast fruit-pickers, and he urges greater religious exertions in behalf of peace.

"We reject the heresay that churches and synagogues are to be concerned only with 'spiritual' matters," he says.

The job which has kept him busiest, however, is as a diplomat and interpreter between Protestantism and Catholicism. At most every major Roman Catholic parley on ecumenical affairs, he is apt to be among Protestant participants.

"If the same spirit that is now abroad had existed at the time of the Protestant Reformation," he says, "we would have resolved the issues without division."

Dr. Brown, a Presbyterian and native of Carthage, Ill., was a World War II Navy chaplain, and taught at Amherst College, Macalester College in St. Paul, and Union Seminary in New York before taking his post at Stanford in 1962.

EARLY DISCUSSIONS

Ten years before Rome's Second Vatican Council unleashed its reforms and moves for reconciliation with other churches, he was already taking part in theological discussions with Benedictines of St. John's Abbey near St. Cloud, Minn.

He also joined in meetings and retreats with other early Roman Catholic ecumenists, including the late Father Gustave Weigel, with whom he authored a pioneering book on Protestant-Catholic relations, "An American Dialogue."

Dispatched as a Presbyterian observer to the Vatican Council, he spent most of his time conferring on issues with bishops and their advisors, and produced a report acclaimed by both Catholics and Protestants, "Observer in Rome."

He also has drafted guidelines on inter-church discussions, widely used in the spreading Protestant-Catholic dialogues.

FOR UNITY

In the changed atmosphere, he says, "we are enjoined to do nothing separately that we can do together" This, he adds, includes common dialogue, common action and common worship.

Dr. Brown is one of growing task force of Protestant and Catholic ecumenical experts who maintain a heavy schedule of meetings with their unaffiliated brethren.

In shifting from seminary teaching to a secular campus at Stanford, he also was heeding his drive to overcome the rift between religion and the rest of life and inject faith into the wider community of learning.

He and his wife, Sydney, live on the campus, and have four children. He writes prolifically — books and for periodicals and relaxes with carpentry work. He rides a bicycle to classes.

For three successive years, graduating seniors have named him as a faculty member who "meant most" to them in their education. In a commencement lecture last spring, he voiced a theme close to his own career:

"In the life of the truly educated person thought and action are truly indivisible."

THIS NEW pastorium recently was completed by the First Baptist Church of Sterlington and is occupied by the Rev. Ray P. Raddin and his family. The three-bedroom, two-bath home features a woodburning fireplace in the large family room. The structure includes 2,700 square feet of floor space and is centrally heated and air conditioned. Owen Malone of Farmerville was the contractor, using plans drawn by Robert P. Holtzclaw of West Monroe. The building committee was composed of C. A. McBride, J. O. Cooper, Brady Dean, Mrs. John Holtzclaw, Mrs. Lena Jackson, Mrs. H. D. Matkins and Mrs. Dot Ramsey.

Same Sermon Is Given In 4 Locales On Sunday

CRESTON, N.C. (AP) — Jerrie Howell listens attentively with frequent nods of approval as her husband preaches the same sermon at three different mountain churches on Sunday morning.

Their 9-month-old daughter, Melissa Dare, sleeps.

At night, the Rev. Keith Howell delivers the sermon a fourth time at still another church.

The 30-year-old Emory University graduate serves 10 Methodist churches in the Blue Ridge Mountains of western North Carolina.

As the crow flies, Creston is six miles from West Jefferson, in Ashe County, but by road it's 15 miles and 30 minutes.

CLOSE SCHEDULE

The 50-minute services are conducted at 9:30 a.m., 10:30 a.m., and 11:30 a.m., giving him 10 minutes to drive over one-lane, winding mountain roads to the next church, up to four miles away.

"I never make it on time," lamented the Rev. Mr. Howell.

He tells of visiting a country store once when an Air Force jet flew over at low altitude. One of the men sitting around the potbellied stove said: "Why preacher, if you weren't standing here I would say that was you on the way to church."

He preaches at four churches each Sunday. Laymen serve two more, and four have no services that Sunday. The schedule is rotated each week.

The Rev. Mr. Howell turned down a post as associate pastor of a large metropolitan church to have his own church. He didn't know it was going to be a 10-church charge, but he is not sorry.

"I think you learn more by having the responsibility of your own church. You make mistakes, but you learn by them. I have a lot of ideas I want to put into use," he said.

"As an associate, many decisions are made for you. You don't get to preach every Sunday as an associate, and I wanted to."

To enter the ministry, he quit a job with a large electronics firm paying twice as much as he now makes. Since the Rev. Mr. Howell was sent here a year and a half ago, the task has been hard, but the rewards many.

SNOWBOUND

During the winter, snow was four feet deep in the Howells' yard, but "someone cleared our driveway." They were snowbound for three days, but food and gifts from church members kept them comfortable.

The Rev. Mr. Howell is an ardent fisherman and there is a mountain brook across the road from the house. At Christmas, the parishioners "pound" the preacher with canned goods and meat. They bring him milk weekly. One minister serving the charge received a live pig at Christmas.

During Jerrie's pregnancy the church members gave her numerous showers and private gifts. The Howells are natives of Yadkinville, about 25 miles west of Winston-Salem.

INDIVIDUALISTIC

The people the Rev. Mr. Howell serves are individualistic, loyal to their families, and cling to the King James version of the Bible, the minister said.

Total membership of the charge is 375. About 210 attend church regularly. The churches, having as few as six members, grew from revivals during the 18th century. Attempts to consolidate them have been resisted. The members prefer to attend the same church their parents attended.

"The people are more religious up here than in any other place I know of," the Rev. Mr. Howell said. "They are very warm to the minister. They pay the minister when he visits them. Many don't see the need of coming to church but three times a year."

The Rev. Mr. Howell travels about 2,000 miles a month, visiting prospective members, shutins and those hospitalized as far away as Raleigh, Johnson City, Tenn., and Abington, Va.

During the winter, his activities are reduced by the snow. Last winter, however, only five Sunday services were canceled. With the roads blocked by snow, he said, "most folk walked to church. We had the biggest turnout of the year."

The Rev. Mr. Howell conducted a Bible school last summer, has started a youth night program, a Boy Scout troop and a Women's Society of Christian Service chapter, and has begun a remodeling program.

For the first time, one of the churches on the charge will have an indoor lavatory this fall.

Barred Priest Plans Center For Others In Same Plight

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest, longing to return to service of the Church from which he was barred when he was married a year ago, disclosed plans Saturday for establishing a center to help others in a similar plight.

"I love the Church, said the Rev. Anthony J. Girandola, of St. Petersburg, Fla. "I believe in the Church's doctrine and teaching authority, and want to serve her."

But he can't, under present rules. He said "millions of Roman Catholics" — laymen and clergy — were in a kindred predicament, and that the projected new center was aimed at ministering to their needs.

"We're pleading for the Church to take us back, to do something," he said.

INTERIM ARRANGEMENT

But in the meantime, he said, the center, to include a complex of small houses for married priests and their families, as well as a 700-seat chapel, was planned to provide an interim arrangement in their behalf.

"It's an emergency solution until hopefully the Church accepts us again," he said, adding that a fund drive would start Sunday for the $3-million project.

To be called the "Shrine of Hope," the chapel is to be shaped in the form of a ship at sea.

"We're like people adrift in a lifeboat, waiting to be taken back into the Church," Father Girandola said. "But while we're outcasts, we can minister to one another, rather than just lie down and give up."

He said there were about 5,000 American Roman Catholic priests under automatic excommunication for being married, and about 60,000 of them in other countries, chiefly in Europe.

CHURCH LAW

Under Church law, priests in the Western — Latin — rite must remain celibate, although some married Protestant ministers have been allowed to enter the Roman Catholic priesthood in Europe, and keep their family status.

In the Church's Eastern rite, priests may marry if they do so prior to ordination. The stricter rule in the West, imposed in the 12th century, is regarded as a practical disciplinary rule, rather than a doctrine.

It has been widely debated in the Church in the wake of the Second Vatican Council.

Western priests who marry, although thereby excommunicated and barred from functioning in the Church as a priest, are still regarded as retaining their priesthood. It is a lifetime office.

Most of those who marry move to areas where they are unknown, take lay jobs, and keep their priesthood concealed, so as not to cause what some Church authorities have called "scandal" to the vocation.

"I don't consider it a scandal," Father Girandola said. "Marriage is no crime."

He maintained that Church authorities should act to remove the social stigma attached to a married priest, and lift the insistence that they "live in anonymity, in constant fear of discovery."

"The discipline is too harsh," he said. "The Church's role should be more as a healing physician that forgives, rather than judges."

Father Girandola, 41, a native of Hartford, Conn., was for 15 years a pastor in Bridgeport, Conn., before he was married last year. He and his wife, Lorraine, a registered nurse, now have a baby boy.

For a living he is a public school mathematics teacher in Brandon, Fla., 40 miles from St. Petersburg, where he has already set up a chapel, St. Dismas Center, to serve excommunicated Catholics, mostly those remarried after divorces.

MANY LETTERS

"They've never lost the faith," he said, adding that some of them cry in joy at the chance to receive Communion again. About 100 worship there, he said, and he has received correspondence from hundreds of such "Catholics in anguish," including about 40 priests.

"They would jump at the chance of going back into the service of the Church," he said.

He expressed hope that the projected new center, for which seven acres of land already have been obtained, and architectural plans drawn, would spread into a nationwide mission for excommunicated Catholics.

COMMON PROBLEM

Father Donald J. Bauer, pastor of Corpus Christi Roman Catholic church in the South Onondaga suburb of Syracuse, N.Y., and a friend of Father Girandola's, said there were "priests all over the world with the same problem."

With the present shortage of priests, he said it seemed incongruous to waste the training and skills invested in priests who become married.

He added: "There is no question that the greatest thing that could be done to increase Church vocations would be to permit a married clergy. Most of the seminarians who drop out do so because they want to marry."

Father Girandola said he recognized the value of celibacy as a self-sacrificing virtue, but that it should not be used as a deterrent to the priesthood, nor "to destroy some of those who are in it."

DR. LUTHER B. HALL

Guest speaker at the October meeting will be Mrs. Grace Peters, who will tell about her trip to Europe. Mrs. Richard LeBrun is president of the group.

Special Projects Folder Is Ready

A new printed folder, entitled "Special Projects," has been prepared by the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe.

Earl D. Mercer, public relations director, said that the folder was prepared because many individuals and groups often write the Home asking about special projects in which they may engage to assist the child care agency. The new folder will be mailed free to those requesting it.

Food Needs At Baptist Home Large

"Pass the biscuits, please!"

On an average morning at the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe there are 300 homemade biscuits to pass. And there would have to be a lot more if they were of the canned variety. Being homemade biscuits, they're big enough to see when they get on one's plate, Superintendent Wade B. East explained.

It takes 13 gallons of syrup to sop them in each week. The youngsters prefer corn and cane blend. Several quarts of preserves and jellies are also consumed weekly by the boys and girls who live in the Home, the largest agency of its type in Louisiana.

BREAKFAST NEEDS

The big family can put away 30-dozens of eggs and four sides of sugar - cured bacon at one breakfast, or $10 worth of dry cereal. Fifteen tall cans of fruit juices are necessary at one meal.

Food service at the Home is under the direction of Mrs. Edith Foster who, in her more than 14 years as dietitian, has had something to do with preparing almost two million plates of food.

When a vegetable such as peas or corn is served, 45 average size cans are opened. Fresh produce is raised in the garden on the campus when in season. Sixty pounds of ground meat are consumed when hamburgers are served for supper, along with 150 pounds of Irish potatoes for French fries. The hamburgers and French fries call for a case of catsup.

OTHER FOODS

The Home family consumes one 900 - pound beef each week. One hundred pounds of ham is cooked for dinner. If the menu calls for fried chicken, 50 fryers are required. When it is bacon and tomato sandwiches, 75 pounds of bacon is necessary. Sixty pounds of fish is fried for one meal.

Speaking of pies, 33 are consumed at lunch, requiring 45 cans of sliced applies. Fifteen dollars worth of ice cream makes one dessert. Each child gets at least a quart of milk daily.

The Home family eats four tons of flour each year and uses a ton of shortening in cooking. Seventy - five pounds of corn meal, 50 dozen buns, 50 dozen rolls and 100 loaves of bread are consumed each week. Fifteen pounds of rice is cooked at one time.

Some of the food is provided by Louisiana Baptist churches and other friends in the annual Fall Food Roundup and throughout the year when in season.

Barred Priest Plans Center For Others In Same Plight

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest, longing to return to service of the Church from which he was barred when he was married a year ago, disclosed plans Saturday for establishing a center to help others in a similar plight.

"I love the Church, said the Rev. Anthony J. Girandola, of St. Petersburg, Fla. "I believe in the Church's doctrine and teaching authority, and want to serve her."

But he can't, under present rules. He said "millions of Roman Catholics" — laymen and clergy — were in a kindred predicament, and that the projected new center was aimed at ministering to their needs.

"We're pleading for the Church to take us back, to do something," he said.

INTERIM ARRANGEMENT

But in the meantime, he said, the center, to include a complex of small houses for married priests and their families, as well as a 700-seat chapel, was planned to provide an interim arrangement in their behalf.

"It's an emergency solution until hopefully the Church accepts us again," he said, adding that a fund drive would start Sunday for the $3-million project.

To be called the "Shrine of Hope," the chapel is to be shaped in the form of a ship at sea.

"We're like people adrift in a lifeboat, waiting to be taken back into the Church," Father Girandola said. "But while we're outcasts, we can minister to one another, rather than just lie down and give up."

He said there were about 5,000 American Roman Catholic priests under automatic excommunication for being married, and about 60,000 of them in other countries, chiefly in Europe.

CHURCH LAW

Under Church law, priests in the Western — Latin — rite must remain celibate, although some married Protestant ministers have been allowed to enter the Roman Catholic priesthood in Europe, and keep their family status.

In the Church's Eastern rite, priests may marry if they do so prior to ordination. The stricter rule in the West, imposed in the 12th century, is regarded as a practical disciplinary rule, rather than a doctrine.

It has been widely debated in the Church in the wake of the Second Vatican Council.

Western priests who marry, although thereby excommunicated and barred from functioning in the Church as a priest, are still regarded as retaining their priesthood. It is a lifetime office.

Most of those who marry move to areas where they are unknown, take lay jobs, and keep their priesthood concealed, so as not to cause what some Church authorities have called "scandal" to the vocation.

"I don't consider it a scandal," Father Girandola said. "Marriage is no crime."

He maintained that Church authorities should act to remove the social stigma attached to a married priest, and lift the insistence that they "live in anonymity, in constant fear of discovery."

"The discipline is too harsh," he said. "The Church's role should be more as a healing physician that forgives, rather than judges."

Father Girandola, 41, a native of Hartford, Conn., was for 15 years a pastor in Bridgeport, Conn., before he was married last year. He and his wife, Lorraine, a registered nurse, now have a baby boy.

For a living he is a public school mathematics teacher in Brandon, Fla., 40 miles from St. Petersburg, where he has already set up a chapel, St. Dismas Center, to serve excommunicated Catholics, mostly those remarried after divorces.

MANY LETTERS

"They've never lost the faith," he said, adding that some of them cry in joy at the chance to receive Communion again. About 100 worship there, he said, and he has received correspondence from hundreds of such "Catholics in anguish," including about 40 priests.

"They would jump at the chance of going back into the service of the Church," he said.

He expressed hope that the projected new center, for which seven acres of land already have been obtained, and architectural plans drawn, would spread into a nationwide mission for excommunicated Catholics.

Father Girandola said he recognized the value of celibacy as a self-sacrificing virtue, but that it should not be used as a deterrent to the priesthood, nor "to destroy some of those who are in it."

Open House Scheduled At New Church

The Forsythe Avenue Church of Christ, located on Monroe's north side, will hold an official open house today, from 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., with special tours of the new building conducted by officers of the congregation.

The unique architecture of this new church building has been described as "North Louisiana's Most Different Structure," in that the entire concept is somewhat foreign to normal conventional sanctuary design.

Designed to accommodate a "new" congregation on Monroe's north side, the Forsythe Avenue Church of Christ was planned to embrace a membership of approximately 250. However, plans are already underway for added expansions on the building, because the area's response to the new church has been unusual, church officials said.

Visitors attending the open house event, will have an opportunity to browse amid the striking views of the sanctuary's steep roofed enclosures. The building's unusual natural lighting, accorded by semi-transparent cathedral glass and white translucent skylite panels, gives the congregational area a rustic and open-air atmosphere.

OFFICIAL HOST

Congregational elders, including Max L. Riley, Otis L. Johnson, W. L. Howard, Simon Johnson and Jim Williams, will serve as official welcome hosts to visitors throughout the afternoon's ceremony.

The Forsythe Avenue Congregation was sponsored by the local Texas Avenue Church of Christ, and approximately 100 members made up the initial charter group to institute the erection of the new church in the 2000 block of Forsythe.

Visitors will be escorted on tours of the sleek 7,600 square foot building by congregational deacons including Bob Haleiton, A. G. Barker, F. K. Fisher, Johnnie Usrey, D. L. Walsworth, J. A. Weir, G. J. Burroughs and C. J. Moseley. Refreshments will be served in the spacious recreational room throughout the afternoon, and the church nursery will be opened to care for children.

UNUSUAL ARCHES

The church building, which uniquely incorporates reverse curve arches as the basic structural theme, was designed by Architect Lon Heuer, Rivers and Heuer. The building skillfully blends a spectrum of both Oriental and Nordic trends in its appearance; however, it is termed as contemporary architecture by its local designers.

The open house function will accord visitors from the area an opportunity to view the unusual atmosphere created in the Church sanctuary's 36-foot tall exposed beam ceiling plan. Too, the completely carpeted auditorium renders a silent and hushed entry to worship services, adding a deep note of reverence to the surroundings.

A huge bronze cross is the center focal point of interest, immediately affixed to the soft beige wall behind the pulpit, upon entering the sanctuary. And, a series of three distinct subdued lighting effects may be achieved through special recessed fixtures in the elevated pulpit sector.

The congregation is seated upon upholstered walnut pews, which were designed to blend in color tones with the amber-bronze cathedral windows and the ceiling's impressive exposed soaring arch group.

Bro. E. C. McKenzie, widely known minister and civic speaker, fills the pulpit in the new congregation, which has grown approximately 25 per cent in membership during its initial nine weeks of operation on the north side.

Ample parking facilities will be reserved for visitors, who will be welcomed by courtesy guides.

Bethel Host Of Trenton Music Event

Bethel Baptist Church, 300 Washington St., West Monroe, will host the Trenton Association music program today at 2:30 p.m., it was announced by the Rev. B. K. Miller Jr., Bethel pastor and associational music director.

Pastor In Special Type Of Intermediary Work

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A border-jumper, at home in varied environments, the Rev. Dr. Robert McAfee Brown today exemplifies a new kind of Christian intermediary working to fuse some broken strands of life.

It's a peculiarly mobile calling, alternating from one sector of society to another, and it is enlisting a growing corps of church practitioners. Dr. Brown has been a path-breaker of the species.

Special Projects Folder Is Ready

A new printed folder, entitled "Special Projects," has been prepared by the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe.

Earl D. Mercer, public relations director, said that the folder was prepared because many individuals and groups often write the Home asking about special projects in which they may engage to assist the child care agency. The new folder will be mailed free to those requesting it.

"We don't seem to be of any single lineage," he says.

A common description in religious circles is "the new breed." Versatility and shifting settings mark the role. But there's no fixed pattern to it. It's trans-occupational.

Consider the case of Dr. Brown:

SECULAR INSTITUTION

A clergyman, he works for a secular institution. A Protestant, he is most frequently on the programs of Roman Catholic meetings. A scholarly theologian, he is also regularly at the scenes-of-action in the world.

"Christianity is not mainly for the professionals," he said in an interview, noting that his own approach to it often allies him with people more interested in specific social-moral issues than in the underlying doctrines.

Yet he himself is immersed in the classic Christian premises.

It is this linking up of the usually disjoined interests that mark the man.

"No Christian church can any longer enjoy the cozy privilege of being a religious enclave turned in upon itself," he says.

Dr. Brown, 46, a trim, 5-foot-11 man with a rapid-fire mind, wavy gray hair and reflective brown eyes behind horn-rimmed glasses, is an esteemed professor of religion at Stanford University — the home base for his wide-ranging activities.

A prime need, as he sees it, is for the churches not only to move into closer "relationship to one another intramurally," but also to "all men outside our walls, in their cries for justice and compassion and love."

SYMBOL OF EFFORT

He himself has become a working symbol of this effort to mediate between Protestantism and Roman Catholicism, and also between religious and temporal concerns, so as to involve church energies more fully in everyday affairs.

"It may be one of our primary jobs today," he says, "to show the world that love can be present on the picket line, in demonstration, 'out where the action is', in jails, in responsible protest against government policies that flout the Gospel."

He has been in some of those arenas himself, serving jail time for participating in one of the first "freedom rides" into the South in 1961. Recently, he was among clergy taking a hand in problems of striking West Coast fruit-pickers, and he urges greater religious exertions in behalf of peace.

"We reject the heresay that churches and synagogues are to be concerned only with 'spiritual' matters," he says.

The job which has kept him busiest, however, is as a diplomat and interpreter between Protestantism and Catholicism. At most every major Roman Catholic parley on ecumenical affairs, he is apt to be among Protestant participants.

"If the same spirit that is now abroad had existed at the time of the Protestant Reformation," he says, "we would have resolved the issues without division."

Dr. Brown, a Presbyterian and native of Carthage, Ill., was a World War II Navy chaplain, and taught at Amherst College, Macalester College in St. Paul, and Union Seminary in New York before taking his post at Stanford in 1962.

EARLY DISCUSSIONS

Ten years before Rome's Second Vatican Council unleashed its reforms and moves for reconciliation with other churches, he was already taking part in theological discussions with Benedictines of St. John's Abbey near St. Cloud, Minn.

He also joined in meetings and retreats with other early Roman Catholic ecumenists, including the late Father Gustave Weigel, with whom he authored a pioneering book on Protestant-Catholic relations, "An American Dialogue."

Dispatched as a Presbyterian observer to the Vatican Council, he spent most of his time conferring on issues with bishops and their advisors, and produced a report acclaimed by both Catholics and Protestants, "Observer in Rome."

He also has drafted guidelines on inter-church discussions, widely used in the spreading Protestant-Catholic dialogues.

FOR UNITY

In the changed atmosphere, he says, "we are enjoined to do nothing separately that we can do together" This, he adds, includes common dialogue, common action and common worship.

Dr. Brown is one of growing task force of Protestant and Catholic ecumenical experts who maintain a heavy schedule of meetings with their unaffiliated brethren.

In shifting from seminary teaching to a secular campus at Stanford, he also was heeding his drive to overcome the rift between religion and the rest of life and inject faith into the wider community of learning.

He and his wife, Sydney, live on the campus, and have four children. He writes prolifically — books and for periodicals and relaxes with carpentry work. He rides a bicycle to classes.

For three successive years, graduating seniors have named him as a faculty member who "meant most" to them in their education. In a commencement lecture last spring, he voiced a theme close to his own career:

"In the life of the truly educated person thought and action are truly indivisible."

THIS NEW pastorium recently was completed by the First Baptist Church of Sterlington and is occupied by the Rev. Ray P. Raddin and his family. The three-bedroom, two-bath home features a woodburning fireplace in the large family room. The structure includes 2,700 square feet of floor space and is centrally heated and air conditioned. Owen Malone of Farmerville was the contractor, using plans drawn by Robert P. Holtzclaw of West Monroe. The building committee was composed of C. A. McBride, J. O. Cooper, Brady Dean, Mrs. John Holtzclaw, Mrs. Lena Jackson, Mrs. H. D. Matkins and Mrs. Dot Ramsey.

Same Sermon Is Given In 4 Locales On Sunday

CRESTON, N.C. (AP) — Jerrie Howell listens attentively with frequent nods of approval as her husband preaches the same sermon at three different mountain churches on Sunday morning.

Their 9-month-old daughter, Melissa Dare, sleeps.

At night, the Rev. Keith Howell delivers the sermon a fourth time at still another church.

The 30-year-old Emory University graduate serves 10 Methodist churches in the Blue Ridge Mountains of western North Carolina.

As the crow flies, Creston is six miles from West Jefferson, in Ashe County, but by road it's 15 miles and 30 minutes.

CLOSE SCHEDULE

The 50-minute services are conducted at 9:30 a.m., 10:30 a.m., and 11:30 a.m., giving him 10 minutes to drive over one-lane, winding mountain roads to the next church, up to four miles away.

"I never make it on time," lamented the Rev. Mr. Howell.

He tells of visiting a country store once when an Air Force jet flew over at low altitude. One of the men sitting around the potbellied stove said: "Why preacher, if you weren't standing here I would say that was you on the way to church."

He preaches at four churches each Sunday. Laymen serve two more, and four have no services that Sunday. The schedule is rotated each week.

The Rev. Mr. Howell turned down a post as associate pastor of a large metropolitan church to have his own church. He didn't know it was going to be a 10-church charge, but he is not sorry.

"I think you learn more by having the responsibility of your own church. You make mistakes, but you learn by them. I have a lot of ideas I want to put into use," he said.

"As an associate, many decisions are made for you. You don't get to preach every Sunday as an associate, and I wanted to."

To enter the ministry, he quit a job with a large electronics firm paying twice as much as he now makes. Since the Rev. Mr. Howell was sent here a year and a half ago, the task has been hard, but the rewards many.

SNOWBOUND

During the winter, snow was four feet deep in the Howells' yard, but "someone cleared our driveway." They were snowbound for three days, but food and gifts from church members kept them comfortable.

The Rev. Mr. Howell is an ardent fisherman and there is a mountain brook across the road from the house. At Christmas, the parishioners "pound" the preacher with canned goods and meat. They bring him milk weekly. One minister serving the charge received a live pig at Christmas.

During Jerrie's pregnancy the church members gave her numerous showers and private gifts. The Howells are natives of Yadkinville, about 25 miles west of Winston-Salem.

INDIVIDUALISTIC

The people the Rev. Mr. Howell serves are individualistic, loyal to their families, and cling to the King James version of the Bible, the minister said.

Total membership of the charge is 375. About 210 attend church regularly. The churches, having as few as six members, grew from revivals during the 18th century. Attempts to consolidate them have been resisted. The members prefer to attend the same church their parents attended.

"The people are more religious up here than in any other place I know of," the Rev. Mr. Howell said. "They are very warm to the minister. They pay the minister when he visits them. Many don't see the need of coming to church but three times a year."

The Rev. Mr. Howell travels about 2,000 miles a month, visiting prospective members, shutins and those hospitalized as far away as Raleigh, Johnson City, Tenn., and Abington, Va.

During the winter, his activities are reduced by the snow. Last winter, however, only five Sunday services were canceled. With the roads blocked by snow, he said, "most folk walked to church. We had the biggest turnout of the year."

The Rev. Mr. Howell conducted a Bible school last summer, has started a youth night program, a Boy Scout troop and a Women's Society of Christian Service chapter, and has begun a remodeling program.

For the first time, one of the churches on the charge will have an indoor lavatory this fall.

Food Needs At Baptist Home Large

"Pass the biscuits, please!"

On an average morning at the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe there are 300 homemade biscuits to pass. And there would have to be a lot more if they were of the canned variety. Being homemade biscuits, they're big enough to see when they get on one's plate, Superintendent Wade B. East explained.

It takes 13 gallons of syrup to sop them in each week. The youngsters prefer corn and cane blend. Several quarts of preserves and jellies are also consumed weekly by the boys and girls who live in the Home, the largest agency of its type in Louisiana.

BREAKFAST NEEDS

The big family can put away 30-dozens of eggs and four sides of sugar - cured bacon at one breakfast, or $10 worth of dry cereal. Fifteen tall cans of fruit juices are necessary at one meal.

Food service at the Home is under the direction of Mrs. Edith Foster who, in her more than 14 years as dietitian, has had something to do with preparing almost two million plates of food.

When a vegetable such as peas or corn is served, 45 average size cans are opened. Fresh produce is raised in the garden on the campus when in season. Sixty pounds of ground meat are consumed when hamburgers are served for supper, along with 150 pounds of Irish potatoes for French fries. The hamburgers and French fries call for a case of catsup.

OTHER FOODS

The Home family consumes one 900 - pound beef each week. One hundred pounds of ham is cooked for dinner. If the menu calls for fried chicken, 50 fryers are required. When it is bacon and tomato sandwiches, 75 pounds of bacon is necessary. Sixty pounds of fish is fried for one meal.

Speaking of pies, 33 are consumed at lunch, requiring 45 cans of sliced applies. Fifteen dollars worth of ice cream makes one dessert. Each child gets at least a quart of milk daily.

The Home family eats four tons of flour each year and uses a ton of shortening in cooking. Seventy - five pounds of corn meal, 50 dozen buns, 50 dozen rolls and 100 loaves of bread are consumed each week. Fifteen pounds of rice is cooked at one time.

Some of the food is provided by Louisiana Baptist churches and other friends in the annual Fall Food Roundup and throughout the year when in season.

Fall made its official arrival Friday. And this week we have had in the Twin Cities the first taste of nippy cool weather. Evenings are crisp, with the feal of football in the air. Schools are running on full schedules; civic clubs have begun their new year's activities; cultural groups have announced their season's programs. Very soon now, Milady Monroe will be seen about town in her new fall ensemble.

A number of parties on the early autumn calendar have honored ANGYLYN and WALLACE JONES, who have returned to Monroe to make their home after residing in Baton Rouge for a number of years. Wally is to be on the staff at Northeast Louisiana State college. Old friends are welcoming them in a variety of entertainments . . . Last Wednesday ADRIENNE GASTON entertained eight at luncheon at her home on the Old Sterlington Road.

Friday morning TOMMY SUE SARTOR, JEAN HUENEFELD, and MARGARET CARTER were hostesses at a coffee party for Angylyn. About forty-five old friends were invited to the affair in the Sartor home on Pargoud boulevard.

Autumn tones of gold, yellow and bronze were noted in floral arrangements, all done in copper or brass containers. Coffee was served in a copper urn; bottled soft drinks from a large wooden bowl. Hot cheese sandwiches and chicken salad sandwiches were served, with cinnamon sticks and doughnuts. HELEN EDWARDS, ADELE RANSOM and LIBBY MILLER assisted in serving.

A family dinner was planned for Angylyn and Wally by the JOHN KELSOS, JR., who included KYLE JONES and SHANNON JONES in the party . . . Dinner at the Embers was the compliment of MINNIE and CARL TIDWELL Friday night.

On Tuesday, ADELE RANSOM invited seven for lunch with Angylyn in the Ransom home on Bayou Bend road. Brass scales filled with fruit served as centerpiece on the dining table. Adele's menu included curried chicken salad with tomato aspic and artichoke hearts; cherry cheese cake for dessert.

Thursday's hostess was LIBBY MILLER, who entertained at dessert bridge in her home on Pargoud boulevard. Nosegays of roses and ivy centered each of three tables. Apple pie with ice cream was served to twelve guests before the bridge games began. . . . This coming Tuesday, PATSY PIPES is planning a luncheon at the Lotus Club.

Due home today after a two and a half week trip to the West Coast are FRANCES and JIM ADCOCK and their children JAN and PAUL MELTON. They left by air, flying to Las Vegas and on to San Francisco. There they rented a car and drove about California, with stops at Monterey, Los Angeles, and San Diego. This past Friday they flew back to Houston, timing their arrival to be there for the LSU-Rice game yesterday.

It was a real Monroe houseparty in Houston this weekend, with a large number of our people driving down for several days there and various festivities planned in addition to the ball game. All are expected home today.

Some of these were JANE and JOHN SHERROUSE, JR., LOUISE and ED SEYMOUR, BERNICE and HAROLD WOODS, JOYCE and DICK KELLOGG, VIRGINIA and HENRY GUERRIERO, MILDRED and LEE VANDERPOOL, VICKY and SHELBY HILL, LOUISE and G. L. MORGAN, BETTY and JIMMY MOORE.

We have been asked to invite friends to the reception being given this coming Saturday, October 1, in honor of ROSA BELLE McDONALD and BESS BURNS. Lexington Avenue P-TA will be host for the party between the hours of three and five at Bayou DeSiard country club. Rosa Belle and Bess, each of whom has taught more than forty years, were members of the original faculty when Lexington opened its doors fourteen years ago. They are on "first-name basis" with literally thousands of Monroyans, former pupils and their parents, who will want to wish the ladies well on their retirement.

MARY ALICE LOFLIN and MARGARET LAND are serving as co-chairman of the reception. MARTHA HEUER is in charge of food; MARGE MULLENS and CHARLOTTIE DENT, flowers; DIBBLE PATE, servers.

JOY MARSHALL, president of Lexington P-TA, and former presidents will be in the receiving line with the honored guests. Tea girls are to be older daughters of P-TA Board members. Old friends and former students, both men and women, are invited to the reception.

And speaking of coming events, schedules announced by cultural groups in the area promise an excellent selection of events during coming months. Membership drives for both Northeast Louisiana Concert and Louisiana Tech Concert association are drawing to a close, while memberships in Little Theater of Monroe, Inc., will be available until the limit of three thousand is reached.

Planned on the Northeast series are the following: October 20, "Rigoletto"; Nov. 29, Roger Wagner Chorale; Jan. 9, Jan Peerce; Feb. 25; Royal Winnipeg Ballet; March 16, Verel and Bailly Co.; April 17, Chicago Chamber Orchestra. All programs will begin at 8:15 in Neville auditorium.

Louisiana Tech's concert series will include: October 18 and 19, American Folk Ballet; Nov. 10, New Orleans Symphony; Dec. 2 (matinee and evening), "Royal Hunt of the Sun"; Jan. 5 and 6, Little Angels of Korea; Feb. 9 (matinee and evening), Fred Waring and his company; Feb. 15 and 16, Ruth Page International Ballet; March 6 and 7, Dallas Theater Center's "The Tempest"; April 6 and 7, Sabicas and his Spanish Guitar; May 2 and 3, Lorin Hollander, pianist.

Five plays announced for the 1966-67 season at Strauss Playhouse by Little Theater are "You Can't Take It With You"; "The Fantasticks", "Camelot", "Shot in the Dark", and "Barefoot in the Park". The first-named is already in rehearsal, aiming for an October opening.

In lieu of a poem today, here are some pithy quotes garnered from a variety of sources:

Hypnosis Easier Among Healthy, More Intelligent

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The healthier and more intelligent you are, the better subject you'll make for hypnosis.

This is the opinion of Dr. William A. Bellamy, associate psychiatry professor at the University of California Medical Center.

"Healthy and intelligent patients are more susceptible because hyponotism depends upon the ability to relax their hold on reality, slip into a different relationship with their unconscious and still retain essential sanity," he told a conference on hypnosis

"The patient will do what he thinks the therapist wants him to do," said Dr. Bellamy. "He cannot do anything he would not normally do."

Belts Return With Natural Waistline

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

For several years the shape of fashion has been made without the belt which was once indispensable to almost every dress, and to many suits and coats.

New designers in both Paris and New York are experimenting with belted shapes, with a return to the natural waistline. However, from Balenciaga to Seventh Avenue, they agree that the shape is soft and the belting is only lightly fitted to the body.

NEW HAIR DRYER

For faster drying after the home shampoo, there's a hair roller console, thermostatically controlled, to heat 14 rollers of varied sizes in 10 minutes. Once the red light goes on, hair can be rolled. The manufacturer says there's no contact with electricity at any time and it's safe for all types of hair. When finished, the top goes over the rollers for storage.

Gallup Poll

People Of 3 Nations Differ On Viet Views

On many current problems the people of Great Britain, Canada, and the United States think alike. But not on Viet Nam. On this issue the American people hold opposite views from those recorded in England. And Canadians hold views at variance with both England and the United States.

To discover the prevailing opinion in this country on the Vietnamese war, and to see how the views of Americans compare with those found in Great Britain and Canada, a survey was undertake in the three countries. In each nation a representative cross-section of the adult population was asked the same question.

The results of these surveys show that more British would like to see the U. S. withdraw its troops from viet Nam than believe we should continue our present efforts there, or escalate.

In the United States, a majority vote for escalation, with a minority favoring a policy of carrying on the present level of fighting, or de-escalation.

Canadians split rather evenly in their views on the issue. Slightly more hold the view that we should withdraw our troops than that we should increase the strength of our attacks on North Viet Nam.

Three Statements

The question that was asked of a carefully-drawn sample of the adult population of each of the three nations is the following:

"Just from what you have heard or read, which of these statements come closest to the way you, yourself, feel about the war in Viet Nam?"

— The U. S. should begin to withdraw its troops;
— the U. S. should carry on its present level of fighting;
— the U. S. should increase the strength of its attacks on North Viet Nam.

And here are the findings for each nation:

GREAT BRITAIN

Begin to withdraw troops	42 per cent
Carry on present level	17 per cent
Increase the strength of attacks	16 per cent
No opinion	25 per cent

U. S.

Begin to withdraw troops	18 per cent
Carry on present level	18 per cent
Increase the strength of attacks	55 per cent
No opinion	9 per cent

CANADA

Begin to withdraw troops	31 per cent
Carry on present level	18 per cent
Increase the strength of attacks	27 per cent
No opinion	24 per cent

Will End War

Many Americans think stepping up our attacks will bring the war to an earlier conclusion. Few at this time foresee a clear cut military victory for the U. S. (only about one in five), but a commonly-held view is that increased military activity will force the North Vietnamese to the negotiation table.

The public appears ready to back any dramatic move which holds promise of ending hostilities. For example, an earlier survey showed that a sizable majority would back a plan of step-by-step withdrawal by both sides from the mainland of Viet Nam. Such a plan is along the lines of one recently proposed by Ambassador Goldberg at the U. N.

Politics Not Big Factor

Contrary to what might be a common view, opinion does not differ much on the basis of one's political affiliation. By roughly the same proportions, "hawks" outnumber "doves" among Republicans, Democrats, and Independents alike.

Analysis of the findings also shows that women are more inclined to favor withdrawal than are men and that income level is a factor. Persons whose annual income falls below $3,000 a year are at least in favor of stepping up the strength of our attacks. Those with incomes over $7,000 are most in favor.

Views Of British

The British people for the period of many months have been considerably more in favor of de-escalation than have Americans.

As recently reported, a large majority in that country (72 per cent) think the United States should agree to peace talks on Viet Nam, even if there were a risk of South Viet Nam being taken over by the communists.

An even larger majority (81 per cent) hold the view that it is more important for Britain to get peace talks going in Viet Nam than to support the Americans in that country.

VIEWS OF 3 NATIONS ON U.S. VIETNAM POLICY

U. S.	GREAT BRITAIN	CANADA
U.S. should begin to withdraw troops 18%	U.S. should begin to withdraw troops 42%	U.S. should begin to withdraw troops 31%
Carry on present level of fighting ... 18	Carry on present level of fighting ... 17	Carry on present level of fighting ... 18

Leigh Renamed To Committee

Thomas W. Leigh of Monroe has been reappointed as a committee member of the Federal Rules of Procedure Committee for the American Bar Association, Orison S. Marden of New York City, newly - installed president of the ABA, said Saturday.

Leigh will serve for another one - year term on the committee. He was one of 16 Louisiana lawyers appointed to working committees of the ABA for the coming year.

Mansfield Hits At Soviet Stand

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield rapped Soviet Forcign Minister Andrei Gromyko Saturday for his "frozen" and "unbending" opposition to the latest U.S. peace proposal on Viet Nam.

Mansfield issued a special statement regretting Gromyko's rejection of the suggestion by U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg that the United States would be willing to de-escalate the war if North Viet Nam and the Communist Viet Cong would show signs of curbing hostilities.

The Montana senator commented: "Mr. Gromyko, who could, if the Soviet Union so desired, play a very constructive part in settling this problem, has chosen instead not to do so."

At another point, Mansfield said: "It appears to me that the Soviet foreign minister has continued to adopt a frozen point of view and an unbending attitude."

The statement also contained an oblique rebuke to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon who recently characterized the Johnson administration's efforts to settle the war as naive.

"It is unfortunate," Mansfield said, "that in the United Nations . . . the conciliatory, flexible and anything but naive offer of Ambassador Goldberg was not accepted in the spirit in which it was intended."

Goldberg spelled out the U.S. approach in a U.N. speech Thursday. Gromyko spurned the proposals the following day, declaring there are "still no signs testifying to the seriousness of Washington to seek for a settlement of this problem and to stop its aggression against the Vietnamese people."

Red China and Communist North Viet Nam joined in a rejection.

Mansfield said there are "many signs" showing U.S. sincerity in its peace efforts. As a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and an expert on Far Eastern affairs, he said he sees "much room for discussion of a constructive nature which would seek to bring the struggle in Viet Nam to an honorable conclusion."

Revival Slated

An Atlanta, Ga. pastor, the Rev. Bob Hit, will serve as evangelist at a series of revival services starting today at the Sterlington Baptist Church, it was announced by the Rev. Ray Raddin, pastor.

Darrell Washum, music director of Cherry Ridge Baptist Church, Bastrop, will be singer for the series, which will run through Sunday, Oct. 2.

Sunday services will be held at 11 a.m. and 7:15 p.m. Morning services Monday through Friday will be at 9:30, and evening services will be held daily at 7:30, Monday through Saturday. A nursery will be open during all services.

Video Series Types Actor In One Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Once established in a successful series, an actor is indelibly stamped — especially when the series goes into reruns.

Guy Williams plays Prof. John Robinson in television's science fiction adventure series, "Lost in Space." But autograph seekers asking him to sign his photo sometimes add, "Put 'Z' under it."

That's from the series "Zorro," through which the former photographic model swashbuckled in 1958-60. It went into reruns last season.

Williams says he doesn't mind the lingering identification. Like Zorro, he even keeps in trim by fencing.

Gallup Poll

People Of 3 Nations Differ On Viet Views

On many current problems the people of Great Britain, Canada, and the United States think alike. But not on Viet Nam. On this issue the American people hold opposite views from those recorded in England. And Canadians hold views at variance with both England and the United States.

To discover the prevailing opinion in this country on the Vietnamese war, and to see how the views of Americans compare with those found in Great Britain and Canada, a survey was undertake in the three countries. In each nation a representative cross-section of the adult population was asked the same question.

The results of these surveys show that more British would like to see the U. S. withdraw its troops from viet Nam than believe we should continue our present efforts there, or escalate.

In the United States, a majority vote for escalation, with a minority favoring a policy of carrying on the present level of fighting, or de-escalation.

Canadians split rather evenly in their views on the issue. Slightly more hold the view that we should withdraw our troops than that we should increase the strength of our attacks on North Viet Nam.

Three Statements

The question that was asked of a carefully-drawn sample of the adult population of each of the three nations is the following:

"Just from what you have heard or read, which of these statements come closest to the way you, yourself, feel about the war in Viet Nam?"

— The U. S. should begin to withdraw its troops;
— the U. S. should carry on its present level of fighting;
— the U. S. should increase the strength of its attacks on North Viet Nam.

And here are the findings for each nation:

GREAT BRITAIN

Begin to withdraw troops	42 per cent
Carry on present level	17 per cent
Increase the strength of attacks	16 per cent
No opinion	25 per cent

U. S.

Begin to withdraw troops	18 per cent
Carry on present level	18 per cent
Increase the strength of attacks	55 per cent
No opinion	9 per cent

CANADA

Begin to withdraw troops	31 per cent
Carry on present level	18 per cent
Increase the strength of attacks	27 per cent
No opinion	24 per cent

Will End War

Many Americans think stepping up our attacks will bring the war to an earlier conclusion. Few at this time foresee a clear-cut military victory for the U. S. (only about one in five), but a commonly-held view is that increased military activity will force the North Vietnamese to the negotiation table.

The public appears ready to back any dramatic move which holds promise of ending hostilities. For example, an earlier survey showed that a sizable majority would back a plan of step-by-step withdrawal by both sides from the mainland of Viet Nam. Such a plan is along the lines of one recently proposed by Ambassador Goldberg at the U. N.

Politics Not Big Factor

Contrary to what might be a common view, opinion does not differ much on the basis of one's political affiliation. By roughly the same proportions, "hawks" outnumber "doves" among Republicans, Democrats, and Independents alike.

Analysis of the findings also shows that women are more inclined to favor withdrawal than are men and that income level is a factor. Persons whose annual income falls below $3,000 a year are at least in favor of stepping-up the strength of our attacks. Those with incomes over $7,000 are most in favor.

Views Of British

The British people for the period of many months have been considerably more in favor of de-escalation than have Americans.

As recently reported, a large majority in that country (72 per cent) think the United States should agree to peace talks on Viet Nam, even if there were a risk of South Viet Nam being taken over by the communists.

An even larger majority (81 per cent) hold the view that it is more important for Britain to get peace talks going in Viet Nam than to support the Americans in that country.

Mansfield Hits At Soviet Stand

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield rapped Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Saturday for his "frozen" and "unbending" opposition to the latest U.S. peace proposal on Viet Nam.

Mansfield issued a special statement regretting Gromyko's rejection of the suggestion by U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg that the United States would be willing to de-escalate the war if North Viet Nam and the Communist Viet Cong would show signs of curbing hostilities.

The Montana senator commented: "Mr. Gromyko, who could, if the Soviet Union so desired, play a very constructive part in settling this problem, has chosen instead not to do so."

At another point, Mansfield said: "It appears to me that the Soviet foreign minister has continued to adopt a frozen point of view and an unbending attitude."

The statement also contained an oblique rebuke to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon who recently characterized the Johnson administration's efforts to settle the war as naive.

"It is unfortunate," Mansfield said, "that in the United Nations . . . the conciliatory, flexible and anything but naive offer of Ambassador Goldberg was not accepted in the spirit in which it was intended."

Goldberg spelled out the U.S. approach in a U.N. speech Thursday. Gromyko spurned the proposals the following day, declaring there are "still no signs testifying to the seriousness of Washington to seek for a settlement of this problem and to stop its aggression against the Vietnamese people."

Red China and Communist North Viet Nam joined in a rejection.

Mansfield said there are "many signs" showing U.S. sincerity in its peace efforts. As a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and an expert on Far Eastern affairs, he said he sees "much room for discussion of a constructive nature which would seek to bring the struggle in Viet Nam to an honorable conclusion."

Revival Slated

An Atlanta, Ga. pastor, the Rev. Bob Hit, will serve as evangelist at a series of revival services starting today at the Sterlington Baptist Church, it was announced by the Rev. Ray Raddin, pastor.

Darrell Washum, music director of Cherry Ridge Baptist Church, Bastrop, will be singer for the series, which will run through Sunday, Oct. 2.

Sunday services will be held at 11 a.m. and 7:15 p.m. Morning services Monday through Friday will be at 9:30, and evening services will be held daily at 7:30, Monday through Saturday. A nursery will be open during all services.

Video Series Types Actor In One Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Once established in a successful series, an actor is indelibly stamped — especially when the series goes into reruns.

Guy Williams plays Prof. John Robinson in television's science fiction-adventure series, "Lost in Space." But autograph seekers asking him to sign his photo sometimes add, "Put 'Z' under it."

That's from the series "Zorro," through which the former photographic model swashbuckled in 1958-60. It went into reruns last season.

Williams says he doesn't mind the lingering identification. Like Zorro, he even keeps in trim by fencing.

CURTAIN CALL

By CURTIS RAPE

"You Can't Take It With You" is now in the second week of rehearsal and things are really shaping up. Already, the humor, wit, and clever lines of this exciting comedy are providing many laughs for cast members and visitors to the theatre.

Executive Director Bill Haddad has assembled a superb cast for this first production of the new season. Don Lomax heads the cast as Grandpa, a firm believer in always doing what one likes to do.

Other members of this fine cast are: Eula Davenport as Penny Sycamore; Willoughby Thomas, Boris Kolenkhov; Janet Dawson as Essie; John Filhiol as Ed, and Henry Haas Jr. as Mr. DePinna.

Also included are: Jack Bailes playing Donald; Sandra Walker, Rheba; Curtis Rape, Mr. Henderson; Frances Albright, Mrs. Kirby; Mona Brooks, Olga Kathrina and Martha Standley playing Gay Wellington.

The G-Men will be played by Bill Blythe, Bill Eason, and Clyde Bayles.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Memberships are still available for the coming season. Be sure not to be left out this year — contact any one of the 60 volunteer workers, Mrs. Craig Morgan, Mrs. W. A. Mahaffey, or any Theatre Staff Member for season tickets.

Make sure you see all the productions — two musicals and three comedies — for the coming year. Each show promises to be thoroughly entertaining and worth the price of membership in itself.

PROPERTIES NEEDED

Many unusual props are needed for "You Can't Take It With You." A small printing press (old type), a xylophone, and an 18" x 36" aquarium are just a few of the many things required. Anyone willing to lend any of these items, pre-victorian style furniture, or a day bed is asked to call Shan or Bill at the Theatre.

Help is still needed on set construction. If you have any free time to work in this area, or can volunteer to work on the stage crew, contact Shan or Bill.

Properties also are needed by our Children's Theatre School for the two productions currently in rehearsal — "Our Town," the first major Children's Theatre production and "Oedipus Rex," a project of the school's senior class.

"Our Town" needs many black umbrellas and "Oedipus Rex" is in need of old white sheets. If you have either of these two items, contact Miss Murray Burfford, Theatre School director, at the Playhouse.

THEATRE VISITORS

Recent visitors in Monroe included former residents Bud Henry, Joe Wayne Johnston, and Bill McIlwaine.

Bud is now living in New York, but is still a patron member of our local Theatre. Prior to moving away, Bud served the theatre in many capacities and appeared in several productions.

Joe Wayne is presently residing in Miami, Fla., where he is appearing as a dancer on "The Jackie Gleason Show." Joe last appeared locally in the 1962 production of "Bye, Bye Birdie."

Bill McIlwaine visited the theatre this past week to see our new building and watch some rehearsals for our forth-coming production. He is presently serving as president of the Little Theatre in Portsmith, Ohio.

RATING GUIDE: A (adult), AMY (adult and mature young people), AYC (adults, young people and children), MY (mature young people), and C (especially for children, accompanied by adults). When no rating is available on foreign imports, etc., a listing of NRA will indicate "No Rating Available." Ratings are compiled from listings in Film Estimate Board ("The Green Sheet") and Parents Magazine.

EASTGATE

Sunday through Tuesday: "Mary Poppins" — AYC —
Walt Disney's musical fantasy about the Banks children's adventures with their magical English nanny, portrayed by Julie Andrews, is presented at popular prices. In color. Dick Van Dyke portrays the leader of a group of chimney sweepers who dance across the rooftops of London.

Opening Wednesday: "Doctor Zhivago" — AMY —
Omar Sharif, Julie Christie, Ralph Richardson in David Lean's film adaptation of Boris Pasternak's award-winning novel about a compassionate poet and doctor who is embittered by the results of World War I and the Russian Revolution. Winner of six Academy Awards and special Merit Award. In color. Reserve seat performances, 7:30 p.m. Monday through Sunday and 2 p.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

JIM

Sunday through Tuesday: "Ten Little Indians" — AMY —
Hugh O'Brian, Shirley Eaton, Wilfrid Hyde-White, Leo Genn, Stanley Holloway in film adaptation of Agatha Christie mystery. Ten people, strangers to each other, are isolated for a weekend in a snowbound retreat, as guests of a man none of them knows. The host informs them by a recording that they have been invited because each is guilty of an unpunished murder. The unseen host acts as judge, jury and executioner.

Wednesday through Oct. 4: "Marco the Magnificent" — AYC —
Horst Buchholz, Anthony Quinn in story of Marco Polo. Produced by joint film enterprise in Rome, Paris and Belgrade. In the 13th century, young Marco Polo gains the permission of the Pope to travel the Samarkand in the hope of bringing Western ideas to the Orient, under rule of Kublai Khan, and of establishing trade routes between the two countries. Marco, at the court of the Oriental ruler, absorbs the culture of the nation and the philosophy of the Khan. Omar Sharif is featured.

JOY DRIVE-IN

Sunday through Tuesday: "A Fine Madness" — A—
Sean Connery, Joanne Woodward in drama concerned with the artist versus society. Comic portrayal of ranting, often outrageous poet whose wife persuades him to see a psychiatrist. Psychiatrists tell Samson Shillitoe that he will have a chance to work at his poetry undisturbed if he will enter Para Park as a patient. The harried poet agrees.

"Palm Springs Weekend" — AMY —
Connie Stevens, Troy Donahue, Ty Hardin, Stephanie Powers in color comedy. Palm Springs, Calif., is depicted as mecca for college students who swarm there to get away from the grind of school. Plot concerns the attempts of the young people to police the few rotten apples in the group who threaten to turn the weekend into a riot.

PARAMOUNT

Sunday through Thursday: "Guns of Navarone" — AMY —
Gregory Peck, David Niven in reissue of war drama in color. A gripping sense of urgency characterizes this story about the six men who are sent to spike a German gun position on an almost impregnable island fortress. Film depicts the commando tactics used during World War II. Originally released in 1961. Features at 1, 3:40, 6:25 and 9:10 p.m.

RIALTO

Sunday through Thursday: "Greatest Story Ever Told" — AMY —
Swedish actor Max Von Sidow portrays Christ in this re-creation of the Biblical story of his earthly mission. Charlton Heston is featured in the color film originally released in Cinerama in April. Dorothy McGuire portrays Mary, John Wayne plays the Centurion and Claude Rains appears as Herod the Great. Two shows daily at 1:30 and 7:30 p.m. Theater opens at 1 p.m.

STRAND

Sunday through Tuesday: "Stagecoach" — AYC —
Bing Crosby and all-star cast in remake of John Ford's classic Western about passengers on a stage who each have personal reasons for wishing to get out of town. Crosby portrays a seedy alcoholic doctor; Ann-Margret a dance-hall girl; Van Heflin and his gunman prisoner; and Stefanie Powers, pregnant Army wife. Cast also includes Red Buttons, Bob Cummings and Michael Connors. Story by Ernest Haycox. In color.

CURTAIN CALL

By CURTIS RAPE

"You Can't Take It With You" is now in the second week of rehearsal and things are really shaping up. Already, the humor, wit, and clever lines of this exciting comedy are providing many laughs for cast members and visitors to the theatre.

Executive Director Bill Haddad has assembled a superb cast for this first production of the new season. Don Lomax heads the cast as Grandpa, a firm believer in always doing what one likes to do.

Other members of this fine cast are: Eula Davenport as Penny Sycamore; Willoughby Thomas, Boris Kolenkhov; Janet Dawson as Essie; John Filhiol as Ed, and Henry Haas Jr. as Mr. DePinna.

Also included are: Jack Bailes playing Donald; Sandra Walker, Rheba; Curtis Rape, Mr. Henderson; Frances Albright, Mrs. Kirby; Mona Brooks, Olga Kathrina and Martha Standley playing Gay Wellington.

The G-Men will be played by Bill Blythe, Bill Eason, and Clyde Bayles.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Memberships are still available for the coming season. Be sure not to be left out this year — contact any one of the 60 volunteer workers, Mrs. Craig Morgan, Mrs. W. A. Mahaffey, or any Theatre Staff Member for season tickets.

Make sure you see all the productions — two musicals and three comedies — for the coming year. Each show promises to be thoroughly entertaining and worth the price of membership in itself.

PROPERTIES NEEDED

Many unusual props are needed for "You Can't Take It With You." A small printing press (old type), a xylophone, and an 18" x 36" aquarium are just a few of the many things required. New Budget Adopted At Pineville

PINEVILLE (Special) — The Pineville City Council Friday adopted a new budget at a special meeting and tabled until next meeting the issue of providing a new source of water for the city.

The budget calls for total expenditures of $708,099. The city anticipates revenues of $175,940, leaving a surplus of $7,841.

Mayor Floyd Smith backed a proposal that the city ask to be included in a new $10.3 million water expansion plan of neighboring Alexandria. Another suggestion advanced was that Pineville apply for federal matching funds to construct its own water system.

Pineville now has two sources of water, four deep wells and Water District No. 3, a parish government water operation. Smith said the city is paying $2,400 a month to the water district for a minimum of 12 million gallons of water monthly, but is actually using only three million gallons.

When asked why the city did not use the full amount, and hold its four wells in reserve, Smith said the district water was undesirable because it discolors fixtures in the homes of users.

After lengthy discussion, the council voted to table the issue and hold it over.

Included in the new budget are salary increases of 10 cents per hour for hourly employes, and five per cent boosts for those paid by the month. Police and fire departments were not included in the raises.

DOUBLE SERVICE

NEW YORK (AP) — Francis Coppola is getting double service out of his scenario for "You're a Big Boy Now." The feature film is being shot here with Coppola directing.

The 27-year-old writer is using the script as the requisite thesis for a master's degree toward which he is working at U.C.L.A.

"It would be awful if the film should in an Academy award," says Coppola. "Then I'd be sure to flunk — nobody at the film school ever agrees with the choice of Academy winners."

Popular Bills To Law

Solons' Snail Pace Pays Demo Dividends

WASHINGTON (AP) — The slow congressional pace early this year is paying political dividends for the Johnson Administration as a much key legislation becomes law in the weeks leading up to the Nov. 8 election.

Politicians generally agree that voters are more likely to remember a popular bill that is signed into law amid considerable fanfare in October than one that was signed back in February.

Most of the major "Great Society" bills of this year with potent political appeal in the cities, to labor unions and among minority groups have either won congressional approval in the last month or are likely to attain it before Congress goes home.

Johnson has just signed two key measures: a minimum-wage bill that raises the federal level to $1.40 next February and increases coverage, and a bill to authorize a clamp down on rising interest rates.

Earlier this month, he signed such bills as the auto and highway safety package, the urban mass-transit bill and a measure to increase the federal National Mortgage Association's borrowing authority and thus ease pressure on mortgage rates.

The administration's program to dampen inflation by suspending the investment credit and accelerated depreciation has won approval from the House Ways and Means Committee en route to congressional passage expected by the likely mid-October adjournment date.

Still to come are both of the administration's big education bills — a four-year extension of the elementary and secondary aid program and a similar program for colleges, universities and graduate schools.

The antipoverty program comes up in the House next week and probably in the Senate, too. Although it faces rough sledding in both chambers it is expected to be approved.

The House is expected to give approval to Senate-passed programs for demonstration cities and water pollution, while the Senate is due to act on the House-passed bill to create a cabinet-level department of transportation.

An expansion of the Food-for-Peace program is expected to gain final approval from both houses in a few days.

The last major administration proposal to get out of its House committee, the truth-in-packaging bill, emerged last week from the House Commerce Committee after being stripped of its mandatory package-sizing feature.

Although it faces difficulty in the House Rules Committee and in reconciling differences between House and Senate versions, the likelihood is that it too will become law before election day. Even its opponents have conceded privately that the measure has wide political appeal.

Not all of the administration's major legislation has made it through Congress. Principal casualties have been the civil-rights bill, the proposed repeal of section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act and a measure to reform unemployment compensation laws.

The administration has some means to offset politically the major congressional failures.

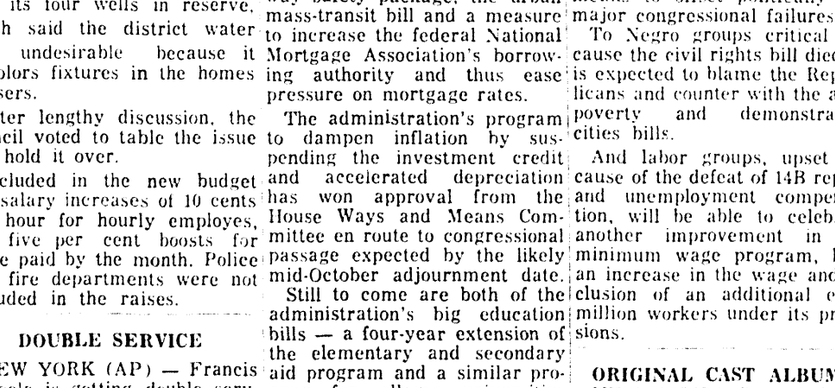
To Negro groups critical because the civil rights bill died, it is expected to blame the Republicans and counter with the anti-poverty and demonstration cities bills.

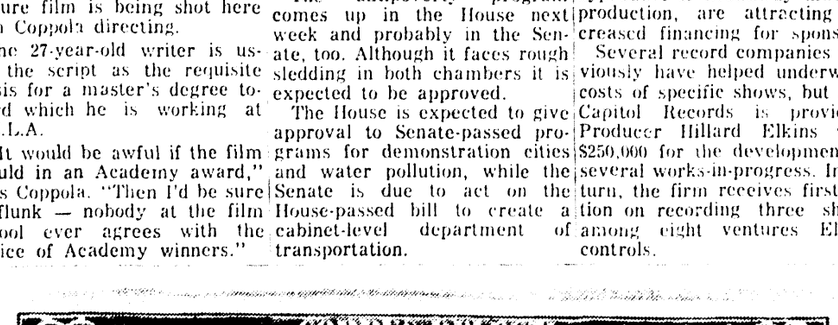
And labor groups, upset because of the defeat of 14B repeal and unemployment compensation, will be able to celebrate another improvement in the minimum wage program, both an increase in the wage and inclusion of an additional eight million workers under its provisions.

ORIGINAL CAST ALBUMS

NEW YORK (AP) — Original cast albums, a highly popular byproduct of Broadway musical production, are attracting increased financing for sponsors.

Several record companies previously have helped underwrite costs of specific shows, but now Capitol Records is providing Producer Hillard Elkins with $250,000 for the development of several works-in-progress. In return, the firm receives first option on recording three shows among eight ventures Elkins controls.





A WASHINGTON PRINTING firm says it is printing an order, with U.S. Treasury approval, for "Great Society Funny Money" bearing a caricature of President Lyndon Johnson. Although the reverse of the "bills" carries the label, "Republican Congressional Committee — Bob Wilson, chairman" the printer says the order came from a different source. (AP Wirephoto)

Red Guard Originated To Teach

HONG KONG (AP) — Red China's rampaging Red Guards were formed as a vehicle to teach revolutionary ways to youths who never had experienced revolution, the leader of a Japanese delegation to Peking said Saturday.

The report of former Foreign Minister Zentaro Kosaka of Japan coincided with a broadcast dispatch from Peking that the Red Guards now are taking military training, along with huge assignments of political study, all based on the theories of Mao Tse-tung, the Chinese leader.

The youthful Red Guards have been storming through Chinese cities trying to uproot all old customs and habits and replace them with new ones.

Kosaka, who led his 11-member Japanese tour group across the border into Hong Kong Saturday said government officials told his group about the Red Guards.

"It was explained to us," he said, "that the Red Guard movement was meant for those young Chinese who were born after the Communists conquered the Chinese mainland in 1949.

"We were told that these children and teen-agers had never experienced revolution and the Red Guards were formed to teach them revolutionary ways."

Kosaka also told newsmen that Red Guard activity had "greatly subsided" in recent days.

"When we entered China Aug. 29," he said, "the situation was very, very confusing. But on our way out we found the situation very quiet in Shanghai, Hangchow and Canton."

Kosaka said his group did not attend any of the Red Guard rallies held in Peking and elsewhere nor did they see any Red Guard violence, "although some of their actions seemed very childish."

Peking's New China News Agency said in its broadcast that the Red Guards, who are high school and college students, were conducting military drills to become "really staunch and reliable reserves" of the Chinese army. The army is headed by Marshal Lin Piao, Mao's No. 2 man.

"Vigorous and bold, they drill, do bayonet practice and throw hand grenades," the broadcast said.

After the military drills, the Red Guards "have their daily study session on Chairman Mao's works and on the Communist party Central Committee's decision concerning the great proletariat cultural revolution."

The "revolution" has resulted in a purge of some top figures.

The broadcast said tens of thousands of students and teachers are pouring into Peking from all over China.

"In streets and back lanes, in shops and on buses, in meeting halls and parks, people are studying, applying, publicizing and defending Mao Tse-tung's thought — the highest level of Marxism-Leninism in the present era," the broadcast said.

A fresh report of the Red Guards' purge came from the Peking correspondent of the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug. He reported that scientist Hua Lo-keng, former director of the Mathematical Institute of the Academy of Sciences of Communist China, had been accused of cooperating with Chiang Kai-shek before the nationalists' downfall, of praising Soviet science and of assailing Peking's policy of relying on its own forces.

Hua, 56, returned to China in 1950 after studying at the University of Illinois, Cambridge in England and in the Soviet Union.

Polls Watched In Ward Three

A Morning World sampling of voting precincts in Wards 3, 5, and 10 revealed federal poll watchers in only Ward 3 where Negro Leon Shamblin was running against incumbent B. A. Tarver for a seat on the Ouachita Parish School Board.

Of seven precincts contacted in Ward 3, all reported that two federal watchers stayed at the polls through the day. Of several called in Ward 5, all said no federal men were at the polls. The same was true of Ward 10.

All commissioners said that requests for assistance were light, with some reporting none.

Inez Develops In Atlantic

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—Tropical storm Inez, the season's ninth, developed from a depression far out in the tropical Atlantic Saturday.

The San Juan Weather Bureau said hurricane hunter planes flew into the depression Saturday afternoon and found maximum winds of 45 miles an hour near the center, fast enough to make it a tropical storm.

At 6 p.m. EDT, Inez was located 750 miles east of Martinique in the French West Indies, about 1,100 miles southeast of San Juan.

The Weather Buraau said Inez would offer no threat to any land areas through Sunday.

New Budget Adopted At Pineville

PINEVILLE (Special) — The Pineville City Council Friday adopted a new budget at a special meeting and tabled until next meeting the issue of providing a new source of water for the city.

The budget calls for total expenditures of $708,099. The city anticipates revenues of $175,940, leaving a surplus of $7,841.

Mayor Floyd Smith backed a proposal that the city ask to be included in a new $10.3 million water expansion plan of neighboring Alexandria. Another suggestion advanced was that Pineville apply for federal matching funds to construct its own water system.

Pineville now has two sources of water, four deep wells and Water District No. 3, a parish government water operation. Smith said the city is paying $2,400 a month to the water district for a minimum of 12 million gallons of water monthly, but is actually using only three million gallons.

When asked why the city did not use the full amount, and hold its four wells in reserve, Smith said the district water was undesirable because it discolors fixtures in the homes of users.

After lengthy discussion, the council voted to table the issue and hold it over.

Included in the new budget are salary increases of 10 cents per hour for hourly employes, and five per cent boosts for those paid by the month. Police and fire departments were not included in the raises.

DOUBLE SERVICE

NEW YORK (AP) — Francis Coppola is getting double service out of his scenario for "You're a Big Boy Now." The feature film is being shot here with Coppola directing.

The 27-year-old writer is using the script as the requisite thesis for a master's degree toward which he is working at U.C.L.A.

"It would be awful if the film should in an Academy award," says Coppola. "Then I'd be sure to flunk — nobody at the film school ever agrees with the choice of Academy winners."

Popular Bills To Law

Solons' Snail Pace Pays Demo Dividends

WASHINGTON (AP) — The slow congressional pace early this year is paying political dividends for the Johnson Administration as a much key legislation becomes law in the weeks leading up to the Nov. 8 election.

Politicians generally agree that voters are more likely to remember a popular bill that is signed into law amid considerable fanfare in October than one that was signed back in February.

Most of the major "Great Society" bills of this year with potent political appeal in the cities, to labor unions and among minority groups have either won congressional approval in the last month or are likely to attain it before Congress goes home.

Johnson has just signed two key measures: a minimum-wage bill that raises the federal level to $1.40 next February and increases coverage, and a bill to authorize a clamp down on rising interest rates.

Earlier this month, he signed such bills as the auto and highway safety package, the urban mass-transit bill and a measure to increase the federal National Mortgage Association's borrowing authority and thus ease pressure on mortgage rates.

The administration's program to dampen inflation by suspending the investment credit and accelerated depreciation has won approval from the House Ways and Means Committee en route to congressional passage expected by the likely mid-October adjournment date.

Still to come are both of the administration's big education bills — a four-year extension of the elementary and secondary aid program and a similar program for colleges, universities and graduate schools.

The antipoverty program comes up in the House next week and probably in the Senate, too. Although it faces rough sledding in both chambers it is expected to be approved.

The House is expected to give approval to Senate-passed programs for demonstration cities and water pollution, while the Senate is due to act on the House-passed bill to create a cabinet-level department of transportation.

An expansion of the Food-for-Peace program is expected to gain final approval from both houses in a few days.

The last major administration proposal to get out of its House committee, the truth-in-packaging bill, emerged last week from the House Commerce Committee after being stripped of its mandatory package-sizing feature.

Although it faces difficulty in the House Rules Committee and in reconciling differences between House and Senate versions, the likelihood is that it too will become law before election day. Even its opponents have conceded privately that the measure has wide political appeal.

Not all of the administration's major legislation has made it through Congress. Principal casualties have been the civil-rights bill, the proposed repeal of section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act and a measure to reform unemployment compensation laws.

The administration has some means to offset politically the major congressional failures.

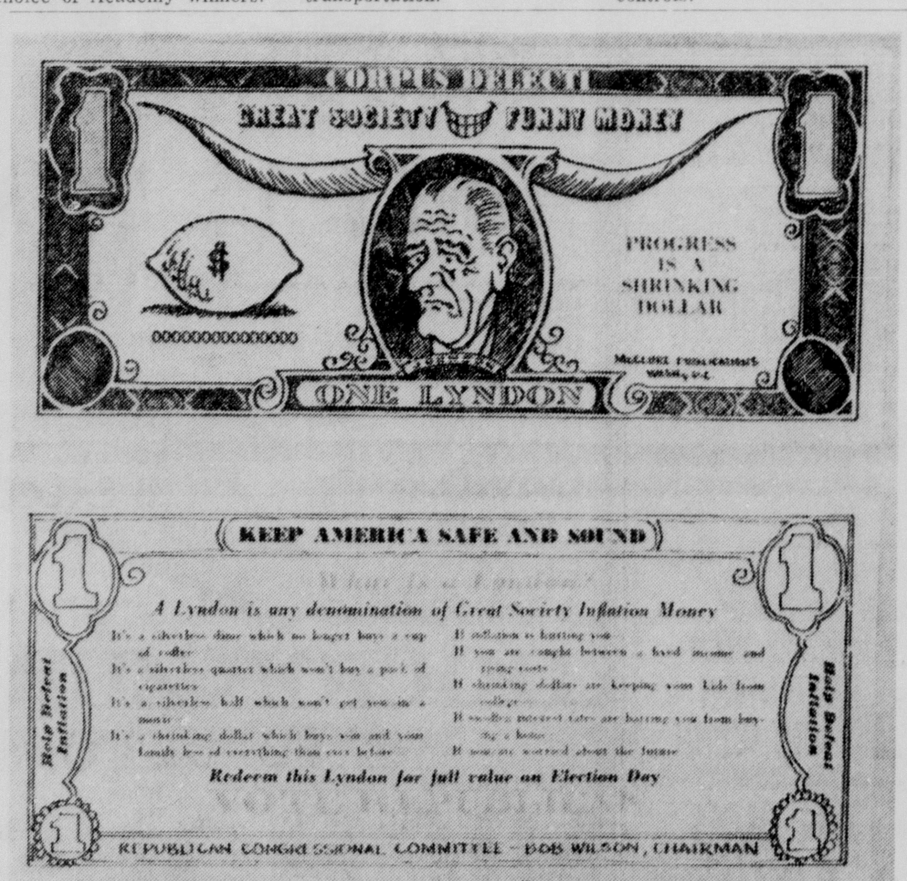
To Negro groups critical because the civil rights bill died, it is expected to blame the Republicans and counter with the anti-poverty and demonstration cities bills.

And labor groups, upset because of the defeat of 14B repeal and unemployment compensation, will be able to celebrate another improvement in the minimum wage program, both an increase in the wage and inclusion of an additional eight million workers under its provisions.

ORIGINAL CAST ALBUMS

NEW YORK (AP) — Original cast albums, a highly popular byproduct of Broadway musical production, are attracting increased financing for sponsors.

Several record companies previously have helped underwrite costs of specific shows, but now Capitol Records is providing Producer Hillard Elkins with $250,000 for the development of several works-in-progress. In return, the firm receives first option on recording three shows among eight ventures Elkins controls.



A WASHINGTON PRINTING firm says it is printing an order, with U.S. Treasury approval, for "Great Society Funny Money" bearing a caricature of President Lyndon Johnson. Although the reverse of the "bills" carries the label, "Republican Congressional Committee — Bob Wilson, chairman" the printer says the order came from a different source. (AP Wirephoto)

Red Guard Originated To Teach

HONG KONG (AP) — Red China's rampaging Red Guards were formed as a vehicle to teach revolutionary ways to youths who never had experienced revolution, the leader of a Japanese delegation to Peking said Saturday.

The report of former Foreign Minister Zentaro Kosaka of Japan coincided with a broadcast dispatch from Peking that the Red Guards now are taking military training, along with huge assignments of political study, all based on the theories of Mao Tse-tung, the Chinese leader.

The youthful Red Guards have been storming through Chinese cities trying to uproot all old customs and habits and replace them with new ones.

Kosaka, who led his 11-member Japanese tour group across the border into Hong Kong Saturday said government officials told his group about the Red Guards.

"It was explained to us," he said, "that the Red Guard movement was meant for those young Chinese who were born after the Communists conquered the Chinese mainland in 1949.

"We were told that these children and teen-agers had never experienced revolution and the Red Guards were formed to teach them revolutionary ways."

Kosaka also told newsmen that Red Guard activity had "greatly subsided" in recent days.

"When we entered China Aug. 29," he said, "the situation was very, very confusing. But on our way out we found the situation very quiet in Shanghai, Hangchow and Canton."

Kosaka said his group did not attend any of the Red Guard rallies held in Peking and elsewhere nor did they see any Red Guard violence, "although some of their actions seemed very childish."

Peking's New China News Agency said in its broadcast that the Red Guards, who are high school and college students, were conducting military drills to become "really staunch and reliable reserves" of the Chinese army. The army is headed by Marshal Lin Piao, Mao's No. 2 man.

"Vigorous and bold, they drill, do bayonet practice and throw hand grenades," the broadcast said.

After the military drills, the Red Guards "have their daily study session on Chairman Mao's works and on the Communist party Central Committee's decision concerning the great proletariat cultural revolution."

The "revolution" has resulted in a purge of some top figures.

The broadcast said tens of thousands of students and teachers are pouring into Peking from all over China.

"In streets and back lanes, in shops and on buses, in meeting halls and parks, people are studying, applying, publicizing and defending Mao Tse-tung's thought — the highest level of Marxism-Leninism in the present era," the broadcast said.

A fresh report of the Red Guards' purge came from the Peking correspondent of the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug. He reported that scientist Hua Lo-keng, former director of the Mathematical Institute of the Academy of Sciences of Communist China, had been accused of cooperating with Chiang Kai-shek before the nationalists' downfall, of praising Soviet science and of assailing Peking's policy of relying on its own forces.

Hua, 56, returned to China in 1950 after studying at the University of Illinois, Cambridge in England and in the Soviet Union.

Polls Watched In Ward Three

A Morning World sampling of voting precincts in Wards 3, 5, and 10 revealed federal poll watchers in only Ward 3 where Negro Leon Shamblin was running against incumbent B. A. Tarver for a seat on the Ouachita Parish School Board.

Of seven precincts contacted in Ward 3, all reported that two federal watchers stayed at the polls through the day. Of several called in Ward 5, all said no federal men were at the polls. The same was true of Ward 10.

All commissioners said that requests for assistance were light, with some reporting none.

Inez Develops In Atlantic

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—Tropical storm Inez, the season's ninth, developed from a depression far out in the tropical Atlantic Saturday.

The San Juan Weather Bureau said hurricane hunter planes flew into the depression Saturday afternoon and found maximum winds of 45 miles an hour near the center, fast enough to make it a tropical storm.

At 6 p.m. EDT, Inez was located 750 miles east of Martinique in the French West Indies, about 1,100 miles southeast of San Juan.

The Weather Buraau said Inez would offer no threat to any land areas through Sunday.

Plane Flips At Selman; Pilot Unhurt

A crop - dusting bi - plane flipped over on landing at Selman Field Saturday afternoon but the pilot escaped injury.

The plane, belonging to Mid-South Flying Service, was flown by James E. Boyington, 105 Riverbend Dr., West Monroe.

A spokesman for the firm said Boyington had finished a crop dusting run and was coming in for a landing about 4:15 p.m., when the plane flipped over, sustaining major damage.

The Federal Aviation Agency in Monroe said in investigation into the accident was being continued.

JACK SANFORD
"JACK IS BACK"
Jack Sanford
Rejoins Rivers Ford

Jack Sanford, one of Rivers Ford's leading salesmen for a number of years, has returned, it was announced today by Joe Kvaternik, Rivers sale manager. Primarily a truck specialist, Jack also handles new car sales. He has been in the automobile business the past 6½ years and has attended a number of Ford marketing institutes. A resident of Monroe since 1958, Jack is married to the former Miss Betty McGaha; they have three boys and reside at 406 Ferndale, West Monroe. Jack wants his friends, former customers and potential customers to know he's now making some outstanding deals at close-out prices on the '66 Fords.

JACK SANFORD
"JACK IS BACK"
Jack Sanford
Rejoins Rivers Ford

Jack Sanford, one of Rivers Ford's leading salesmen for a number of years, has returned, it was announced today by Joe Kvaternik, Rivers sale manager. Primarily a truck specialist, Jack also handles new car sales. He has been in the automobile business the past 6½ years and has attended a number of Ford marketing institutes. A resident of Monroe since 1958, Jack is married to the former Miss Betty McGaha; they have three boys and reside at 406 Ferndale, West Monroe. Jack wants his friends, former customers and potential customers to know he's now making some outstanding deals at close-out prices on the '66 Fords.

RAYMON CORY
Joins
RIVERS FORD

Raymon Cory has joined the sales team at Rivers Ford, it was announced today by Joe Kvaternik, sales manager. Raymon, who resides on the Arkansas Road, calls the Twin Cities "home". A native of Dry Prong, he lived here 3½ years while working with Southern Airways. He was chief agent in New Orleans for 4 years before recently returning to West Monroe. Raymon served 4 years in the Navy as a radar operator. He is married to the former Miss Rita Mann of West Monroe. Raymon invites all his friends to come see him, while he's making great deals on the '66 Ford, "now at Close-Out Prices". He says to hurry in while the selections are still good.

RIVERS FORD

Raymon Cory has joined the sales team at Rivers Ford, it was announced today by Joe Kvaternik, sales manager. Raymon, who resides on the Arkansas Road, calls the Twin Cities "home". A native of Dry Prong, he lived here 3½ years while working with Southern Airways. He was chief agent in New Orleans for 4 years before recently returning to West Monroe. Raymon served 4 years in the Navy as a radar operator. He is married to the former Miss Rita Mann of West Monroe. Raymon invites all his friends to come see him, while he's making great deals on the '66 Ford, "now at Close-Out Prices". He says to hurry in while the selections are still good.

NATIONAL HOME WEEK
SEPT. 25, to OCT. 2, 1966

There will never be a better time to buy a new home...

Where happier living begins

What home ownership means to you and our nation

Homes owned by millions of Americans are recognized the world over as modern castles of gracious living. Never in history have so many of one country enjoyed so much in livability, comfort and convenience.

Our American homes, however—as impressive as they are—are far more than the steel, lumber and brick, the ultra modern appliances and gadgets or the fine furnishings which go into them. They represent the attainment of a cherished goal sought by people down through the ages—the ownership of their own home. Tens of millions of happy home owners across the width of the land ably attest to this accomplishment. More than three out of five American families now own the homes in which they live.

Measuring the impact of home and home ownership on the American way of life is difficult. Certainly, the home is the center and cement of the family. But actual ownership of it expands the horizon and adds an exciting new dimension to the home. It instills in men the kind of justifiable pride that comes only with providing an attractive, well-kept home for his family. It generates greater interest in the general well-being and character of the neighborhood, in improved community services, in better government. It represents the owners' tangible interest in their communities and their country. It reflects the soul and substance and responsibility of a solid citizen. 66

Essentially, a nation is as strong as its people. America—whose people are mostly home owners—is a land which is indeed rich and strong—a land that derives much of its strength from home ownership.

NATIONAL HOME WEEK
SEPT. 25, to OCT. 2, 1966

There will never be a better time to buy a new home...

Where happier living begins

What home ownership means to you and our nation

Homes owned by millions of Americans are recognized the world over as modern castles of gracious living. Never in history have so many of one country enjoyed so much in livability, comfort and convenience.

Our American homes, however—as impressive as they are—are far more than the steel, lumber and brick, the ultra modern appliances and gadgets or the fine furnishings which go into them. They represent the attainment of a cherished goal sought by people down through the ages—the ownership of their own home. Tens of millions of happy home owners across the width of the land ably attest to this accomplishment. More than three out of five American families now own the homes in which they live.

Measuring the impact of home and home ownership on the American way of life is difficult. Certainly, the home is the center and cement of the family. But actual ownership of it expands the horizon and adds an exciting new dimension to the home. It instills in men the kind of justifiable pride that comes only with providing an attractive, well-kept home for his family. It generates greater interest in the general well-being and character of the neighborhood, in improved community services, in better government. It represents the owners' tangible interest in their communities and their country. It reflects the soul and substance and responsibility of a solid citizen. 66

Essentially, a nation is as strong as its people. America—whose people are mostly home owners—is a land which is indeed rich and strong—a land that derives much of its strength from home ownership.

Murder In Percy Home Is Reconstructed By Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE — The house, the place, the family seemed insulated against tragedy. Wealth, intelligence, charm and an enriching sense of public service armed the home of Charles H. Percy, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate. And then, near dawn, the intruder came. Here, detail by detail, is a compelling reconstruction of the night of horror that shattered one attractive family.)

By F. RICHARD CICCONE

KENILWORTH, Ill (AP)—There is no wrong side of the tracks in Kenilworth.

The elite community, bordered by the Indian Hill Country Club and by Lake Michigan, is the smallest of the North Shore suburbs where overseas of Chicago finance and industry reside in stately houses shaded from sun and public by honeysuckle, hedge, poplars and elms.

Sheridan Road wends past the private drives and trimmed lawns of the North Shore. From the road, Kenilworth's 11-man police force can check each home once an hour.

One private road is Devonshire Lane. It curves east through the twin stone driveway stanchions of Windward—the 17-room, English country style home of Charles H. Percy, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Saturday, Sept. 18, was clear. It was cool in the fading summer that night as Charles Percy drove the 17 miles to Chicago to speak at a rally.

and Roger were Percy's children by his first wife, who died in 1947.

Valerie, a June graduate of Cornell, had studied in Switzerland and France. Her love was French literature. She also liked politics and debates, preferring them to debutante balls.

In 1964, when Percy made an unsuccessful campaign for governor, his 5-foot-7, blonde daughter was continually at his side, sporting a large button: "Hi, I'm Valerie Percy, Chuck's My Dad."

Valerie's guests left early. At 10 p.m. she went to her bedroom on the second floor, changed to a filmy nightdress, turned on the television and rumpled the pillows in her bed.

Sister Sharon said goodnight to her date at 11:30 p.m., and returned a raincoat to Valerie's room. Valerie was still watching television.

Percy returned from his rally after midnight. He and his wife watched television awhile, then retired. Gail was in bed. The other member of the household, Henry Whitting, the butler, was in his quarters above the garage. The Percy dog, a large, black Labrador retriever, was penned in the garage at the southern end of the house.

As dawn formed on the far side of Lake Michigan, an intruder with a handful of tools stepped onto the flagstone patio at the northeastern corner of the house.

Percy's wife, Loraine, 37, and her stepdaughter, Valerie, 21, were entertaining a small dinner group on the hidden side of the honeysuckle. Valerie's guests were two young men, Tully Friedman and Timothy W. Drescher, who had worked with her in Percy's campaign.

Valerie's twin, Sharon, had a date. Gail, 13, was home. Mark, 12, was spending the night with friends. Roger, 19, was at college in California. The twins

A glass cutter costs 39 cents. A flashlight and a knife cost less than $1. A piece of metal big enough for a club can be found anywhere.

The intruder cut his way through a screen and the glass of a French door to enter the $200,000 mansion. He had come to kill. By choice or chance, the victim was Valerie Percy.

Stepping into the dark vestibule, the killer sidestepped a piano bench, and brushed against the grand piano as he walked across the hardwood floor of the music room.

Mrs. Percy stirred in her sleep. She heard glass break and drowsily assumed one of the children had knocked a water glass from a bedtable. She heard a clicking sound downstairs. She returned to sleep.

Climbing the 18-step circular staircase, the killer walked past Sharon's room and Mark's room, which was empty. He opened the first door on the left.

The room has twin beds with a common headboard. On the dresser was some jewelry and a wallet with $60. In the bed farthest from the door was Valerie. She slept on her right side.

The intruder closed the door, walked to the bed and raised his club. He landed four blows on the girl's head.

Valerie instinctively raised her arms and both knees. The assailant switched to his knife and slashed 10 times at the girl. She was stabbed in the throat, twice in the chest and twice in the stomach. Valerie groaned.

Mrs. Percy heard the sound. She went down the hall to Valerie's room. The killer was standing by the bed with a flashlight. He cast the harsh glare in her face. She screamed, ran back to the master bedroom, and triggered the manual rooftop siren which blared through the sleep of Kenilworth's 2,789 residents.

Percy jumped from bed and ran to Valerie's room. The killer had fled. He had taken nothing. Except for the blood-soaked bed, the room was undisturbed.

Mrs. Percy returned to Valerie and felt her pulse. The girl was still alive. She wiped the blood from Valerie's face with a pillowcase.

Percy telephoned police, then his neighbor, Dr. Robert P. Hohf, who arrived in minutes.

Kenilworth police and Chief Robert Daley reached the home quickly and roped off the accesses. It was 5:15 a.m. Dr. Hohf came downstairs where the family had gathered.

"Valerie is gone," he said.

Guide To Good Reading

Variety Offered In Many New Books

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

New books added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library during the past week offer an infinite variety of material and there is certain to be something for every reading interest. "Handbook of Nations and International "Organizations" contains much valuable information. "Lectures in the Philosophy of Education" is a reprint of the famous work by John Dewey. A perfectly beautiful book is "Fashion: From Ancient Egypt to the Present Day." It is beautifully written and the illustrations are excellent. For the reader interested in herbs there are two new books; "Stalking the Healthful Herbs" by Buell Gibbons deals with finding wild herbs, while "Herbs for Every Garden" by Gertrude Foster is concerned with their cultivation. "The Bird Table Book" by Tony Soper is a must for the many people who enjoy feeding birds in their gardens. "Transistors; Principles and Application" by Robert Guy Hibbard is a clear and interesting explanation of this subject. "The Art of Making Sauces and Gravies" by Frederica L. Beinert is a very excellent new cookbook. A new book for the party-giver is "The Esquire Party Book" which contains some new and different ideas for entertaining. "Carbonated Beverages" by Morris B. Jacobs" is a very fine history of this industry.

There are some lovely new books in the fine arts section. "The Galveston That Was" by Howard Barnstone is a beautiful book about the old homes of this interesting city. "English Silver" by Judith Banister will interest the collector. "Turkoman Rugs" by Christopher Reed contains beautiful illustrations of this ancient craft. "Blackwork Embroidery" by Elisabeth Geddes gives explicit details for this type of fancy work. "Religion in Wood" by Edward Andrews is a discussion of Shaker furniture and is beautifully illustrated. "A Woman's Way to Better Golf" by Peggy Bell will be very useful to enthusiasts of this sport. "The Christianis" by Richard Hubler is an account of this wonderfully talented family of acrobats. "Corsons Inlet" is a lovely new book of poems by A. R. Ammons.

There are some interesting new books in the travel and history field. "Sussex" by Barbara Willard is a very beautiful book, as is "Kent" by Marcus Crouch. If you love England, you will want to see these. "Everest Diary" by John McCallum is based on the personal diary of Lute Jerstat, one of the Americans who was in the first expedition that climbed Everest. "South Pacific A to Z" by Robert S. Kane is an excellent guide to the Islands of the South Pacific. "The Acadian Miracle" by Dudley J. LeBlanc is a very fine account of the Acadian people who settled in South Louisiana. "The Last of the Middle West" by John R. Humphreys is a nostalgic account of the small towns of the middle western states. "The Horizon Book of Ancient Rome" published by the Horizon Magazine is a perfectly lovely book about the Ancient Roman Empire.

"The Sky on Fire" by Major Raymond H. Fredette is an interesting account of the air force in World War I. "Footloose Scientist in Mayan America" by Sister Mary Lorang is an interesting narrative of exploration in far places. "When China Wakes" by Robert Guillain is a clear appraisal of conditions in China today. "The River Nile" is a perfectly beautiful book published by the National Geographic Society.

"English Silver" by Judith Banister will interest the collector. "Turkoman Rugs" by Christopher Reed contains beautiful illustrations of this ancient craft. "Blackwork Embroidery" by Elisabeth Geddes gives explicit details for this type of fancy work. "Religion in Wood" by Edward Andrews is a discussion of Shaker furniture and is beautifully illustrated. "A Woman's Way to Better Golf" by Peggy Bell will be very useful to enthusiasts of this sport. "The Christianis" by Richard Hubler is an account of this wonderfully talented family of acrobats. "Corsons Inlet" is a lovely new book of poems by A. R. Ammons.

There are some interesting new books in the travel and history field, "Sussex" by Barbara Willard is a very beautiful book, as is "Kent" by Marcus Crouch. If you love England, you will want to see these. "Everest Diary" by John McCallum is based on the personal diary of Lute Jerstat, one of the Americans who was in the first expedition that climbed Everest. "South Pacific A to Z" by Robert S. Kane is an excellent guide to the Islands of the South Pacific. "The Acadian Miracle" by Dudley J. LeBlanc is a very fine account of the Acadian people who settled in South Louisiana. "The Last of the Middle West" by John R. Humphreys is a nostalgic account of the small towns of the middle western states. "The Horizon Book of Ancient Rome" published by the Horizon Magazine is a perfectly lovely book about the Ancient Roman Empire.

"The Sky on Fire" by Major Raymond H. Fredette is an interesting account of the air force in World War I. "Footloose Scientist in Mayan America" by Sister Mary Lorang is an interesting narrative of exploration in far places. "When China Wakes" by Robert Guillain is a clear appraisal of conditions in China today. "The River Nile" is a perfectly beautiful book published by the National Geographic Society.

The disappearance of Amelia Earhart in 1937 on her flight around the world has been one of the unsolved mysteries of our time. Fred Goerner has gone to the bottom of this mystery and has given us the most complete account yet written about what happened to her. The title of the book is "The Search for Amelia Earhart." An interesting biography of a colorful figure is "Tiger for Breakfast, the Story of Boris of Kathmandu" written by Michel Peissel.

There are several additions to the genealogy collection "New Orleans Ship Lists; Vol. 1, 1820-1821" compiled by Milton P. Rieder; "The History of the First Discovery and Settlement of Virginia" by William Stith and "History of the Colony and Ancient Dominion of Virginia" by Charles Campbell.

There are not many books of fiction this week, but there is one important book "All in the Family" by Edwin O'Conner. "The Witches of Karres" by James H. Schmitz is a book of science fiction. "13 Ways to Dispose of the Body" is an anthology of murder mysteries collected by Basil Davenport. There are two western stories: "Shotgun Bottom" by Bill Burchard and "The Silver Flame" by L. L. Foreman.

NOW . . . WITH AUTOMATIC COLOR CONTROLS. New RCA Victor Mark I Color TV for 1967 is almost as easy to tune as a push-button radio. Just turn it on and electronic controls take over. RCA Victor Automatic Frequency Control tunes in the most precise signal—locks it in place—automatically. And RCA Victor Automatic Chroma Control keeps the color level constant—automatically. Just set the color you prefer—then sit back and enjoy color so real you'll think you are there. On all Mark I Deluxe models.

RCA SOLID INTEGRATED CIRCUITS are the latest in modern circuitry. These tiny "chips" are virtually indestructible—and perform key sound functions in all Mark II-A and Mark I Deluxe Color TV. You get greater reliability, more trouble-free TV.

NEW RCA HI-LITE COLOR TUBE WITH FERMA-CHROME. In a rectangular color television picture tube, shadow mask expansion during warm-up can distort the original alignment between electron beams and phosphor dots. This can throw colors out of register, resulting in color fidelity variations (left). With Perma-Chrome, there's no change in color fidelity during tube warm-up (right). On all console models with 25"* picture tube.

(A) The Lexington, with disappearing doors, has every Mark I Deluxe feature, is housed in a superb Colonial lowboy.

(B) The Mark II-A Deluxe Dumas for excellent performance, even in difficult TV signal areas. French Provincial styling.

(C) Exotic Spanish styling – the Ortega lowboy with Mark II-A Deluxe chassis. Color TV – and fine furniture!

(D) The Mark II-A Deluxe Evangeline combines restrained Scandinavian styling with true-to-life color—from RCA Victor!

(B) The Woodsman gives you Solid State performance. Two big speakers for rich "Golden Throat" tone.

(C) A deluxe AM table radio with tuned RF stage to pull in distant stations strong and clear, the Solid State Camelot also has twin 4" speakers plus precision vernier tuning, slide-rule dial.

(D) FM-AM TABLE RADIOS. RCA Victor's lowest-priced is the Dandy with 6-tube performance, 4" speaker, Automatic Frequency Control for drift-free FM listening.

(E) The FM-AM Colossus is totally Solid State for cool, instant operation. Dual-dial vernier tuning, AFC and 4" speaker.

(F) New design – the FM-AM Bystander "convertible" plays standing up or lying down. Solid State chassis, AFC.

(G-H-I-J) A quartet of Solid State FM-AM table radios with beautiful decorator-styled cabinets. The Anaheim (G) has big 7" speaker, AFC, lighted dial. The Bordentown (H), is an Early American presentation in Antiqued Colonial Maple Veneers and selected hardwoods. The noble Danes had a hand in the styling of the Ammeberg (I), a sleek model in Danish-style Walnut veneers and selected hardwoods. The Mignon (J) is delightfully French Provincial and a perfect performer.

HERE'S AN FM STEREO PERFORMER! The Tanglewood (K) adopts a famous musical name to offer FM-AM and FM Solid State stereo operation with a 20-watt peak power amplifier, twin 6½" speakers, FM Stereo indicator light, separate bass, treble, loudness and stereo balance controls.

(L) AM CLOCK RADIOS. The Nightfall AM clock radio gives you dependable–and pleasant–wake-ups at modest cost. Big clock, big 4-tube performance, trim cabinet.

NOW...WITH AUTOMATIC COLOR CONTROLS. New RCA Victor Mark I Color TV for 1967 is almost as easy to tune as a push-button radio. Just turn it on and electronic controls take over. RCA Victor Automatic Frequency Control tunes in the most precise signal—locks it in place—automatically. And RCA Victor Automatic Chroma Control keeps the color level constant—automatically. Just set the color tint you prefer—then sit back and enjoy color so real you'll think you are there. On all Mark I Deluxe models.

RCA SOLID INTEGRATED CIRCUITS are the latest in modern circuitry. These tiny "chips" are virtually indestructible—and perform key sound functions in all Mark II-A and Mark I Deluxe Color TV. You get greater reliability, more trouble-free TV.

NEW RCA HI-LITE COLOR TUBE WITH PERMA-CHROME.

In a rectangular color television picture tube, shadow mask expansion during warm-up can distort the original alignment between electron beams and phosphor dots. This can throw colors out of register, resulting in color fidelity variations (left). With Perma-Chrome, there's no change in color fidelity during tube warm-up (right). On all console models with 25"* picture tube.

(A) The Lexington, with disappearing doors, has every Mark I Deluxe feature, is housed in a superb Colonial lowboy.

(B) The Mark II-A Deluxe Dumas for excellent performance, even in difficult TV signal areas. French Provincial styling.

(C) Exotic Spanish styling – the Ortega lowboy with Mark II-A Deluxe chassis. Color TV – and fine furniture!

(D) The Mark II-A Deluxe Evanger combines restrained Scandinavian styling with true-to-life color—from RCA Victor!

(E) The Mark II-A Deluxe Dorrance is a dramatic Contemporary lowboy with twin-speaker "Golden Throat" tone.

(F) From America's elegant Federal Period: the Bennington, with Mark II-A Deluxe color chassis. $699.95†

KENILWORTH, Ill (AP)— Thanks is no wrong side of the tracks in Kenilworth.

The elite community, bordered by the Indian Hill Country Club and by Lake Michigan, is the smallest of the North Shore suburbs where overseas of Chicago finance and industry reside in stately houses shaded from sun and public by honeysuckle, hedges, poplars and elms.

Sheridan Road wends past the private drives and trimmed lawns of the North Shore. From the road Kenilworth's 11-inch police force can check each home once an hour.

One private road is Devonshire Lane. It curves east through the twin stone driveway stanchions of Windward—the home of Charles H. Percy. Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

With five children dropping gloves, hats and scarves, etc. all over the house, I hooked a pocket-type shoe bag to the inside of the closet door.

The shoe bag was neither long enough or strong enough, so I made one the length of the door out of inexpensive drapery remnants, making some of the pockets larger than others.

This allows children of various ages to have pockets within their individual reach. The higher pockets are useful for Mom's and Dad's articles.

Sally L. Deyo

This holds lots of stuff, allowing for more shelf room, and helps keep the closet neat. I think it's great.

Heloise

[illegible]

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's an inexpensive decorator's touch for a window blind: I made curtains for my baby's room and with the leftover material I decorated the blind.

I cut out the figures in the printed material and glued them (with a strong, milky-type glue that dries clear) to heavy, white drawing paper so it would be easy to arrange them on the blind. Then I cut off the excess paper, and used the same glue to stick the figures on the blind.

It's lovely and quite inexpensive. Now, when the blind is pulled down, it's decorated to match the curtains!

Barbara Russell

[illegible]

DEAR HELOISE:

For a change from the regular bowl of artificial fruit, I bought some artificial vegetables—an ear of corn, a squash, carrot, green pepper, and a saucy red tomato.

I put these in a wooden salad bowl with the matching wooden fork and spoon. Now I have a "salad bowl" on the kitchen table, and the change is refreshing.

Lucille

[illegible]

DEAR HELOISE:

I believe I have hit upon a novel yet practical method to keep costume jewelry in place for easy location:

Attach a piece of peg board to a wall space in your bedroom. It can be painted the same color as your bedroom wall or in a contrasting color.

Hang your necklaces, bracelets, earrings, etc., from the pegs. You can tell at a glance just what you need to complement your outfit, and you will also enjoy the colorful array.

One note of caution: Place above reach of the toddler set. The dangling baubles are an open invitation to small fry who can, in a few well-timed commando raids, soon reduce your cherished collection to rubble!

Miriam

[illegible]

DEAR HELOISE:

To prevent spilling water when watering all those house plants growing in soil, I place ice cubes on top of the soil. Since the cube melts slowly, the ice does not shock the roots of the plant.

Martha H.

[illegible]

DEAR HELOISE:

If people will take a window cleanser spray bottle (the type you plunge with your finger), and fill it with fungicide or insecticide, they will find it wonderful for spot-spraying their plants.

I always label the bottle clearly. I find it works like a charm.

Chuck Lindsley

[illegible]

DEAR HELOISE:

What can be done if one inherits sterling silver salt shakers that just don't give out enough salt and pepper?

H.

* * *

I also inherited some sterling shakers, and here's what I did:

After cleaning them well, I took the ice pick and put the sharp point into each little hole in the lid of the shakers, running the pick around in a grinding motion to make the holes larger. You should see how freely the salt and pepper shakes out now!

It's worth a try with yours. After all, why not put them to good use—what have you got to lose?

Heloise

[illegible]

DEAR HELOISE:

I always keep a plastic mustard squeeze bottle filled with a mild solution of sudsy water in the glove compartment of the car. (One could also use an artificial lemon juice dispenser. It takes up very little room.)

When driving, and the windshield needs cleaning, I pull off to the side of the road, squirt the windshield, turn on the wipers, and I have a nice, clean windshield, and am ready to go on my way.

Harry Johnson

[illegible]

DEAR HELOISE:

When you peel shrimp, the shells usually smell very bad if you put them in your garbage—especially if you don't have daily trash service.

I put my shells in a plastic bag inside an air-tight plastic icebox container and keep them in the freezer until trash day.

Another thing I find useful: When I rinse out a reusable plastic bag, I put it over the post in my washing machine to drain. This spreads it out so it can dry.

Mrs. Wilbur B. Brown

NEAT SHELF PAPER

DEAR HELOISE:

When I buy a roll of paper lining for my shelves, I always put it in an empty waxed paper or foil box.

This way, the paper is kept neat, and when ready for use, the serrated metal cutting edge tears off the paper beautifully.

Helen

[illegible]

DEAR HELOISE:

I am an 11-year-old girl who would like to share an idea with you.

Have you ever gotten to the end of a tube of toothpaste and found it hard to get the last of it out?

I learned that when it first begins to run out, if you put a bobby pin across the end, and roll up the excess part of the tube as the toothpaste is used, you will always have the toothpaste at the top, and it will be easy to get out.

Joanie

If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise in care of this newspaper.

SIR, GREAT CIRCLE AIRLINES HAS A CARGO-ONLY FLIGHT 878 EAST-BOUND FROM TOKYO TONIGHT!

ITS NON-STOP DESTI-NATION IS THE AIRPORT NEXT TO WHERE THE BIG ARMED FORCES AID BENEFIT FOOT-BALL GAME WILL BE PLAYED!

ARRIVAL TIME IS JUST WHEN THE CROWD WOULD BE STANDING TO HEAR THE NATIONAL ANTHEM...

PLAYED BY MASSED BANDS OF HIGH SCHOOL KIDS!

IF AN ATOMIC DEVICE WITH AN INSTANT FUSE WERE DROPPED AT THAT MOMENT

IT WOULD ANNIHILATE 100,000 PEOPLE AT GROUND ZERO ALONE!

OF COURSE IT'S ONLY A HUNCH, SIR — BUT ALL IT WILL COST...

IS THE USE OF THE COMMAND RADIO CHANNEL FOR A SHORT TIME!

OKAY, STEVE! -BUT DON'T GRAB THE ENTIRE AIR! YOUR PIGEON WILL BE GUARDING THE BOSS CHANNEL! DON'T SCARE HIM OFF — IF HE REALLY EXISTS!

ROGER! GET ME THE CONTROL TOWER AT TOKYO INTER-NATIONAL AIRPORT!

GREAT CIRCLE FLIGHT 878 HAS THIS MOMENT DEPART TOKYO-TRAFFIC CONTROL! OVER...

THANK YOU, TOKYO... ...NOW GET ME PACIFIC AIR FORCE RADAR!

AFFIRMATIVE! WE HAVE GREAT CIRCLE # 878 ON COURSE FOR THE FLIGHT PLAN IT FILED! OVER...

STAY WITH IT — AND REPORT AT ONCE IF THERE IS EVEN A SLIGHT BREAK IN YOUR SIG-NAL FROM 878!

SIR, THE RUSSIANS MUST BE TRYING NEW COUNTER-MEASURES TONIGHT! THE SIGNAL HAS BEEN ERRATIC...

NOW IT IS OFF THE SCOPE ALTOGETHER!

MINUTES PASS - THEN...

WE'VE ALSO LOST ALL RADIO CONTACT WITH THE AIRCRAFT!

HOLD IT! WE HAVE NOW RESUMED RADAR AND RADIO CON-TACT WITH 878...

— BECAUSE GREAT CIRCLE 878 BLEW UP IN MIDAIR! NOW A RED CHINESE AIRCRAFT (WHICH HAS BEEN HUGGING THE WAVES TO AVOID RADAR DETECTION) MOVES INTO THE VACUUM — AND THE SHORE RADIOS HEAR..

WOW! TUR-BULENT TONIGHT — ALL A-OKAY NOW

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
With five children dropping gloves, hats and scarves, etc. all over the house, I hooked a pocket-type shoe bag to the inside of the closet door.

The shoe bag was neither long enough or strong enough, so I made one the length of the door out of inexpensive drapery remnants, making some of the pockets larger than others.

This allows children of various ages to have pockets within their individual reach. The higher pockets are useful for Mom's and Dad's articles.

Sally L. Deyo

This holds lots of stuff, allowing for more shelf room, and helps keep the closet neat. I think it's great.

A BLIND ITEM

DEAR HELOISE:
Here's an inexpensive decorator's touch for a window blind: I made curtains for my baby's room and with the leftover material I decorated the blind.

I cut out the figures in the printed material and glued them (with a strong, milky-type glue that dries clear) to heavy, white drawing paper so it would be easy to arrange them on the blind. Then I cut off the excess paper, and used the same glue to stick the figures on the blind.

It's lovely and quite inexpensive. Now, when the blind is pulled down, it's decorated to match the curtains!

CENTERPIECE OF SALAD

DEAR HELOISE:
For a change from the regular bowl of artificial fruit, I bought some artificial vegetables—an ear of corn, a squash, carrot, green pepper, and a saucy red tomato.

I put these in a wooden salad bowl with the matching wooden fork and spoon. Now I have a "salad bowl" on the kitchen table, and the change is refreshing.

Lucille

DECORATE WITH JEWELS

DEAR HELOISE:
I believe I have hit upon a novel yet practical method to keep costume jewelry in place for easy location:

Attach a piece of peg board to a wall space in your bedroom. It can be painted the same color as your bedroom wall or in a contrasting color.

Hang your necklaces, bracelets, earrings, etc., from the pegs. You can tell at a glance just what you need to complement your outfit, and you will also enjoy the colorful array.

One note of caution: Place above reach of the toddler set. The dangling baubles are an open invitation to small fry who can, in a few well-timed commando raids, soon reduce your cherished collection to rubble!

Miriam

WATER WITH ICE

DEAR HELOISE:
To prevent spilling water when watering all those house plants growing in soil, I place ice cubes on top of the soil. Since the cube melts slowly, the ice does not shock the roots of the plant.

SPOT-SPRAYING WORKS!

DEAR HELOISE:
If people will take a window cleanser spray bottle (the type you plunge with your finger), and fill it with fungicide or insecticide, they will find it wonderful for spot-spraying their plants.

I always label the bottle clearly. I find it works like a charm.

HEIRLOOM SALT SHAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
What can be done if one inherits sterling silver salt shakers that just don't give out enough salt and pepper?

H.

* * *

I also inherited some sterling shakers, and here's what I did:

After cleaning them well, I took the ice pick and put the sharp point into each little hole in the lid of the shakers, running the pick around in a grinding motion to make the holes larger. You should see how freely the salt and pepper shakes out now!

It's worth a try with yours. After all, why not put them to good use—what have you got to lose?

CHECK YOUR WINDSHIELD

DEAR HELOISE:
I always keep a plastic mustard squeeze bottle filled with a mild solution of sudsy water in the glove compartment of the car. (One could also use an artificial lemon juice dispenser. It takes up very little room.)

When driving, and the windshield needs cleaning, I pull off to the side of the road, squirt the windshield, turn on the wipers, and I have a nice, clean windshield, and am ready to go on my way.

SHRIMP SALAD TRICK

DEAR HELOISE:
When you peel shrimp, the shells usually smell very bad if you put them in your garbage—especially if you don't have daily trash service.

I put my shells in a plastic bag inside an air-tight plastic icebox container and keep them in the freezer until trash day.

Another thing I find useful: When I rinse out a reusable plastic bag, I put it over the post in my washing machine to drain. This spreads it out so it can dry.

Mrs. Wilbur B. Brown

NEAT SHELF PAPER

DEAR HELOISE:
When I buy a roll of paper lining for my shelves, I always put it in an empty waxed paper or foil box.

This way, the paper is kept neat, and when ready for use, the serrated metal cutting edge tears off the paper beautifully.

Helen

SQUEEZE THIS IN!

DEAR HELOISE:
I am an 11-year-old girl who would like to share an idea with you.

Have you ever gotten to the end of a tube of toothpaste and found it hard to get the last of it out?

I learned that when it first begins to run out, if you put a bobby pin across the end, and roll up the excess part of the tube as the toothpaste is used, you will always have the toothpaste at the top, and it will be easy to get out.

Joanie

HAVE YOUR SCIENTISTS REALLY FIGGERED A BOMB THAT MAKES TH' H-BOMB SEEM LIKE SOME LITTLE KID'S PENNY FIRECRACKER?

YES, ANNIE!

BUT WHY MUST WE KEEP TRYIN' TO FIGGER OUT MORE TERRIBLE WAYS T' HURT OTHER PEOPLE?

CALL IT THE LAW OF THE JUNGLE, I SUPPOSE!

EAT OR BE EATEN! EVEN A LION THAT GETS CARELESS OR WEAK CAN BE DEVOURED BY A HORDE OF JACKALS!

BUT PEOPLE CAN TALK TO OTHER PEOPLE! AGREE ON HOW WRONG WAR IS!

SURE. BEEN DOING THAT SINCE THE DAWN OF HISTORY! CIRCLING AND STALLING, 'TIL THE HUNGRY JACKALS CON THE FAT LION INTO TAKING A NAP!

BUT IF THE LION IS LEAVIN' TH' JACKALS ALONE···?

THE JACKALS HAVE NOTHING THE LION WANTS. BUT THE FAT LION IS MEAT TO THE JACKALS! ALWAYS BEEN THE SAME WITH PEOPLE, ANNIE!

WELL, QUITE A LOT O' PEOPLE DON'T SEEM T'FIGGER IT THAT WAY!

ALL HISTORY PROVES FREEDOM IS SECURE ONLY SO LONG AS IT'S AWAKE AND STAYS TOO STRONG TO BE LICKED! THERE'S A LESSON IN HISTORY: BE BRAVE OR SLAVE!

YEAH! BUT I GUESS SOME FOLKS JUST NEVER PAY HIST'RY MUCH MIND!

I JUST HOPE NOBODY GETS SO SOFTHEARTED THEY SHARE THIS D'SCOVERY, T'PROVE HOW MUCH WE LOVE OUR EN'MIES!

VERY LITTLE CHANCE OF THAT!

ER··· I BET SINYA GOT A BIG THRILL, SEEIN' TH' SECRET LAB AN' ALL, EH?

OH, YES! LIKE A KID IN A TOY STORE!

ALL THAT SHINY, FANCY EQUIPMENT... COULDN'T UNDERSTAND ANY OF IT, OF COURSE!

YEAH! O' COURSE NOT!

HEY! WHAT'S WITH YOU? SINYA? YOU THINK A SWEET, SIMPLE GIRL LIKE THAT COULD···? OH, NO! HO! HO! HO! COME NOW, ANNIE!

OH, SURE! GUESS I WAS PRETTY FAR OUT ON THAT ONE!

JUST A "SWEET, SIMPLE GIRL," HE SAYS! WELL, I SURE HOPE "DADDY" KNOWS BEST!
